Acknowledgments

We thank Katie Brown for providing the wonderful artwork for the cover. We also thank the staff at Cambridge University Press, including special mention to Richard Marley, Mary Sanders, Laura Wood, and Bethan Jones for shepherding the manuscript to publication, and Pauline Graham and Betty Fulford, both now longer with Cambridge, but who helped launch this endeavor. Carl Cohen thanks SUNY Downstate Medical Center and his chair, Dr. Stephen Goldfinger, for affording him the opportunity to work on this project, Ms Barbara Singh for her administrative assistance, and his family for their love and support – his wife Kate, who is looking forward to dancing in the revolution, his children Sara and Zack, his father Lou, and his new granddaughter, Melanie, who will surely carry the liberatory quest onward. Sami Timimi thanks his employers Lincolnshire Partnership Foundation NHS Trust for its support in the writing and research for this book, his secretaries Susan and Louise for their help, and his wonderful family – his wife, Kitty, and his children Michelle, Lewis and Zoe, for their enduring love and patience.
