

INDEX

- Acción Democrática (AD), Venezuela, 162–5
- accountability: electoral, 33–34; executive, 34; in delegative democracy, 399; in presidentialism, 33–4, 37; Colombia, 138–9; Latin America, 420; Venezuela, 194
- Acuerdo Patriótico, Bolivia, 379–82, 389, 392
- AD. See Acción Democrática (AD), Venezuela
- agricultural sector, Chile, 312–13
- Aguirre, Pedro: Chile (1938–42), 307
- Alessandri, Jorge: Chile (1958–64), 308, 312, 403
- Alessandri Palma, Arturo: Chile (1920–5), 305–6
- Alfonsín, Raúl: Argentina (1983–9), 2, 9, 12, 259–60, 264, 287, 289–90
- Allende, Salvador: Chile (1970–3), 315, 317–19
- authoritarian government (see also dictatorships; military sector): Argentina, 259–60; Chile: of Arturo Alessandri Palma, 305–6; closing of Congress under, 321–2, 324; 1980 constitution drafted and approved under, 322, 324; constitution of (1980), 322; electoral reforms, 344–8; of Ibañez, 305–6; party system under, 338–44; Costa Rica, 5; Mexico, 8
- Avila Camacho, Manuel: Mexico (1940–6), 237, 240
- Aylwin, Patricio: Chile (1990–4), 324, 326–7, 334–5, 337–8, 351–6
- banking system, Costa Rica, 218–20
- Barco Vargas, Virgilio: Colombia (1986–90), 115, 126, 129, 147
- Barrientos, René: Bolivia (1964–9), 369
- Betancur, Belisario: Colombia (1982–6), 114–15, 129, 187–8
- bureaucracy: Bolivia, 368, 376; Chile, 317; Venezuela, 177, 192
- cabinet: in parliamentary government, 39; stability and instability, 37–8; under parliamentary form of government, 16, 20–1; under presidential form of government, 14; under semipresidentialism, 15–16; unstable, 37–9; Bolivia: effect of presidential patronage in, 386–7; under Pacto por la Democracia, 375–6; of Siles Zuazo, 371; Brazil: formation by president, 75; instability of, 80; multiparty (1946–95), 74–80; Brazil: formation, 75; Colombia: presidential powers over, 118–19; Costa Rica: president's selection of, 202; Mexico: selection and formation, 240–1; Venezuela: with minority or majority party in power, 182–93

- Caldera, Rafael: Venezuela (1969–74; 1994–9), 191–2, 195–8, 231–2, 235
- Calderón Guardia, Angel: Costa Rica, 200, 220
- Calles, Plutarco: Mexico (1924–8), 231–2, 235
- Cárdenas, Lázaro: Mexico (1934–40), 234–7
- Cárdenas, Víctor Hugo: Bolivia, 384
- Cardoso, Fernando Henrique: Brazil (1995–8), 103
- caudillo (political boss): Argentina, 275; Mexico: Calles as, 250; Obregón as, 249–50; political power (1917–34), 249
- CDP, Chile. See Christian Democratic Party (CDP)
- centralization (see also decentralization; federalism): Colombia: of formal government power, 118–31; Mexico: of party leadership, 246–50, 255–6; of party system, 227; of power in presidency, 226–7, 234, 242, 246; Venezuela: in proposed political reform, 194–7
- checks and balances: conditions for override of, 396, 420; in presidentialism, 40; Venezuela, 194
- Christian Democratic Party (CDP), Chile, 302, 311, 351–2
- clientelism (see also incentives; patronage): Bolivia, 378; Brazil: circumvention of, 86–7; 1985–94 period, 91–101; Colombia: in congressional elections, 131, 134–46; in electoral system, 133–5; in party system, 132; Latin America: factors promoting use of, 419
- coalition formation: differences in parliamentary and presidential systems, 74–5, 80; factors influencing, 396; with congressional independence, 37; Bolivia: Acuerdo Patriótico, 379–82; in assembly, 10; under Pacto por la Democracia, 374–9; of Sánchez de Lozada, 384–8; Brazil, 59, 69–80; with federalism, 84; incentives for, 84–6; with robust federalism, 84; Chile, 307–9, 345, 347–8; Colombia: legislative, 137–40; presidential problems of, 137–40; Costa Rica: by president, 218–21; Latin America: factors in, 399; Venezuela: in Congress, 183–4
- coalitions (see also coalition formation): as electoral alliances, 392–3; interparty electoral and governing, 396–405; Argentina: Frente del País Solidario (FREPASO), 269, 275; Bolivia: electoral, congressional, and ruling, 391–2; formation (1979–89), 370; formation of, 364, 367; Brazil: parties of electoral and governing, 403; Chile: under Aylwin, 351–2; Concertación alliance, 302, 345, 347, 351–6; electoral and governing, 10, 403; Colombia: incentives to defect from, 112; National Front (1958–74), 118; Latin America: interparty electoral and governing, 396–7
- collective action problem, Colombia: factors in overcoming, 132; of majority party, 111–12; within parties, 136–46
- Collor de Mello, Fernando: Brazil (1990–2), 18, 32, 45, 82, 94–6, 427
- Comité de Organización Política Electoral independiente (COPEI), Venezuela, 162–4
- Communist Party, Chile, 311
- Concertación alliance, Chile, 302, 345, 347, 351–6
- Confederation of Venezuelan Workers (CTV), 165, 196
- Congress (see also clientelism; incentives; legislators; patronage): role in selection of president, 16; Argentina: behavior with party discipline, 276–80; party discipline in, 276–80; president's bypass of, 285–90; use of delegated decree, 285–6; weakened role of, 262; Bolivia: under hybrid presidential system, 363–73; under Sánchez Lozada government, 389–91; selection of president by, 363–4, 366–8, 373, 379; Brazil: with absolute majority, 60–1; as check on presidential powers, 106–9; coalition politics of, 87–91; control over legislative process, 60–6; effect of actions (1985–94), 91–101; legislative power, 60–2; mechanisms to bypass, 86–7; powers and limits to powers, 48, 107–8; presidential bypass strategies, 86–7; role in economic policy (1985–94), 101–3; Chile: effect of marginalization of, 355; elected and appointed senators, 331, 359; erosion of powers, 314; limits to authority, 48; under military regime (1973–90), 322; performance of, 331–2; post-Pinochet role, 336–43, 350–6; powers under

