Cambridge History Programme

An investigative history course for key stage 3

A progressive history course for the National Curriculum, designed to be directly accessible to all pupils.

- A balanced and enjoyable history course
  Each book provides teachers with all the material they require to develop fully their pupils’ historical knowledge, skills and understanding. The programme builds on and encourages good classroom practice to provide a broad, balanced and enjoyable history course.

- Encourages an investigative approach to history
  Each of the enquiry-based units starts with key historical questions to focus pupils on the relevant issues. The careful balance of explanation and investigation helps them to fully understand the main events and concepts.

- Overviews to consolidate learning
  Each book includes a number of historical overviews to introduce and consolidate themes and concepts relevant to a particular period. These summarise the main events in chronological order, and can be used to review the topics studied to aid revision.

- Sources and activities incorporated
  A wide range of primary sources, explanatory diagrams and maps is provided to help set the events and topics covered in context. Activities ranging in difficulty appear throughout the text to reinforce understanding.

Irish History in Perspective

A history course for the Northern Ireland curriculum

Irish History in Perspective enables pupils to understand how developments at a local, national and international level have helped to shape the economy, culture and political structure of Ireland.

Praise for Nationalism and Unionism:

‘... an excellent introduction to Irish history for KS3 and above.’

The School Librarian

• • • Carefully-balanced texts

The pupil’s books are in full colour, and contain a careful balance of explanation and investigation. Pupils will be able to make use of the stimulating range of historical sources to investigate social, cultural and religious diversity from the Norman period to the early twentieth century.

• • • Differentiated activities

Key issues and topics are explored through a range of differentiated activities which are suitable for all abilities. These are included at the end of each unit to aid understanding.

• • • Clear chronology of the main events

Historical overviews help pupils learn about the chronology of the main events and developments during key periods. They provide an excellent introduction to key themes, and can be used to review topics and aid revision.

Crime, Punishment and Protest

Author Allan Todd

Edexcel have endorsed this new book for use with the study in development unit Crime, Punishment and Protest in their GCSE History Specification C (Schools History Project).

- Provides a study of historical development over a period of more than 2,500 years.
- Case studies and activities help to reinforce the ideas studied.
- Source-based interactive approaches and activities help students to focus on key aspects of change and development.

Crime, Punishment and Protest provides essential knowledge through background briefings, encourages analysis of issues through investigations, and contains review sections to aid clarity and revision.

Cambridge History Programme

Modern World History – Combined edition

Series Editor Tony McAleavy
Authors Paul Grey and Rosemarie Little

Modern World History matches the OCR GCSE specification and is also suitable for other GCSE history specifications. Coverage includes:

- The compulsory core unit, International Relations 1918–1989
- The new core requirement, British History 1906–1918
- The optional depth study, Germany 1919–1945

This is a lively and accessible textbook, using lead questions and activities, background briefings and investigations to engage students.

Twentieth Century History

International Relations since 1919

Tony McAleavy

This lively and accessible IGCSE textbook focuses on international relations from the end of the First World War to the collapse of communism. Endorsed by University of Cambridge International Examinations (CIE), it matches the 20th Century (1919 to present) core content of the IGCSE history syllabus (0470). The textbook is well presented, with a wide range of illustrations, sources, maps, diagrams and activities.

Cambridge Perspectives in History

A range of period texts and theme books for AS and A Level history

Cambridge Perspectives in History provides a range of textbooks for advanced history courses, focusing on key periods and themes in British and European history.

- Foundation/period studies for AS
  The AS textbooks are ideal for students who have never studied the history of these periods before. They provide detailed background information on the period studied, and use focus questions, overviews, lists of significant dates, notes explaining key terms and questions to consolidate learning.

- Unit 1 Document Studies included
  Many of the books include a separate document section, where students can study and evaluate a range of source material. These are highlighted on the page opposite. The use of document sources, supported by questions, helps students to develop the analytical and evaluative skills essential for exam success.

- Endorsed by OCR
  The content and level of the new AS titles are fully appropriate for the new specifications for history. All of the AS titles have been endorsed by OCR for use with their new specifications, and several of the titles will also be appropriate for Edexcel and AQA study units.

- Theme books for AS or A2
  Shorter theme books explore particular topics in greater depth. The topics examined can be linked with the periods covered by the foundation texts, providing students and teachers with flexibility in structuring new advanced-level courses. They can also be used for modules studied in the second year (A2) of a full Advanced GCE.

