
See also discipline affect, and Dewey’s theory of education, 146 affective networks, and social investment in Korea, 14–15, 201–17. See also social networks agricultural revolution, in Song China, 347–8.

See also well-field system

An Lushan, 350

Allen, Charlotte, 220

alternative dispute settlement (ADR), and Confucian perspective on mediation, 25, 275–6, 282

Ames, Roger T., 11–12, 49054, 12501, 12782, 13074, 140016, 150037, 25781, 31589, 323–4, 357

Analects of Confucius, The: and benevolence, 290–1; and Confucian view of litigation, 259; and contemporary relevance of Confucianism, 23, 301, 371–2; and image of life of Confucius, 148–9; and importance of harmony, 260, 261; influence of on Confucianism, 1, 220; and material welfare, 223, 232; and Neo-Confucianism, 223 ancestor worship, and Neo-Confucian family system, 350–1, 354, 355

“Ancient Learning” movement, in Japan, 161

Andong Gwon-ssi Sunghwabo (genealogical records), 355 anti-Confucianism: and contemporary relevance of Confucianism, 3, and feudal system in China, 344; and influence of Liang Qichao, 79016; and succession laws, 301, 309

Anti-Rightist Movement, 83

Arao, A., 212

Aristotle, 122, 135

Asian values: Confucianism and regionalism in East Asia, 198; and contemporary relevance of Confucianism, 364; and debate on Confucianism and modernity, 4; and governance, 55–6. See also values

Auerbach, Jerold S., 257

Australia, and succession laws, 257

Austria, and succession laws, 294 authority: and Censorate in Chosŏn Korea, 62–17; Dewey’s pragmatism and concept of, 142, 143; and equality in Confucian societies, 140

Barber, Benjamin, 53

Bauman, Zygmunt, 164, 166–7

Beer, Lawrence W., 4028

Beijing, and urbanization in premodern China, 189

Beijing Spring, 87

Bell, Daniel A., 899, 16, 230034, 243085, 262814

Bellah, Robert H., 123

benevolence: as basis of moral virtues, 290–1; and government role in social welfare, 246, 247–8; personal relationships and social welfare, 244–5; and succession laws, 310. See also ren