INDEX

485

- 1980 constitution, 325–35; proposals to strengthen, 359–61; recommendations for reform, 357–61; reputation of (1823–1973), 321; Colombia: coalition formation in, 137–40; construction and members' incentives, 111–12; delegation of power to executive, 111; fiscal and planning powers, 124–5; limits on presidential powers by, 137–44, 158; limits to authority, 48; under new 1991 constitution, 152–8; patronage and clientelism interests, 117; power and circumvention of, 113–17; presidential circumvention of, 146–58; referendum to elect special assembly, 147–8; reform initiatives, 116–17; role in national policy initiatives, 132–6, 159; seat-allocation, 133–4, 152–6; Costa Rica: legislative ratification by, 202; presidential partisan support, 202–4; Mexico: Comisión Permanente, 238; conflict during maximato (1928–35), 232–4; conflicts with president (1857–1940), 228–34; duties of Chamber of Deputies, 238–9; historical role (1857–1940), 228–34; post-1933 weakening of, 248; powers to alter state-level government, 253–4; relations with president, 234–43, 249–52; role in legislative process, 235; seat allocation, 244–5; Peru: limits to authority, 48; Uruguay, 48; Venezuela: circumvention by president, 176; delegation of legislative power, 180; party discipline, 171–3, 175, 180; presidential circumvention of, 176; seat allocation, 169–71
- constitutional powers, president, 13–14, 41 (see also decree powers, president; legislative powers, president; partisan powers, president; veto powers, president): proactive and reactive, 430; relation to partisan powers, 429–30; Argentina, 298–9; Brazil, 55, 59–65, 107; Colombia: constraints, 110–11, 118–32; principal-agent theory, 111; Latin America, 48–52; Mexico, 227, 257; Venezuela, 179–82
- constitutional reform, see constitutions
- Constitutional Tribunal, Chile, 328–9
- constitutions: classification of Latin American, 48–52; Argentina: 1853 document and reform, 262, 290–8, 432, 441–2; 1994 document and reform, 5, 44–5, 290–8, 433, 442; Bolivia: 1967 document and amendments, 2, 366–7, 390, 442–3; Brazil: 1946 document and amendments, 58–62, 65, 69, 108–9, 443–4; 1967 document, 63–4, 92; 1988 document, 44, 55, 59–66, 69, 83, 92–3, 101, 103, 107–8, 444; Chile: 1925 document and amendments, 303, 307–8, 314–16, 444–5; 1980 document and amendments, 301–2, 322–4, 327–8, 353, 431–2, 445–6; Colombia: 1886 document and amendments, 110–11, 118, 121–2, 124–9, 146–52, 433, 447; 1991 document, 2, 6–7, 110, 115–16, 118–26, 129, 136, 146, 434, 443, 447–8; Costa Rica: 1949 document, 202, 434, 449; Dominican Republic (1966), 449–50; Ecuador (1979), 431–2, 450; El Salvador (1983), 451; Guatemala (1985), 451–2; Honduras (1982), 434, 452–3; Mexico: 1824 document, 236; 1857 document, 228, 236; 1917 document, 226–7, 231, 235–43, 248, 255, 453; Nicaragua (1987), 453–4; Panama (1972), 454–5; Paraguay (1992), 455–6; Peru: 1933 document, 17; 1979 document, 17, 456–7; 1993 document, 17, 434, 457–8; Uruguay (1966), 18, 458–9; Venezuela (1961), 6, 434, 459–60
- COPEI, see Comité de Organización Política Electoral independiente (COPEI), Venezuela
- COPRE, Venezuela, see Presidential Commission for the Reform of the State (COPRE), Venezuela
- coups d'état: circumstances for, 30–1; Bolivia, 364, 365, 367; Brazil (1945, 1955, 1964), 57, 88, 91; Chile (1973), 317, 321–2; Costa Rica (1948), 201; Mexico (1913, 1920), 229, 246, 249; Venezuela (1945), 162; failed, 38, 163
- decentralization: of party system, 417; Brazil: of catchall parties, 83–4; Colombia: administrative, 144–5; party elites, 133–4; Costa Rica: in party-list compilation, 211; Venezuela: Caldera's plan for, 195–7; as goal of reform, 193–4; of public administration, 175–7
- decree powers, president: administrative, 46; circumstances for presidencies with, 131; presidential, 41, 44–7, 49–52;

