Absalom and Achitophel, 40, 48 anonymity of, 166–167
and Augustan culture, 79–80 biblical allusions in, 98–100 commemoration of Osory, 80 and English academy, 190–191 influence of Paradise Lost, 170–171
and post-Fire London, 115
and religious conflict, 243–244 religious subtext and anonymity, 168–171
and shaping of literary life, 8
use of triplets, 93–100 academy, see English academy; French academy; sociability Addison, Joseph, 68
adultery, 23–25, 27–28
Aeneid, 41, 80–82, 235–236
Allison and Albinus, 147–149
Alexander’s Feast, 54
All For Love; or, The World Well Lost, 29–30 and elegy, 54–55
and influence of politics on theatre, 145–146 self-recognition as theme, 50
Allusion to Horace, 45
Amboyna or The Cruelties of the Dutch to the English Merchants, 140–141, 142 Amphitryon; or the Two Socias, 27–28
adultery, 47–48
and influence of politics on theatre, 150
analogy, 44, 45
ancients, see classicism Anglicanism, 240–241
in Annus Mirabilis, 241 comparison to Catholicism of The Hind and the Panther, 176 in Religio Laici, 9–10, 173–174, 176, 247–249 see also Church of England Anglo-Dutch Wars, 140–141 see also Annus Mirabilis. The Year of Wonders, 1666 Annus Mirabilis. The Year of Wonders, 1666, 42–43, 62–63 and allegiance to Charles II, 225–229 and Anglican doctrine, 241
and Augustan culture, 78–79
criticism of Dutch trade monopoly, 64–65
dedications, 205–207
elegy on old London, 116 heroic bestiary, 227–228 ideology, 63–68
and imperial imagination, 63–73
and post-Fire London, 114–115
and shaping of literary life, 6
anonymity, 156–178
Absalom and Achitophel, 166–167, accusations of plagiarism, 164–165 attribution to Thomas Shadwell, 160–161 commendatory poems of Nahum Tate, 167 and impersonality, 166–167
The Dunciad, 172–173
An Essay upon Satire, 156–157 execution of Stephen College, 157–158 versus identification in Religio Laici, 173–174, 176
and impersonality, 166–167, 168–171
MacFlecknoe, 163–165
The Medal, 158–159, 168 motives for, 157–158, 166–167, 178 and political propaganda, 166 and Roman Catholicism, 176–178 and satire, 159–160
INDEX

