Index

Page numbers in italics refer to figures, page numbers in bold refer to tables.

_Abaristophora_ 299
_Abatrus pseudoviviparous_ 187
Abingdon
radio carbon dates for organic deposits 268 tundra vegetation pollen 268 acanthomorphs, first appearance 112
_Aconeeras_ 100, 104, 106
_Acteonella borneensis_ 158
_Acteonella crassa_ 158 _Actinacis_ 174, 178
adaptation, functional 59 adaptive advantage 59
adaptive radiation bivalves 135, 136–7
slowness of 137
_Africa_
change in fauna during the Miocene 365 dispersal routes for _Homo sapiens_ 387 early _Homo sapiens_ 386
Early Miocene mammal faunas 357–8
East Africa, two assemblages 357 Mid Miocene faunas, spatial analysis shows palaeoenvironmental change 358, 359, 361–2 _see also_ El Kef, Tunisia; Ethiopia; Kenya _Africa, West_
and eastern Brazil fish show no special relationship 115 similar fossil fish faunas 113–14 _Africa–Europe land link_ 320, 322 _African-Arabian Shield_ 9 _African plate, result of northward movement_ 21 _Afro–Arabian plate_ effects of collision with Eurasia 161–2, 356 Late Miocene mammalian fauna 364–5 Afro-Arabia and south-west Asia early Miocene land bridge 356 few Late Miocene sites 360–1 _agriculture_
early, Upper Thames basin 279 clearance of land for 283–4 intensification of 285 Alaska, coal seams, entire leaves 247 algal symbiosis 164, 165 and global change 177–8 in scleractinian corals 169–75 evidence of 170, 171, 172–3 from the K–T boundary to the Paleocene 174 historical overview 170, 172–3 _zygocorals_ 172–3, 180
background 169–70
disruption of habitats 177 extent 170
and Lazarus corals 174, 175, 177–8, 180 _see also_ corals; reef communities _Alligator mississippiensis_ 330 _Alligator sinensis_ 330 alligators 330
allopatric speciation 120
_Almucilaris_ 187
_Alnus_ 278, 286
little pollen found on drier terrace gravel soils 278
main pollen 278
_α- and β-diversity_
covariation of 146
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>INDEX</th>
<th>475</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

need for γ-diversity 146, 148 α-diversity, bivalves 145 amber Baltic, earliest records of extant insects 298 insects preserved in 288, 294 Americas, human colonization debate 389
ammonites
boreal families died out by early Aptian 100 distributions distinguish Mesozoic faunal realms 99, 100 diversity linked to long-term sea-level changes 102, 103 effect on faunas of periodic rapid rises in sea level 102–3 late Barremian event 104–5 mid Hauterivian event 104 mid Valanginian event 103–4 environmental disposition 98 modes of life 98–9
uncoiling forms 99
Ammonioidea 97
declines and extinction 98 amphibians
Laurasian and Gondwana faunas distinct in Cretaceous 317–18 Pleistocene, North America 331 range contraction during glacial phases 331 amphibians, reptiles and birds, a biogeographical review 316–32, 393 Cretaceous events 321–5 climates 323–4 corridors 322–3
eustatic sea-level changes 324 fragmentation of Gondwana 321–2 K–T extinction event 325 distribution patterns linked to those of continental areas 316 Early Cretaceous faunas 317–19, 320 Neogene events 329–31
geographical 329–30
Miocene climate 330–1
Pliocene cooling, Pleistocene glaciations in Northern continents 331 Paleogene events 326–9
Early Paleogene 326–8
Paleocene–Oligocene climate deterioration 328–9
Andrias 322, 328
Anemia 236
Anguria 157
angiosperms 207
background 207–9
close relationship with climate 246, 249 diversification, causal factors 219–21 angiosperm biology 219–20 palynological patterns and mid-Cretaceous global events 220–1 early, association with ephidroids 219 establishing the pattern of vegetational change 209–19 discrepancies and recognition problems 211–12 diversity and abundance through the Cretaceous, mid-palaeolatitudes 211–13 in situ macrofloras preserved, Wyoming 213 rapid diversification of pollen species 215, 218 rapid mid Cretaceous increase in diversity and abundance 213 studies 209–10
temporal trends and palaeolatitudes 215–19 first recognition, based on fossil pollen grains 209 and high turn over of Early Cretaceous insects 289–90 and insect turnover in the Early Cretaceous 289–90 radiation of affecting insects 297, 298 within-flora diversity
geographical patterns 216, 217–8
trends in 211, 212, 214 see also flowering plants, Cenozoic Anisomyon 150
Anomalinitoides newmanae, survived the K–T extinctions 65 anomalodesmatans 136, 137 Arctic forms 144
deep sea 140
shallow water 140
anoxia
in shallow-water facies 8 in warm deep saline water 9–10 see also oceanic anoxia events (OAes) Antarctica 334
bivalves 142, 142
critical separation from Australia 31 deglaciation of 28 polar ice at Terminal Eocene Event 342 polar ice sheets 26, 58 Apodemus sylvaticus 370
INDEX

Aquilapollenites-type pollen 219 Arabia, eastern, Acteonellidae 158 Arabian Plate 357
  Late Miocene sites 364 pivotal for mammalian dispersal out of Africa 364
archosaurs distribution across Pangea 319 endemism and dispersal, Laurasia and Gondwana 320
Gondwana fauna, vicariant origin and diversification 319
aroids 136, 137, 139, 143 Arctic Ocean, present, and global climate change 32
Ardipithecus ramidus 381 aridity 330
  Arabia 364
  Cenozoic 28, 29
  Cretaceous 10, 15
  Late Pleistocene, and extinctions 120 and the Messinian salinity crisis 351, 360 Quaternary, expansion and contraction of desert zones 368 Artemisia 268, 269, 273 suggests aridity 272
Artiodactyla 339
Arvicola terrestris 370 Asia
  central, spread of stage three fauna from 375 Cretaceous, placental dominant 334 deposition in Himalayan foredeep 357 East, Mid Miocene
  high species diversity 364 Siwalik deposits, faunal trends 364 eastern, drop in mammalian diversity 395 effects of Cretaceous climates 323 likely source of North American immigrant Puercan mammals 339 Mongolia
  E-O boundary, faunal turnover at 344 P-E boundary, extinction and origination at 339-40
West 365
  Mid Miocene faunal community structure 363
Asimata 144
Astraea 157
Atlantic north–south passage 6, 17, 19
Atlantic Ocean 20
  continued to widen during the Cenozoic 21 Atlantic/Sub-Boreal transition, delimited by decline in lime pollen 284 Atmospheric General Circulation Models (AGCMs) 245
Atractosteus strausi 117
Australasia 334
Australia colonization by Homo sapiens 387 proximity to south-east Asia 330 Riversleigh locality, lizard diversity 330 Southeast, Cretaceous δ18O-isotope temperatures suggest polar freezing 48-9
Australia–Pacific plate boundary 21 australopithecines 379 robust 379, 382
Australopithecus anamensis 381 β-diversity, in bivalves 145-6 Babylonia lutosa, shell damage 152 Beaufort Formation, Arctic Canada, insect assemblages 309
belemnites 97
  bipolar distribution, late Cretaceous 101, 102 boreal families died out by early Aptian 100 nektic 99
Northern Hemisphere, Tethyan spread 99 rise of Dinitobilidae 100, 101 Tethyan families died out by end-Cenomanian 100
Bering corridor 322, 328, 345 Bering Strait 101, 106, 160, 234 opening and closure of, effects on gastropod faunas 160–1, 162 Beringia 368
  human colonization of the Americas via 389 and insect refugia 300
Betula 268, 269, 275, 286 Betula nana 268 bicarbonates (HCO₃⁻), utilization by photosynthesis 36
biogeography
  amphibians, reptiles and birds, a review 316–32, 393
controls on, nanoplankton 38–42 Tertiary insect taxa cf. extant relatives, changes in distributions 298–9 vicariance 118
see also palaeobiogeography biotic and environmental evolution, imposing limitations on CLAMP 260–1 relations between key features may change over time 260 biotic factors extrinsic, response to 395 intrinsic, response to 396 evolutionary innovations 396 biotic response to abiotic variables marine organisms 394–5 terrestrial organisms 392–3 bipedalism, research on thermoregulatory benefits of 381–2 birds diatrymid, distribution of 328 erantherinithines, dominant in Cretaceous 319 last record of giant flightless carnivorous rails 330 modern ratite, restricted to southern continents 321 North America, invasion of advanced passeresines 330 Biscutum constans 41, 43 bison 373, 377
Bison priscus 371
bivalves
biotic radiation linked to climatic decay 135 coevolutionary process with predators 145 displacement of many taxa into deep seas 140
diversification 135–6
division into Subclasses 136, 137–8 group shell composition originally aragonitic 139 epifaunal expansion, Palaeozoic 137 extinctions at or near the K–T boundary 139 family level little affected by K–T mass extinction 140 infaunal expansion, Mesozoic–Cenozoic 137 rise in global diversity 396 α-diversity 145
β- and γ-diversity 145–6 rise in number of taxa 135, 136 spatial patterns: the latitudinal diversity gradient 140–5 may represent a present day cline in productivity 144 poor showing of epifaunal groups in polar faunas 143 present day Arctic and Antarctic faunas 142, 142 tropical high diversity of, associated with coral reefs 141–2 temporal pattern 136–40 general considerations 136–7 taxonomic trends through time 137–40 black bands, Cretaceous 122 black shales, organic-rich 9, 16, 18 body size, in mammalian studies 346 bolide impacts 2, 7–8, 24–6 K–T boundary event 25–6, 125, 325, 394
Tertiary 22
Bolivina midwayensis 123
Bolton Fell Moss, proxy-climate curve 285
Boreal–Atlantic transition 286
Box primigenius 370
Bracklesham Group 170
Brazos Core, foraminiferal test size variation across the K–T boundary 62, 63, 65 Britain
human occupation at Boxgrove 385 insect faunas during the Devensian 310–15 enigmatic periods after sudden climatic amelioration 310, 313 period of intense continentality inferred 313, 315 Quaternary
importance of precipitation patterns 392 present climate a thermal maximum 368 Quaternary mammals 369–78 biogeographical considerations 371–2 faunal assemblages 369–71 global influences on distribution 367–9 last interglacial mammals 372–3
Late Cold Stage mammals 373–7 Bronze Age 284, 287
bryozoan–hermit crab association 200 bryozoans 396
cheilostomes 187, 196
deceleration in radiation coincides with change to icehouse conditions 202 family origins 197, 198 lunuliform 201
radiation in Late Alban–Cenomanian 196, 201–2, 205 community species richness, long-term changes in 198–9, 200 Cretaceous–Recent pattern of evolution 196–202
INDEX