Berkowitz, Peter, 35910

Biggart, N. W., 20608

Buslev, Sven, 168

Black, Alison, 525021, 355

Blair, Tony, 166

Boissvert, Raymond, 142

Bok, Derek, 276
INDEX

Bol, Peter K., 346n27
Boechna, R. C., 299n49
Book of Changes, 259–60, 313–14
Bourdieu, Pierre, 100, 325
Brown, David, 250n34
Buddhism, conflict between Confucianism and, 780n12; and Neo-Confucianism, 26, 353 bureaucracy and democratization in Korea, 115; and Imperial Confucianism in feudal China, 348–50, 352
Buget, Warren, 275–6
Cai Er, 351
Canada: personal bonds in cultural context of, 276
Cao Pei, capitalism, and Confucianism: affective networks and modernity in Korea, 201–17; and contemporary relevance of Confucianism, 13–17; decentralization and regionalism in economies of East Asia, 181–200; and family constraints on property rights, 218–35; and social welfare, 236–55
Censorate: Chosön government of Korea and bureaucracy: and democratization in Korea, 107–200; and Imperial Confucianism in feudal Korea, 259–277; mediation and dispute resolution in legal system of, 18–19, 257–87; and role of law in Confucian society, 133–4; social harmony and views of human rights in, 133–4; and Soviet economic model, 183–4, 193–4; unification of, 344 "See also Communist Party; Hong Kong; Taiwan"
China Democracy Party, 86
Chao Chün, 353
Choi, Sharena, 175
Choi E-Don, 58
"chokko," and family system in Korea, 353
Chung Chiyoung (honorably poor), 42
Chöng Jo, king of Korea, 64, 66
Chöng Mong-ju, 353, 354n38
Chöng To-i, 353
Chöng Yak Yong, 66
Chou Lan, 265
Christianity and churches: and mediation, 277; and student pro-democracy movement in Korea, 108–9, 111, 112. See also religion
Chú, Tung-tsu, 265n17, 267n22, 269n23–4
Chun-chiu fan-lu (Dong Zhongshu), 315
Chun Doo Hwan, 102, 104, 105, 126, 107, 204
Chu Jiwei, 226n24
cities, and mutual help in Korea, 97–101. See also urban system civic virtue: and constitutionalism, 31–7; and contemporary relevance of Confucianism, 46–53
Civil Code of China, 231–2 civil society: and affective networks, 211–12; and Confucian sense of public sphere, 216; and contemporary relevance of Confucianism, 364; and Neo-Confucian familialism, 358
Clarke, John James, 169n12
coercion, and liberal critique of mediation, 271–2, 280, 282–3, 286n88
Cohen, J., 212
Cohen, J. A., 269n39
Coleman, James, 208n8
common law: and litigation, 262; and succession, 296–7, 305, 306 communication, and litigation compared to mediation, 277 Confucianism, and Confucian tradition of decentralization in China, 192–3
Communist Party (Chinese): and land tenure, 226; and linkage between Confucianism and modernity, 3; and pro-democracy movements in China, 81–4, 87, 156 community and communitarianism: compact and mutual help in rural Korea, 91–7, 262–3, 266–7; and Confucian values, 235;
and contemporary relevance of Confucianism, 364, 365–6; mediation at level of, 268–9, 272–3 complementarity, and Confucian concept of gender, 312, 314–15, 316, 322, 350 Confucianism: and accountability of government, 54–68; affective networks and modernity in Korea, 201–17; and concept of gender, 312–3; contemporary relevance of, 1–28, 361–72; decentralization or regionalism in economies of East Asia, 181–200; democracy and moral education, 165–77; democracy and mutual help in Korea, 90–125; and democratization of China, 69–89; implications of civic virtue and ritual propriety for constitutional democracy, 31–53; legal system and politics of marriage in Korea, 334–59; mediation and litigation in China and, 257–87; and pragmatist understanding of democracy, 124–60; and property rights, 218–35; traditional values of and Western legal frameworks, 288–311. See also anti-Confucianism; Confucius; Mencius; Neo-
Confucianism
Confucian sensibilities, use of, 125
Confucius: on age and self-discipline, 49051; arbitration of visions and ideals of Confucianism, 25; and benevolence, 290; contemporary relevance of, 1, 361, 371–2; on filial piety, 229; and mediation, 259–60, 261, 263–4; and personalist ethic, 122; and theory of dazong, 353. See also Confucianism
conservatism: and contemporary relevance of Confucianism, 365; and liberal critique of mediation, 274
constitutionalism and constitutions: and Confucian value of civic virtue, 31–7; and culture, 37–42; and democratization in Korea, 165; institution of market in Chinese, 258; revision of Korean under Park, 104; and ritual propriety, 42–53
Constitutional Reform Movement, in China, 75–7
constructive sensibility, and American Pragmatism, 131
content analysis, of democratization in China, 69–70
cosmology, and jin-yang distinction, 313, 314, 322 cosmopolitan society, and globalization, 165
Court Historians, in Chosón Korea, 52–3 Court, Robert, 3282, 39, 47 creative transformation, of mediation, 281–7 Cree, Hertler, 361
criminal justice system, administration of in Korea, 105. See also law and legal systems Croll, Elisabeth, 158–9 cross-cultural studies, of mediation, 275. See also culture
cuban, Larry, 371–16
Cultural Revolution (1966–1976), 83, 138, 182 culture: and constitutionalism, 37–42; and definition of enculturation, 161–22; democratic ideology and collective ethos of Korean, 176; “enchanted world” and concept of, 144. See also cross-cultural studies; political culture dazong, Daoist theory of, 353
Daoism: and feudal Confucianism,
460; and virtue, 23
Daoist theory of the dao, 23
Daoism: and Confucianism, 26, 353. See also Neo-Daoism
Dai Tang Kaiyuan Li (Ritual of Kaiyuan period of Great Tang), 346
da tong (Grand Unity), and social relationships, 260
de Bary, William Theodore, 23, 91–2, 183, 240111, 250473, 260910, 267933, 329280 decentralization: and Confucianism in premodern China, 187–8, 190–1; and Confucian perspective on capitalism, 14,
184; as fundamental ideal of Confucianism, 181; movement toward by contemporary Korean government, 67–8; in postwar China and Japan, 193–6; and regionalism in East Asia, 201
Declaration to the World for Chinese Culture, A (1958), 84–5 democracy, and Confucianism: and accountability of government, 54–68; and Chinese history, 69–89; civic virtue and ritual propriety in, 31–53; and contemporary relevance of Confucianism, 5, 6–13; and moral education, 161–77; and mutual help in Korea, 90–123; pragmatist understanding of Confucian, 124–60 Democracy Wall Movement, 87
Deng Xiaoping, 16, 84, 226, 234
denmark, and comparative East-West study, 165