Theme Books

European/American History

The Development of the Mass Media 1896–1996
Peter Browning
Examines the development of the popular press, cinema, radio, television and the music industry during the twentieth century, considering the impact of new technologies and the issues of control and censorship.

The Cold War
Mike Sewell
Topics covered include the origins of the Cold War, its globalisation, the period of détente that followed before a further escalation of tensions, and the end of the Cold War in the 1980s.

The European Dictatorships
Hitler, Stalin, Mussolini
Allan Todd
This concise account looks at the rise to power of these dictators, the nature of the states they dominated, and compares Nazism, Fascism and Stalinism.

Civil Rights in America
1865–1980
Ron Field
A detailed survey of civil rights in America, from a definition of the concept and its relation to the Constitution to the present day. Topics covered include the Ku Klux Klan, Jim Crow, the impact of war, black protest, labour relations, and the roles of various minority groups.

The Changing Nature of Warfare 1792–1945
Peter Browning
A succinct survey of the changing complexities of modern warfare, with a particular emphasis on land warfare, that looks at how and why warfare changed between 1792 and 1945.

Opposition and Resistance in Nazi Germany
Frank McDonough
A clear account of opposition and resistance towards the Nazi regime from 1933 to 1945, and the historical debate surrounding it. The sources of opposition included Christian churches, industrial workers, youth groups and sections of the army.

Hitler, Chamberlain and Appeasement
Frank McDonough
This book examines the key roles played by Adolf Hitler and Neville Chamberlain in the events that led to the outbreak of the Second World War. The main focus is the policy of appeasement between 1937 and 1939, and the debate surrounding it.

Hitler and Nazi Germany
Frank McDonough
A refreshing perspective, shifting the central focus away from the personality of Hitler to his role in the broad socio-economic, political and cultural developments of the period. Issues include the impact of the Nazi regime on German society, culture and economy, foreign policy and the Holocaust.

Fascism
Richard Thurlow
A new perspective on the most controversial political concept in modern history, considering the origins of fascism and its impact in Europe.

The Holocaust
Peter Neville
An authoritative and lucid study of the main aspects of the Holocaust.

The Origins of the First and Second World Wars
Frank McDonough
A succinct analysis of the origins of the First and Second World Wars drawing on a wide range of material.
Nationalism in Europe 1789–1945
Timothy Baycroft
A concise description of the spread and impact of nationalism, explaining what characterises modern nations, what the theoretical roots of nationalism are, and what interaction there has been with other significant theories.

Revolutions 1789–1917
Allan Todd
A lucid exploration of the main features of revolutions. Particular attention is given to the French Revolution of 1789, the 1848 Revolutions, the 1871 Paris Commune and the Russian Revolutions of 1917.

British History

Crown and Parliaments 1558–1689
Graham E. Seel, David L. Smith
A lively account of the changing nature of royal powers during this period, and the limitations that were gradually placed upon them.

The Tudor Monarchies 1485–1603
John McGurk
This book examines the reigns of the Tudor Monarchs – Henry VIII, Edward VI, Mary and Elizabeth I – and considers some of the themes of this eventful period.

Authority and Disorder in Tudor Times 1485–1603
Paul Thomas
Introduces the concepts of formal and informal authority and considers religion, witchcraft, family affairs, paternal authority and youthful trouble-making.

Papists, Protestants and Puritans 1559–1714
Diana Newton
A survey of the religious changes arising from challenges to the Catholic Church in the sixteenth century and their social and political impact.

British Imperialism 1750–1970
Simon C. Smith
A number of controversial and complex debates in the study of British imperial history are addressed, including the relationship between economics and empire, changing British attitudes towards indigenous societies, and the impact of empire on Britain.

Chartism
Richard Brown
A study of the Chartist movement, and its interpretation by historians.

Cambridge Junior History

Cambridge Junior History is a series of topic books for 10–14 year-olds that provides engaging and accessible introductions to different societies. The books have been written for history courses in Australia, but also form an excellent supplementary resource for the National Curriculum.

Cambridge Introduction to World History

General Editor Trevor Cairns

The Cambridge Introduction to World History series provides additional support for various topics in Greek and Roman history. The free-standing nature of these short volumes makes them an ideal addition to any main course at key stage 3 or GCSE.

Women in History

Editors Carol Adams, Paula Bartley, Cathy Loxton

A series which helps to redress the balance where history books have so far dealt almost exclusively with men. The books include a range of primary sources, draw on original research and contain numerous illustrations.

Keep Smiling Through
Women in the Second World War
Caroline Lang
Looks at the lives of ordinary women who bore the strain as war affected life at home.
