CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-1-108-05990-9 - The History and Philosophy of Earthquakes
Edited by a Member of the Royal Academy of Berlin
Table of Contents
More information

A LIST of the ſeveral PIECES from whence theſe COLLECTIONS are extracted.

I. A Methodical Account of Earthquakes by JOH. CHRIST. STURMIUS, Profeſſor of Phyſics and Mathematicks at Altorff in Germany, Page 1
II. Of the Nature of Earthquakes by MARTIN LISTER, M. D. Fellow of the Royal Society, 59
III. Diſcourſes concerning Earthquakes by ROBERT HOOKE, M. D. Fellow of the Royal Society, 68
IV. Earthquakes cauſed by ſome accidental Obſtruction of a continual ſubterranean Heat, by JOHN WOODWARD, M. D. Fellow of the Royal Society, 176
V. A Phyſico-chymical Explanation of ſubterraneous Fires, Earthquakes, &c. by M. LEMERY of the Royal Academy of Sciences at Paris, 183
VI. Of the Volcanos and Earthquakes in Peru, by M. BOUGUER of the Royal Academy of Sciences at Paris, 193
VII. The Natural Hiſtory of Volcanos and Earthquakes, by M. BUFFON of the Royal Academy of Sciences at Paris, 209
VIII. A Summary of the Cauſes of the Alterations which have happened to the Face of the Earth, by Mr. JOHN RAY Fellow of the Royal Society, 240
IX. Some Conſiderations on the Cauſes of Earthquakes, by the Reverend STEPHEN HALES, D. D. Fellow of the Royal Society, 243
X. The Philoſophy of Earthquakes, by the Reverend WILLIAM STUKELEY, M. D. Fellow of the Royal Society, 253

Added by the Editor,

Phænomena of the Great Earthquake of November 1, 1755, in various Parts of the Globe, 280
The vaſt Extent of the ſame, 333

A Me-

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org