

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-04064-8 - Buddhist Monk, Buddhist Layman: A Study of Urban Monastic
Organization in Central Thailand

Jane Bunnag

Table of Contents

More information

Contents

List of tables	page vii
List of illustrations	viii
Preface	ix
Introduction : the Thai social system	i
1 'The way of the monk'	29
2 The monk and the lay community	51
3 The wat community	86
4 The wat and its social matrix	100
5 The role of the Buddhist layman	142
6 The loosely structured social system: red herring or rara avis ?	180
Appendixes
1 Case-history a : The case of the 'fatherless' child	188
Case-history b : The case of the unordained ' bhikkhu '	189
2 Results of the questionnaire survey	190
3 a . Ecclesiastical educational qualifications of the monks of Ayutthaya	194
b . Results of the ecclesiastical examinations 1966–7	194
4 a . Honorific titles awarded to monks	196
b . List of monks in Ayutthaya who received a monthly food allowance or nittayaphat	197
5 Estimated annual income and expenditure of two monks (1966–7)	199
a . Chao Khun Thep	199
b . Phra Sombat	199
6 Composition of the monastic community and extent of lay support at fifteen wats in Ayutthaya	200
7 The rights and duties of the abbot of a wat	202
8 The appointment of higher ecclesiastical officials	204
9 Statistics relating to the income and expenditure of fifteen wats in Ayutthaya	206
Bibliography	210
Index	213