CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-0-521-06408-8 - Professionals, Power and Solidarity in Poland: A Critical Sociology of Soviet-Type Society
Michael D. Kennedy
Table of Contents
More information

Contents

List of tables page x
Acknowledgments xi
List of abbreviations xiii

Introduction 1

PART I SOLIDARITY AND SOCIAL TRANSFORMATION

1 The historical genealogy of Solidarity 11
Poland, socialism and the communist movement 14
From world war to cold war 18
Polish Stalinism 22
Revisionism's promise and failure 25
New struggles 29
Workers, Gomułka and Gierek 34
Gierek's economic and social transformation 37
The religious prelude to Solidarity 43
Conclusions 46

2 The nature and causes of Solidarity 49
The immediate conditions of Solidarity 49
The structural peculiarities of Poland in 1980–81: Solidarity as outcome 57
A sociology of historicity: the meanings of Solidarity 64
Structure and action: class analysis and resource mobilization 72
Points of departure 81

3 The Solidarity movement as emancipatory praxis 84
The evolutionary logic and choices of Solidarity 86
Self-organization as self-defense 87
Self-organization to self-management 102

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-0-521-06408-8 - Professionals, Power and Solidarity in Poland: A Critical Sociology of Soviet-Type Society
Michael D. Kennedy
Table of Contents
More information

Solidarity's strategy and praxis 109
Conclusions 113

PART II SOLIDARITY AND THE THEORY OF SOVIET-TYPE SOCIETY

4 Solidarity, modernization and class 121
Industrialism, functionalism and normative commitments 121
Marxism, class and democracy 128
Trotsky, bureaucracy and democracy 131
A new ruling class 140
Self-management as praxis and utopia 142
A new foundation for class relations 148
The new praxis 154
Reflections on Marxist critiques of Soviet-type society 158

5 Solidarity, culture and civil society 161
The conceptual transformation of totalitarianism 162
Cultural foundations of the independent society 165
Sociological foundations of an independent culture 168
Independent society as civil society 171
Civil society and class in critical discourse 174
The limits of civil society in social transformation 178
Classical liberalism as critical sociology 181
The limits of culture in emancipatory transformation 184
Reflections on independent-society critiques of actual socialism 189
Theoretical foundations for a critical sociology of Soviet-type society 191

6 A theory of power relations in Soviet-type society 196
Power resources 197
Organizational hegemony and substantive rationality 202
Organizational hegemony and economic development 207
Delegated and autonomous power resources 209
The power elite 212
Vassalage 215
Uncertainty and inertia 218
Power and privilege in Soviet-type society 221
Conclusions 232

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-0-521-06408-8 - Professionals, Power and Solidarity in Poland: A Critical Sociology of Soviet-Type Society
Michael D. Kennedy
Table of Contents
More information

PART III PROFESSIONALS AND SOLIDARITY

7 Professionals, power and prestige 237
Intelligentsia and professionals 238
Professional prestige 243
Culture, prestige and power 246
Gender, professionals and power 248
Male professionals as a status group 250
Prestige and status as power 254
Conclusions 257

8 Engineers in Solidarity 259
Engineers' alliances 260
Solidarity and engineers 265
Non-managerial engineers 269
Managerial engineers 274
Engineers and self-management 281
Conclusions 286

9 Physicians in Solidarity 290
Professional authority and consumers' markets 291
The development of socialist health care 292
The development of a health crisis 295
Physicians, power and privilege 301
Solidarity and the health sector 309
Physicians and Solidarity 323
Solidarity health-section activities during 1981 330
The transformation of socialist health care 333
Conclusions 337

PART IV CONCLUSION

10 Critical sociology and Soviet-type society 343
Professionals, power and Solidarity in Poland 343
Civil society in the USSR and Poland 349
Western Marxism 353
Cultural identities and conflicts in civil society 359
Gender and emancipation in Soviet-type society 365
Socialist–feminist pragmatism and the future of Soviet-type society 368

Notes 375
References 391
Index 414

© Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org