Contents

Preface                                          page vii
Acknowledgements                                xv
1 From Street to Salon: First Blood            1
2 The Matter with Søren                         30
3 A Faustian Phase                              58
4 The Wild Geese Fly                            88
5 The Dead and the Living: Debut                101
6 Serious about Irony: The Dissertation         127
7 The Breach and Berlin: Either/Or              154
8 Faith and Tragic Heroism                      180
9 More to Being                                 207
10 Notabene’s Meditation                        244
11 Completing the Stages                       258
12 Concluding Business                         277
13 Reviewing the Age                            317
14 Refashioning the Exterior                    342
15 Works of Love                                357
16 Defining the Deed                            369
17 Mischievous Martyr                           387
18 ‘Poor Kierkegaard’?                          420

Notes                                           443
Index                                           490