CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-1-107-04121-9 - The Emergence of Eternal Life
William J. Hoye
Table of Contents
More information

Contents

1 Introduction to the question page 1
1.1 Emergence: The causality of Eternal Life 5
1.2 The happening of reality (Creation) 10

2 Motivations for disbelief in a life after death 13
2.1 Difficulties 13
2.2 The Experience Prejudice 20
2.3 The Praxis Prejudice 42
2.4 Hedonism 58
2.5 The ambivalent teaching of Christian Faith 64

3 A justification of the traditional Christian belief in Eternal Life 77
3.1 The question 77
3.2 Transcendental hope in one's own resurrection as the horizon for experiencing the resurrection of Jesus 80
3.3 Reality as the liberating horizon 84
3.4 Wonder 85
3.5 By his very nature man strives for fulfillment 86
3.6 The rationality of reality 92
3.7 The final and comprehensive goal of human nature 97
3.8 The expectation of the fulfillment of human desire 99
3.9 The compatibility of the dogma on hell with the foregoing argumentation 104

4 Eternal Life as the vision of God 111
4.1 Emergence as the light of glory 112
4.2 The act of attention 119
4.3 The Biblical teaching that Eternal Life consists in contemplative knowledge 120
4.4 The widespread acknowledgment of the primacy of knowledge in the European tradition until the modern age 122
4.5 Man's eschatological union with God as the apprehension of truth 129
4.6 Truth and the predicative structure of experience 135

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-1-107-04121-9 - The Emergence of Eternal Life
William J. Hoye
Table of Contents
More information

4.7 The necessary structure of the vision of God 144
4.8 The mode of God's presence: The forma intelligibilis 148
4.9 The vision of God as the whole of Eternal Life – enfolded 153
4.10 Never-ending wonder in the vision of God 157
4.11 Interim conclusion 167

5 The human factor 169
5.1 Happiness and human nature 169
5.2 A minimal and maximal heuristic principle 171
5.3 The desire for truth 176

6 Life history as the predetermination of Eternal Life 180
6.1 The eternity of salvation as the fulfillment of time 181
6.2 Time and eternity 183
6.3 Longing in time as the predetermination of the vision of God 191
6.4 The theological notion of memory 201
6.5 The eternal significance of temporal suffering 204
6.6 The eternal relevance of morality 216

7 Sensuality: the resurrection of the body 237
7.1 Sensuality as an end in itself 243
7.2 Sensual pleasure as a part of eternal happiness 247
7.3 The difference between joy and happiness 249
7.4 The corporeal unfolding of the vision 252
7.5 The soul and the body 258

8 The emergence of Eternal Life – a conclusion 276

Bibliography 278
Index 290

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org