The Second Part of Absalom and Achitophel, 172–173 use of by Earl of Rochester, 161–162 and wit, 174–176
anti-scripturism, 247–249
Antony and Cleopatra, 144–145
see also All For Love; or, The World Well Lost architecture in poetry, 260–263
Art of Poetry, The, 189–190
Astraea Redux, 62–63
and allegiance to Charles II, 224
and Augustan culture, 78–79
attributions, see anonymity Augustan culture, 75–90 duration of, 89–90
Edmund Waller, 77–78
Horace, 76–77, 81–82
Ovid, 76–77, 82–85
as resource for interpreting Restoration England, 73–76
and Restoration cultural events, 78–82
Absalom and Achitophel, 79–80
Annus Mirabilis, 78–79
Astraea Redux, 78–79
MacFlecknoe, 79
translation of classical literature, 76–77
Virgil
Aeneid, 80–81
Sylvae, 81–82
translation of, 76–77
The Works of Virgil, 85–89
Aureng-Zeb, 18–19
authorship, see anonymity Battle of Lowestoft, 15–16 see also Essay of Dramatic Poesy, An beast metaphors, 233–235 bellicosity of heroic plays, 230–231 bestiary, heroic
Annus Mirabilis, 227–228
The Hind and the Panther, 235–235
Bible
allusions to in Absalom and Achitophel, 98–100, 168–171 attacks against, 147
Blackmore, Richard, 259 attacks against Restoration theatre and wit, 265 and instructive tradition of fables, 271 vice versus virtue in theatre, 168–271
see also Fables Ancient and Modern Boccaccio, see Fables Ancient and Modern Boileau, Nicolas, 38–39, 189–190
Boyle, Roger (Earl of Orrery), 104–105
Braganza, Catherine of (Queen of Great Britain), 138 Buckingham, Duke of, see Villiers, George (Duke of Buckingham) Butler, Thomas (Earl of Ossory), 80 capitalism, 62–63
career, literary, see literary life Cartwright, William, 20
Catherine of Braganza (Queen of Great Britain), 138 Catholicism, see Roman Catholicism Cavaliers, 39
censorship
and theatre, 149–150, 151
see also politics
changes, as theatrical device, 16–17, 18–35
All For Love, 29–30
Aureng-Zeb, 18–19
and choice, 32
Don Sebastian, 30–34
Love Triumphant, 34
Secular Masque, 34–35
self-recognition, 30
character and satire, 40–41
Charles I (King of Great Britain)
martyrdom, 72–73
see also Church of England; politics
Charles II (King of Great Britain), 144–145
allegiance to, 224–229
Catholicism of, 249–250
portrayed in All For Love, 145–146 see also patronage; politics: Restoration Chaucer, see Fables Ancient and Modern Chetwood, Knightly, 191–192
Cheyne, George, 42
Christianity attacks against Bible, 247 challenges to, 246–247
see also religion
Church of England, 259
criticism of in The Hind and the Panther, 250–255 and Restoration, 240–241 see also Anglicanism; religion circularity, 265–264
City
contempt for, 110–112
control of national economy, 122–123
INDEX

City (cont.)
relationship to Town, 110–113
see also London
civility
importance of in Town, 118–120 and sociability in Restoration London, 181–185
class, social, 45
classicism, 55–56, 280–283
Clifford, Hugh, Lord, 214–215 coffee houses and friendship, 192–193, 194
see also sociability
College, Stephen, 117–118
Collier, Jeremy, 259 attacks against Restoration theatre, 264–266, 267–268
time versus virtue in theatre, 268–271
see also Fables Ancient and Modern comedies
Amphitryon; or the Two Socias, 27–28
The Conquest of Granada, 21–22 and doubling as a theatrical device, 23 Marriage A-la-Mode, 23–27
vice versus virtue, 268–271
see also wit
commerce
benevolent ideology of Alexander Pope’s Windsor Forest, 66
Annum Mirabilis, 63–67
George Lallo’s The London Merchant, 61
criticism of Dutch trade monopoly, 64–65 ideology of world peace, 67–68 compressions, as theatrical device, 18–22
The Conquest of Granada, 18–22
An Essay of Dramatic Poesy, 18 conflict, religious, see religion Congreve, William, 193, 262
Conquest of Granada, The, 18–22 and ambiguity of royalism, 139–140 comedy in, 21–22
isolation in, 20–21
and political allegiance, 219–232 conspiracies, see politics Cooper, Anthony Ashley (Earl of Shaftesbury), see Absalom and Achitophel; Medal, The; State of Innocence, The country, relationship to London, 127–129 couplets, development into triplets, 92 Court Wits, see Cavaliers Cowley, Abraham, 185–188
Cromwell, Oliver, 142
Heroïque Stanzas, 223–224 political allegiance to, 212–214
and religious conflict, 240
see also politics
culture, Augustan, see Augustan culture culture, literary translation of Virgil, 213–214
see also sociability
Davenant, William, 40, 116–127, 250–231, 514
definition of heroic poetry by, 212–213
The Tempest, 22–23
dedications, 200–207
in Annum Mirabilis, 205–207
City of London, 207–208
Sir Robert Howard, 206–207 on behalf of Henry Purcell, 201–203 and critical debate, 204–205 to Earl of Dorset, 208–210 in form of panegyrics, 201 in form of private letters, 201–202 to Lord Radcliffe, 215–216 deism, 247–249
delight, as concept in Fables, 169–271 Dennis, John, 186
diagramss, 276–277
Dillon, Wentworth (Earl of Roscommon), 191–193
disappearances, 184
“Discourse concerning the Original and Progress of Satire, A,” 37–38, 208–210
divine providence, 241 divinity and anonymity, 168 domesticity in Fables, 273–274
Don Sebastian, 30–34
Dorset, Earl of, see Sackville, Charles (Earl of Dorset) doublings, as theatrical device, 22–28
adultery, 23–25, 27–28
Amphitryon; or the Two Socias, 27–28
in comedies, 23
identity, 25–27
Marriage A-la-Mode, 25–27
The Tempest, 22–23
dramas
literary rivalry between English and French, 60–65 and politics, 133–134
see also theatrical imagination Du Bartas, 189–190
Index

