

Contents

Acknowledgements	page vii
1 Introduction	1
Oral history and private lives	1
What's in it for them?	9
The interviewees and their historical contexts	19
How historians have understood marriage and intimacy in this period	33
Gender relations and companionate marriage	34
Methodologies and the history of marriage and sexuality	44
This book's scope and its limitations	53
 Part I What was sex?
2 The facts of life: learning about sex in childhood and youth	63
A culture of sexual ignorance?	64
'Parents didn't tell you'	74
'I wanted to keep you innocent'	83
'Oh yes, I knew ... but it was theoretical of course'	91
'You've got to love somebody to do that'	94
'Lads ... knew all the rude words'	101
Conclusion	110
3 Sexual intimacies before marriage	113
'I wanted to be a virgin when I got married'	118
'I were always on my guard'	124
'She allowed me to go further than I wanted to'	131
'You played the field, and weighed them up'	134
'We came close to doing it but we didn't'	140
'If you will play with fire you get burnt'	149
Conclusion	162
 Part II What was love?
4 Romance and love: finding a partner	165
'Don't get mixed up too serious'	168
'Automatically floated into marriage'	173
'There was nothing special'	178
	 v

vi	Contents
	‘She was on the same wavelength’	184
	Conclusion	192
5	Married love: caring and sharing	196
	‘A real, good, loving, working marriage’	198
	‘I’m not going out to work and coming home, making my own tea!’	201
	‘Mind you, we always helped one another to do anything’	211
	Conclusion	225
Part III Exploring sex and love in marriage
6	Birth control, sex and abstinence	229
	‘You made sure you didn’t have the full intercourse’	236
	‘I suppose there were times ... I’d rather ... forget it’	243
	‘She said, “I’ll see what I can do. I’ll call in at that Marie Stopes Clinic”’	251
	‘Well, then she really, sort of, drew up the drawbridge’	259
	Conclusion	265
7	Bodies	268
	‘You dare expose your body to your mother’	271
	‘I’ve seen male figures like in museums and things’	277
	‘It’s what you’re born with; can’t do much about it’	282
	‘People said she could have been a mannequin’	285
	‘Very smart and very, very tidy and very clean’	294
	‘If you planned to love each other ... you had to be very hygienic’	303
	Conclusion	311
8	Sex, love, duty, pleasure?	317
	‘It’s an expression of love’	319
	‘It was more vital for men’	323
	‘You could call it a duty to be performed’	326
	‘Give her the impression that it’s not just sex’	332
	‘I’d cuddle up to him, if he’d had a bath’	339
	‘Just when the mood took us’	342
	‘It doesn’t concern anybody else’	348
	Conclusion	362
9	The morning after	364
	‘The fantastic buzz has gone out of sex – so goodbye’	367
	‘It’s creative and instinctive’	371
	‘I would’ve been more adventurous if I was young now’	377
	Conclusion	382
10	Conclusion: private lives	384
	Appendix A	388
	Appendix B	392
	Appendix C	394
	Bibliography	421
	Index	445
	Index of interviewees	457