bryozoans (cont.)
  ecological patterns 199–201 interpretation 201–2
  taxic diversity patterns 196–9 catenostomes, lack mineralized skeleton 196 cyclostomes 197
diversity decline 199 radiation Jurassic into Cretaceous 196 diversity, global and local, rise in, possible bias? 201 factors controlling local distributions 195 fossil record disappointing 196 have responded to global change 202 and the K–T transition 197 Lunulitidae and Cupuladriidae 201 Mediterranean, evolution of 202–4 interpretation 203–4
Neogene and Quaternary species ranges 202–3 rate of species additions 203–4, 203 Recent 202 species diversity, origins and extinctions 204 modern fauna 195
additions through time 197, 199 possible role of environmental change in evolutionary radiations 205 tube-building symbioses 200
Buccella insitutata 123
Bug Creek interval 337, 337–9
Bulimina 26, 122
Bulimina jacksonensis caveata 123
Buscot Lock, dense Alnus woodland 278
Byelorussia, insect response to climatic change 299–300

CA see Correspondence Analysis (CA)
calcification 36–8
pelagic, dominated by coccolithophores 37 Camp Century, Greenland 285 rise in 18O values 273, 278 Campanile 157, 160
Campanile symbolum 160
Canadian Arctic Archipelago, Neogene floras 241 Canary Current circulation 87
Canis lupus (wolf) 371, 373
Canonical Correspondence Analysis (CCA) 252–3, 256, 258
$\delta^{13}C$ Late Maastrichtian 57 positive excursions 17 connected with OAEs 16 carbon cycle, Cretaceous, relationship to climate 16–17 carbon dioxide atmospheric changes during glacials 32 concentration of increased by calcification 36, 37
  Cretaceous 4, 17–18, 44
effect of increased weathering on 37–8 emitted by volcanic activity 23 carbonate accumulation rates 36 carbonate platforms and echinoid diversity 182, 184
  Late Cretaceous 156, 157 platform drowning events 5, 11, 182, 192–3 carbonates metamorphic recycling of 37 pelagic, liable to subduction 37 Carcharocles 111
Carcharodon 111
Carnivora 334, 355
  seals, sea lions and walruses 335
Carpinus 279
Carychium minimum 269
Castanopsis 228
Catopsalis 339
Catostomus discobolus 118
Catostomus platyrhynchus 118
Catostomus spp., phylogeny and tectonic history accord 118
CCA see Canonical Correspondence Analysis (CCA) Cenomanian–Turonian boundary decline of ephedroid and Classopolis pollen 221, 294 rates of upwelling 11 Central American Seaway, closure of 84, 162 cephalopods, Cretaceous 97–106, 394 an overview 97–8 ecology 98–9 major controls on distributions 101–6 palaeobiogeography 99–101
Ceratocystis ulmi 283
Ceratopteris 236
cereal pollen 280–1, 284 cereal production 283–4 Ceriops, occurs with Nypa in London Clay flora 237 Cervus elaphus 370
Cetacea 355, 372
chalk facies derep water 9
global persistence of 10–11 Gulf Coast and Western Interior, USA 9 chemical weathering 17, 31, 84 Chesapeake bay, evidence for meteorite impact 26 Chiasmolithus 43
Chicxulub Impact Structure 7–8 and the K–T boundary event 25, 325 Chilognemelina waiapuensis, patterns of test size change 65 Chiroptera 339
chirostoderes 319, 323, 328 final extinction 330
Cibicides lobatus 123
Cibicides wuellerstorfi 27
Cixius 290
Cladion mariscus 269
CLAMP see Climate Leaf Multivariate Program (CLAMP) Classopolis pollen 218, 219 clastic material, decrease through time in chalk successions 10 clay mineral suites 15
Clethrinomys glareolus 370 CLIMAP project 2, 91
climate change affecting human evolution 389–90 anthropogenically induced 244–5
Cenozoic
acting on plant communities 242 controls on 30–3, 223
long-term 28
climatic deterioration 241–2 and the Cretaceous and Cenozoic record of insects 288–302 and Cretaceous climates 12–17
controls on 17–19
demonstrated by Boreal and Tethyan faunal migrations 13–14, 99, 101 a critical factor for mammals 333 and decline in Ulmus 282–3 and evolutionary change in planktonic foraminifera 81 forcing mechanism for biotic change 391 and leaf physiognomy 244–64 long-term, important in community evolution 349 Mid Miocene, Europe and West Asia 363 and nannofossils, Cretaceous Indian Ocean (case study) 44–50 nannoplankton
as agents of 36–8
as recorders of 38–42
Neogene, response of Old World terrestrial vertebrate biotas to 350–66
Paleocene–Oligocene climate deterioration 328–9
Paleogene, climatic fluctuations 336
Pliocene cooling and Pleistocene glaciations 331
Quaternary 28–30
and British insect faunas 310–15 high-frequency, global correlation and synchronous nature of 30 and the insect record 299–302 orbitally driven 367 recorded quickly by Coleoptera 296, 305 and salinity of inland waters 301 through bolide impact 24 understanding pattern and process of 244–5 and uplift of the Tibetan Plateau 30–1, 351, 364, 365 Climate Leaf Multivariate Program (CLAMP) 249–58
Canonical Correspondence Analysis (CCA) 252–3, 256, 258
Correspondence Analysis (CA) 252–3, 255 current data sets biased 261 current methodology 254 growth in number of reference sites 261 Asian/Alaskan fossil sites analysis results cf. climate model results 263–4 leaf margin categories and their scoring 252 limitations of 258–64
comparability of results 261–4 imposed by biotic and environmental evolution 260–1 imposed by methodology 258–9 imposed by taphonomy 259–60 phytogeographic factors 261 specialized environments 261–3 sub-alpine nest example 261, 262, 263 climates system, global, large-scale shift in 95 Cenozoic 28–30
long-term climate change 28
Quaternary climate change 28–30
Cretaceous 391
climates (cont.)
  affecting amphibian, reptile and bird biogeography 323–4
  control on Cephalopod distribution 101–2, 105
  Cretaceous, and climatic change 12–17, 44 arid and humid zones 15–16 Boreal vs. Tethyan faunas 13–14 carbon cycle and its relation to climate 16–17
  oxygen isotopes from marine carbonates and fossils 14–15
  polar ice? 12–13
  Supertethys and hot tropical oceans 16 global, controlled by Milankovitch-driven ice volume variations 95 Miocene 330–1
  north-west Europe, warming following icesheet retreat 375, 377 past, perceptions and assumptions 351 climatic forcing, high-latitude 87 ‘climatic optimum’ 277 climatic stability, and DMS production 38 Cnemedaria 236
  coal 12, 15
  coccoliths
  blooms produce high-reflectance waters 38
  Cretaceous 10–11
  dominate pelagic calcifications 37 in global climate-change research 35 primary production 36
  see also nanoplankton Coccolithus pelagicus 39, 43 wide biogeographical range 38 cockroaches, as general environmental indicators 293
  Coelodonta antiquitatis (woolly rhinoceros) 371, 373, 375
  Colchidites 105
  coleoids 97, 98
  Coleoptera
  Late Cenozoic, palaeoclimatological significance of 303–15
  British insect faunas during the last glaciation 310–15
  geological longevity of species of 306–10 nature of the Quaternary insect record 304–5
  as palaeoenvironmental indicators 305–6 Late Cretaceous 295, 295, 296, 301–2 collecting and taphonomic bias, Europe 351, 362 competitive exclusion 345 of neogastropods 156 condensed sequences, Cretaceous 8, 11 conifers 216
  Cretaceous diversity 213 during the Cenozoic 230 Conioptis 323
  continental collision 20
  Afro–Arabia and Eurasia 161–2 India–Asia 22
  see also plate tectonics continental flood basalts (CFBs)
  Cretaceous 5, 6–7
  Tertiary 23
  Comps 156
  corals 164
  and algal symbiosis 164, 165, 397 az-corals 174–5 diversity and extinction patterns 175–7 and Ecological Evolutionary Ecological Units (EEUs) 168
  extinctions
  K–T boundary 176, 179
  no easy explanations 175–6 vicariance, isolation and endemcity 176–7, 179
  origins of modern faunas 168 palaeocology reef-based 168 reefs or corals? 168–9 scleractinian
  and algal symbiosis 169–75
  boom and bust cycles 167, 176, 180 environmental distribution 169 environmental range 175
  extinctions 167
  Gosau-type fauna 167
  microstructural groups 166, 167 outline history 165–8 taxonomic richness 165–7 z-corals 169–70, 180 ability to grow in high-nutrient conditions 175, 178–9 and climatic fluctuation 175
  and Lazarus corals 174, 175, 177–8, 397 see also algal symbiosis; reef communities cordyline lizards 327
  Correspondence Analysis (CA) 252–3, 255
  corridors 322–3
  Africa–Europe 320, 322
  Beringia/Bering corridor 322, 328, 345, 368, 389 invasions of North America via 322
Early Paleogene 326
Eurasian continuity and the Grande Coupure 328 Europe–Africa–Asia 327
North America–Greenland–Europe 328
North America–South America 326
South America–Africa 326–7
Gibraltar corridor 327
Levant, north–south population dispersals 386–7 Neogene, North America–South America link 329–30 see also land bridges; Panama Isthmus Corylus 286
early Flandrian, rapid migration and expansion 275, 277 Corylus woodland 275
Cothill Fen
biotic response to Loch Lomond Stadial 273, 274 changes in woodland 275
expansion of pioneer arboreal vegetation 275
pre-clearance climax woodland 274, 278 crabs, causing damage to gastropod shells 150, 151, 152 Cricroceratites 100, 104 crocodiles
Laurasian and Gondwanan assemblages 319 modern 319
North America 330
passed through the K–T boundary 325 Crocuta crocuta 371
Crucibiscutum salburomus 42
Cryptbranchus 322
Cupuladria canariensis, range contraction 201 Cuspidaria 144
Cyathoseres 174, 178
Cyclaster platonatus 187
Cyclaster vilanovae 187
Cyclacanthus floridanus 43
Cyclurus kehri 117
Cylindricalithus rubus 46 excursions into higher latitudes 47 Daisy Banks Fen
alder pollen 278–9, 280–1 Centarea cyanus 286
high frequency of cereal pollen 280–1, 284
rise in water table 285 woodland clearance 284, 286
Dama dama 370
Dansgaard–Oeschger (D–O) cooling cycles 29 de Geer route 115 Deccan traps, India 7
extruded around the K–T boundary 23, 325 deep sea sediment cores, importance of 81 deer 375, 377
deglaciation, Mid Pliocene, Antarctica 28 Dendrophyllia 175 dental enamel, mammalian 340–1 Dentoglobigerina altispira 88, 89 desertification 368
diapause (hibernation) 294–5, 295–6
Dichotomites 105
Dicrostonyx torquatus 370 dimethyl sulphide (DMS), and global albedo 38 Dimlington Stadial 268
dinosaurs 319, 320, 322 Cretaceous global distributions 323–4 demise of 25
demise in East Asia 319 North America, evolution and extinctions 324 Diploria 174, 178
Discocaster 43
discoasters 43
Discosphaera tubifer 41 diversity pumps, Cenozoic, effect of 147 DMS see dimethyl sulphide (DMS) dropstones 13
Drupa ricus 151
DSDP sites 612 and 94, foraminiferal test size decrease and a dated microtekite horizon 72 Dutch elm disease 283
E–O see Eocene–Oligocene East Africa, correlation of lake water levels with Late Quaternary climatic fluctuations 29 echinoids
at the K–T boundary 190–4 extended extinction 190 loss of habitat? 192–4 selectivity of extinction 191–2 size of extinction event 190 survivorship pattern 191–2, 193 changes in diversity 181–4, 185 British Cretaceous fauna 182, 183
INDEX