- decree powers, president (cont.)
 president with legislative decree powers, 399; Argentina: in 1994 constitution, 433; with constitutional reform, 297; laws passed using, 45, 47; of president, 285–8, 296; Bolivia, 368; Brazil, 45, 63–4, 92, 95, 107; Chile: with force of law in pre-Pinochet era, 9, 315–17; Pinochet era, 322–35; Colombia, 45, 121–4, 126–8, 131; Costa Rica, 202; Ecuador, 45–6; Mexico, 239–40; Peru, 45; Venezuela, 175–6, 180–2, 187–92; congressional delegation of legislative, 187–90; nonlegislative, 190; of president, 175, 180–1, 187–92
- delegated faculties: defined, 47; Argentina, 285–6; Chile, 315–17; Mexico, 253; Venezuela, 47, 187–90
- democracy (see also parliamentary democracies; presidential democracies):
 breakdown in some countries (1977–95), 27–8; characteristics of presidential, 14–15; comparison of characteristics in, 21–9; countries with parliamentary democracy, 18–19, 24–6; defined, 14; delegative, 399; in independent countries (1970–94), 21–9; premier-presidentialism, 15–16; relation to income levels, 21–3; with multiparty system, 6; with presidentialism, 14–16, 18–21; Argentina: with constitutional reform, 296–8; factors diminishing, 282–90; Bolivia: problems of, 388–9; transition to (1970s), 364–6, 370; Brazil: breakdown (1961–4), 89–91; 1946–64 period, 56–9; transition to (1985), 92; Chile: absence of (1973–90), 32; collapse of, 9, 317–18, 323; development (1932–73), 300, 306, 404; post-Pinochet transition to and function of, 324, 338; return to (1990), 9, 321; role of presidentialism in preservation of, 318–19; Colombia: local level, 145; with state of siege powers, 128; Ecuador, 398; Latin America: influence of political institutions on, 2; presidential democracy, 12–13; Mexico: apparent move toward, 8; Venezuela, 161–4; protection of, 173–4, 185, 187, 197
- d'Hondt formula for representation, 169, 263
- Díaz, Porfirio: Mexico (1876–80, 1884–1911), 229
- dictatorships (see also authoritarian government): Brazil, 56–7, 87–8; Venezuela, 162
- districts, electoral: effective magnitude, 406–10; factors in override of effective magnitude, 417–18; Argentina: magnitude, 264; party organization, 270–6; Bolivia: magnitude, 368–9; single-member, 364, 390; Chile: with electoral reform, 344–8; magnitude, 344–5; Colombia: under 1991 constitution, 152–6; nationwide (1990), 147–8; reapportionment, 140; Costa Rica: magnitudes, 203; nationwide, 211; Mexico: multi- and single-member, 245; Venezuela: single-member, 170–1
- Dutra, Enrico (1946–50), Brazil, 87
- economic performance: Bolivia, 393; Brazil: Collor regime, 95–6; inflation with (1985), 92, 94; recession (1990–1), 95; Venezuela: during democratic era, 163
- economic policy (see also inflation):
 Argentina: exchange rate Convertibility Law (1991), 260–1; Bolivia: Nueva Política Económica, 373–5, 377, 380, 385; Plan de Todos, 385–9; Brazil: exchange rate policy, 105; exchange rates and tariffs, 101–2, 105; factors influencing (1985–94), 91–101; Franco and Cardoso regimes (1994–5), 103–6; role of Congress in, 108–9; Chile: industrialization policy, 306–7; of stabilization (1950s and 1960s), 311–12; Colombia: states of economic emergency, 128–30
- economic reform: Argentina: Menem government, 260–1; Brazil, 63, 82, 92, 94–106; Costa Rica: Calderón and Picado regimes, 200
- elections (see also re-elections; voters): as criterion for democracy, 14; direct election for president, 16, 33–6; identifiability concept in presidential, 33–6; in presidential system, 16–17, 33; timing of, 406–10; Argentina: for legislators, 263–4; post-1994 congressional and presidential, 295; for president, 263; reform (1994 constitution), 290–2; Bolivia: of president, 363, 366–8; Brazil: chamber of deputies (1982–94), 66, 72–3*t*; democratic, 57; presidential, 59, 66, 69,

