CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-1-108-49277-5 — Women as Constitution-Makers
Edited by Ruth Rubio-Marín , Helen Irving
Frontmatter
More Information

WOMEN AS CONSTITUTION-MAKERS

That a constitution should express the will of 'the people' is a long-standing principle, but the identity of 'the people' has historically been narrow. Women, in particular, were not included. A shift, however, has recently occurred. Women's participation in constitution-making is now recognised as a democratic right. Women's demands to have their voices heard, in both the process of constitution-making and the text of their country's constitution, are gaining recognition. Campaigning for inclusion in their country's constitution-making, women have adopted innovative strategies to express their constitutional aspirations.

This collection offers, for the first time, comprehensive case-studies of women's campaigns for constitutional equality in nine different countries that have undergone constitutional transformations in the 'participatory era.' Against a richly-contextualised historical and political background, each charts the actions and strategies of women participants, both formal and informal, and records their successes, failures and continuing hopes for constitutional equality.

RUTH RUBIO-MARÍN is Professor of Constitutional Law at the University of Sevilla as well as the Director of the Gender and Governance Cluster of the School of Transnational Governance at the European University Institute in Florence. Her most recent works include Transforming Gender Citizenship: The Irresistible Rise of Gender Quotas in Europe, with Éléonore Lépinard (ed.) (Cambridge University Press, 2018) and Gender Parity and Multicultural Feminism: Towards a New Synthesis, with Will Kymlicka (ed.) (2018).

HELEN IRVING is Professor of Constitutional Law at the University of Sydney. She is the author and editor of many works on constitutional history, gender and constitutionalism and constitutional citizenship, including Citizenship, Alienage and the Modern Constitutional State: A Gendered History (Cambridge University Press, 2016).

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-1-108-49277-5 — Women as Constitution-Makers
Edited by Ruth Rubio-Marín , Helen Irving
Frontmatter
More Information

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-1-108-49277-5 — Women as Constitution-Makers
Edited by Ruth Rubio-Marín , Helen Irving
Frontmatter
More Information

WOMEN AS CONSTITUTION-MAKERS

Case Studies from the New Democratic Era

Edited by

RUTH RUBIO-MARÍN
University of Seville

HELEN IRVING
University of Sydney

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

University Printing House, Cambridge CB2 8BS, United Kingdom

One Liberty Plaza, 20th Floor, New York, NY 10006, USA

477 Williamstown Road, Port Melbourne, VIC 3207, Australia

314–321, 3rd Floor, Plot 3, Splendor Forum, Jasola District Centre, New Delhi – 110025, India

79 Anson Road, #06–04/06, Singapore 079906

Cambridge University Press is part of the University of Cambridge.

It furthers the University's mission by disseminating knowledge in the pursuit of education, learning and research at the highest international levels of excellence.

www.cambridge.org
Information on this title: www.cambridge.org/9781108492775
DOI: 10.1017/9781108686358

© Cambridge University Press 2019

This publication is in copyright. Subject to statutory exception and to the provisions of relevant collective licensing agreements, no reproduction of any part may take place without the written permission of Cambridge University Press.

First published 2019

Printed and bound in Great Britain by Clays Ltd, Elcograf S.p.A.

A catalogue record for this publication is available from the British Library.

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data
Names: Rubio-Marin, Ruth, editor. | Irving, Helen, editor.
Title: Women as constitution-makers : case studies from the new democratic era / edited by Ruth Rubio-Marin, Universidad de Sevilla, Helen Irving, University of Sydney.
Description: New York : Cambridge University Press, 2019.
Identifiers: LCCN 2018047192 | ISBN 9781108492775 (hardback) | ISBN 9781108734530 (paperback)
Subjects: LCSH: Sex discrimination against women–Law and legislation. | Constitutional law. | Women's rights. | Constitutions.
Classification: LCC K3243 .W66 2019 | DDC 342.0082–dc23
LC record available at https://lccn.loc.gov/2018047192

ISBN 978-1-108-49277-5 Hardback

Cambridge University Press has no responsibility for the persistence or accuracy of URLs for external or third-party internet websites referred to in this publication and does not guarantee that any content on such websites is, or will remain, accurate or appropriate.