- echinoids (cont.)
  - drop in diversity at end-Cretaceous and end-Tertiary 190
- fog
  - drop in species richness since the
    - Miocene 182–3
  - shallow-water carbonate platforms 182, 184
- changes in habitat occupancy 189–90
  - recent deep-sea holasteroids 189–90
- changes in life-history strategies 187–9
  - lecithotrophy or brooded development 187–9
- planktotrophy 187, 189
- changes in taxonomic composition 185–6
  - significant changes 185–6
  - regular, apparent decline in 186
  - sampling bias and preservation bias 181–2
- ecological crisis, low latitude faunas, Late Pliocene 91–2
- ecological disruption
  - North America, after the K–T event 239–40
  - mammalian radiation 240
  - ecological diversity 346
  - ecological diversity analysis, west European Paleogene 347, 348
- Ecological Evolutionary Ecological Units (EEUs) 168, 180
- ecological factors, affecting fish evolution 120
- ecological pressures, Late Pliocene ocean, magnitude of 88
- ecological trends, climate-related 346–7, 348
  - Edentata 334
- El Kef, Tunisia, ecosystem collapse at the K–T boundary 125
- Ellesmere Island, Early Eocene herpetofauna 328
- Elphidium excavatum 123
- Enigmata lutea 39, 41
  - first appearances of 38–9
  - endemism
  - dinosaurs in east Asia 319
  - and dispersal, archosaurs 320
  - fossil fish, North America–east Asia 115, 116, 117
  - Mesozoic nanoplankton 42, 44
  - Indian Ocean 44–50
  - England, southern
    - Early Cretaceous facies changes 15
    - habitat changes inferred from ecological diversity 347
    - Hampshire Basin, Late Eocene–Early Oligocene mammals 343
    - Purbeck–Wealden insects 293–4
    - absence of Xylidae 293–4
    - Isoptera and Blattodea 293
    - sphacids 294
    - Upper Thames Basin 266–7
      - Flandrian environmental history 273–86
      - Late Glacial environmental history 267–73
  - Enneidae 113
  - environment, physiognomic adaptations to
    - 247
  - environmental change
    - Cenozoic, gradual and sudden 125–6
    - complexities of 392
    - and foraminiferal populations
      - hypothesis approach 53–4
      - narrative approach 53
      - foraminiferal response to 129–30, 129–33
      - palaeocommunities 130–3
      - species diversity 129–30
    - Late Quaternary, biotic response to 265–87
      - arctic floral assemblage phases 286
      - birch woodland phase 286
      - Cretaceous–Recent record 266
    - Flandrian environmental history 273–86
    - Late Glacial environmental history 267–73
    - Upper Thames Basin study area 266–7
      - organism reaction to 392
      - possible role of in bryozoan evolutionary radiations 205
    - environmental perturbations 122, 123, 126, 179
  - Eocene thermal maximum
    - maximum poleward extent of vegetation
      - belts 234, 236–9
      - mangroves 236–7
      - polar deciduous forests 238–9
      - tropical aspect forest 237–8
  - Eocene–Oligocene boundary
    - ecological parameters show strong fluctuations near 347, 348
    - major mammalian faunal turnover 342–4, 345
    - Grande Coupure 342–3
    - Eocene–Oligocene event 58
    - Eocene–Oligocene transition, effects due to cooling 240–1

© Cambridge University Press  www.cambridge.org ephidroids 219
pollen from 216, 219
epicontinental seas, Cretaceous 11
Equisetum 268
Equus ferox (wild horse) 371, 373, 375
Erinaceus europaeus 370
Ethiopia
Aramis, oldest putative hominine 381
Omo Kibish, early Homo sapiens 386
Eudicots 225
Dilleniidae 228–9
fossil record 227–8
Hamamelidaceae 227
Magnoliaceae 227
Rosidae 228–9
Eurasia, dispersal of early humans to 383–5 Europe
arrival of Homo heidelbergensis 384 arrival of Homo sapiens 388 coeexistence with Neanderthals 388 colonization
by Homo species 379
human, long or short chronology debate 384 human, Mid Pleistocene 385 Cretaceous aridity, evidence for 15 gaining from faunal turnovers 346 Grande Coupure 328, 336, 342–3 loss of squamates 329
mammalian faunas
Early Miocene 358, 360
Mid Miocene 362–3
Neanderthals 385–6
becoming extinct 388
north-west 339
Britain a peninsula of 368 depopulation and recolonization 388 shallow-water anoxic facies 8 rising Cretaceous sea levels 8 southern Dmanisi, Georgia, early human occupation 384 Gran Dolina, Spain, hominine remains 384–5 Neanderthal sites 385
see also North America, and Europe Europe, Africa and Asia, during the Paleogene 327 eutrophy 39
evaporites 15, 360