INDEX

487

- 70–1; Chile: under military regime (1973–90), 322; timing and sequencing, 348–51; Colombia: congressional and presidential, 141–6; under 1991 constitution, 152–8; Costa Rica: format and timing of, 203; legislature, 203–10; for president, 203–4; Mexico: for governor, 253; Venezuela: compensatory-member system, 194; congressional, 168–70; presidential, 168–70, 179, 195
- elections, primary, 211, 270, 420, 427–8
- electoral system (see also districts, electoral; elections; legitimacy; proportional representation; vote pooling; voters):
- electoral college to elect president, 16;
 - influence on number of parties, 395, 405–18; under presidential form of government, 14–17; Argentina: election of deputies and senators, 269–70; electoral college, 26, 34; 1983–94 period, 262–4; under reformed constitution, 295; Bolivia: campaign financing, 388–9; Electoral Law (1986), 377; reform, 369–70, 376–7, 389–90; single-vote system, 369; Brazil: effect of, 6; impact on party system, 68–9; post-1947 proportional representation, 68–9; Chile: under 1925 constitution, 303; district magnitudes, 344–5; increase in voter registration, 311–12; under military regime (1973–90), 322, 344–8; recommendations for reform, 357–62; reforms under military regime, 9–10, 322, 344–5; Colombia: under 1991 constitution, 119; incentives in, 132; intraparty competition with, 110–12, 132–6; proportional representation and seat allocation, 133–5; Costa Rica: effect of, 222; influences in laws of, 203; party lists and primaries, 210–13; Latin America: as determinants of party discipline, 421–9; impact on number of congressional parties, 406–10; Mexico: current, 245; electoral college, 247; reform, 246; Venezuela, 168–71, 173; reform movement, 193–7
- emergency powers, 46–7 (see also state of siege powers); Colombia: of president, 118, 125–6; as proactive legislative authority, 125–30; significance of presidential, 118; state of siege, 126–8; states of economic emergency, 128–30; Mexico: of president, 239–40; Venezuela: of president, 181–2
- executive branch (see also constitutional powers, president; presidentialism):
- Argentina: factors in increased power of, 283–5; Bolivia: immobilized, 367–8;
 - Chile: factors in power of, 323–35; relations with Congress, 351–6; sources of power, 332–4; Costa Rica: appointments of former legislators in, 206–10; Venezuela: informal powers of president, 174; relations with interest groups, 175–7
- factionalism: Brazil: in catchall parties, 83–4; Chile, 309; Colombia: factional lists, 133–6, 158; limits presidential power, 131; Mexico: in Congress (1917–29), 247; in party system, 249
- factional lists, Colombia, 133–6
- Falange Nacional (1938–57), Chile, 311 (see also Christian Democratic Party [CDP], Chile)
- federalism (see also decentralization; governors; provinces, Argentina):
- electoral systems favorable to, 417;
 - relation to presidentialism, 28;
 - Argentina, 9, 280, 282, 294; Brazil, 55–7, 59, 83–4, 91–101, 106–9; Mexico: party centralism overrides, 254; Venezuela, 194
- Fernández, Max: Bolivia, 383, 384–5, 387
- fiscal policy: Argentina, 260; Chile: president's control over, 328; Colombia: presidential powers, 124–5
- fixed terms, see term limits
- Franco, Itamar: Brazil (1992–4), 66, 97–9
- Frei Montalva, Eduardo: Chile (1964–70), 312–16, 403
- Frei Ruiz-Tagle, Eduardo: Chile (1994–2000), 339, 350
- Frente del País Solidario (FREPASO), Argentina, 269, 275, 292, 297
- Fujimori, Alberto: Peru, 32, 427
- Gaviria Trujillo, César: Colombia (1990–4), 115, 147
- Goulart, João: Brazil (1961–4), 57, 82, 90
- government: divided, 420–1; majority under presidentialism, 396–405; minority, 396; multiparty government in parliamentary and presidential systems, 75; partisan composition in, 160–1 (see also coalition formation;

- government (cont.)
 coalitions); semipresidential, 2;
 Argentina: proposed premier-presidential system, 16; Brazil: partitioning of, 74; potential for semipresidential, 2, 16; powers of state and local, 83; Chile: era of semipresidential and parliamentary, 305–6; minority coalition era, 303–4; Mexico: congressional power to dissolve state-level, 253; majority, 244; president's control of state-level, 253–4; Zedillo's lack of power over state-level, 257; Venezuela: minority and majority, 182–93; policy of intervention, 174
- governors (see also decentralization; federalism; provinces): factors in autonomy of, 417; Argentina: as check on presidential power, 280–1; decrees of urgent necessity, 286; election of, 263–4; Brazil: power in national politics, 83, 92–4, 98, 100; role in economic policy (1985–94), 101–3; Mexico: in Chiapas and Tabasco, 257; election, appointment, or removal of, 253–4
- Ibañez del Campo, Carlos: Chile (1927–31, 1952–8), 305–6, 309, 312
- identifiability: indicator of, 35–6; in presidentialism, 33, 35–7; voters' identification of personnel, 36; voters' informed choice, 33–6
- immobilism: factors creating, 37; in presidential systems, 31; Bolivia, 367–8; Brazil: effect of coalition politics, 87–91; during Goulart regime, 90–1; Colombia: use of state of siege powers against, 127; Latin America, 398–9; Venezuela: limits to, 160; prevention of interbranch, 184, 186, 192
- incentives (see also clientelism; patronage): individualism for campaigning party members, 422, 425–7; of president for accountability, 34; under parliamentary system, 322–3; Argentina: legislators' discipline, 279–80; Brazil: for legislators, 84–6; Chile: in electoral system, 10; Colombia: electoral, 132–6; of legislators, 111; Costa Rica: to work on behalf of party, 7–8; Latin America: to establish new parties, 416–17; for factionalism, 426–7; to represent constituencies, 420; Mexico: institutional, 8; of legislators, 248; Venezuela: related to presidential responsibility, 161
- independence, legislative, 37
- inflation: Argentina, 260; Bolivia, 372, 374; Brazil: Cardoso regime, 105; Collor regime, 95–7; effect of Cruzado Plan on, 92; hyperinflation, 94; Chile, 311–12
- institutions (see also Congress; electoral system; party system): intracountry comparison of factors related to, 102–3; Brazil: democratic periods, 57–9; influence in 1985–94 period, 101–3; Chile: reform during Ibañez regime, 306; Colombia: influence on congressional interests, 111; Latin America: as determinants of party discipline, 421–9; influence on presidentialism, 3–4, 395; Venezuela: presidential control of, 176
- interest groups: Bolivia, 370–2, 386–8, 390–1; Venezuela: consultation with executive branch, 175–7, 193; partisan politics of, 164–5, 168; politicization of, 164–8; relations with executive branch, 175–6; representatives in administrative agencies, 176–7; resistance to party penetration, 198
- Juárez, Benito: Mexico (1858–72), 228–9
- judicial branch, see Supreme Court
- Kubitschek, Juscelino: Brazil (1956–61), 88
- labor unions: Chile: as effective force, 311–12; protest by, 308–9; Venezuela, 164–5
- laws, see legislation
- legislation: factors in president's influence over, 40–1; presidential role in shaping, 13–14, 46–8, 285; president's introduction of, 47–8; use of decree power to shape, 46–7; Argentina: president's influence on, 285–90; Bolivia: during Sánchez de Lozada regime, 389–90; Brazil: congressional control, 60–6; decree-laws, 92; president's legislative agenda and influence, 64–6; Chile: during Aylwin administration, 335–8; delegated, 315–17; with executive–assembly cooperation, 351–6; during military regime (1973–90), 322–4; post-1980 presidential influence over, 325–35; Colombia: coalition building to pass, 137–40; by decree, 121–3; exclusive