Duke of Guise, The, 146–149
Dunciad, The, 172–175
Dutch Wars, see Anglo-Dutch Wars;
Charles II (King of Great Britain);
Marvell, Andrew; York, Duke of (James) economics, see commerce; London elegy
Alexander’s Feast, 54
All For Love, 54–55
and satire, 54–55
Eleonora, 200
empire, and influence of politics on theatre, 136–137
England
ideology of trade supremacy and world
peace, 67–68
rivalry with France and Netherlands, 59–61
see also Augustan culture; religion; Restoration
English academy
History of the Royal Society, 186–187
and sociability in Restoration London, 185–188
see also Exclusion Crisis English satire, 38–39
see also satire
epics
Absalom and Achitophel, 40
see also Conquest of Granada, The;
MacFlecknoe; Paradise Lost; Virgil epic similes, 41–43
Annum Mirabili, 41–43
and politics, 42–43
Epilogue Spoken at the Opening of the New House, 106–107
epistles, see names of specific epistles “Epistles,” 52–53
Essay of Dramatic Poesy, An, 15–16 and compression, 18
and imperial imagination, 59–61 influence of politics on theatre, 133 and rivalry for imperial power, 59–61
and shaping of literary life, 1–6
and sociability in Restoration London, 183–185
influence of French academy, 188–190 institution of English academy, 187–189
effects, see names of specific essays Essay upon Satire, An, 156–157
Evelyn, John, 185–188, 247
Exclusion Crisis
English academy during, 188–193
Absalom and Achitophel, 190–191
The Art of Poetry, 189–190
Earl of Dorset, 193
Earl of Mulgrave, 191–193
Viscount of Halifax, 191–192
and satire, 232–233
see also sociability Fables Ancient and Modern, 259–277 defense of in Preface, 274–275 defense of music in theatre, 267–268 delight, sex, and passion in, 269–271 domesticity in, 271–276 importance of imaginative chase, 259–260, 263–264
improvisation of selections within, 260 and instructive tradition, 271–272 literary kinship in, 273–276 and moral revolution, 264–265 presentation of poetry as architecture, 160–262, 263
and shaping of literary life, 11–13
use of digressions in, 276–277
vice versus virtue, 164–265
virtue within, 272–273
see also Blackmore, Sir Richard; Collier, Jeremy; theatre
Fire of London, 114–116
Absalom and Achitophel, 115
Annum Mirabili, 114–115
MacFlecknoe, 115
“Tо the memory of Mr. Oldamb, “, 115 foreign affairs, and influence of politics on theatre, 136–137, 140–141 France, rivalry with England and Netherlands, 59–61
French academy, 185–190
Du Bartas, 189–190
Nicolas Boileau, 189–190
friendship and sociability in Restoration London, 192–194
gifts, New Year’s, 199–200
Halifax, Viscount of, see Savile, George (Viscount of Halifax)
heroic nostalgia and conquest of Mexico, 71–73
The Indian Emperor, 72–73