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-1-108-49277-5 — Women as Constitution-Makers
Edited by Ruth Rubio-Marín , Helen Irving
Frontmatter
More Information

CONTENTS

Notes on Contributors vii
Acknowledgements xii

Introduction: Women as Constitution-Makers: The Promises and the Challenges of Participation 1
RUTH RUBIO-MARÍN AND HELEN IRVING

1 Women's Movements and the Recognition of Gender Equality in the Constitution-Making Process in Morocco and Tunisia (2011–2014) 31
SARA BORRILLO

2 Women and Constitution-Making in Post-Communist Romania 81
ELENA BRODEALĂ AND SILVIA ŞUTEU

3 Re-Living Yesterday's Battles: Women and Constitution-Making in Post-Saddam Iraq 153
NOGA EFRATI

4 Women's Participation in Peace-Building and Constitution-Making in Somalia 190
SAKUNTALA KADIRGAMAR

5 Feminist Legalism: Colombian Constitution-Making in the 1990s 234
JULIETA LEMAITRE

6 Women and Constitution-Making in Turkey: From Ottoman Modernism to a Constitutionalism of Women's Platform 270
BERTIL EMRAH ODER

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-1-108-49277-5 — Women as Constitution-Makers
Edited by Ruth Rubio-Marín , Helen Irving
Frontmatter
More Information

7 Egypt's Tale of Two Constitutions: Diverging Gendered Processes and Outcomes 314
MARIZ TADROS

8 Dialogic Democracy, Feminist Theory and Women's Participation in Constitution-Making 351
SUSAN H. WILLIAMS

Index 378

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE
Cambridge University Press
978-1-108-49277-5 — Women as Constitution-Makers
Edited by Ruth Rubio-Marín , Helen Irving
Frontmatter
More Information

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

SARA BORRILLO is a fellow post-doctoral researcher at the Asia, Africa and Mediterranean Department of the University of Naples "L'Orientale" and Lecturer of History of Islamic Countries at the University of Macerata. During her fieldworks, she has been associated researcher to the Centre Jacques Berque (CNRS) in Rabat (2012–2016) and visiting researcher at IRMC (Institut de recherche sur le Maghreb contemporain) in Tunis (2016). She is also UNDP Expert for Gender Equality and Women's Empowerment in Public Administration (GEPA). Her research interests are mainly focused on the history of women's movements, gender politics and Islam, secular and Islamic feminisms, new female religious authorities and socio-political transformations in the MENA region and in particular in Morocco and Tunisia. She is currently working on cultural and artistic activism with political background in the Maghreb post-uprisings. She is the author of the book Feminisms and Islam in Morocco: Women Secular Activists, Theologians and Preachers (in Italian, 2017) and of several academic publications: 'Islamic Female Religious Authority between Agency and Governmentality: From the Moroccan Model to "Multicultural" Europe', in De Ruiter, Hashas, Niels, Imam in Western Europe (2018); 'Islamic Feminism in Morocco: The Discourse and the Experience of Asma Lamrabet', in M. Ennaji, F. Sadiqi, K. Vintges (eds.), Moroccan Feminisms. New Perspectives (2016); 'Egalité de genre au Maroc après 2011? Les droits sexuels et reproductifs au centre des récentes luttes de reconnaissance', in A. M. Maria Di Tolla and Francesca Ersilia, Emerging Actors in Post-Revolutionary North Africa. Gender Mobility and Social Activism, Studi Magrebini, XIV/2016, (2017). She is also author of the photo-narrative project 'Unveiled. Morocco: plural feminine' (www.svelate.org).

ELENA BRODEALĂ is a PhD Researcher in the last stages of dissertation writing at the European University Institute (EUI), Italy. Her dissertation analyses the legal evolution of gender equality in post-Communist

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE
Cambridge University Press
978-1-108-49277-5 — Women as Constitution-Makers
Edited by Ruth Rubio-Marín , Helen Irving
Frontmatter
More Information

Romania and she is generally interested in issues related to gender, constitutionalism and politics in Central and Eastern Europe. Previously, she earned an LLM degree from Yale Law School and was a visiting researcher at the Kent Centre for Law, Gender and Sexuality in the UK, at New College Europe in Bucharest, Romania and at Central European University in Budapest, Hungary. She is also a founding member of the Constitutionalism and Politics working group at the EUI and collaborated for two years with a gender equality NGO in Romania.