INDEX

489

- presidential initiatives, 120–1;
 presidential initiatives, regulation, and shaping, 118, 120–1, 123–4; related to political parties, 157; Costa Rica: limited influence of president on, 202–3, 218–23; powers of president over, 203; president's influence on budget, 215–18; president's influence over, 202; Latin America: by decree, 44–7; Mexico: president's initiatives for, 235; president's veto power, 236–7; role of Congress in process, 235; Venezuela: role of president to introduce and influence, 180, 185, 187–92
- legislative powers, president (see also decree powers; veto powers): in functioning of presidentialism, 395; proactive and reactive, 4–5, 41–52; Argentina, 285–90, 293; Brazil, 60–6; Chile: under 1980 constitution, 324; proposals for reform of, 359–61; Colombia, 119–24, 131–2; Ecuador, 46; Venezuela, 174, 180
- legislators: in presidential system, 37; Argentina: party discipline and loyalty, 276–80; re-election probabilities, 276–8; Brazil: absenteeism, 61; incentives for, 84–6; Colombia: incentives to use patronage, 111–12; Costa Rica: career dependence of incumbent, 210–14; influences on actions of, 205–10; presidential influence on careers of, 205–14; reelection probabilities, 206–7; term limits, 205–9; Latin America: commitment to party line, 397; voting discipline of, 418; Venezuela: lack of term limits, 178; limitations of party discipline on, 171–3, 175; party discipline among, 171–3, 175, 180; relations with interest groups, 175
- legitimacy: comparison between presidentialism and parliamentarism, 32; Bolivian dual, 366–7, 375, 379; Chilean problems of, 349; Ecuadoran dual, 379; Peruvian dual, 379
- López Michelsen, Alfonso: Colombia (1974–8), 113–14, 129–30
- Lusinchí, Jaime: Venezuela (1983–8), 189–90, 194
- majority government, see Congress; government; president
- Massacessi, Horacio, 269, 281, 298
- Menem, Carlos: Argentina (1989–99), 9, 260, 264, 267, 283–90
- military sector: Argentina: Menem's handling of, 261; regime (1976–83), 259–60; Bolivia, 365–6; Brazil: under 1967 constitution, 63–4; 1946–64 period, 57; 1964–85 period, 57, 90–1; regime of, 57; Chile: 1980 constitutional reforms, 301–2, 322–4, 327–8, 353, 445–6; electoral reforms of, 344; seizes power (1973), 317, 321–2
- minority government, See coalition formation; Congress; government; president
- Movement for National Salvation, Colombia, 148
- National Action Party (PAN), Mexico, 256
- National Electoral Court, Colombia, 157
- National Judicial Council, Venezuela, 185–6, 194
- National Security Council, Chile, 331
- Nueva Política Económica (NPE), Bolivia, 373–5, 377, 380, 385
- Pact of Olivos (1995), Argentina, 291, 292
- Pacto por el Cambio, Bolivia, 385
- Pacto por la Democracia, Bolivia, 374–9, 392
- Pacto por la Gobernabilidad, Bolivia, 384–5, 392
- PAN, See Partido Acción Nacional (PAN), Mexico
- parliamentary democracies: breakdown (1977–95), 28–9; compared to presidential democracies, 18–40, 52–3; in independent countries (1970–94), 21–9; newly independent microstates, 24–7
- parliamentary republic (1891–1924), Chile, 305–6
- parliamentary systems: adoption in Europe and former British colonies, 29; advocates of, 362; change of government in, 37; compared to presidential system, 52–4; election of chief executive, 14; legislators' commitment to party line, 397; multiparty government in, 75; of democracies, 18–19; party coalitions, 75–80; record of, 18–19; role of party discipline in, 419–20; winner-takes-all approach, 39–40; Chile: advocates of, 309–11, 314; arguments for and against, 302–3, 318; under 1980 constitution,

