There is a need among upper-undergraduate and graduate students of theology, as well as among Christian teachers and church professionals, for a series of short, focused studies of particular key topics in theology written by prominent theologians. Current Issues in Theology meets this need. The books in the series are designed to provide a ‘state-of-the-art’ statement on the topic in question, engaging with contemporary thinking as well as providing original insights. The aim is to publish books which stand between the static monograph genre and the more immediate statement of a journal article, by authors who are questioning existing paradigms or rethinking perspectives.

• A series of focused studies on key theological topics
• Engages with contemporary thinking in theology
• Written by prominent theologians

Holy Scripture
John Webster
University of Aberdeen

May we speak, in the present age, of holy scripture? John Webster argues that while any understanding of scripture must subject it to proper textual and historical interrogation, it is also necessary to acknowledge the special character of scriptural writing. His book is a loud reaffirmation of the triune God at the heart of a scripture-based Christianity.

The Just War Revisited
Oliver O’Donovan
University of Oxford

The book re-examines questions of contemporary urgency, including the use of biological and nuclear weapons, military intervention, economic sanctions, and the role of the UN. It opens with a challenging dedication to the new Archbishop of Canterbury and proceeds to shed light on vital topics with which the Archbishop and others will be very directly engaged.
