The close association between the United States and the Federal Republic of Germany was a key element in the international order of the Cold War era. No country had as wide-reaching or as profound an impact on the western portion of divided Germany as the United States. No country better exemplified the East–West conflict in American thinking than Germany. The United States and Germany in the Era of the Cold War examines all facets of German-American relations and interactions in the decades from the defeat of the Third Reich to Germany’s reunification in 1990. In addition to its comprehensive treatment of U.S.–West German political, economic, social, and cultural ties, The United States and Germany in the Era of the Cold War provides an overview of the more limited dealings between the United States and the communist German Democratic Republic.

Detlef Junker, Curt-Engelhorn Chair in American History at the University of Heidelberg, received his PhD from the University of Kiel. He has also been affiliated with Yale University, the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, and University of Stuttgart. From 1994 to 1999, he was director of the German Historical Institute in Washington, D.C. In 2003, he became the founding director of the interdisciplinary Heidelberg Center for American Studies.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE GERMAN HISTORICAL INSTITUTE

Edited by Christof Mauch
with the assistance of David Lazar

The German Historical Institute is a center for advanced study and research whose purpose is to provide a permanent basis for scholarly cooperation among historians from the Federal Republic of Germany and the United States. The Institute conducts, promotes, and supports research into both American and German political, social, economic, and cultural history; into transatlantic migration, especially in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries; and into the history of international relations, with special emphasis on the roles played by the United States and Germany.

Recent books in the series:

Gerd Althoff, Johannes Fried, and Patrick J. Geary, editors, Medieval Concepts of the Past: Ritual, Memory, Historiography
Manfred Berg and Martin H. Geyer, editors, Two Cultures of Rights: The Quest for Inclusion and Participation in Modern America and Germany
Elizabeth Glaser and Hermann Wellenreuther, editors, Bridging the Atlantic: The Question of American Exceptionalism in Perspective
Jürgen Heideking and James A. Henretta, editors, Republicanism and Liberalism in America and the German States, 1750–1850
Hubert Zimmermann, Money and Security: Troops, Monetary Policy, and West Germany’s Relations with the United States and Britain, 1950–1971
Roger Chickering and Stig Förster, editors, The Shadows of Total War: Europe, East Asia, and the United States, 1919–1939
Richard J. Bessel and Dirk Schumann, editors, Life After Death: Approaches to a Cultural and Social History of Europe During the 1940s and 1950s
Marc Flandreau, Carl-Ludwig Holtfrerich, and Harold James, editors, International Financial History in the Twentieth Century: System and Anarchy