- parliamentary systems (cont.) 322; era of (1891–1924), 305–6;
 proposed, 303; Latin America:
 arguments for, 12
- Partido Acción Nacional (PAN), Mexico, 244
- Partido de la Revolución Democrática
 (PRD), Mexico, 244
- Partido de la Revolución Mexicana (PRM), 244, 250
- Partido Demócrata Cristiano (PDC),
 Argentina, 267
- Partido Demócrata Cristiano (PDC), Chile, 302, 311, 351–2
- Partido Intransigente (PI), Argentina, 267
- Partido Justicialista (PJ), Argentina, 260, 264–7, 271–2
- Partido Nacional Revolucionario (PNR),
 Mexico, 244, 247
- Partido Revolucionario Institucional (PRI), Mexico (see also caudillo [political boss]:
 delegation of powers to president, 253;
 discipline of, 246–9; hegemony of, 244–
 5; official role, 244–6; president as head of ruling party, 249–52; role of, 226
- partisan powers, president, 56, 106–11;
 defined, 56; index of, 429–30; influence of, 13–14, 41; relation to constitutional powers, 429–30; Argentina, 298–9;
 Brazil, 107; Colombia, 111, 138; Costa
 Rica, 202–4
- party lists: factional, 424–5; Argentina, 270–5; Chile: under 1980 electoral system, 344–8; with renewed democracy (1993), 339; Costa Rica: compilation of,
 210–11; Latin America, 416–17;
 Venezuela: closed, 168–71; under compensatory-member system, 194
- party systems: factors influencing number of parties, 405–18; factors in two-party competition, 406; importance of size of and discipline in, 262, 394–5;
 institutionalized, 36; institutions determining party discipline, 421–9;
 problems of fragmentation, 396;
 Argentina: discipline in, 8–9, 262–80;
 dominance, 279–80; election-related party lists, 270–5; growing multipartism, 298–9; in provinces, 280– 1; under reformed constitution, 295; two-party dominance, 264–9, 279–80, 295–
 6; Bolivia: closed-list representation, 368– 9; discipline, 369–70; with electoral reforms, 369–70; link to patronage, 365, 367–70, 382; multipartism, 366, 376;
 in transition to democracy, 366; Brazil:
 catchall parties, 55, 80–5; discipline and loyalty, 80–6, 480–3; fragmentation, 55– 61, 66–73, 83–4, 91–101; influence of electoral system, 68–80; 1946–64 period, 57–8; 1964–85 period, 57, 90–1; presidential control, 66–80; presidential minority, 66–80; supraparty candidacies, 88–90; Chile: under authoritarian regime, 338–44; effects of electoral reform on, 344–5; extra-coalition parties, 353; factionalism (1950s), 309; under military regime, 322; multipartism, 345– 51, 357; under parliamentary government (1891–1924), 305–6;
 polarization, 301, 304, 309–12; post-transition competition, 344–8; Colombia:
 attempted reforms, 113–16; clientelism and patronage, 112–16, 132–6;
 collective action problem, 136–46;
 under 1991 constitution, 152–6;
 factionalism, 133–6; institutionalization of, 157; intraparty competition, 110–16, 134–5, 142, 158; Costa Rica: conditions for partisan coalitions, 203; discipline, 219–21; two-party dominance of, 203;
 Ecuador, 398; Latin America: closed-and open-list systems, 423–9; factors in discipline, 418–29; importance of ideological positions, 399; influence on presidential system, 394; support for president, 397; Mexico: caudillo, or national political boss, 249–52;
 discipline in official party, 246–9, 252;
 hegemony of PRI, 244–6; override
 federalism, 254; in presidencialismo, 244– 6, 250–2; president as head of official party, 226–7; role of parties in, 244–6; Venezuela: control by, 182–93; during democratic era, 163; in development of democracy, 162–4; discipline of, 171–3, 175; interaction in electoral system, 168–
 71; interest group control, 164–8;
 president's role in, 177–9; proposed internal reform, 194–5; role of disciplined, 160–1, 171–3; small-party coalition (1993), 195–7; sources of strength, 164–8; two-party dominance, 160–71
- patronage (see also clientelism; incentives):
 Bolivia: under Acuerdo Patriótico, 382;