evolutionary change, investigated through planktonic foraminifera 81 evolutionary dispersal/vicariance, nanoplankton 38–9 evolutionary innovation 396
exine, and pollen analysis 265 Fagus 279
clearcutting
park tundra flora 272–3 waterlogged sediments 285
Fascicularis 43
faunal assemblages, British Quaternary mammals 369–71 Anglian cold stage 369–71 Devensian 370–1 temperate periods 370
faunal change
based on Tertiary ecological changes 352–3 use of first and last appearances 351 faunal realms, Mesozoic 99 faunal turnovers 393 diachronism of dispersal 345 distinguishing true extinction from pseudextinction 336 major, Paleogene 336–46
Eocene–Oligocene boundary 342–4
K–T boundary 337–9, 344–5
Paleocene–Eocene boundary 339–42
Northern Hemisphere, resulting from glaciation 87–92 Favia 174, 178
feedback, and Milankovitch eccentricity and precession cycles 18 fern prairies 230, 231
ferns 231, 240
modern families restricted in the Cenozoic 230, 235–6 see also pteridophytes fertility fluctuations 43 Filipendula 268
fire
at the K–T boundary 25
a plausible explanation for spread of Alnus 279 fish evolution, impact of global change on 112–20 Africa–South American rift 113–115 ecological factors 120
Eocene freshwater fishes of North America and Europe 115–18 intracontinental tectonism 118–20
fish faunas
Eocene, freshwater, response to environmental change 115–18, 393 modern, minor groups 107 Flandrian environmental history, southern England 273–87 ey early Flandrian 273, 275–7 lag in vegetational responses 275 landscape adjustment to temperature rise 273, 275 vegetational development 275 late Flandrian 282–6 alluviation, possible causes of 284–5 Bronze age, conditions during 284
climatic deterioration 285 distribution of lime trees 284 elm decline 282–3
land clearance for agriculture and cereal production 270–1, 280–1, 283–4
Little Optimum 285–6
Medieval Period pollen evidence 286 mid Flandrian 277–9, 280–1 expansion of Alnus 278–9 human factor 279 regional woodland types 279
Florisant Lake beds 309 Florisphaera profunda 40, 41 indicator of surface-water oligotrophy 42 floristic provinces 215 flowering plants, Cenozoic 225–9 Chloranthaceae, Lazarus effect 227 and climate change 223 diversity 225, 226
Eudicots and Monocots 225, 227–9 radiation and modernization 225, 226 significance of, intrinsic factors 230–1 vegetation diversity 231 flowers 224
foraminifera
benthic
Cenozoic shelf, eastern N America 126–33 dwarfing a response to environmental stress 76 extinction event during the LPTM 58, 340 genus richness, Cretaceous to Recent 52 patterns of morphotypic variation 61, 62 showing episodes of palaeoceanographical change 26–7 species diversity related to temperature and water depth 129 variation during P–E thermal maximum event 69, 77 and the E–O event 58 ecology is proximal target of selection 73 heterochronous analyses 55–6 heterochronous response across the K–T boundary 62–7 across the P–E boundary 67–9 Late Eocene 69, 72–3 iterative evolution 53, 75–6 and the K–T event 57
morphotype analyses 55, 56 no consistent pattern of morphotype preference 77 and the P–E thermal maximum event 57–8 patterns of diversification and large-scale global change events 51 planktonic affected by palaeoceanographic changes 95 decline in 79 distribution within the North Atlantic faunal provinces 81, 82 extinctions during the Late Pliocene 87–92, 88 genus richness, Cretaceous to Recent 52
last occurrences 89
and the P–E thermal maximum event 58, 61
as palaeoclimatic and palaeoceanographic indicators 81 patterns of morphotypic variations 58–61 proliferation during Maastrichtian cooling event 57 species richness 59, 60 transgressive patterns of expansion 94 population response to major environmental change 76 potential role of test shape vs. developmental or life-history characters 74–5 species longevity 76 specific effects of environmental change, approaches to 53–5
foraminiferal assemblages planktonic, eastern subtropical Atlantic 84–7
climatic deterioration during Late Pliocene 85 ODP 659, analysis of the assemblage 84–7
ODP 659, development of a more extreme cold-water fauna 85, 86, 87 ODP 659, relative abundance records 85 foraminiferal palaeocommunities, benthic shallow water 130–3 overview of Cretaceous–Recent history 122–6 forcing mechanisms for biotic change 391 external and internal 33–4 tectonic, and Northern Hemisphere climate 84 forests Antarctic Peninsula, Cretaceous 13 coniferous, Neogene 241 polar deciduous 238–9 swamp 241
tropical aspect 237–8 tropical, Eocene 355
see also woodland fossil assemblages, Quaternary extended ranges of extant animals 371 extinct species, palaeoclimatic significance may be misinterpreted 371–2 fossil record
bryozoans, disappointing 196
Eudicots 227–9
fish, nature of 107–12, 397
diversification 107, 108, 109, 110 gastropods, nature and limitations of 149–50 limitations of 396–7
Monocots 229
terrestrial vertebrates 316
see also insect record; plant fossil record; pollen records France
mid Valanginian event 104
south-east, giraudi Zone 104 Fraxinus 278, 279
free-sporing plants see pteridophytes frogs, ranid 327
fruits 224, 231–2
provide evidence of dispersal 224 γ-diversity, in bivalves 146 gastropods 394
carnivorous, evolution of 152, 155 Cretaceous history 154–8 diversity and species richness 155–7 invasion of non-marine habitats 154–5 latitudinal control on distribution 157–8 ‘Tethyan fauna’ 157
evolutionary innovation 396 exceptionally large forms 157
fossil record 149
nature and limitation of 149–50 K–T boundary extinctions 158–60, 163 Acteonellidae 158–9 appear to be random 160 Nerineoidea 159
vetigastropods and neritopsines 159 Volutidae 160
major faunal changes in the Tertiary 160–2 effects of climate change and plate tectonics 161–2 trans-Arctic interchange of marine animals 160 non-marine evolutionary radiation of 154 Stylomatophora, a problematic group 154–5 predators and feeding: the Mesozoic marine revolution 150–4 development of carnivory 152 exploitation of sulphide-oxidizing bacteria 154 resistance to predation 150, 151 predatory rise in diversity 155, 162 shell drilling by 155–6 shell morphology little use for taxonomy 150 for resistance to predation 150, 151 tropical, specialized diets 154
see also neogastropods Geisaltil (Germany), fish faunas 115 geographical events, Early Paleogene 326–8 Gephyrocapsa mullerae 39
Gephyrocapsa oceanica 39
Gibraltor corridor 327
Gibraltar, Straits of 162, 329
Gigantocapulus 150
Ginkgo 213, 230
range contraction 235
glacial cooling, extent of impact 87 glacial–interglacial alternations 95, 303 effect on insect faunas 299–302, 309 Killarney Oscillation 300–1 rapid 80
glacial-interglacial alternations (cont.)
temperature variations smaller in low-latitude oceans 91–2

glaciation
British Isles
Flandrian, environmental effects 273–87
Late Glacial, environmental effects 267–73 Late Glacial, mammals 370
Northern Hemisphere 79, 120, 331 faunal response to onset of 84–95 faunal turnover, tempo and mode of
extinctions 87–92
linkage between extreme events and
extinctions 89, 91
rapid expansion, high-latitude forcing then identifiable 87 recolonization of the North Atlantic 92–5 onset of in the North Atlantic 28 see also polar ice glacio-eustasy 33–4

glendonites, Cretaceous 13, 48 global change 1–2
and algal symbiosis 177–8 biotic response to 391–8 driving force behind regional environmental change 2
the norm 3 global cooling 58, 297 and byozoans 202, 204 end Eocene 160
late Cretaceous 18, 19
Paleogene–Neogene, and fish extinctions 120 and restricted insect ranges 299 global warming 3 future 1–2
and limestone formation 36–7 Globigerina bulloides 89 increase in 85 tolerant of colder conditions 85, 86 Globigerina decoraperta 86, 89 complex distribution pattern 88 decline of 95
Globigerina oozo 79
Globigerinoides extremus 86, 89 complex distribution pattern 88
decline of 89, 95
Globigerinoides ruber 89 in interglacial periods 95
Globorotalia exilis 88, 89

Globorotalia hirsuta, expansion of biogeographical range 94–5 Globorotalia inflata 89, 94
Globorotalia limbach 88, 89 Globorotalia menardii, changes in depth habitat 92
Globorotalia miocenica 86, 88, 89
extinction of 87–8
Globorotalia punctatula 88, 89, 94 dominated cold-water assemblages 85, 86
extinction of 87–8, 91
Globorotalia truncatulinoides 89 expansion of biogeographical range 94–5 first occurrence, species origination? 92–3 Globorotalia tumida, changes in depth habitat 92 gnatean–angiosperm parallel diversification 220, 221–2
gnateans 217, 219, 221
Gondwana
breakup of 6 caused major changes 20 and development of cephalopod Austral Realm 101
general pattern 320
distinctive amphibian fauna 317–18 early separation of New Zealand 321 separation of Madagascar–Seychelles– India block 320–1
South America–Antarctica–Australia block, breakup of 322
Goniopora 174, 178
Goniopora websteri 170, 179
Grande Coupure 328, 336, 342–3 possibly related to terminal Eocene climatic event 344
Green River Shales, fossil fish faunas 115 sister-taxa, east Asia/Indonesia 115–17 greenhouse gases emitted during volcanic activity 23 and global warming 3 see also carbon dioxide greenhouse world 1
Cretaceous 4, 17, 19
superplume episode 7
Paleocene–Eocene 34
GRIP ice core, shows abruptness of climate cchange 29–30 ground squirrels 375 growth rings 247 indicate seasonality 238 lack of 225, 237

Grypus eques 307

Guembelia cretacea, survived the K–T extinctions 65

Gulo gulo 370

gymnosperms 214, 229

Gypsincopetra 337

habitats

fragmentation of 325

loss of and echinoid extinctions 192–3 open and closed, coexistence of 346 specialization of and community specialization 146

halogens, emitted by volcanic activity 23 heat energy, distribution of 32

Heinrich events/layers 28–9, 386

each event followed by global warming 29

Helianthemum 269

Helicolithus anceps 46

excursions into higher latitudes 49

Heptagenia fuscogrisea 298

Heteroceras 100, 105 found in E. England accompanied by Aconeeras 106

heterochrony 34

heterochronic response across the K–T boundary 62–7 earlier achievement of sexual maturity 66–7

heterochronic modes 65–6, 66

heterochronic response across the P–E boundary 67–9 coordinated response of test shape 69, 70, 71

earlier achievement of sexual maturity 67, 69

heterochronic response in the Late Eocene 69, 72–3

heterococochs 136, 137

accounting for Mesozoic–Cenozoic success of 138–9

ligament system 138–9

aragonitic shell structure 139

bi–polar occurrence 144

latitudinal gradient very steep 142, 148 thin shell layers not suited to polar climates 144

Heterohelix globulosa

Nye Kløv populations 65

progenetic nature of heterochronic signal 68 survived the K–T extinctions 65

Heterohelix navarroensis

progenetic nature of heterochronic signal 68 survived the K–T extinctions 65

Hiattella arctica 144

Hibolites 99

Himalaya–East Alpine orogen 6

Himalayas mountain chain, uplift of and Indian Monsoon 364

Hipparion 241

‘Hipparion datum’ 351

Hippopotamus amphibius 370

Hominidae, evolutionary divergence of humans and apes 380–1

hominines

dentally highly derived 382 origin of 379, 380–2 savannah hypothesis 381

hominoids

dispersal out of Africa 356 in East African faunal assemblages 357–8

Homo

early species dispersed from Africa 379

origins of 382–3

Homo erectus 379, 382

Indonesian/Chinese fossils, dating of 383–4

Homo ergaster 382

Homo habilis 382 assumed evolutionary link with Homo erectus challenged 383

Homo habilis sensu stricto 382

Homo heidelbergensis 379, 385

Homo helmei 386

Homo neanderthalensis 375, 388

see also Neanderthals

Homo rudolfensis 382

Homo sapiens 375

dispersed from Africa 379, 393

first fossil appearance 386 reconstructed pattern of dispersal 387

Hooley 234

hoplits 100

hotspot chains 21

human evolution 379–90

dispersal of early humans to Eurasia 383–5 evolution of the Neanderthals 385–6 origin and dispersal of modern humans 386–9

origin of hominines 380–2 origins of genera Homo and Paranthropus 382–3

human evolution (cont.)
turnover pulse hypothesis 382–3 study of effects of climate change 389–90 human intervention 277, 279 disruption caused by 3, 395 ‘moving out of trouble’ almost impossible for insects now 310, 315 see also agriculture; Bronze Age Hydnophora 174, 178
Hydromedus gigas 335–6

