

Contents

|          |  |                 |
|----------|--|-----------------|
|          | Preface   | page vii |
|          | Textual Note  | xiii            |
|          | Introduction: The Love of Literary Fame                       | 1        |
|          | Approaches to Hume's Intellectual Biography                          | 2               |
|          | Hume as Man of Letters   | 14              |
|          | Summary of the Narrative   | 24              |
| 1 | Pursuits of Philosophy and General Learning                   | 35       |
|          | Shaftesbury as an Antidote to University                             | 38              |
|          | Mandeville and Bayle as an Antidote toShaftesbury                | 51              |
|          | Hutcheson and the Scottish Scene of Thought                          | 65              |
| 2 | Anatomist of Human Nature                                     | 78       |
|          | A Compleat Chain of Reasoning: TheUnderstanding and the Passions | 81              |
|          | Publication of a First Book  | 116             |
|          | Between Mandeville and Hutcheson: Artificialand Natural Virtues  | 121             |
| 3 | Essayist  | 143      |
|          | Preparation for the Study of Politics                                | 145             |
|          | Experiments in Addisonianism   | 154             |
|          | Party Politics from an Impartial Point of View                       | 166             |
|          | Towards the Reduction of Politics to a Science                       | 174             |
|          | Philosophy Ancient and Modern  | 186             |

|          |   |         |
|----------|---|---------|
| 4 | The Achievement of Independence              | 198     |
|          | A Reputation in Scotland, and ItsConsequences   | 199     |
|          | Casting Anew Treatise Book I                 | 216     |
|          | Lessons of a Jacobite Rebellion                     | 232     |
| 5 | Two Years at Ninewells                       | 248     |
|          | Casting Anew Treatise Book III               | 250     |
|          | Political Economy for a Commercial World            | 265     |
|          | Philosophical Religion, PhilosophicalFriendship | 289     |
| 6 | The Start of a History of Great Britain      | 305     |
|          | Contexts for Hume the Historian                     | 308     |
|          | The Errors of the Stuarts                           | 325     |
| 7 | The Completion of a History of England       | 352     |
|          | Among the Moderates                                 | 354     |
|          | On Tudor Despotism                                  | 368     |
|          | The Irrelevance of the Ancient Constitution         | 387     |
| 8 | Paris, London, Edinburgh                     | 408     |
|          | A Sceptic in the Company of Dogmatists              | 410     |
|          | Wilkes and America                                  | 421     |
|          | Natural Religion Revisited                          | 438     |
|          | Afterword: Death andCharacter       | 461 |
|          | Notes  | 473     |
|          | Bibliography                                 | 575     |
|          | Index  | 611     |