INDEX

Deschauer, Martina, 384, 354, 355
Dewey, John, 144–5
Diggens, John Patrick, 144–5
Dobson, W. A. C. H., 227
Dong Zhongshu, 140
Dong, Xiao-Yuan, 140
Dore, Ronald P., 142
Dworkin, Ronald, 142

East Asia: and affective networks in business, 206–8, 207; Confucian organizations and regionalism in, 156–200; constitutionalism and cultural discourse in, 41; and economic development, 15; and education in twentieth-century, 359; and financial crisis, 153–5; and multilevel development as part of regionalism, 182; and social welfare, 17; role of Confucianism in modernization of, 49–50; See also liberalism; Confucian democracy; and feminism, 139; and globalization, 139–43; and identity distinction, 7; and political ideology of New Labor, 298; and economic development, 203; and marriage laws in Korea, 235; and student protest movement in Korea, 323; and social welfare, 327; and values and social welfare, 327

Edwards, Jonathan, 135
Elders, Confucianism and veneration of, 318–19; See also Confucianism

Falungong movement, 139 family: affective networks and Neo-Confucianism, 214; and Confucian notion of socioreligious experience, 151–2; and Confucian perspective on social welfare, 242–3, 248, 249; and Confucian values in social life, 289–93; and Confucian view of property rights, 16, 235; and contemporary relevance of Confucianism, 368; and economic development in Korea, 203; and marriage laws in Korea, 227; and modern nuclear in Korea, 357–8; and moral education in Korea, 174–7; and Neo-Confucianism in feudal China, 311–3; and Neo-Confucianism in Korea, 373–8; and succession laws, 305–6, value of care for needy members of, 228–34; and social welfare, 330, 331; See also filial piety; human relationships; kinship networks; marriage; siblings

"Fa wu" (poem), 265

Fan, Ruiping, 219
Fan Zhongxin, 207
Fan Zhongxin, 219
Fan Zhongxing, 262
Farrell, Ronald, 339
Freeman, Ronald, 331
Frei Xiaotong, 260
Freeman, Ronald, 204
freedom: and Confucianism, 342–4; and public/private spheres, 339

Filial piety: and benevolence, 290–1; and ethics of social welfare, 242–3; and Neo-Confucian family system, 355; and reverence, 291–2;

public/private spheres, 43–4; of political rulers by Confucian mechanisms, 7–8, 46, 51–2, 53. See also accountability: divorce and mediation, 284–5; and yin-yang distinction, 351; See also marriage

Dobson, W. C. H., 218, 220

Duchens, M., 290
Domestic sphere, and Confucianism, 129

Deuchler, Martina, 376 index

Dewey, John, 144–5
discrimination: and behavioral norms, 43–4; of political rulers by Confucian mechanisms, 7–8, 46, 51–2, 53. See also accountability: divorce and mediation, 284–5; and yin-yang distinction, 351; See also marriage

Deuchler, Martina, 376

Democracy movement in Korea, 174–7; of Confucianism, 311–3; and Neo-Confucianism in Korea, 373–8; and succession laws, 305–6, value of care for needy members of, 228–34; and social welfare, 330, 331; See also filial piety; human relationships; kinship networks; marriage; siblings

Dworkin, Ronald, 161

Dworkin, Ronald, 161

Economic: and affective networks in South Korea, 201–7; and East Asian model of development, 15; and student protest movement in Korea, 107. See also liberalism; Confucian democracy; and feminism, 139; and globalization, 139–43; and identity distinction, 7; and political ideology of New Labor, 298; and economic development, 203; and marriage laws in Korea, 227; and modern nuclear in Korea, 357–8; and moral education in Korea, 174–7; and Neo-Confucianism in feudal China, 311–3; and Neo-Confucianism in Korea, 373–8; and succession laws, 305–6, value of care for needy members of, 228–34; and social welfare, 330, 331; See also filial piety; human relationships; kinship networks; marriage; siblings

Eno, Robert, 409

Enlightenment: and American Pragmatism, 169–8

Empowerment, and mediation, 284–5; and yin-yang distinction, 351; See also marriage

Dobson, W. C. H., 218, 220

Duchens, M., 290
Domestic sphere, and Confucianism, 129

Deuchler, Martina, 376

Dewey, John, 144–5
discrimination: and behavioral norms, 43–4; of political rulers by Confucian mechanisms, 7–8, 46, 51–2, 53. See also accountability: divorce and mediation, 284–5; and yin-yang distinction, 351; See also marriage

