

Cambridge University Press

0521814723 - Bioterrorism: Psychological and Public Health Interventions - Edited by Robert J. Ursano, Ann E. Norwood, and Carol S. Fullerton

Table of Contents

More information

Contents

List of contributors	page viii
Preface	xi

Part I Introduction

1	Planning for the psychological effects of bioterrorism Carol S. Fullerton, Robert J. Ursano and Ann E. Norwood	2
---	---	---

Part II The risk of bioterrorism: history and society

2	Psyche at risk, psyche as armor: biodefense as primary prevention Joshua Lederberg	16
3	Let's make new mistakes: planning for public health and civil defense Dale Smith	23
4	Lessons from the 1918 pandemic influenza: psychosocial consequences of a catastrophic outbreak of disease Monica Schoch-Spana	38
5	A new terrorism threat environment: bioterrorism paradigm shift John Parachini	56
6	Prospects for chemical/biological terrorism: psychological incentives and constraints Jerrold M. Post	71

vi Contents*Part III Effects on individuals and communities

- |    |   |     |
|----|---|-----|
| 7  | Differentiating manifestations of infection from psychiatric disorders and fears of having been exposed to bioterrorismJames R. Rundell and George W. Christopher                                   | 88  |
| 8  | Planning for chemical and biological terrorism: experiences from the Sydney OlympicsBeverley Raphael and Michael Hills  | 109 |
| 9  | Biopsychosocial factors in bioterrorism: consequences for psychiatric care, society, and public healthHarry C. Holloway and Douglas A. Waldrep  | 126 |
| 10 | The psychological effect of a community-wide disaster on children: planning for bioterrorismJon A. Shaw and Seana Shaw  | 144 |
| 11 | Terrorist events using radioactive materials: lessons for bioterrorismArnfinn Tønnessen and Lars Weisæth  | 165 |
| 12 | Social support in the aftermath of disasters, catastrophes, and acts of terrorism: altruistic, overwhelmed, uncertain, antagonistic, and patriotic communitiesKrzysztof Kaniasty and Fran H. Norris | 200 |

Part IV Bioterrorism and the public's health

- |    |   |     |
|----|---|-----|
| 13 | The 2001 anthrax attacks and the mediaMary E. Walsh, Ann E. Norwood and Molly J. Hall   | 232 |
| 14 | Emotional and psychiatric effects of weapons of mass destruction on first respondersRichard C. W. Hall, Ryan C. W. Hall and Marcia J. Chapman | 250 |
| 15 | Bioterrorism: a strategy for psychosocial preparedness, response, and recoveryRobert DeMartino and Brian W. Flynn                             | 274 |
| 16 | Legal aspects of bioterrorism and infectious disease outbreaksJames G. Hodge, Jr and Gabriel B. Eber  | 290 |
| 17 | Communicating the risks of bioterrorismTim L. Tinker and Elaine Vaughan   | 308 |

Cambridge University Press

0521814723 - Bioterrorism: Psychological and Public Health Interventions - Edited by Robert J. Ursano, Ann E. Norwood, and Carol S. Fullerton

Table of Contents

More information

---

vii      Contents

---

Part V    Conclusion

---

18	Behaviorial and mental health responses to bioterrorism: needs for the public's health	332
	Robert J. Ursano, Carol S. Fullerton and Ann E. Norwood
	Index	349