CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-1-107-11043-4 — Darwinian Hedonism and the Epidemic of Unhealthy Behavior
David M. Williams
Index
More Information

Index

actions, 18
adaptations, 154
adaptive, 154
addiction, 241
affect, 35
  affective valence, 68
  core affect, 35, 68
  emotion, 35
  feelings, 35
  mood, 35
affective determinants of behavior, 45 affective response, 46 affective revolution, 45 affect processing, 46, 123 allesthesia, 91
altruism, 56
associative learning, 34 attitudes, 300
automatic processing, 34, 63

behavior, 18
behavioral genetics, 156
behavioral intention, 43 behavioral outcome, 79
  immediate behavioral outcome, 79
behavioral science, 18
Behaviorism, 40
beliefs, 300
biological evolution, 152 brain, 21
brain/mind, 21

capacity for learning, 161 causal chain of behavior, 23 causation
  causal chain, 23
  causal determinant, 19
  distal cause, 28
  necessary cause, 20
  probabilistic cause, 21
  proximal cause, 28
  sufficient cause, 20
  ultimate cause, 28
classical conditioning, 87
cognition, 32
cognitive paradigm, 41
cognitive revolution, 40 controlled processing, 34, 63 counterexample problem, 57 craving, 298

Darwinian Hedonism, 50, 149
Darwinian Hedonism Framework, 1
Default-Interventionist Model, 121 desire, 296
developmental empiricism, 167
displeasure, 54
domain-general, 165
domain-specific, 164
Dual-Processing Theory, 63, 65, 118

emergent properties, 74
emotion, 67
environment of evolutionary adaptiveness, 316 epidemic of unhealthy behavior, 1, 15 epidemic of unhealthy eating, 199 epidemiologic transition, 14 evaluative conditioning, 35, 87 higher-order higher-order evaluative conditioning, 88 evaluative counter-conditioning, 88, 269 evolution, 152
evolutionary function, 4, 28 evolutionary mismatch, 189 evolution of complex traits via natural selection, 314 exercise, 219
expectancy-value formulation, 42 expected pleasure, 98

Feeling Scale, 69

gene-environment interactions, 155 gene pool, 153
genetic conservation, 155, 174

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-1-107-11043-4 — Darwinian Hedonism and the Epidemic of Unhealthy Behavior
David M. Williams
Index
More Information

genetic predisposition, 35, 160
  hedonic response, 85
genotype, 153
goal, 43

health behavior intervention, 255 direct interventions, 255 indirect interventions, 255 health behavior science, 39 hedonic motivation, 2, 36, 49, 100, 102
  distal cause, 150
  proximal cause, 149
  target, 115
hedonic responses, 3, 35, 69, 77, 78, 80, 81, 100 direction, 82
  intensity, 82
  negative hedonic response, 82 positive hedonic response, 82 hedonism-of-the-future, 59, 98 hedonism-of-the-past, 63, 100 hedonism-of-the-present, 99 heritability estimate, 156 homeostatic eating processes, 207 hunger, 207

immediate behavioral outcome, 80
imprinting, 161
incentive conditioning, 36, 100, 110 incentive motivation, 301 Incentive Salience Theory, 61, 65 innate, 159
instinct, 37, 159, 160
  instinctual motivation, 178 instrumental desire, 54 instrumental learning, 174 intention, 301
intention-behavior gap, 223 intermediate phenotype, 86, 168 intrinsic motivation, 302

just-so story, 312

learning, 33, 173
level of analysis
  neuroscience, 21
  psychological, 21
'liking', 100
  'disliking', 100
limiting access to unhealthy behaviors, 262 massive modularity, 122, 315 mechanism problem, 59

mediator, 23
mesolimbic dopaminergic pathway, 93 metabolic equivalents, 220 mind, 21
mind-to-brain mapping, 74 monetary incentives and disincentives, 268 motivation, 36, 177
motivational mismatch, 5, 191

natural selection, 152
Neo-Darwinism, 152

obesity epidemic, 199
ontogenetic development, 4, 28, 90 outcome expectancies, 42 outcome values, 42

pain, 69
phenotype, 153
phylogenetic development, 4, 28 physical activity, 219
physical inactivity, 221 physiological drive, 37, 90, 113 pleasure, 54
pleasures of the body, 70 pleasures of the mind, 70 political will, 281
primary desire, 54
proximal causation, 4 psychological hedonism, 1, 48, 53 motivational hedonism, 55 psychological mechanism, 164 public health impact, 16

reducing exposure to cues that trigger hedonic motivations, 266 reflective motivation, 3, 36, 49, 63 reflex, 171
reinforce, 180
reverse engineering, 169
reward, 61, 92
reward prediction errors, 106 rule-based learning, 34

sedentary behavior, 221 sedentary instinct, 234 self-control situation, 132 self-efficacy, 43
Social Cognitive Framework, 41
social norms, 43
social support, 43
Socioecological Framework, 43 species-specific, 158

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-1-107-11043-4 — Darwinian Hedonism and the Epidemic of Unhealthy Behavior
David M. Williams
Index
More Information

species-typical trait, 157 stimulus, 24, 78
substance abuse. See addiction substance dependence. See addiction substance use, 238

Theory of Hedonic Motivation, 2, 49, 64 thought, 33
Tinbergen's four questions, 28

unhealthy foods, 200
untestable problem, 58
urge, 298

value, 300

'wanting', 62, 100
  'dread', 100
wanting (without quotation marks), 295

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org