293
INDEX

heroic plays
belllicosity of, 230–231
“Of Heroique Playes,” 230–231
see also Conquest of Granada, The;
literary life, Rehearsal, The heroic poems and allegiance to Oliver Cromwell, 222–224 as defined by William Davenant, 222–223 see also Annus Mirabilis. The Year of Wonders, 1666
“Heroique Playes, Of,” 230–231
Heroique Stanzas, 223–224
Hind and the Panther, The, 48
and allegiance to James II, 233–235 Catholicism
and anonymity, 176–178
conversion to, 250–253
and shaping of literary life, 10–11
HISTORIOGRAFER ROYAL, 207, 210
History of the Royal Society, 186–187
Homer, see Fables Ancient and Modern Horace, 38, 55–56
Sylvae, 81–82
translation of and Augustan culture, 10–11
Howard, Robert, 206–207 humor
and social class, 45
versus wit in satire, 44–48 hunt of sex, 273
Hutchinson, Lucy, 247
identity, 25–27
imagination:
aptness of triplets, 93–95
see also imperial imagination; theatrical imagination
imaginative chase, see Fables Ancient and Modern
imaginative house, see Fables Ancient and Modern
imitations
as characteristic of Varronian satire, 49 Paradise Lost, 49–50
imperial doctrine, 136–137 imperial imagination, 59–74
Annus Mirabilis, 63–73
criticism of Dutch trade monopoly, 64–65
ideology of trade supremacy and world
peace, 67–68
and demise, 73–74
An Essay of Dramatic Poesy, 59–61
heroic nostalgia and conquest of Mexico, 71–73
ideology of benevolent commerce, 63–67
Alexander Pope’s Windsor Forest, 66
George Lallo’s The London Merchant, 65 literary rivalry between English and French, 60–61
nationalist poetry, 62–63
panegyric, 62–63
paradox of, 73–74
and rivalry for power, 59–61
impersonality and Anglicanism in Religio Laici, 176
and anonymity, 166–168, 168–171
in Religio Laici, 173–174
improvisation in Fables, 260 incest, 32–34
Independents, 240
Indian Emperor, The, 72–73, 137
Indian Queen, The, 136 instructive tradition defense of by Sir Richard Blackmore, 78–79
in Fables, 271–272
international politics, see politics “Iphis and Ianthe,” 83–84 irony, in satire, 51 isolation, in The Conquest of Granada, 20–21
James II (King of Great Britain), 233–235 allegiance to, 233–235
as seen in translation of Aeneid, 233–235
Catholicism of, 249–250
see also York, Duke of (James) Johnson, Samuel, 15, 17, 18, 22, 89, 102–104, 199
Jonson, Ben, 261
Juvenal, 38, 55–56
translation of satires, 124–127
see also Juvenalian satire Juvenalian satire, 31–36
Alexander’s Feast, 54
All For Love, 54–55
and elegy, 54–55
“Epistles,” 52–53
The Medall, 51–52
Religio Laici, 53–54

Cambridge University Press
0521531446 - The Cambridge Companion to John Dryden - Edited by Steven N. Zwicker
Index
More information