NOGA EFRATI is a Senior Lecturer at the Department of History, Philosophy and Judaic Studies, the Open University of Israel. A historian of the Middle East, her research focuses on women and gender in the Middle East and on the social, legal and political history of Iraq. Between 2006 and 2011, she headed the Post-Saddam Iraq Research Group at the Harry S. Truman Research Institute for the Advancement of Peace, The Hebrew University of Jerusalem. She is the author of Women in Iraq: Past Meets Present (2012) and co-editor, with Amnon Cohen, of Post-Saddam Iraq: New Realities, Old Identities, Changing Patterns (2011).

HELEN IRVING is Professor of Constitutional Law at the University of Sydney. She is the author and editor of many works on constitutional history, gender and constitutionalism and constitutional citizenship, including Citizenship, Alienage and the Modern Constitutional State: A Gendered History (Cambridge University Press, 2016), Gender and the Constitution: Equity and Agency in Comparative Constitutional Design (Cambridge University Press, 2008) and Constitutions and Gender (2017). She has held visiting positions at the University of Hong Kong, Harvard (with the Harvard Chair of Australian Studies), the London School of Economics and the European University Institute (with a Fernand Braudel Senior Fellowship). She has advised International IDEA, UNDP and UN Women on gender and constitution-making.

SAKUNTALA KADIRGAMAR is a senior governance expert with extensive experience providing policy and technical advice on constitutions, governance reform, transitional justice, the design of electoral systems and political party reforms and mainstreaming gender and social inclusion. She has worked in fragile states and post-conflict transitions in contexts of extreme political volatility, change and uncertain transitions. Specifically, she has served as a Gender Advisor and as a Constitutional Advisor

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE
Cambridge University Press
978-1-108-49277-5 — Women as Constitution-Makers
Edited by Ruth Rubio-Marín , Helen Irving
Frontmatter
More Information

to the Mediation Support Unit of the United Nations. She was also an Advisor at the National Dialogue Conference of Yemen and a Senior Constitution Advisor to the United Nations Political Office for Somalia and to the UNDP in Nepal. She was the Senior Constitution Adviser at the International Institute for Democracy and Electoral Assistance (IDEA) and the Country Representative of Democracy Reporting International (DRI) in Sri Lanka. She is currently the Executive Director of the Law and Society Trust, Colombo, Sri Lanka.

JULIETA LEMAITRE is a Judge at the Justice Chambers of the Colombian Special Jurisdiction for Peace, created in 2018 to implement the transitional justice component of the peace agreements, as well as Adjunct Professor at the University of the Andes. Before her appointment, she taught at the Law School in University of the Andes, where she had been a full professor since 2007. She is a lawyer from University of the Andes (1995), has an MA in gender and religious studies from NYU (1998) and a doctoral degree in law (SJD) from Harvard University (2007) with a concentration in law and social theory. In the academic year 2014–2015 she was Robina Human Rights Visiting Scholar at Yale Law School. In addition, she was a PRIO Global Fellow from 2015 to 2017. She works on law and social movements, law and violence, violence against women and sexual and reproductive rights. She has published articles on these issues in the Harvard Human Rights Journal, the International Journal of Constitutional Law, the Law and Society Review, Social & Legal Studies and Feminist Legal Studies, as well as many book chapters in edited volumes. In Spanish she wrote El Derecho como Conjuro (2009), La Paz en Cuestión (2011) and El Estado siempre llega tarde (2019) and edited La Quintíada (2013) and Derechos Enterrados (2011).

BERTIL EMRAH ODER is the Dean and Professor of Constitutional Law at Koç University Law School. She received her PhD in both public and private law from the University of Cologne (Germany). She holds the UNESCO Chair for Gender Equality and Sustainable Development. Dr. Oder's research focuses on comparative constitutional law, gender studies, European Union law and international human rights law. She has served as an international consultant of UN Women and the Inter-Parliamentary Union (IPU), and academic consultant of the Constitutional Conciliation Committee (Turkey) in 2012–2013. Her recent publications include (with Richard Albert): An Unamendable Constitution?

