Contents

List of contributors viii
Series editors’ preface ix
Acknowledgments x

Introduction 1
John Flowerdew

I BACKGROUND 5
Editor’s introduction to Part I 5

Chapter 1 Research of relevance to second language lecture comprehension – an overview 7
John Flowerdew

II THE SECOND LANGUAGE ACADEMIC LISTENING PROCESS 31
Editor’s introduction to Part II 31

Chapter 2 Expectation-driven understanding in information systems lecture comprehension 35
Steve Tauroza and Desmond Allison

Chapter 3 The effects of rhetorical signaling cues on the recall of English lecture information by speakers of English as a native or second language 55
Patricia A. Dunkel and James N. Davis

Chapter 4 Second language listening comprehension and lecture note-taking 75
Craig Chaudron, Lester Loschky and Janice Cook
Contents

Chapter 5  On-line summaries as representations of lecture understanding  93
           Michael Rost

III DISCOURSE OF ACADEMIC LECTURES  129

Editor’s introduction to Part III  129

Chapter 6  Topic identification in lecture discourse  131
           Christa Hansen

Chapter 7  Variations in the discourse patterns favoured by different disciplines and their pedagogical implications  146
           Tony Dudley-Evans

Chapter 8  University lectures – macro-structure and micro-features  159
           Lynne Young

IV ETHNOGRAPHY OF SECOND LANGUAGE LECTURES  177

Editor’s introduction to Part IV  177

Chapter 9  Lecture listening in an ethnographic perspective  181
           Malcolm J. Benson

Chapter 10 By dint of: Student and lecturer perceptions of lecture comprehension strategies in first-term graduate study  199
            Abelle Mason

Chapter 11 Visual and verbal messages in the engineering lecture: notetaking by postgraduate L2 students  219
            Philip King
Table of Contents

V PEDAGOGIC APPLICATIONS 239

Editor's introduction to Part V 239

Chapter 12 Evaluating lecture comprehension 241
Christa Hansen and Christine Jensen

Chapter 13 Training lecturers for international audiences 269
Tony Lynch

Conclusion 290
John Flowerdew

Index 298