Deuchler, Martina, 376

Democracy movement in Korea, 174–7; of Confucianism, 311–3; and Neo-Confucianism in Korea, 373–8; and succession laws, 305–6, value of care for needy members of, 228–34; and social welfare, 330, 331; See also filial piety; human relationships; kinship networks; marriage; siblings

Dworkin, Ronald, 161

Dworkin, Ronald, 161

Economic: and affective networks in South Korea, 201–7; and East Asian model of development, 15; and student protest movement in Korea, 107. See also liberalism; Confucian democracy; and feminism, 139; and globalization, 139–43; and identity distinction, 7; and political ideology of New Labor, 298; and economic development, 203; and marriage laws in Korea, 227; and modern nuclear in Korea, 357–8; and moral education in Korea, 174–7; and Neo-Confucianism in feudal China, 311–3; and Neo-Confucianism in Korea, 373–8; and succession laws, 305–6, value of care for needy members of, 228–34; and social welfare, 330, 331; See also filial piety; human relationships; kinship networks; marriage; siblings

"Fa wu" (poem), 265

Fan, Ruiping, 219
Fan Zhongxin, 207
Fan Zhongxing, 262
Farrell, Ronald, 339
Frei Xiaotong, 260
Freeman, Ronald, 204
freedom: and Confucianism, 342–4; and public/private spheres, 339

Filial piety: and benevolence, 290–1; and ethics of social welfare, 242–3; and Neo-Confucian family system, 355; and reverence, 291–2;

public/private spheres, 43–4; of political rulers by Confucian mechanisms, 7–8, 46, 51–2, 53. See also accountability: divorce and mediation, 284–5; and yin-yang distinction, 351; See also marriage

Dobson, W. C. H., 218, 220

Duchens, M., 290
Domestic sphere, and Confucianism, 129

Deuchler, Martina, 376

Dewey, John, 144–5
discrimination: and behavioral norms, 43–4; of political rulers by Confucian mechanisms, 7–8, 46, 51–2, 53. See also accountability: divorce and mediation, 284–5; and yin-yang distinction, 351; See also marriage

Deuchler, Martina, 376

Democracy movement in Korea, 174–7; of Confucianism, 311–3; and Neo-Confucianism in Korea, 373–8; and succession laws, 305–6, value of care for needy members of, 228–34; and social welfare, 330, 331; See also filial piety; human relationships; kinship networks; marriage; siblings

Dworkin, Ronald, 161

Dworkin, Ronald, 161

Economic: and affective networks in South Korea, 201–7; and East Asian model of development, 15; and student protest movement in Korea, 107. See also liberalism; Confucian democracy; and feminism, 139; and globalization, 139–43; and identity distinction, 7; and political ideology of New Labor, 298; and economic development, 203; and marriage laws in Korea, 227; and modern nuclear in Korea, 357–8; and moral education in Korea, 174–7; and Neo-Confucianism in feudal China, 311–3; and Neo-Confucianism in Korea, 373–8; and succession laws, 305–6, value of care for needy members of, 228–34; and social welfare, 330, 331; See also filial piety; human relationships; kinship networks; marriage; siblings

"Fa wu" (poem), 265

Fan, Ruiping, 219
Fan Zhongxin, 207
Fan Zhongxing, 262
Farrell, Ronald, 339
Frei Xiaotong, 260
Freeman, Ronald, 204
freedom: and Confucianism, 342–4; and public/private spheres, 339