© Cambridge University Press
www.cambridge.org
INDEX

lampoons, see anonymity; satire laureateship, 207
influence of on Tyrannick Love, 137–139 influence on writings, 131–132
see also royalism
letters, dedications written in form of private communication, 203–206
Leviathan, 46–47
Life of Dryden, 15, 17
Lillo, George, 65
literary criticism
An Essay of Dramatic Poesie, 59–61
rivalry of English and French drama, 60–61
and shaping of literary life, 6–7 literary culture, see sociability literary life, 1–14
Annus Mirabilis, 6
An Essay of Dramatic Poesie, 5–6
Fables, 11–13
heroic drama, 6–7
literary criticism, 6–7
major influences on, 4, 5 privacy and publicity, 9–10
religion, 9–11
The Hind and the Panther, 10–11
Religio Laici, 9–10
satire, 7–8
Absalom and Achitophel, 8
MacFlecknoe, 7–8
and theatre, 6–7
literary patronage, see patronage
London, 113–119
comparison to Rome, 123–127
contempt for, 112–122
control of national economy, 122–123 dedication of Annus Mirabilis, 205–206 fire of, 114–116
old City, 113–115
post-fire, 115–120
Absalom and Achitophel, 115
Annus Mirabilis, 114–115, 116
MacFlecknoe, 115
“To the memory of Mr. Oldham,” 115 relationship of City to Town, 120–123 relationship to country, 127–129 and Town
and civility, 118–120
development of, 116–120
see also sociability
London Merchant, The, 65
Love Triumphant, 14
loyalism, see royalism
Lucretius, 246–247
MacFlecknoe, 45–46, 47–48
and anonymity, 163–165
and post-Fire London, 115
and Restoration cultural events, 79 satire against Shadwell, 164–165
and shaping of literary life, 7–8
manuscript circulation of MacFlecknoe, 163–165 and print publication, 193–194
Marriage A-la-Mode, 23–27
adultery in, 23–25
dedication to Earl of Rochester, 45 identity in, 25–27
martyrdom, 72–73
Marvell, Andrew allegiance to Oliver Cromwell, 223–224 views on the Dutch Wars, 225–227 materialism, 246–247
Medal, The, 53–52, 158–159, 168 mercantile expansion, 62–63 Metamorphoses, 82–84, 85
metamorphoses, and attacks against Restoration theatre, 264–265
Mexico, 71–73
Milton, John, 49–50
see also Paradise Lost; State of Innocence, The
miscellany, see Fables Ancient and Modern modernity vs. classicism, 180–183 criticism of by Jonathan Swift, 181–182 monopolies, 64–65
Montaigne, 31
Montezuma, 71–73
moral revolution, 264–265
Motteux, Peter, 193
Moyle, Walter, 193 Mulgrave, Earl of, see Sheffield, John (Earl of Mulgrave)
multiplicity, see doublings music in theatre, 267–268 mutability, see changes, as theatrical device
nationalist poetry, 62–63
Neptune simile, 41
Netherlands
 Anglo-Dutch conflicts’ influence on theatre, 140–144
criticism of trade monopoly, 64–65 rivalry with England and France, 59–61
INDEX

New Testament, 98–100 Nonconformists, 240
nostalgia, heroic; see heroic nostalgia

Oldham, John, 39
Old Testament, 98–100
opposite probabilities, 15–17
Battle of Lowestoft, 15–16
and political experience, 16 oral culture, see sociability Orrery, Earl of, see Boyle, Roger Ossory, Earl of, see Butler, Thomas (Earl of Ossory)
Ovid
Metamorphoses, 82–83
“Philis and Ianthe,” 81–84
use of digressions in, 276–277
see also Fables Ancient and Modern Owen, Susan J., 147