Icacinaceae, range contraction 232–3 ice age, Cenozoic, onset of, Late Pliocene cooling 81, 83–4 ice volume buildup in Britain, isotope stage two 375 glacial–interglacial fluctuations 95, 368 benthic δ¹⁸O data for proxy 85 extent of entrainment and southward advection 87
long-term fluctuations at Milankovitch frequencies, a global climatic control 83, 394
ice-rafting 272, 382
Cenozoic 28, 81, 83, 85
iceberg path, North Atlantic sea floor sediments 29
possible deposits, Cretaceous Indian Ocean 47–8 seasonal in the Cretaceous? 12–13, 48 ice-sheets
Northern Hemisphere 83, 272, 273
wasting of 273, 275 polar, Antarctica 26, 58
Quaternary 28–30
and Milankovitch cyclicity 28 and short-term climatic shifts 28–9 see also glaciation; polar ice icehouse world 1, 391
Oligocene–Recent 34
Quaternary 20, 28
igneous activity
Cenozoic 23–4
Cretaceous 6–7
ikaiti, indicates cold sea floor temperature 13 impact structures
Cenozoic 24, 24, 25, 26, 325
Cretaceous 7–8
India, endemically modified Cretaceous Gondwanan fauna 321–2
Indian Ocean

Cretaceous, nanofossils and climate change 44–50
dendrochronology 44–50 expansion of the Austral water mass 47 nannofossil climate-change indicators 46 ‘palaeobiogeographical fronts’ 44, 45 palaeobiogeographical zones 44, 45, 47, 49–50 palaeotemperature changes influencing fossil excursions 47, 49

Indonesia
Homo erectus
arrival of 383–4 population may have persisted until modern humans arrived 387–8 insect record
Early Cretaceous 289–94 appearance of social insects 290
general pattern 289–93
Purbeck–Wealden insects of southern England 293–4
Late Cretaceous 294–6
continuing rise in extant families 294 K–T extinction, little effect on insects at family level 294–6, 302 Quaternary 299–302
nature of 304–5
Tertiary 296–9
few extinctions 296–7 generic extinction end-Paleocene 297 insects (Hexapoda) 393 affected by sea-level rise, Late Cretaceous 294 Chironomidae 304
as indicators of environmental change 300–2
Coleoptera 295, 295
effects of heavy metal and organophosphate pollutants 301–2 geological longevity of some species 306–10
migration a quick response to environmental change 296, 305
Mutual Climatic Range reconstructions 311–15
respond to effects of eutrophication 301 scavengers provide indication of past climatic conditions 311
diapause (hibernation) 294–5, 295–6
Diptera 295, 296, 304
Ephemoptera 304
Hemiptera 304
extinctions 290, 291, 294
highest family extinctions and origination, Early Cretaceous 289–90 Lepidoptera 304
continued evolution 297, 297 Megaloptera 304
modern, restricted distributions 299 Neuroptera, extinctions 290, 292 Odonata 304
extinctions 290, 292
Orthoptera 304
extinctions 290, 291
peak in Oligocene 297, 298 preservation in sediments and amber 288
Quaternary
evolution or extinction 309 high degree of evolutionary stability 308–9 thermally sensitive, tracked acceptable climates 309, 315 variety of habitats and diverse morphologies 303–4 richness of fossil record 288 Trichoptera 304
iridium, at the K–T boundary Chixculub impact structure 25 Gubbio 7
Iron Age 285, 287
isotopic shifts caused by deterioration of the global climate 27 response to oceanic carbon crisis 27 Juglandaceae
modernization and diversification 227, 228, 228 range contraction 232, 233–4, 233
Juniperus 269, 275
K–T boundary
bryozoans 202
abrupt increase in relative skeletal mass after 199 collapse of productivity at 194 cooling prior to 57 echinoid extinctions 190, 191–2 extinction event disappearance of non-avian dinosaurs and some avians 325 little effect on insects at family level 294–6, 302 no detectable effect on amphibian fauna 325 western North America, survivors rapidly speciating and diversifying 345 gastropod extinctions 158–60, 163 heterochronic response across 62–7 mammals
dietary and locomotor diversification after dinosaur extinction 335 extinction only seen in Montana 337–9, 344 and plant communities 239–40 supposed collapse of algal symbiosis 174, 180 Kampferia magnifica 41, 46 kaolinite 15
Kap København assemblage indicates importance of environmental opportunity 308 makes good ecological sense 308 no present day geographical analogue 307–8 shows geological longevity of insects 306–8 Kara impact structure, Russia 7 Karakaschiceras 104
Kenya
Alia Bay and Kanapo, Australopithecus anamensis 381
Nariokotome, Homo ergaster/erectus 383, 385 Lagenia substriata 123
lagerstätten effects 121 teleosts 109
Lagomorpha 334
lake sediments, reveal effect of Quaternary climatic and environmental change on insects 302 land bridges 333
Afro–Arabia and south-west Asia, crucial for establishing the time of mammal exchange 356 AfroArabia and south-west Asia 351 influencing vegetation interchange 234, 242 Northern Hemisphere, at Paleocene–Eocene boundary 341, 345 Panama Isthmus see Panama Isthmus Thule Bridge and de Geer route 115 see also corridors Land Mammal Ages (LMA) 336, 339 Laramide–Sevier orogenic uplift 9 larval development, non-feeding see lecithotrophy or brooded development Late Glacial
definition and delimitation unclear, British Isles 267–8 Late Glacial Interstadial 268–72 climatic amelioration 268–9 Late Glacial period (Dimlington stadial) 268
Loch Lomond Stadial 272–3
Late Paleocene Thermal Maximum (LPTM) 57, 58 Late Pliocene
climatic deterioration 85
extinctions during 87–92, 88
Laurasia
Creteceous extinction of rhychocephalians 318 distinctive amphibian fauna 317–18 rise of modern crocodile 319 Laurentide ice-sheet, shows short-term climatic shifts 28–9 Lava Camp Mine, Alaska, insect fauna 309 Lazarus corals 174, 175, 177–8, 397 leaf margin analysis 247 applied to Cretaceous leaves in North America 247, 248, 249 leaf morphology, flowering plants 224–5 leaf physiognomy and climate change 244–64 limitations of CLAMP 258–64 plant physiognomy as a climatic indicator 246–58 lecithotrophy or brooded development 187–9 Lemmus lemmus 370
lepidosaurians
choristoderes 319, 323
phylogenetic hypotheses plotted against time 316–17, 317 rhychocephalians 318–19
Leptoria 174, 178
Lepus timidus 370
Levant
early Homo sapiens 386
overlap between sister clades 386 limestone formation, and global warming 36–7 Lipotyphla 334
Litodactylus leucogaster 307
Little Optimum 285–6
Littleton 160, 161
sister-groups 161
Littorina littorea 160, 161
Littorina obtusata 161, 161
Littorina saxatilis 160, 161
Littorina squalida 160
LMA see Land Mammal Ages (LMA)
Loch Lomond Stadial 3, 30, 272–3 biotic response 272–3 cooling triggered by influx of meltwater 272 hypotheses proposed for 272 London Clay floras
palms argue for frost-free climate 238 similar to present south-east Asian floras 237 LPTM see Late Paleocene Thermal Maximum (LPTM) lucinoids 136, 137, 144 restriction to oxygen-deficient environments 139 Luristan, Iran, gastropods 158–9
Lynnia 144
Macoma 144
macroevolutionary lag 148, 396 Madagascar–Seychelles–India block 320–1 isolation of Madagascar from India 321 timing of break up controversial, slow and fast hypotheses 321–2 magnetostratigraphical analysis, dating errors 350–1 Mammal Neogene (MN) zones 352 relationship to chronometric, chronostratigraphical and planktonic zonation 354–5 show similarities and differences between European and African faunas 362–3 zonation criteria reconsidered 352 mammalian faunas
African 395
extinctions and forced evolutionary changes 382–3 and the closure of Tethys 356–7 Cretaceous, terrestrial record 333–4 evry Mesozoic, community structure 353
Early Miocene 357–60
Africa 258, 357–8, 359
community structure, East Africa 358, 358, 359 Europe 358, 360
early Paleocene African, changed by dispersals 356 archaic look 355
Eocene, dominated by small mammals 355
Late Miocene, AfroArabia 364–5
Mid Miocene
Africa 361–2
community structure, East Africa 358, 359, 361 dietary guilds 362–3
Europe 362–3
Mid to Late Miocene 360–5
West Asia 363
Neogene, Arabian 364–5
Oligocene 356
Quaternary
Last Cold Stage 373, 375–7
last interglacial 372–3, 374 response to environmental change 378
mammals
climate-related ecological trends 346–7, 348 Cretaceous faunas 333–4 differ from modern faunas 334–5 Eocene 334
early, main radiation of 355 major factors affecting distribution 369 mammal faunas and Land Mammal Ages (LMA) 336 Paleocene, first records 334 Paleogene 333–49
climate-related ecological trends 346–7, 348 major faunal turnovers 336–46 return to the sea 335–6 terrestrial record 333–5 physiological adaptations allowing range extension 372 Quaternary, in Britain 369–77
Last Cold Stage 373, 375–7
Last Interglacial 372–3, 374
seasonal migrations 372 Mammuthus primigenius (woolly mammoth) 370, 373
mangroves 236–7
vegetation to landward of 237–8 see also Nypa
Manson Impact Structure 7
Marginulina cf. Marginulina colligata 123 Mari Hills, Pakistan 158 marine carbonate cycle 36, 37 marine carbonates and fossils, oxygen isotopes 14–15 marine connections see seaways marine mammals 335–6, 372 Early Eocene 355
marine productivity, drop in at K–T boundary 325 marine provinces 146
thermally controlled 147 marine revolution, Mesozoic 150–4 marsupials 333, 334 appearance of in South America 339 Lancian fauna 337
spread of 334
mass extinctions 1, 11 at the E–O boundary, planktonic foraminifera 59, 61 benthic fauna 123, 125 Cenomanian–Turonian 221 impact generated 8
and the K–T boundary 25–6 marine, anoxic events as a cause 16–17 nannofossil, Triassic/Jurassic boundary 42 Northern Hemisphere, Late Pliocene, pervasive 95 tempo and mode of, Northern Hemisphere glaciation 87–92 see also K–T boundary
MAT see Mean Annual Temperature (MAT)
Mawsonia 113
Mean Annual Range of Temperature (MART) 246–7 Mean Annual Temperature (MAT) 247, 248, 253, 255, 257, 258 assumptions when using leaf margin analysis 248–9 Cenomanian 247
three-dimensional representation of leaf size 256, 259 Mediterranean basin during the Oligocene, Early and Mid Eocene 357 and the ‘Messinian salinity crisis’ 360
Mediterranean Sea
formation of 357
Neogene 329
Meles meles 370
menardiform taxa, Late Pliocene lack thick calcite crust 86, 89, 92 replenishment of 93
Mesolithic–Neolithic transition, marked by elm decline 283 Mesopotamian–Arabian Gulf, marine sedimentation interrupted during the Aquitanian 356
INDEX