INDEX

491

- growth of, 10; under Pacto por la Democracia, 374–8; role of, 365, 367–70; Brazil: Collor regime, 96–7; presidential strategies, 84–6; of Sarney regime, 93; Colombia: congressional dependence on, 111–12; under 1991 constitution, 119; demanded of president, 111; legislators' incentives to use, 111–16; Costa Rica: for presidential candidates, 213–14; Latin America: factors promoting use of, 419
- Paz Estenssoro, Victor: Bolivia (1985–9), 366, 373–9
- Paz Zamora, Jaime: Bolivia (1989–93), 363, 367, 379–82
- Pérez, Carlos Andrés: Venezuela (1974–9, 1989–92), 18, 163, 188–91
- PFL (Party of the Liberal Front), Brazil, 66
- PJ, see Partido Justicialista (PJ), Argentina
- PMBD (Party of the Brazilian Democratic Movement), 66–8
- population size, 21–3
- porfiriato*: Mexico (1876–1911), 242
- Portes Gil: Mexico (1928–30), 232–4
- PRD, Mexico, see Partido de la Revolución Democrática (PRD), Mexico
- premier-presidentialism, 15–16
- president (see also constitutional powers, president; presidential powers): constitutional and partisan powers, 13–14, 41; constitutional powers in Latin America, 48–52; differences in legislative powers of, 41–52; factors in influence on policy, 40–1; influence on legislation, 285, 37; partisan and constitutional powers, 429; status quo establishment, 44; strengths of, 40–52; Argentina: decree power, 285–8; legislative powers under reform constitution, 293; powers of, 279, 285–90; powers under reformed constitution, 293–9; with two-party dominance, 264–9; veto power of, 289–90; Bolivia: authority of, 367–8; immobilized, 367–8; selection by Congress, 363–4, 366–8, 373; during transition to democracy, 370–1; Brazil: cabinet formation, 75; 1961–4 coalition, 87–91; Congressional bypass strategy, 86–7; patronage strategies, 84–6; powers of, 5; Chile: appointment of senators by, 331, 359; implied powers, 330–1; legislative powers, 327–31; partisan powers, 337–8; powers of, 303–4, 307–8, 314–15, 405; powers under 1980 constitution, 322–4; proactive and reactive powers, 330–5; proposals for term of office, 357–8; with proposed stronger Congress, 359–61; use of decrees with force of law, 315–17; without legislative support, 354–6; Colombia: coalition formation, 137–40; with fragmented two-party system, 6–7; legislative coalition formation, 137–40; powers of, 5; Costa Rica: under 1949 constitution, 202; historical weakness of, 200–1; partisan support and weakness, 202–4; patronage power, 211–14; sources of strength, 214–22; Latin America: formal powers of, 395; Mexico: agenda-setting powers, 238; budgetary powers, 240; centralized nature of office, 227; conflicts with legislature (1847–1940), 228–34; as head of official party, 226–7, 249–54; historical role (1857–1940), 228–34; during maximato period (1928–35), 232; political power sharing, 249–52; powers delegated by PRI, 253; powers of, 225–6, 234–43; powers under 1917 constitution, 226–7, 234–8; regulatory powers, 240; selection and removal of cabinet, 240–1; veto power, 236; Venezuela: congressional delegation of legislative decree power, 187–9; degree of party discipline, 172–3, 177; factors in freedom to govern, 161; influence of party discipline on, 172–3; informal and formal powers, 174–82; nonlegislative decree power, 190–1; potential marginalization, 192–3; relations with interest groups, 175–6; state of emergency right, 181–2; term limits, 177–8
- Presidential Commission for the Reform of the State (COPRE), Venezuela, 193–5, 198
- presidential democracies: compared to parliamentary democracies, 18–40, 52–3; defined, 14–18; breakdowns (1977–95), 28–9; criticisms of, 29–32; in independent countries (1970–94), 21–9; Latin America, 24–6
- presidentialism (see also premier-presidentialism; presidential systems): adoption in Latin America and Africa, 29; advantages of, 33–40, 396; arguments against, 2, 18–20, 29–32;

presidentialism (cont.)

characteristics of, 14–15; checks and balances in, 40; conceptualized, 14–15; factors influencing function of, 3–4, 394–5, 398–9; issues in debate over, 2–4; minority, 6; proposals to shift from, 2; variations in, 1–3; winner-takes-all logic, 32, 39–40, 280, 282, 304, 307, 313; with federalism, 280, 282–3; Argentina: criticisms of, 18–20, 285; Bolivia: effect of, 379; Brazil: minority, 66–80; Chile: under 1925 constitution, 303; under 1980 constitution, 325–35; criticism of, 302–3, 315, 319–20; recommendations for reform, 357–62; with return of democracy (1932), 306–7; role of, 304–17; role with fragmented party system, 309–10; under socialism of Allende, 317–19; Latin America: arguments against, 12–13, 18–21, 29–32; Mexico: conditions for, 227–8, 244; factors in rise of, 248–9; factors in strengths and weakness, 245–6, 251–2; factors regulating actions under, 255–6 presidential powers (see also constitutional powers; decree powers; emergency powers; legislative powers; partisan powers; veto powers): proactive, 41–52, 62–4, 119–30, 185–92, 330–5, 430; reactive, 41–52, 119–30, 185–92, 330–5, 430; Argentina, 8–9, 285–90, 293–4, 297–8; Brazil: under 1946 and 1988 constitutions, 58–64; effect of federalism, 55–6; partisan and constitutional, 106–9; Chile, 9–10; strengthening under 1980 constitution, 323–35; Colombia: of appointment, 118–19; under 1991 constitution, 121; limits on and resort to, 136–46; partisan and constitutional, 110–11; reactive and proactive legislative, 119–24; Costa Rica, 202–3; limits of, 199–205; Latin America: over legislation, 48–52; Mexico: formal, 234–43; metaconstitutional, 225–8, 252–8; president as head of PRI, 252–3; Venezuela: in minority and majority governments, 182–93; reactive and proactive, 185–92; with reform, 195–7 presidential systems (see also presidentialism): arguments for, 3; compared to parliamentary system, 52–4; different types of, 362; hybrid, 14–15,