Panegyric on his Coronation, 223 Panegyric to my Lord Protector, A, 77–78 panegyrics, 40–42
dedication of Annus Mirabilis to London, 205–206
as dedications, 202
Eleonora, 200
nationalist poetry, 62–63
Paradise Lost, 94
and imitation as basis of satire, 49–50 influence of Absalom and Achitophel, 170–171
see also State of Innocence, The paradoxes of imperial imagination, 73–74 of nationalist poetry, 63 parodies
as characteristic of Varroonian satire, 49 Paradise Lost, 49–50
passion in Fables, 269–271 patronage, 131–132, 199–217
allusion to Roman roots of, 214–215 and collaborative translations aid of Jacob Tonson, 210–211
as major cultural event, 213–214
and political divides, 214–215
of Virgil, 211–213
complexity of, 199–201
Earl of Rochester, 207–208
modern views of, 199
panegyric, 100
and protection, 203–204
Sir Charles Sedley, 207–208
and subscription publication, 211–212 symbolism of New Year’s gifts, 199–200 see also dedications; royalism pax britannica, 67–68
Pepys, Samuel, 181–182, 184 personalities, see character; Restoration piety, see religion plagiarism, accusations of in MacFlecknoe, 164–165 in The Rehearsal, 165 plays, see heroic plays; names of specific plays; theatrical imagination plots, see politics Poet Laureate, 207
influence on writings, 131–132, 137–139
see also royalism
poetry
as architecture, 260–263 imperialist, 63–74
nationalist, 62–63
piety and religion, 255–255, 256 of praise, 40, 42
see also heroic poems; and individual poems political allegiance, 212–213 heroes, 227–232
and heroic poems, 222–224 to James, Duke of York, 229–232
and satire, 233–235
see also Charles II (King of Great Britain); Cromwell, Oliver; heroic plays; heroic poems; James II (King of Great Britain) politics
and choice of patron, 205–206 and collaborative translation of Virgil, 214–215
and conversion to Catholicism, 249–250 in epic similes, 42–43 and opposite probabilities, 16 propaganda and anonymity, 166 see also imperial imagination; religion; theatre, and politics
Pope, Alexander
The Dunciad, 172–173
use of triplets, 102–104
Windsor Forest, 66, 68
poetry, see Roman Catholicism portraits, see character Portsmouth, Duchess of as portrayed in All For Love, 145–146 praise, poems of, 40
Presbyterians, 140

94
253
74
232
205
256
250
INDEX

pride, personal, see religion print publication and manuscript circulation, 193–194 privacy and publicity, 9–10
probabilities, opposite, 15–17 propaganda, see politics protection and patronage, 203–204 Protectorate, see Cromwell, Oliver Protestantism, see Church of England;
religion
providence, 241
publication
manuscript circulation and print, 193–194 and patronage, 210–211
subscription publication, 211–212 publicity and privacy, 9–10
Puritans, 239, 240
Presbyterian wing, 211
Presbyterians, 240
Independents, 139–140
Religio Laici, 244
and personal pride, 245–253 challenges facing Christianity, 246–247
The Hind and the Panther, 45–46 importance of reason, 245–249
materialism, 246–247
piety and poetry, 253–255, 256 see also literary life; politics; Roman Catholicism reputation, and acceptance of religious writings, 253–255 Restoration
Augustan culture as resource for interpreting, 73–76
Catholicism during, 241–242
Church of England, 240–241 effect on personality and art ambivalence, 283–284
classicism versus modernity, 280–283 criticism of modernity by Jonathan Swift, 281–282
disappearances, 284
political events and Augustan culture, 78–82
Absalom and Achitophel, 79–80
MacFlecknoe, 79
as portrayed in adaptation of The Tempest, 135–136 rise of English satire, 38–39 royalism and theatre, 131–132 war between theatres, 219–221 see also Charles II (King of Great Britain); politics; religion; sociability;
theatre
Rochester (John Wilmot), Earl of, 45
Allusion to Horace, 45
and anonymity, 161–162
request to for patronage, 207–208
Roman Catholicism and anonymity in The Hind and the Panther, 176–178 of Charles II and James II, 249–250
conversion to, 244–245, 249–253
The Hind and the Panther, 250–253
Religio Laici, 247–249
in Restoration England, 241–242 Rome, comparison to London, 133–137
royalism
ambiguity of, 139–140
patronage, 207
Royal Slave, The, 20
as seen in Annus Mirabilis, 201–207
and theatre, 131–132, 137–146
Ambroyna, 140–141
Tyrannick Love, 137–139
see also patronage; politics
Sackville, Charles (Earl of Dorset), 193, 208–210
Saintsbury, George, 105–106
INDEX