Mesozoic marine revolution (MMR) 150–4 development of gastropod carnivory 152 predation pressure and change in gastropod shell morphology 150–1 Messel, fish faunas 115 Messinian Salinity Crisis 22, 351 aridity associated with 351, 360 associated with eustatic sea level changes 21 and continental collision 26, 162 effects on bryozoan evolution 195, 204 mammalian dispersal and climate change 360 restriction on Mediterranean faunal diversity 120
Metasequoia 230, 235, 239 methane (CH₄), changes in the atmosphere during glacials 32
Metoicoceras geslinianum Zone 8 shows southward migration of Boreal fauna 14
micro-diamonds 25
Microstaurus chiastius 46 Aptian southward excursion 47 indicates Berriasian–Valangian palaeobiogeographical stability 47
Microtus gregalis 370, 375
Microtus oeconomus (northern vole) 370, 373
Mid Pleistocene Revolution 33
Mid-Continental Seaway 115, 299, 320, 322, 323, 324
migrations, not controlled solely by sea level changes 105–6
Milankovitch cycles/cyclicity 4, 20, 33, 83, 85, 391 change in 382
and Quaternary climate change 33, 367, 368 short term control on Cretaceous climate change 18–19
and the Vostok ice core 32–3 Mingies Ditch 275
dominant Alnus woodland 278
park tundra flora 272–3 waterlogged sediments 285
mitochondrial DNA (mtDNA) 389
MMR see Mesozoic marine revolution (MMR)
MN see Mammal Neogene (MN) zones
Monocots 225
Alismatidae 229
Commelinidae 229
fossil record 229
Poaceae 229
monocotyledons 209
monotrems 333, 334
Montana, USA
comparison of Paleogene faunal turnovers 344–5
non-marine sedimentary sequence, vertebrate-bearing, spanning the K–T boundary 337–9
Montanaea 174–5, 178
Monterey Event 22, 27
multituberculates 337, 339
Mutual Climatic Range Method 311, 312, 313–15
Mya 144
Myriophyllum 268
Myrela 144
mytiloids 136, 137
Namib Desert 369
Nannococcus abundans 41, 42 nannoliths 35
nannoplankton
as agents of global climate change 36–8 calcification 36–8
primary production 36
dimethyl sulphide and global albedo 38 environment 39–40, 43
r-selected, temperature sequence 39–40 as recorders of global climate change, controls on biogeography 38–42 depth structure 40, 42
environment 39–40, 43
evolutionary dispersal/vicariance 38–9 nannoplankton assemblages 43 deep-photic assemblage 40, 42 Naticoidea 152
nautiloids 97
Neanderthals
evolution of 385–6 physique contrasts with Nariokotome skeleton 385
Nearest Living Relative (NLR) Approach 245 inappropriate for pre-Quaternary studies 245 neogastropods diversification in 155–6, 162 low Cretaceous diversity in the Tropics, hypotheses 156–7
Neogene Dispersal Phases, for hominoids out of Africa 356
INDEX

Neogloboquadrina atlantica 88, 94
extinction of 91
Neogloboquadrina pachyderma 89, 94 dominant during glacial periods 87 migration route 94 records dominated by obliquity orbital rhythm 85, 86
a subpolar species, first peak in 85
Neohoplites 104
Neoponides lunata, patterns of test size
change 65
neoselachians age of differentiation 109–10, 111 Cenomanian diversification of rajiforms 112 fossil sharks, assignment to modern groups a problem 111 modest diversification of 107 Nerita 159
Neuquén Basin, Argentina 104 niche partitioning, low latitude oceans 92 Ninella torquata 155
NLR see Nearest Living Relative (NLR) Approach
non-angiosperms, diversity and abundance through the Cretaceous, mid-palaeolatitudes 213–15 conifer diversity 213
decline in cycadophytes and pteridophytes 213 epheidroid pollen 216, 219 low within-flora diversity 213, 214, 215 salamanders, aridity left disjunct species 330
North America
Cretaceous
Late, major transgressive–regressive cycles 324
marsupials dominant 334
Eocene faunal changes in the interior 328–9
and Europe, Eocene freshwater fishes 115–18
leaf margin analysis of Cretaceous leaves 247, 248, 249, 258, 258 mid-continent aridity, Late Oligocene– Early Miocene 330
modification of vegetation post K–T event 239–40
no barriers to north–south range alterations 331
Quaternary insect assemblages 300 modern species richness lower in East 300 salamanders
diversification by vicariance 324 effects of Oligocene cooling 329 southward retreat of primitive passerines 331 see also Lava Camp Mine, Alaska; Montana, USA
North America, eastern benthic foraminifera, Cenozoic 126–33 US Middle Atlantic continental margin, Cenozoic shelf deposits on 126–9 depositional history 126–9 foraminiferal response to environmental change 129–33
North America–Greenland–Europe
continuity 328
North America–South America
Miocene faunal interchange 329 Panamanian Isthmus, Pliocene and Great American Interchange 329–40 North Atlantic change in temperature of surface water circulation 315 loss of albatrosses, end Pliocene 331 movement of oceanic polar front 268, 273 post-glaciation recolonization by planktonic foraminifera 92–5 faunal diversification 95–6 immigrant taxa from the Indo-Pacific oceans 93–4, 96 vegetation/mammal interchange 234–5 North Atlantic Deep Water (NADW) formation of 32
suppression of 29, 30, 272
North Atlantic Drift 375, 377
North Atlantic Igneous Province 23 North Atlantic Seaway, aided migration of
ammonites 101, 106
North Sea area, southern, Nypa-dominated mangrove reconstructed 236–7 northern continents, Pliocene cooling and Pleistocene glaciations 331
Northern Hemisphere
Boreal and Tethyan realms 99 Cenozoic plants, controls on distribution and persistence 234–5 glaciation see glaciation, Northern Hemisphere
insect distribution response to climatic
change 299–300
Northern Hemisphere (cont.)
onset of ice 83 transformation of high-latitude climate, theories for 84 Northmoor
much non-arboreal pollen 269 peat lenses 269
Notelops 114
Notophagus decline in microthermal rainforests 242 formerly widespread 235
NOW database 353
Nucella lapillus 161
sister species 161
Nucella lapillus incrassata 161 nutrient distribution, and nannoplankton distribution 39, 43
Nuttalides trunmpyi 26 patterns of test shape variations 70, 71 significant drop in test size across the P–E boundary 69, 70
Nye Klev section, foraminiferal test size variation across the K–T boundary 64, 65

Nypa 229
range contraction 232, 233

OAES see oceanic anoxic events (OAES) Obik Sea, drying out of 328 ocean waters, thermal expansion and contraction of 34 ocean–atmosphere interactions, Cenozoic 31–3 oceanic anoxic events (OAES) and allopatic speciation 120 Cenomanian, and benthic foraminifera 122, 124

coincide with platform drowning events 11
Cretaceous 122, 124
related to formation of Ontong–Java Plateau 7, 18
Valangian–Campanian 16–17

ocean circulation affected by closure of major seaways 26 Cenozoic, deep 32
Cretaceous 9–10, 17, 19 depth, and oceanic hiatuses 10 general circulation modelling of 10 global climate and ocean-current circulation interactions 32 Southern Ocean circum-polar gyre 26, 31 oceanic crust production 5

Cretaceous
and angiosperm diversification 220–1 and decreased CO2 18 from mid-ocean ridges 23 see also sea floor spreading oceanic hiatuses 14 and deep water circulation 10 oceanic polar front early Flandrian movement 273
Late Glacial 268
oceans, calcium depletion at K–T boundary 25
ODP Site 738C core, foraminiferal test size variation across the K–T boundary 64, 65

Olbiogaster 290
Olocostephanus 100, 103–4
Oman, ‘Gosau-type’ fauna, Maastrichtian 167 Ontong–Java Plateau, formation of 7, 18 ophiolites, obducted 6
orogenies 33, 118
Cenozoic, and climate change 30–1
Cretaceous 5, 6, 19
affecting the carbon cycle 17 and transformation of Northern Hemisphere high latitude climate 84 outgassing 4, 23

Ovibos moschatus 370
18O/16O ratio 14
18O concentrations, polar ice cores 273 δ18O curves, Barremian–Maastrichtian 14 δ18O excursions, onset of Northern Hemisphere ice 83
oxygen minimum zone 125

