THE CAMBRIDGE DICTIONARY OF
English Place-Names

The Ultimate
in Place-Name
Reference

- The most authoritative and comprehensive book on the subject
- Totally new compilation with c.20,000 entries
- Will appeal to anyone interested in the history and settlement of England

www.cambridge.org/placenames
The Cambridge Dictionary of English Place-Names

Victor Watts

This alphabetical dictionary is a totally new compilation, based on the archives of the English Place-Name Society and reflecting the most recent scholarship in the subject, of all the names of cities, towns, villages, hamlets, rivers, streams, hills and other geographical locations included in the Ordnance Survey Road Atlas of Great Britain (1983) plus many more. It provides a reflection of contemporary England, not just its historical past. Every place-name entry has a unique National Grid reference number, a list of historical spellings, the age and meaning of the name and its etymology (pre-Indo-European, Indo-European, Celtic, Primitive Welsh, Anglo-Saxon, Old Norse, Old French, Middle English, Modern English). Where appropriate, a commentary is provided on comparable names, on the problems, history and significance of the name for settlement, economic and social history, the development of the language and on its variant pronunciations and spellings.

Contents:
- Foreword
- Guide to dictionary entries
- Abbreviations and Bibliography
- Place-names
- Glossary of most frequently-used elements
- Distribution maps
- Index of personal names contained in the place-names

Special introductory price £175.00

Special introductory price of £175.00, rising to c. £200.00 three months after publication.

Publication: c. November 2003
A detailed guide to reading the dictionary

www.cambridge.org
Name Reference

...and [1065]c.1500 S 1042, Cungresberie 1086, saint’s name Cuncar, OE Congar, genitive OE byrig, dative sing. of burh. Stere, a place mentioned by Asser as a very. The pr is [ku:mzbri]. DEPN, CMCS 2257. ‘The king’s village or farm’.

1130–47, Stodham 1246–1552, is ‘the horses are kept’, OE stōd + hamm 1. O

5442. ‘Staff hill’. Stafhole c.1225–79, Staffholde c.1270, Staffeld 1276–8, Staffel(l) 13–1568, Staffeld oth. Staffell 1806. ON hóll ‘an isolated hill’. The reference is by a post or where posts were obtained. SSNNW 164, L 169.

1 → STOWFORD Devon SX 4386.

223. ‘The landing-place ford’. STED,
This book offers the first comprehensive study of the enclosure mapping of England and Wales. The authors assess the processes of land enclosure, the role of maps, the mapping of each county and the cartographic characteristics of all the maps across both space and time. The book is accompanied by a unique web resource that gives a fully searchable, descriptive and analytical catalogue of all the parliamentary and non-parliamentary enclosure maps extant in public archives and libraries.

- Web resource at http://www.cambridge.org/enclosuremaps

... an essential research tool for economic, social and local historians as well as for geographers, lawyers and planners

Introductory price £100, rising to c. £120 three months after publication

Publication: c. December 2003