satire, 37–41, 56
Absalom and Achitophel, 48
“A Discourse concerning . . . Satire,” 37–38 and allegiance to James II, 233–235
and anonymity, 159–160
Cavaliers, 39
and character, 40–41
classical, 55–56
Duke of Buckingham, 45
Earl of Rochester, 45
and the epic genre, 40
and epigram, 41–43
Annum Mirabilis, 42–43
Neptune, 41
politics, 42–43
“To My Honored Friend, Dr. Charleton,” 41
during Exclusion Crisis, 232–233
The Hind and the Panther, 233–235
Hobbes’s Leviathan, 46–47
Horace, 38
imitation or parody in Paradise Lost, 49–50 John Oldham’s Satyres upon the Jesuits, 39
Juvenalian, 51–56
Alexander’s Feast, 54
All For Love, 54–55
and elegy, 54–55
“Epistles,” 52–53
The Medal, 51–52
Religio Laici, 53–54
MacFlecknoe, 45–46, 47–48, 163–165
Nicolas Boileau, 58–59
and the panegyric, 40–42 and poems of praise, 40 of Puritans, 58–59
rise of English, 58–59
and social class, 45
Varronian, 48–49, 51
Hind and the Panther, The, 48
significance of imitation or parody, 49
Swift, 50–51
use of irony, 51
wit versus humor, 44–48
see also literary life
Satyres upon the Jesuits, 39
Savile, George (Viscount of Halifax), 191–192
Scott, Walter, 31
Second Part of Absalom and Achitophel, The, 172–173
Secular Masque, 34–35
Sedley, Charles
Antony and Cleopatra, 144–145
request to for patronage, 207–208
self-recognition, 30
Settle, Elkanah, 172–173 sex in Fables, 269–271, 273
and anonymity, 160–161
satire against in MacFlecknoe, 164–165 see also Medall, The Shakespear, Earl of, see Cooper, Anthony Ashley (Earl of Shaftesbury) Shakespeare, William, 22–23
Shaw, George Bernard, 98–99
Sheffield, John (Earl of Mulgrave)
and English academy, 191–193
An Essay upon Satire, 157
simile, epic, 47–49
sociability, 181–194
Abraham Cowley, 185–188
and civility, 183–185
coffee houses and literary culture, 181–182 balance between print and manuscript publication, 193–194 Walter Moyle, 193
William Congreve, 193 dominion on friendship, 192–194
and English academy, 185–188
Absalom and Achitophel, 190–191
Earl of Dorset, 193
Earl of Mulgrave, 191–193
Earl of Roscommon, 191–193
during Exclusion Crisis, 183–183
History of the Royal Society, 186–187
Viscount of Halifax, 191–192
An Essay of Dramatic Poesie, 183–185
French academy, 188–190
Du Bartas, 189–190
Nicolas Boileau, 189–190
mingling of oral and literate culture, 182–183 Thomas Sprat, 186–187
social class, 45
Spanish Fryar, The, or, The Double Discovery, 147 Sprat, Thomas
History of the Royal Society, 186–187
and sociability in Restoration London, 186–187
State of Innocence, The, 141–143
INDEX

