

Contents

Preface	Page vii
The transcription system	ix
1 Video analysis: interactional coordination in movement and speech	1
Introduction: medical interaction and video analysis	1
A methodological note: sequential relations in movement and speech	8
The local geography of action	18
2 The display of reciprocity and the beginning of the consultation	25
Gaze and the elicitation of talk	27
Withholding an utterance and recipient action	35
Recipient selection and collaborative lookings	40
Discussion and remarks on the beginning of the consultation	45
3 Maintaining involvement in the consultation	49
Establishing a recipient through body movement	51
Coordinating an utterance with the visual behaviour of both speaker and recipient	56
Differentiating recipient participation and selecting next speaker	62
Sustaining multiparty participation	64
Discussion: the interactional design of body movement	69
4 Forms of participation	76
Revealing an object in the course of speaking	77
Establishing a visual framework at utterance beginning	82

vi    Contents

Withholding talk for a noticing	85
Rendering a gesture visible	87
Discussion: accomplishing the sense and impact of objects and activities	93
5 The physical examination	99
Setting the scene	101
Undergoing examination: attending to disattention	107
Finding the complaint and fixing the action	119
Discussion and a note on embarrassment	123
6 Taking leave of the doctor	128
Breaking co-presence and the end of the consultation	132
Declining to take the doctor's leave	140
Reopening the consultation	143
Modifying and adding an utterance to secure a close	146
Discussion: the disintegration of mutual involvement	148
7 Postscript: the use of medical records and computers during the consultation	153
Reading and writing the records whilst the patient speaks	154
Operating computers during the medical interview	165
Talking with computer noise	167
Notes	174
References	189
Index	197