Filial piety: and benevolence, 290–1; and ethics of social welfare, 242–3; and Neo-Confucian family system, 355; and reverence, 291–2;
and value of care for needy family members, 229–30. See also filiality; siblings
Filmer, Robert, 339
Fingarette, Herbert, 44, 50, 53
Fitzgerald, John, 191–2
five-guarantee system, and succession laws, 303–4073
fluid distinction, and yin-yang, 316
Foucault, Michel, 43–4
Fouier, Robert J., 171817
France–American television, 170, and succession laws, 294, 308095
Fraser, Nancy, 319013, 329 fatherhood: and filial piety, 292; and succession laws, 307. See also filial piety freedom: Dewey’s pragmatism and concept of, 142–3; succession laws and testamentary, 305–9
Friedman, Edward, 157–8
Friedman, Lawrence M., 276666
Friedrich, Carl J., 3204
Fu Hsiuling, 287092
Fulcher, Lon L., 279, 284
Galston, William, 35111
Geertz, Clifford, 39, 40, 45, 47, 49052
gender: inequality in Confucian societies and traditional roles in family, 174–5; yin-yang distinction and Confucian conception of, 20–1, 312–3 genealogical records, and family in Korea, 355
Germany, and succession laws, 293–4, 295, 303, 306
Giddens, Anthony, 164–5, 165–6 globalization: Confucian democracy and modes of, 126–9; and Confucian values in Korean context, 12–13; and contemporary relevance of Confucianism, 367, 368, 371; and moral education in Korea, 164–7; uncertainty and democracy, 167–9
Gongyang Chunqiu, 229
Great Learning, The, 215, 291099, 352, 368
Great Kaitai, and yin-yang concept, 322
Greek–relationship of public/private spheres, 337–8; and succession laws, 306
Guomindang (KMT), 81–3
Habermas, Jürgen, 277
Hahn Chaibong, 21
Hahn Chaihark, 7–8, 9
Hahn Pyong Choon, 504
Hai Rui, 267–8
Hall, David L., 11–12, 49054, 12782, 13004, 140016, 140025, 150037, 323–4, 367
Han Myo-hui, 60
Han Yu, 344–5
Han Yansou, 264
Haring, Father Bernard, 122
harmony: and Confucian perspective on social relationships, 260; and mediation, 273
Hao Yan, 355
Helgesen, Geir, 12–13, 48, 49052, 367, 369 hierarchy: and limits of individualism in Confucian democracy, 135–43; and yin-yang distinction, 316–19, 321, 322, 328. See also equality historical analysis, of democratization in China, 70–1, 88
Ho, Lousia, 19–20
Hobbes, Thomas, 224–5021
Holmes, Stephen, 33
Hong Kong: and care for elderly parents, 231; and inheritance laws, 23246; and land ownership, 227; and mediation, 275062, 285082; and succession laws, 297–8, 299, 301, 307, 309
Hongmou’ gwan (Office of Special Counselors), 58 humanism, and contemporary relevance of Confucianism, 4 human relations: and Confucian family virtues, 292–3; and ethics of social welfare, 243–5; and ideal Confucian society, 11–12; litigation and traditional Chinese approach to, 260–2; and mediation as reparative effort, 279; mutual help and personalistic, 99–101; and succession laws, 310. See also family human rights: and contemporary relevance of Confucianism, 18018, 362; liberal versus Confucian approaches to, 152–5; and rationalization, 144
“Human Rights Declaration” (National Christian Council of Korea), 109
“Hundred Schools of Thought,” 25
Huntington, Samuel, 9, 7081, 172
INDEX

Hu Shi, 76
Hwang Tae-Yun, 209n10
Hyangyak. See community and communitarianism: compact ideology: collective ethos of Korean culture and democratic, 176; and Confucian doctrine in China, 1, 136–7. See also Confucianism; humanism; liberalism; Marxism

Imperial Confucianism: and family in feudal China, 344–7; and types of Confucianism, 312n8 individuals and individualism: Confucianism and democratization in China, 85; liberalization and Confucian democracy, 135–43; welfare and Neo-Confucian familialism, 358 industrialization, and affective networks in Korea, 210, 211 inheritance. See succession

Institute of National Culture, 82

institutional reform movement, in China, 72–5 institutions, and Confucian perspective on social welfare, 248–9, 250

interest groups, and democratization in Korea, 119

International Monetary Fund (IMF), 13

Internet, and affective networks in Korea, 203–4

Italy, and succession laws, 294, 306

Itô Jinzai, 361

Jablon, Karlgren, 521n9

James, William, 130

Japan: and “Ancient Learning” movement, 361; center-local relations in premodern, 185, 186; Confucianism and education in, 486n9, 570; decentralization in premodern, 193–6; and East Asian regionalism, 197–200; urban transition and centralization in premodern, 185–6, 188, 189, 190, 191–3

Jayasuriya, Kanishka, 231n34

Jefferson, Thomas, 145

Jiang Jieshi (Chiang Kai-Shek), 81, 82

Jones, David Martin, 312n34

Judaism, and mediation, 277–8

justice, and liberal critique of mediation, 270–1, 273, 280–1. See also law and legal systems

