

Contents

Preface	vii
1 A conceptual framework for the study of investment activity in the Soviet Union	1
Introduction	1
The aims of Soviet investment policy – a general treatment	2
The yardstick	6
Some key aspects of the Soviet economic system	15
Specific factors likely, a priori , to induce deviations from simple m-t-p-h efficiency	17
2 The economic system as a whole: non-specialised, subordinate executive bodies	26
The formal structure of approval and confirmation of investment projects	26
Weakness of cost constraints – the details	32
Factor C1: tendency to overbid for investment resources	35
Factor C2: tendency to organisational autarky	38
Factor C3: cost/benefit externalisation	46
Monitoring of the investment decision-taking of non-specialised executive bodies	48
3 Specialised, subordinate non-executive bodies - design organisations	51
Basic mode of operation	51
Planning and finance	53
Distortions induced by the planning and management régime	54
Delays in the delivery of technical documentation	59
Inaccuracy in estimates	63
The special problem of ‘schemes’ and feasibility studies	66
Monitoring of design work	69

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-14381-3 - The Process of Investment in the Soviet Union

David A. Dyker

Table of Contents

More information

vi

Contents

4 Specialised, subordinate executive bodies – the building industry	72
Basic mode of operation	73
Planning and finance	75
Distortions induced by the planning and management régime	83
Supply uncertainty	88
Other key aspects of the organisational milieu	91
Sociological factors	93
The temporal dimension	94
Monitoring of construction work	96
5 Official state doctrine	99
The ‘general laws’ of socialism	100
Pricing and the Law of Value	101
The imputation of rent	102
The coefficient of relative effectiveness	103
The ‘laws of industrial structure’	109
Locational principles	114
6 Some case studies	119
Case study 1: the Bratsk hydro-electric station	119
Case study 2: pit development in the Karaganda Basin	133
Case study 3: the Nurek hydro-electric station	140
Case study 4: the engineering industry in Tadzhikistan	150
Case study 5: West Siberian oil and gas	157
7 Investment planning and investment strategy	175
The case studies: a general summing up	175
Priority and the design and construction sectors	181
Efficiency and effectiveness in Soviet investment	184
Prospects for the future	196
Appendix: The import of equipment from hard-currency countries	201
Glossary	208
Notes	212
Select bibliography	244
Name index	247
Subject index	249