

Contents

---

Notes on contributors	page viii
Introduction: some thoughts on presidentialism in postcommunist Europe Juan J. Linz	1
1 Separating power: keeping presidents in check Raymond Taras	15
2 Russia: presidential leadership under Yeltsin Stephen White	38
3 Ukraine: two presidents and their powers Andrew Wilson	67
4 Kazakstan: Nursultan Nazarbaev as strong president Martha Brill Olcott	106
5 Poland: Wałęsa's legacy to the presidency Krzysztof Jasiewicz	130
6 The Czech Republic: Havel and the evolution of the presidency since 1989 Sharon L. Wolchik	168
7 Hungary: political transition and executive conflict: the balance or fragmentation of power? Patrick H. O'Neil	195
8 Afterword: the making of postcommunist presidencies Jon Elster	225
Select bibliography	238
Index	240