P–E see Palaeocene–Early Eocene Pachygyra 174
Pactopus 299
paedomorphosis 66, 67, 76
palaeobiogeography
Cenozoic global plant distributions 232–6
flowering plants 232–5
non-flowering plants 235–6
Cretaceous cephalopods 99–101
Boreal, Tethyan and Austral realms 99, 100, 101, 102
episodic migrations 101
fossil fish distributions have historical and ecological explanations 113 role of systematics in choosing between historical explanations 113–20 nannofossil, Mesozoic and Cenozoic 42–3 bipolar distributions 42 differentiation during the Mesozoic 42, 43 distribution in the Cretaceous Indian Ocean 45, 46 latitudinal variations in Palaeogene Atlantic 43 link to nutrients for Cretaceous coccoliths 43 Triassic nannofossils 42 nannofossil zones, Late Cretaceous 44, 45 planktonic foraminifera, controlled by water mass patterns 91 Southern Ocean Cretaceous taxa, distribution controlled by water palaeotemperature 44 palaeoceanography
Cenozoic 26–7
Cretaceous 8–11, 13
control on Cephalopod distribution 102–6 eustasy and the great transgressions 8–9 global persistence of chalk facies 10–11 oceanic circulation 9–10 oceanic hiatuses and deep water circulation 10 palaeoclimates changes in shown by changing insect assemblages 305 Cretaceous Indian Ocean, nannofossil climate-proxy curves 47, 48 drawback to research 50 palaeoclimatic records, Northern Hemisphere, faunal and δ18O, comparison of 84–7 palaeocommunities, and environmental change 130–3 palaeoenvironmental history
Cenozoic 34
Cretaceous 19
palaeoenvironmental indicators, Coleoptera as 305–6 palaeogeography
Cenozoic 20–1, 22
Cretaceous 6
control on Cephalopod distribution 101
Early Cretaceous 318
Late Cretaceous 323
Palaeolithic tools, Late Glacial 273
Palaeoloxodon antiquus 370
Palaeomymyrus dauisburgi 298 Palaeoplacycarya 234
palaeotemperatures, Cretaceous, James Ross Island 12 Paleocene–Early Eocene transition 57–8 widespread diversification, terrestrial and marine biotas 58 Paleogene–Eocene boundary heterochonic response across 67–9 major mammalian faunal turnover 339–42 due to climate change and low sea level 345 sudden appearance of new mammal faunas 341 no major change detected in South American faunas 341 Paleogene–Eocene transition, decline in diversity 242 Palaeosox fritzschei 117 palms, in tropical aspect forest 237 palygorskite 15 paleontology 265
Pan-Gorilla clade 380
Pan-Homo last common ancestor 381 Panama Isthmus
an effective barrier to species dispersal 94, 96 closure of 6, 17, 26
connection made 322–3 emergence of 84, 162, 394 and Great American Interchange 329–40 a land bridge 21
Pangaea, effects of breakup 44
Panthera leo 371
Parahoplites nutfieldiensis Zone 8 Paranthropus 379, 382
origins of 382–3
parasites 290
Paratethys 357
Parelophus 114
peat peat bogs, Late Flandrian 282 shows environmental change, Late Glacial and Flandrian 266–7 periglacial activity, Late Glacial 268 Peripluma 144
Perissodactyla 339
permafrost 272
permafrost areas, preservation of fossil assemblages 306–10 phosphate-rich horizons, on platforms 11
I N D E X

photosynthesis 361
land plant 246
phylogenies
fossil fish 107, 121
teleost 112
Pileolus 157, 1159
Pinus 286
Pinus pollen 268
Pinus woodland 275
placentals 333, 334
spread of 334

plant communities, Cenozoic 236–43 C4 plants 241
patterns of community change 239–42
Eocene thermal maximum 240
Eocene–Oligocene transition 240–1 K–T transition 239–40
Miocene and Pliocene 241–2 patterns of species diversity and floral turnover 242 reconstruction of and distribution in response to Eocene thermal maximum 236–9
mangroves 236–7
polar deciduous forest 238–9 tropical aspect forest 237–8 plant dispersal 224, 232 plant fossil record Cenozoic plant record 225–32
plant groups 225–30
significance of flowering plants: intrinsic factors 230–2
nature and application of 223–5 plant growth environment, interpreted through woods and flowering plant leaves 224
plant physiognomy, as a climate indicator 246–58
plants in hyperspace 249–58 plant productivity, Cretaceous 16 plant record, Cenozoic 225–32
plant groups 225–30
flowering plants 225–9 Juglandaceae, modernization and diversification 227, 228, 228
non-flowering plants 229–30 significance of flowering plants, intrinsic factors 230–2
fruits and seed 231–2 species diversity and floral biology 230–1, 239
vegetation diversity 231

vegetative biology and physiognomy, leaves and woods 232 Plantago 265, 268
plants
C3 and C4 photosynthetic pathways 361 free-sporing 215, 216, 216 modern, distributions related to climate 246–7 selection during evolution 246 Platanus 228
plate tectonics
Afro–Arabian plate, effects of movement of 161–2, 365
Cenozoic 20–1, 22
control on climate change 30–1 and changing biogeographical distribution patterns of amphibian, reptiles and birds 331–2
Cretaceous 6
control on Cephalopod distribution 101 long-term control on climate change 17 and insect faunas 298–9 producing unstable conditions 365 see also named plates Plateumaris nitida, geological longevity of 309 platform drowning events 5 affecting echinoids 182, 192–3 associated with extinctions 11
Platycarya, range contraction 232, 233 Platycarya strobilacea, single modern specimen 234 Plerogyra 178
polar ice
Antarctic, build-up at the Terminal Eocene Event 342
Cretaceous? 12–13
first major Cenozoic build-up 336 Quaternary, mammalian faunal response to 367–8
pollen 224, 265
angiosperm 209, 215, 217–218 Aquilapollenites-type 219 architecture of 224 cereal-type 280–1, 284
Upper Thames basin 279
Classopollis 218, 219
Compostio pollenites rhizophorus 233 the Cretaceous–Recent record 266 Platycarpapollenites 234 polyptic (ephedroid) 216, 217, 219 increase in diversity and abundance 220 protected by exine 265
Spinizonocolpites 232, 236 triaperturate 209, 215
pollen analysis 265 reconstruction of Quaternary environments 393 pollen records
Abingdon 268
Buscot Lock 278
Cothil Fen 273, 274, 275, 278
Daisy Banks Fen 278–9, 279, 280–1, 286
decline in Ulmus pollen 282 rise in herbaceous pollen 284
Northmoor 269
Rissington 268, 269
Sidlings Copse 275, 276–7, 278, 279, 285
decline in Ulmus pollen 282
rise in herbaceous pollen 284 Sparton Fen 268, 269, 270–1, 273, 275, 277, 278, 279
decline in Ulmus pollen 282
rise in herbaceous pollen 284 Vale of the White Horse 269–70 pollen and spore assemblages, pre-Quaternary 266 pollination 230–1 faithful, specialist and diverse 231 Populus 268
Port Meadow, waterlogged sediments 285 Primates 339
Eocene families 355
Princeton flora, British Columbia 239
Prinsius bisulcatus 43
Prinsius martini 43 Probiscidea 334
progenesis
in angiosperms 220 in foraminifera 66, 68, 69, 77–8 protobranches 136, 137
in present day Arctic and Antarctic faunas 142 provincialism, Mesozoic nanoplankton 42
Pteranodon 324 pteridophytes 213, 229 relative abundances 215, 216 pteriomorphs 136, 137
thin shell layers not suited to polar climates 144
Pterocaryopsis 234
Pterosaurs, Cretaceous diversity decline 319
Palleniata 93
coiling direction patterns 94
Palleniata prinalis, a deep dweller 94 Purbeck Limestone Group, insects of 293–4
Quercus 228, 278, 286
Quercus woodland 275 radiations bryozoan 196, 201–2, 205
planktonic foraminifera
Late Cretaceous and Paleogene 58–9 Paleocene–Eocene, simpler morphotypic structure 59 see also adaptive radiation
Rangifer tarandus (reindeer) 370, 373 Red Sea 162
reef communities collapse and recovery models 164–5, 178 Cretaceous, confusion concerning 168–9, 179 hiatuses 180
seen as recovery intervals 178
and Lazarus corals 178
modern, emergence of 180 period of absence 177 preservation in situ 168 problem of reef and framework definition 169 treatment as changing sequence of single kind of community 168–9 Repagulum parvidentatum 42, 46 movement into intermediate latitudes 47 reptiles non-archosaurian groups, Barremian 318–19 in subtropical–tropical conditions 328
Reticulo fenestra 43
Rhacolepis 114
rift 118
Africa–South America 6 and biogeographic distribution of fossil fish 113–15 Antarctica–Australia 6, 21, 22, 31 and development of the Indian Ocean 6 doming prior to, Kenya 357 linking western Tethys with the Arctic 106 Red Sea and Gulf of Aden 357
South America–Antarctica 31
INDEX

Rissington
   park tundra flora 272–3
tundra vegetation pollen 268
Rithina 293
Rodentia 334, 355
Rumex 268