Ka Lin, 278n2

Kang Youwei, 72–5

Kant, Immanuel, 54

Karlgruen, Bernhard, 265n26

Keji fuli, and ritual propriety, 46

Kim Dar Jung, 66, 90, 112, 204, 206, 208

Kim Jae-Kyu, 102

Kim Jong-pil, 204

Kim Tar-Eun, 14–15, 208n8

Kim, W.-J., 206n8, 207

Kim Yong-Hak, 209, 211

Kim Young Sam, 204

kindness, Confucian values and social relationships, 292–3 kinship networks: and urban community in industrial Korea, 98. See also family

Ko, Dorothy, 40n25

Koh Byong-ik, 262n1

Korea: affective networks and social investment in, 14–15, 201–7; center-local relations in premodern, 185; Choso government and Confucianism, 7, 80, 50–3, 58–68; Confucianism and democracy in, 10–11, 90–123, 161–77; Confucianism and marriage laws in, 211–3; 334–59; Confucian values and restructuring of economy, 15; and contemporary relevance of Confucianism, 5, 508–72; and moral education, 161–77; and retail property, 42. See also South Korea

Korean Business Federation, 119, 120

Korean Democratic Labor Federation, 120

Korean Federation of Labour Unions, 219, 120

Kropotkin, Petr, 91n5

Kuai Zifan, 307

Kuang Kui, 361

Kwak Jihun, 233

Kymlicka, Will, 223–4n19

labor, division by gender, 324–5

labor unions, and democratization in Korea, 119–20 land tenure. See well-field system

Lau, D. C., 218n1, 235n8, 259n8, 262n14 law and legal systems: and administration of judicial branch in Korea, 105; Civil Code of China and modernization of, 231–2; and Confucian concept of gender, 312–33; Confucianism and politics of marriage in Korea, 334–59; Confucian perspectives on, 17–23; Confucian values and Western frameworks for, 288–311; constitutionalism and rule of, 3307; and legal transplants, 58n18; li and Confucian conception of, 45; mediation and litigation in China, 257–87; normative power of, 39; pragmatic philosophy and Confucian democracy, 153–5; and jin-jang distinction, 331–2. See

© Cambridge University Press

www.cambridge.org
INDEX

Moore, F. W., 181 n1, 187, 188 n24
Mou Zongnan, 82, 85
Moci, 311
Munro, Donald, 272 n23, 312 n1 mutual accessibility, and globalization, 127–9 mutual help: and cities in Korea, 97–101; and community compact in rural Korea, 91–7; and democratization in Korea, 106–11; and personalisitic ethos, 123
Nam Young-Shin, 209 n10
National Christian Council of Korea, 109
National Council for Unification (NCU), 104 nationalist, and regionalism in East Asia, 198 National Political University (China), 82 National Socialist Party (China), 82 neo-wai, and Confucian concept of gender, 312 Neo-Confucianism: affective networks and family in Korea, 213–16; and Censorate of Choson Korea, 65–6; and community compact in Korea, 361, 366–7; and education in twentieth-century East Asia, 369, 370; and famism in feudal China, 347–51; and familism in Korea, 353–6; and marriage law in Korea, 22; and reinvention of Confucianism, 26; as response to new historical situation, 368; and Sagerly Way, 371; third generation of and democratization in China, 84–6; and yin-yang distinction, 313, 314, 315, 316, 322 See also Confucianism; xing-li-xue Neo-Daoism, and yin-yang distinction, 313
New Script School, of Confucianism, 74
New Zealand, and succession laws, 297 Ni Zhengmao, 266 n25, 266 n27, 266 n29
Oakshott, Michael, 47, 48
Oakley, Ann, 313 n4
O'Donnell, Guillermo, 57, 58
Oiks, 338
Oksenberg, Michel, 166–7
Old Script School, of Confucianism, 74 optimism, and Confucian theory of mediation, 280
Osaka, and urban growth in twentieth-century Japan, 191
Park Sang-chang, 167 n10
Pai-hui-tang, 315
Palmer, Michael, 273 n53
Pamuk, Oram, 168
Pan Chao, 326–7
Pangle, Lorraine Smith & Thomas L., 356 n12
parents. See elders; family

