

Contents

Figures	page vii
Tables	viii
Contributors	ix
Acknowledgments	xiii
Introduction: Communion in social comparison – Back to the roots Zlatan Križan &amp; Frederick X. Gibbons	1
PART I. CORE CONSIDERATIONS
1. Agency and communion in social comparisons Kenneth D. Locke	11
2. Social comparison in identity theory Jan E. Stets &amp; Peter J. Burke	39
3. When comparisons divide: Invidious emotions and their social control Zlatan Križan &amp; Richard H. Smith	60
PART II. INDIVIDUAL LEVEL
4. Sparing others through social comparison Anne L. Zell &amp; Julie Juola Exline	95
5. Social comparisons within romantic relationships Penelope Lockwood &amp; Rebecca T. Pinkus	120
PART III. GROUP LEVEL
6. Prototype-based social comparisons within groups: Constructing social identity to reduce self-uncertainty Michael A. Hogg &amp; Amber M. Gaffney	145

7.	Bonding, hiding, and promoting: Three reactions to shared threat	175
	Hart Blanton, Melissa Burkley, &amp; Edward Burkley
PART IV. SOCIOCULTURAL LEVEL
8.	Basic principles of social comparison: Does gender matter?	205
	Serge Guimond &amp; Armand Chatard
9.	Culture and self-worth: Implications for social comparison processes and coping with threats to self-worth	230
	Joni Y. Sasaki, Deborah M. Ko, &amp; Heejung S. Kim
	Index	253