Sahara desert 369
Saiga tatarica, brief incursion in Britain 377 salamanders 324, 329, 330, 331
Salisbury and Albermarle embayments (SAE), Cenozoic shelf deposits 126–9 assembly of new communities 131 Calvert Formation 128
   Cenozoic diversity trends 129–30, 129 Chowan River Formation 128–9, 130 high diversity community 133 Coastal Plain units, deposition related to high stands 124, 126–7, 127 Eastover Formation 130
   foraminifera indicate cool conditions 128 low diversity community 129, 133 Nanjemoy Formation 130 depositional environment 127–8 foraminiferal occurrences 130–1, 133
   Norfolk Arch 127
   Pinney Point Formation 128, 130
   Pungo River Formation 130 rich in phosphorite 128 species diversity trend and increasing taxonomic diversity 134 stratigraphical ranges of benthic foraminifera 130–3
   Yorktown Formation 130 ice-mediated transgressions 128
   Salix 268, 269, 286
   Sanguisorba 269
   Santana Formation doubts about palaeoenvironment 114
   fish faunas
   no special relationship with West Africa 115 similar to those of Kem Kem Beds (Morocco) 113 similar to those of Tepexi, Mexico 114 sauropod hiatus 324
   savanna grasslands 241
   Saynaceras 104
   Scolytus multistriatus 283 Scolytus scolytus 283 sea cows (Sirenia) 335 range restricted through dependence on sea grasses 335–6
   sea floor spreading 4, 19 Pacific, and mantle plume 6 see also ocean crust production; plate tectonics; rifting sea levels biota coping with dramatic changes in 391–2
   Cenozoic, causes and rates of change 33–4
   Cretaceous 4, 44, 294, 324 changes in affecting cephalopod
   distribution 102–3
   changes in not sole control on migrations 105–6
   high/very high 8–9, 17, 19 low 8, 9
   not under glacioeustatic control 13 major falls in and development of freshwater and land snails 154–5, 162
   and faunal turnover at Paleocene– Eocene boundary 342 Quaternary changes, important to terrestrial vertebrates 368 rate of change influence preservational potential 182
   sea surface temperatures (SST), Nordic Sea 273, 277
   seabirds, Pliocene–Pleistocene distributions related to changes in ocean currents 331 seagrass associations 200 seagrass communities 139 seals, sea lions and walruses 335 seasonality 145
   seaways
   aiding migration 101, 106 Atlantic–Mediterranean marine connections 21
   Cretaceous, severing of 19 major closure of 26
   opening of 6, 17, 19
   open at Paleocene–Eocene boundary 342 South Atlantic–Tethys 113 see also Bering Strait; Gibraltar, Straits of; land bridges; Turgai Strait; other named seaways
   seeds 231–2
   provide evidence of dispersal 224 sepiolite 15
Seribiscutum primitivum 42, 46
movement into intermediate latitudes 47, 49 shelf deposits, Cenozoic 126–9 shelf seas, Mesozoic, spread of ammonites 101
Siderastrea 174, 175, 178
Sidlings Copse 279, 285
changes in woodland 275
expansion of pioneer arboreal vegetation 275, 276–7 pre-clearance climax woodland 276–7, 278
woodland clearance 284
Sirenia 335–6, 355
Siwalik Formation
Mid Miocene faunal trends 364 record of Asian Neogene life 357 social wasps 290 soil carbonates, recording Late Paleocene carbon excursion 340–1 South Africa, early Homo sapiens 386
South America 334
Late Eocene, probable arrival of mammals from Africa 342
South America–Africa connection, Paleogene, a biogeographical necessity 326–7 South America–Antarctica–Australia block, breakup of 322
South Atlantic Ocean 6
South Atlantic Seaway, aided ammonite migration 101
South China, intracontinental orogeny 6 Spartum Fen 270–1
changes in woodland 275
dominant Alnus woodland 278, 279
expansion of pioneer arboreal vegetation 275 hazel maxima 277
high frequency of cereal pollen 270–1, 284
pre-clearance climax woodland 270–1, 278 response to climate amelioration 269 rise in water table 285
tundra vegetation pollen 268
woodland clearance 284, 286–7 spatial analysis of African Mid Miocene faunas 358, 359, 361–2 based on Harrison concept 353 species abundance records, environmental change impact and glacial–interglacial climatic oscillation 79–80 species diversity/richness 347, 348 and abundance angiosperms, Cretaceous, mid-palaeolatitudes 211–13 non-angiosperms, Cretaceous, mid-palaeolatitudes 213–15 angiosperms, trends in 210
Britain
Last Cold Stage mammals 373, 375–7
Last Interglacial mammals 372–3, 374
Cenozoic, patterns of and floral diversity seem to reflect climate change 242 and environmental change 129–30 and floral biology 230–1 gastropods 155–7
and geography, mutual dependency 88 latitudinal diversity gradient, bivalves 140–5 planktonic foraminifera, declined 59
Sphagnun 268
Sphenolithus 43
spores 265
see also plants, free-sporing stable carbon isotope technique, use of 366 Stegaster, extinction of 193–4 Steller’s Sea Cow 335–6
Stephanocenia 174, 178
Stephanorhinus hemitoechus 370 87Sr/86Sr ratio 15, 57
overall increase in during the Cenozoic 27 Stratiotes 229
Subbotina linaperata 69, 72–3 morphological response accompanied by habitat shift 72, 74 shape variations 72, 73 significant decrease in test size 69, 72, 72 subduction of the East Pacific Rise, effects of 21 and the rise of the Andes 6 sulphate aerosols, formation of 38 sulphur, emitted by volcanic activity 23 superplume, mid-Cretaceous 6, 7, 9, 17
Supertethys hypothesis 16
Sus scrofa 370
Talpa europaea 370
taphonomy, imposing limitations on CLAMP 259–60
INDEX

Taxodium, range contraction 235 tectonic forcing mechanisms, and Northern Hemisphere climate 84 tectonic stress 33
tectonism, intracontinental and fossil freshwater fish faunas 118–20 taxic mixing tied to geological events 118, 119, 120 Tekites 26
teleoclasts 111–12 diversity peaks 108, 109 impressive diversification 107 record shows different pattern 111 temperature, and nanoplankton distribution 39, 43 Terminal Eocene Event, post-dates the E-O boundary 342 termites 290
indicate warm conditions 293 Tethys
belemnites vanished by end-Cenomanian 100
closure of 20, 357
and mammalian faunas 356–7 exceptionally large gastropods, Late Cretaceous 157 Late Cretaceous water temperatures on carbonate platforms 156 Miocene
closure of 351
effects of division of 161–2 new Austral belemnite fauna, Dimetobleidae 100 see also Mediterranean Sea Textularia 123
Theodoxus 159
thermal gradients 335
Thracia 144
Thaumaturus intermedius 117
Thaumaturus spannuthi 117
Thule Bridge 115
Thylechius 187
Tibetan Plateau
and Himalayan chain, influencing Late Miocene regional climates 365 influencing Cenozoic climate change 30–1 uplift during the Neogene, effects of 360 uplift possibly shifting the Indian Monsoon pattern 351, 364 Tilia 278, 286
dominant tree in base rich areas 278 Toba, Mount, eruption of 23–4 and climatic deterioration 393
Tonna zonatum 153
Tranolithus orionatus 46 movement into intermediate latitudes 47 transfer function concept, pollen and foraminiferal data 245 transgressions Aptian 8
basal Chalk 10
Cenomanian and Turonian 8–9 trophic guilds 353
Tropics
large-scale refugium or an area of generation 147 preferred site of origin for many marine clades 147–8 tundra conditions, inference of based only on palynological data unsafe 310 Turgai Strait 234, 318 turnover pulse hypothesis, and human evolution 382–3 turtles 318
Typha 268
Uaine, Lochan (Cairngorms), change in chironomid faunas due to cooling 301 Ulmus 265, 278, 286
Late Flandrian decline in 282–3, 286 possible causes 283
Ulmus woodland 275
uplift effects of 31
see also Tibetan Plateau Upper Thames Basin 266–7 biotic response to environmental change, framework for 286, 287
Flandrian environmental history 273–87
Late Glacial environmental history 267–73
pollen sites 267
upwelling and productivity events, Cretaceous 11 upwelling zones 331, 335 associated with deserts 369
Cretaceous 43
Ursus arctos (brown bear) 371, 373
USA, low Campanian sea levels 9
Valanginides 104
Valdotermes bremanac 293
Vasum turbinellus 151 vegetation crises in and climate change 265
Cretaceous
  low-latitude 16 terrestrial high-latitude 12 petrifying, Miocene 241 sluggish response to Late Glacial climate change 268 vertebrates, terrestrial fossil record 316
Old World, response of biotas to Neogene climate change 350–66 continental biozonations 352 interpreting faunal change 352–3 Mesozoic and Paleogene background 353–6 the Neogene 356–65 quality of data, dating and faunas 350–2 vetigastropods 159 development of defensive mechanisms 150–1 vicariance biogeography 118 Vinctifer 114
Virgilina gunteri curtata 123 volcanic eruptions
  and climatic deterioration 393 short-term effects on climate and biota 23–4 volcanism 57
  Pacific sea floor 7 increased rate of CO2 release 17 Volutoderma 160
Volutomorpha 160
Vostok ice core, CH4 record periodicity consistent with Milankovitch cyclicity 32–3 Vulpes lagopus 370
Vulpes vulpes 370
warm deep saline water (WSBW) 4, 9–10, 19 Watznaueria barnesae 46 Watznaueria britannica 46 southward excursion 47
Wealden sequence, pollens in 219 Wealden Supergroup, insects of 293–4 whales (Cetacea) 335 polar dispersal of and diversification into modern types 335
  seasonal migrations 372
White Horse, Vale of, shows extensive physical weathering 269, 272 Wigwamna arctica, wide biogeographical range 38 Windermere Interstadial 268–72 within-flora abundances, free-sporing plants (mainly pteridophytes) 215, 216 within-flora diversity
  angiosperms 211, 212, 214
  geographical patterns 216, 217 decline of free-sporing plants 216 non-angiosperms 213, 214, 215 wood 232
  fossil, indicates plant need for structural support 225 lack of growth rings 225, 237 Rissington 273
woodland
Sidlings Copse 275, 276–7, 278, 284
Sparthum Fen 270–1, 275, 278, 279, 284, 286–7 thermophilous, Upper Thames Basin 278 woodland clearances, Upper Thames region 284, 286–7 Younger Dryas 3, 30, 272–3, 386
Younger Dryas–Holocene transition, speed of 273, 275 Zeugrhaditus erectus 43