

---

Contents

List of illustrations	page ix
Preface	xiii
Acknowledgments	xv
Abbreviations	xvii
General abbreviations	xvii
Abbreviations for recurring sources and library sigla	xvii
Chronology	xix
Some descriptions of Satie	xli
1 Satie's career as a composer: some interpretations	1
2 Why and where Satie composed	8
3 Parody, pastiche, quotation and the question of influences	21
4 Satie and Debussy	39
5 Satie's compositional aesthetic	68
6 Satie, counterpoint and the Schola Cantorum	81
7 Orchestration versus instrumentation	105
1890–1909	106
1909–1917	115
1917–1924	133
8 Questions of form, logic and the mirror image	142
Concepts of time and space	143
Punctuation form in the Rose-Croix music	146
Compositional logic in other Rose-Croix pieces	153
Sonata form and the question of development	158
Motivic construction	164
Proportional reflections and mirror images	167
The strange case of Relâche	177
9 Compositional systems and other sources of inspiration	185

viii	Contents
10	Composition and the other arts	205
	1886–1905	206
	1905–1924	212
	(a) Literature and poetry	212
	(b) Painting, sculpture and theatrical collaborations	222
11	Satie on other composers	245
12	Satie and the wider world	254
	APPENDIX: Chronological catalogue of Satie's compositions	266
	Abbreviations	267
	Library sigla	268
	Notes	336
	Select bibliography	368
	Index of Satie's works	381
	General index	386