CAMBRIDGE GEOGRAPHICAL STUDIES

Cambridge Geographical Studies presents new methods of geographical analysis, publishes the results of new research work in all branches of the subject, and explores topics which unite disciplines that were formerly separate. In this way it helps to redefine the extent and concerns of geography. The series is of interdisciplinary interest to a wide range of natural and social scientists, as well as to planners.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am grateful to many people who have helped me in the preparation of this book. The editors of Cambridge Geographical Studies have been remarkably tolerant of the elephantine gestation process, and have made many useful suggestions on earlier drafts of the work. Sir Joseph Hutchinson read an earlier version of Chapter 3 and made many helpful comments on it, as did Mr John Harriss on Chapter 2.

Officials of a number of libraries have been of great assistance, particularly those of the Geographical Association in Sheffield, the University Library in Sheffield and the library of the Department of Agriculture in Cambridge. I am most grateful to the Master and Fellows of St John's College, Cambridge, for hospitality on a number of visits to Cambridge. The Research Fund of the University of Sheffield has supported some of my travels with a generous grant. Early versions of this work were typed by Mrs Bernie Bicknell, Miss Delia Bough and Mrs Joan Dunn; most of the final version was typed by Mrs Penny Shamma and Mrs Sheila Naylor, to whom I am particularly grateful. The maps were drawn by Mr Jack Hall, Miss Sheila Ottewell and Mr Christopher Jones, to whom my thanks are due. Lastly, I suppose I should be grateful to my colleagues in the Department of Geography, University of Sheffield, whose more or less good natured derision has spurred me on; certainly I am grateful to my friends in the Senior Common Rooms of Earnshaw Hall and Stephenson Hall, which though not, perhaps, the best clubs in Sheffield, nonetheless provide some of the pleasantest company.