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE
Cambridge University Press
978-1-108-49277-5 — Women as Constitution-Makers
Edited by Ruth Rubio-Marín , Helen Irving
Frontmatter
More Information

Unamendability in Constitutional Democracies (2018); (with Yigit Sayin, Amnon Lehavi et al.), 'Land Law and the Limits on the Right to Property: Historical, Comparative and International Analysis' (European Property Law Journal, 2017); and (with M. Utku Öztürk), 'Between Entrenchment and Ignorance: On Justiciability and Salient Issues of Constitutionalized Socio-Economic Rights from Soma to Ceratepe', Research and Policy on Turkey (2017/2), Special Issue: The Human Rights Problems of Turkey during the AKP Era.

RUTH RUBIO-MARÍN is Professor of Constitutional Law at the University of Seville as well as member of the Faculty of The Hauser Global Law School Program at New York University. She is the director of the Gender and Governance Cluster of the School of Transnational Governance at the European University Institute in Florence. Her research represents an attempt to understand how public law creates categories of inclusion and exclusion around different axes, including gender, citizenship, nationality and ethnicity. Her most recent works include Transforming Gender Citizenship: The Irresistible Rise of Gender Quotas in Europe, with Éléonore Lépinard (ed.), (Cambridge University Press, 2018) and Gender Parity and Multicultural Feminism: Towards a New Synthesis, with Will Kymlicka (ed.) (2018).

SILVIA ŞUTEU is a Lecturer in Public Law at University College London. She was previously an ESRC Research Fellow at the University of Edinburgh and Associate Director for Research Engagement of the Edinburgh Centre for Constitutional Law. Her research and teaching are in the areas of comparative constitutional law and constitutional theory. She is especially interested in the theory and practice of deliberative constitutional change, constitutional entrenchment and democratic theory (in particular eternity clauses), transitional constitutionalism and gender-sensitive constitution-making. She has also done work in international humanitarian and human rights law. She has provided legal expertise on constitution-building to organisations including Democracy Reporting International, the Euromed Feminist Initiative, International IDEA and UN Women.

MARIZ TADROS is Professor of Politics and Development at the Institute of Development Studies, University of Sussex, UK, where she is Co-Research Director of the Action for Empowerment and Accountability

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE
Cambridge University Press
978-1-108-49277-5 — Women as Constitution-Makers
Edited by Ruth Rubio-Marín , Helen Irving
Frontmatter
More Information

Research Programme and co-leader of the power and popular politics cluster. She is the author of Resistance, Revolt and Gender Justice (2016) and editor of Women in Politics (2013) and several books and journal articles.

SUSAN H. WILLIAMS is the Walter W. Foskett Professor of Law and the Director of the Center for Constitutional Democracy (CCD) at Indiana University Maurer School of Law. She graduated magna cum laude from Harvard Law School, then clerked for Ruth Bader Ginsburg on the US Court of Appeals for the DC Circuit. She has taught at Cornell Law School and the University of Paris and served as a Fellow at Wolfson College, Cambridge University, and at the European University Institute. She is the author of Truth, Autonomy and Speech: Feminist Theory and the First Amendment (2004), editor of Social Difference and Constitutionalism in Pan-Asia (Cambridge University Press, 2014) and Constituting Equality: Gender Equality and Comparative Constitutional Law (Cambridge University Press, 2009) and author of numerous articles and book chapters. As Director of the CCD, she has been involved in constitutional advising and drafting with partners – including many women's rights groups – in Myanmar, Liberia, Jordan, Libya, Yemen and Cuba.

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge University Press
978-1-108-49277-5 — Women as Constitution-Makers
Edited by Ruth Rubio-Marín , Helen Irving
Frontmatter
More Information

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

We are grateful to the Research Council of the European University Institute for generously funding the 2015 workshop on women and constitution-making that brought together our authors and other scholars to discuss work in progress. We particularly thank Professor Siri Gloppen from the University of Bergen, for her valuable role as commentator at the workshop. Helen Irving also thanks the European University Institute for the award of a Fernand Braudel Senior Fellowship in 2015. We thank Stefano Osella for his great assistance in coordinating the book production process.

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org