Park Chung Hee, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 208
Pashukanis, E. B., 276, 277 n67
Pareman, Carol, 272 n26
paternalism, and mediation, 285 patriarchy: and Confucian theory of gender, 20; and family in Western political theory, 339 peasants, and mass Confucianism in East Asia, 190 See also well-field system Peereboom, Randall, 667, 153, 157, 222 n15
Pennock, J. Roland, 121, 123
personalist ethic, and democracy in Korea, 101–6, 109–10, 121–3 personal relationships. See human relationships Philippines, and social networks, 150 n15 Philosophical Confucianism, and types of Confucianism, 312 n1 pluralism: and democratization in Korea, 119–20; and yin-yang distinction in gender relationships, 321 policy, and democratization in Korea, 117–18.
See also economics; government
polis, 337, 338
cultural political: constitutionalism and civic virtue of citizens, 33–4; and emotional component of democracy, 169–70 political parties, and democratization in Korea, 103, 113–14 politics: and affective networks in Korea, 205–6; ancient Chinese philosophy of “people-based,” 63, civic virtue and education, 36–7; Dewey's Pragmatism compared to Confucian, 155–60; globalization and political development, 164–7; li and education, 46, 47–50; and moral education in Korea, 162–3;
See also democracy; government; political culture; political parties Popular Confucianism, and types of Confucianism, 312 n1 population, modernization and explosion of Korean, 336 postmodernism: and American Pragmatism, 131; and modes of globalization, 127–8 power: constitutionalism and abuse of government, 32, 33; constraints on presidential in Korea, 118; and decentralization in Japan, 195; mediation and imbalances of, 271, 280, 283–4.
See also empowerment
Pragmatism, and Confucian democracy, 124–60

© Cambridge University Press
www.cambridge.org
INDEX 381

president: constraints on power of in Korea, 118, election of and democratization in Korea, 114
Preuss, Ulrich, 3305, 45142 property rights: Confucian constraints on in China, 219–35; and Confucian view of family, 16 public opinion, and government accountability in Choson Korea, 63–4 public/private spheres: and affective networks in Korea, 214–15, 216; and Dewey’s pragmatism compared to Confucianism, 137; and Western political theory, 337–40. See also domestic sphere Pusan, and affective networks in Korea, 204
Putnam, Robert, 20868
Pye, Lucian, 365
Qin Shi Huang, 137
radical feminism, and concepts of gender, 327 Raphael, Lisa, 374, 37509 rational choice theories, and affective networks, 209 rationalization: and Confucian politics compared to Confucianism, 155–60; and Confucian social forms, 148; and depersonalization of social relationships, 144; and disenchantment of modern world, 145
Rawls, John, 8, 21906, 223–4190, 21386
Raz, Joseph, 35011
Redfield, Robert, 99
Reed, Gay Garland, 175
regionalism: and affective networks in Korea, 204–5, 208; Confucianism as integrating force for East Asian, 14, 196–200. See also East Asia religion: Confucianism as state religion in China, 345; and Dewey’s understanding of social practices, 146–7. See also Buddhism; Christianity and churches; Shinto ren: and concept of ritual propriety, 43; and feudal Confucianism, 342. See also benevolence Republican Revolution, in China, 77–81 reverence, and filial piety, 291–2 Revillard, M. L., 294825, 501857 ritual, pragmatic philosophy and Confucian democracy, 133–5 ritual propriety: Confucian concept of as public political norm, 7; and Confucian social forms, 148; and constitutionalism, 42–6; contemporary relevance of, 46–53. See also li Roh Tae Woo, 109, 112, 204
Rome, and civil law, 273
Rousseau, Jean-Jacques, 339, 340
Rozman, Gilbert, 13–14, 222105, 362 rural areas, community compact and mutual help in Korea, 91–7 Russia, and succession laws, 302, 303, 308
sagumok (Office of the Censor General), 58
Sagely Way, and Neo-Confucianism, 571
sahinsa (Office of the Inspector General), 58 Sandel, Michael, 35–61
service, and Neo-Confucianism in Choson Korea, 65–6
Schau, Frederick, 39
Schrecker, John, 220933
Schwartz, Louis, 253
Scott, James, 159
Sejo, King of Korea, 60, 65
self: and differentiation of person with roles in Confucianism, 136; Neo-Confucianism and cultivation of, 352–3
Sen, Amartya, 90, 223017
Seoul, and urbanization in premodern Korea, 189
Seoul National University, 203
Serageldin, Ismaïl, 170113
sex differences, gender differences as social interpretation of, 313
Shaffer, Thomas L., 299
Shao Jingren, 299
Shamoto, Henry, Jr., Rome, and civil law, 214–15
Shige Shuzo, 268353
Shinto, and Confucianism in Japan, 192
Shun (sage-king of China), 227
sibling and filial piety
Sima Qian, 210949
sib-da-fu, and bureaucracy in feudal China, 348–50, 351, 352�353
Shiga Shuzo, 268353
Shinto, and Confucianism in Japan, 192
Shun (sage-king of China), 227
sibling and filial piety
Simia Qian, 263017
Singapore: and care for elderly parents, 227 skew, and democratization in China, 208 social capital, and affective networks in Korea, 208 social democratic theory: Confucianism and democratization in China, 83 socialization, and moral education in Korea, 165–4, 171 social life, Confucian values in family and, 286–93 social networks, and ethics of social welfare, 243–5, 248. See also affective networks social reform, and litigation, 274
INDEX