38–9; ideal electoral system, 429; majority government, 396–405; party coalitions in, 74–80; role of disciplined parties in, 419; Argentina: strengths and weaknesses (1983–95), 261–2; two-party dominant, 279–80; Bolivia: hybrid, 363–70, 391–3; Brazil: with coalition politics, 87–91; 1985–94 period, 91–101; Chile: influence on parties, 300–17; proposals for improvement, 356–62; proposals for reform, 356–61; with return of democracy, 323–35; Ecuador, 398; Latin America: effect of degree of party discipline, 418–20; factors influencing, 394–5; interparty coalitions in, 396–7

PRI, see Partido Revolucionario Institucional (PRI), Mexico

principal-agent theory, Colombia, 111, 130

privatization: Argentina, 260; Bolivia, 373; Brazil, 98–9, 102

proactive power, see presidential powers proportional representation (see also districts; party lists): Bolivia: closed list, 364, 368–9; Brazil, 68–9; Chile, 329; Colombia, 133–4, 152–7; Costa Rica, 203; d'Hondt formula for, 169; Latin America, 406–10; Mexico, 244–5; Venezuela, 168–70

provinces, Argentina: under 1994 constitutional reform, 294; dependence on central government, 282–3; limits to power of (1983–95), 261–2; party control in (1983–95), 280–1; representation, 263; role in federal system, 280–1

PSDB (Party of Brazilian Social Democracy), 82

PSD (Democratic Social Party), Brazil, 66, 68

Radical Party, Chile, 306–7, 309

reactive power, see presidential powers reelections: comparison between presidential and parliamentary systems, 33–4; effect with lack of, 420; Argentina: Chamber of Deputies, 276–7; Costa Rica: laws related to, 252; prohibition on deputy, 205–10; Mexico: laws related to, 252; Venezuela: of president, 178

reform, constitutional, see constitutions

INDEX

493

- regulatory powers: of president, 46;
Colombia, 123–4; Mexico: of president, 240
- Rodríguez, Abelardo: Mexico (1932–4), 232–4
- Sánchez de Lozada, Gonzalo: Bolivia (1993–6): election of, 378, 383–4; government of, 365, 390–1; legislation, 389–90; Pacto por el Cambio, 385; Plan de Todos, 385–9
- Sarney, José: Brazil (1985–90), 66, 82, 91–4, 108
- semipresidentialism, see premier-presidentialism
- Siles Zuazo, Hernán: Bolivia (1982–5), 366, 368, 371–2
- single nontransferable vote (SNTV), 423, 426
- Socialist Party, Chile, 302
- social reform, Costa Rica, 200, 220
- state of siege powers: Bolivia, 374, 377, 380, 391; Colombia, 116, 126–9, 147
- state-owned enterprises, Bolivia, 385–6
- Supreme Court: Argentina: lack of protection for, 283–5, 296; number, appointment and tenure of justices, 283–5, 432; under provisions of reformed constitution, 294; role of, 283–5; Bolivia, 380–1; Chile: appointment of senators by, 331, 359; Colombia: decision based on state of siege powers, 147; decisions related to economic emergency powers, 129; upholding of presidential program, 114; Costa Rica, 217–18, 222; Mexico, 225–6; appointment to, 231–2; centralization of powers (1876–1911), 242; lack of independence, 243; nomination and tenure of justices, 242–3; Venezuela, 186, 196, 198, 194
- tax reform, Colombia, 115
- term limits, 6, 16–18, 30–2, 34, 37–8, 419–20; as criticism of presidentialism, 30–1; under parliamentarism, 14; Argentina: for president, 295; Bolivia: of president, 368; Chile: of president, 10, 350; of president under 1925 constitution, 303; Colombia: of president, 137–8; Costa Rica: for president and legislators, 7, 202, 205–10, 223; Latin America: fixed, 398; function of, 420; Mexico: for president and legislators, 8, 248; Venezuela: for president and legislators, 177–8
- trade policy, 307–8; Argentina: Menem's liberalization (1991), 260–1; Brazil: liberalization, 101
- UCR, see Unión Cívica Radical (UCR), Argentina
- Unión Cívica Radical (UCR), Argentina: current decline in, 267–9; defeat (1987, 1989), 260; dominance (1983–95), 264–7, 271–2
- Unión del Centro Democrático (UCeDé), Argentina, 265–7
- Vargas, Getúlio: Brazil (1930–45, 1950–4), 57, 75, 87–8
- veto powers, president, 41–4, 49–51; override, 43, 48; partial, or item, 43–4; Argentina, 44, 289–90; Brazil, 60–1; Chile, 9, 44, 327, 330–1; Colombia, 44, 119; Costa Rica, 202; Ecuador, 44; Latin America, partial veto, 43–4; Mexico, 236–9; Venezuela, 179–80, 185–6
- vote pooling: relation to party discipline, 422–6; Argentina, 269–70; Venezuela, 168, 171–2
- voters: choices under presidentialism, 33–6; Argentina: as registered party affiliates, 272–3; Bolivia: with closed-list system, 368–9; Brazil, 59; Colombia: candidate identification, 136; demands in congressional and presidential elections, 141–6; Venezuela: choices, 168–71, 193
- Zedillo, Ernesto: Mexico (1994–), 256–7