Stuart monarchy
patronage, 207
see also royalism
subscription publication, 211–112
Swift, Jonathan, 90–91, 188–189
Sylvae, 81–82
Sylvester, Joshua, 189–190
Tate, Nahum, 167–168
Tempest or The Enchanted Island, The, 22–23, 135–136
theatre
attacks against due to moral revolution, 264–165 music, 267–168
wit, 265, 266
and comments on religious conflict, 241–243 defense against critique of, 266–267
and politics, 131–131
Albion and Albanius, 147–149
All For Love, 145–146
ambiguity of royalism in The Conquest of Granada, 139–140 Amboyna, 140–141
Amphitryon, 150
Antony and Cleopatra, 144–145
conservatism, 149–151
in drama, 131–134
drama and public debate, 134
The Duke of Guise, 146–149
An Essay of Dramatic Poesy, 133
The Indian Emperor, 137
The Indian Queen, 136 influence of foreign affairs, 136–137 influence of royal patronage on writings, 131–133 plots, conspiracies, and propaganda, 146–149 rebellions and restorations, 135–137
royalism, 131–133, 137–146
The Spanish Fryar, 147
The State of Innocence, 141–143
The Tempest, 135–136
Tyrannick Love, 137–139
Vindication of the Duke of Guise, 146–149
and shaping of literary life, 6–7 virtue versus vice, 265–266, 268–271 during Anglo-Dutch trade wars, 229–232 theatrical imagination, 15–35 changes, 28–35
All For Love, 29–30
Aureng-Zebhe, 28–29
and choice, 31
Don Sebastian, 30–34
Love Triumphant, 34
Secular Masque, 34–35
compressions, 18–22
comedy, 21–22
Conquest of Granada, The, 18–22
An Essay of Dramatic Poesy, 18 isolation, 20–21
doubttings, 22–28
adultery, 23–24, 27–28
Amphitryon; or the Two Socias, 27–28
comedy, 23
identity, 25–27
Marriage A-la-Mode, 23–27
The Tempest, 22–23
An Essay of Dramatic Poesy, 15–16
opposite probabilities, 15–17
Battle of Lowestoft, 15–16
and political experience, 16
timidity and anonymity, 17–17
“To My Dear Friend Mr Congreve,” 261
“To My Friend, the Author [Mr. Motteux],” 266
“To My Honored Friend, Dr. Charleton,” 41
Tonson, Jacob, 210–211
“To the memory of Mr. Oldham,” 115
Town
and civility, 118–120
and control of national economy by City, 122–123 development of, 116–120 relationship to City, 120–123
see also London
trade, see commerce
tragicomedies
Astraea Redux, 224
The Spanish Fryar, 147
see also Marriage A-la-Mode, Tempest, or The Enchanted Island, The translation of Augustan literature, 76–77 collaborative
aid of Jacob Tonson, 210–211
and subscription publication, 211–212
of Virgil, 211–215
satires of Juvenal, 124–127
of Virgil
as major cultural event, 213–214
and political divides, 214–215 triplets, 92–107
critique of by Samuel Johnson, 102–104 development from couplings, 92

299

© Cambridge University Press  www.cambridge.org triplets (cont.)
Epilogue Spoken at the Opening of the New House, 106–107 imaginative aptness of, 93–95 use of by Alexander Pope, 102–105 use of in Absalom and Achitophel, 93–100 typology, 42, 43
Tyrannick Love, or The Royal Martyr, 137–139
Van Doren, Mark, 92–93, 106
Varro, 49
Varronian satires, 48–51
Hind and the Panther, The, 48
significance of imitation or parody, 49 and Swift’s satire, 50–51
use of irony, 44
vice versus virtue, 264–266, 268–271
Villiers, George (Duke of Buckingham), 22, 280–281
The Rehearsal, 18, 45 and accusations of plagiarism, 165
and political allegiance, 219–232
see also Fables Ancient and Modern Vindication of the Duke of Guise, 146–149
Vinsauf, Geoffrey of, 261
Virgil
Aeneid, 80–82
collaborative translation of works of, 211–215
as major cultural event, 213–214
and political divides, 214–215
and subscription publication, 211–212
Neptune simile, 41
Sylvae, 81–82
translation of and Augustan culture, 76–77
The Works of Virgil, 85–89
virtue within Fables, 272–273
versus vice in theatre, 264–266, 268–271
Waller, Edmund, 77–78
West End of London settling of, 116–120
see also London
William III (King of Great Britain), 264–265
Will’s Coffee House, see coffee houses
Windsor Forest, 66
wit
Blackmore’s attacks on theatre and, 265 Collier’s attacks on theatre and, 265–266 versus humor in satire, 44–48 identification with and request for patronage, 207–208
and social class, 45
and use of anonymity, 174–176 Works of Virgil, The, 85–89 world peace, and ideology of British trade supremacy, 67–68 York, Duke of (James), allegiance to, 219–232 see also James II (King of Great Britain)