social relationships. See human relationships social welfare. See welfare social world, and Dewey’s Pragmatism compared to Confucianism, 143–60
Socrates, 171
Song Bin, 226n25
Songjung, king of Korea, 60, 64, 65
Song Si-yol, 355
South Korea: affective networks and economic development in, 201–17; and Confucian tradition in education, 484n49; and land distribution programs, 227. See also Korea Soviet Union, and Chinese economic policy, 106
Sun Zhongshan (Sun Yatsen), 9
Sunjo, king of Korea, 64
Sungho, city in South Korea, 267
Switzerland, and succession laws, 106–9, 110, 112
succession, laws of: Confucian foundation for model of, 19–20, 288–311; and legal reform in China, 233–2
Sunzi, king of Korea, 64
Sun Zhongshan, 306, 308n93
Sunjo, king of Korea, 64
Sun Songchun (Sun Yat-sen), 9, 77–8, 89
Switzerland, and succession laws, 294, 295,
306, 308n93
Syngman Rhee, 102, 105
Tablet of Rules for Ten Families, 267
tao (Censorate), 58. See also Censorate taegu, and affective networks in Korea, 204
taipong, king of Korea, 65
Taiwan: and democratization, 81; 86, and East Asian regionalism, 197, 199; and land distribution programs, 227; and mediation, 275, 285; and succession laws, 295, 300,
301, 307, 308
Taozhou, emperor of China, 64n17
Tang Huo-long, 77
Tang Junyi, 82, 84–5, 85–6
Tan, Kevin, 227n89
Tan Huai Peng, 224n20
taxation, and government role in social welfare, 250
Taylor, Charles, 607
television. See entertainment industry
Thatcher, Margaret, 166
Thompson, E. P., 390n25
Three Bonds, and yin-yang distinction, 315
Three Generations Theory, 74–5, 80
Tianamen protest (1989), 138, 139
Tibet, and views of human rights in China, 154
Tocqueville, Alexis de, 37n17, 38, 47
Tokyo, and urban growth in twentieth-century
Japan, 191, 193, 195
transaction costs, and affective networks, 211–2
trust, social welfare and problem of, 253
Tuck, Richard, 225n21
Tu Wei-ming, 4, 44–5, 53n61, 183
Tyack, David, 37n16
uni, and personalistic relationships, 99
uncertainty: and affective networks in Korea, 209; globalization and political, 167–9
United States: civic virtue and Constitution of,
34–6; constitutionalism and rule of law, 3307; gender and styles of leadership, 325; and litigation, 276n66; and loss of sense of community, 367; public schools and Americanism, 36–7; United Way and social welfare in, 252–3; and violence, 138 United Way, and social welfare, 252–3 universities, and affective networks in Korea, 203–4. See also education urban system: and premodern transition in Japan, 185–6, 188, 189, 190, 193; and regionalism in East Asia, 199. See also cities values: applicability of Confucian in non-Confucian societies, 234–5; and care for needy family members, 228–34; Confucian in family and social life, 289–93; and temporary relevance of Confucianism, 369–70; and debate on Confucianism and modernity, 3–5; feminist compared to Confucian, 278; and material welfare, 223–8; mediation and shared community, 272–3; modern societies and selection of Confucian, 220–3. See also Asian values; benevolence; civic virtue; ethics; filial piety;
morality; mutual help; ritual propriety
Vietnam, and agricultural reform, 234n50
Voltaire, 160n12
voluntary donations, and social welfare, 250–3
Wang Hui, 268–9
Wang Jisun, 9–10
Wang Rougeu, 77n10, 78n15
Wang Shouren, 267
Wang Yangming, 363
Wang Xiehe, 84
Watson, Alan, 38n18
Webber, Max, 7, 70n1, 144, 147, 160, 274, 340–1
Wei Jingjun, 265

© Cambridge University Press
www.cambridge.org