

Contents

---

List of figure and tables	page ix
List of acronyms	x
Acknowledgments	xiii
1 Introduction	1
Private security and the control of force: the question	3
Private security and the control of force: the answer	5
A transnational market for military and security services	7
Mercenaries, privatization, and other slippery terms	22
The current market compared	26
Why the current market?	30
Plan of the book	38
2 Private security and the control of force	40
Clarifying the control of force	40
How should privatization affect the control of force?	45
State contracts for private force	57
State regulation of private security	65
Non-state financing and the control of force	70
Methods and claims	77
3 State capacity and contracting for security	81
Sierra Leone's contracts for military services	82
Croatia's contracts for military services	98
US contracts for military services	113
Comparisons	138
4 Dilemmas in state regulation of private security exports	143
The United States	146
South Africa	157
The United Kingdom	167
Transnational markets and political trade-offs	175
5 Private financing for security and the control of force	178
Transnational corporate financing and the control of force	180
Humanitarian relief in war zones	192

Cambridge University Press

0521850266 - The Market for Force: The Consequences of Privatizing Security

Deborah D. Avant

Table of Contents

More information

---

viii	Contents
	Conserving nature in the state of nature	204
	Comparisons	215
6	Market mechanisms and the diffusion of control over force	219
	Market mechanisms	219
	Diffusion of control	228
	Institutional innovations	240
	Competing mechanisms, conflict, and change in history	245
	Discussion	251
7	Conclusion	253
	Institutional mechanisms and political processes	254
	Globalization, the state, and the sovereign system	257
	Bibliography	265
	Index	302