Contents

List of contributors

1 Introduction: a cross-linguistic perspective on learning to read and write
MARGARET HARRIS AND GIYOO HATANO

2 The acquisition of Italian orthography
GIUSEPPE COSSU

3 Learning to read German: normal and impaired acquisition
HEINZ WIMMER, KARIN LANDERL AND UTA FRITH

4 Learning to read and spell in Greek: the importance of letter knowledge and morphological awareness
MARGARET HARRIS AND VICKY GIANNOULI

5 Phonological awareness, syntactic awareness and learning to read and spell in Brazilian Portuguese
LUCIA LINS BROWNE REGO

6 Learning to read and write in Hebrew
DAVID SHARE AND IRIS LEVIN

7 Different morphemes, same spelling problems: cross-linguistic developmental studies
PETER BRYANT, TEREZINHA NUNES AND ATHANASIOS AIDINIS

8 The relationship between phonological awareness and orthographic representation in different orthographies
USHA GOswAMI

9 Learning to read in Scandinavia
INGVAR LUNDBERG
10 Learning to read Chinese
J. Richard Hanley, Ovid Tzeng and H.-S. Huang

11 Reading skill development in bilingual Singaporean children
Susan Rickard Liow

12 Learning to read and write in Japanese
Kiyomi Akita and Giyoo Hatano

Index