Many thanks to both for their substantial contributions in writing sections of the coursebook, as well as their inspiration and support throughout the project.

Acknowledgments

Contact US! would not have been possible without the work and support of a number of colleagues and family members. First, we would like to acknowledge the company who worked on this project collaboratively: FuturePerfect. We would also like to thank the People2Outsource team, most particularly Vincent Bautista and Juan Miguel Brion, whose work piloting the course gave us invaluable insights into the call center trainer's experience of teaching these materials.

We would like to thank Neil Elias who provided early data for research into the nature of call center interaction. This coursebook would never have been possible without his support and advice on what the call center industry is really looking for in good customer communication. To Dan Elias, who inspired "Dan and Dora" and who tirelessly and patiently proofread, listened, and contributed.

Lastly, to all our friends and colleagues at Cambridge University Press. Thanks go out to the Hong Kong Cambridge University Press office for gallantly hosting so many working meetings and for their work on the Contact US! website. To Chris Boughton for his commitment to getting the coursebook started ... and for the title! To Josep Mas as Publishing Manager, whose patience and attention to detail kept us all on track; and to Project Manager Chris Caridia, whose thoroughness and care have been essential to the success of this project.
