Contents

*Notes on contributors vii

1. Introduction: being at home with the Empire
   Catherine Hall and Sonya Rose
   1

2. At home with history: Macaulay and the *History of England
   Catherine Hall
   32

3. A homogeneous society? Britain’s internal ‘others’, 1800–present
   Laura Tabili
   53

4. At home with the Empire: the example of Ireland
   Christine Kinealy
   77

5. The condition of women, women’s writing and the Empire in nineteenth-century Britain
   Jane Rendall
   101

6. Sexuality and empire
   Philippa Levine
   122

7. Religion and empire at home
   Susan Thorne
   143

8. Metropolitan desires and colonial connections: reflections on consumption and empire
   Joanna de Groot
   166

9. Imagining empire: history, fantasy and literature
   Cora Kaplan
   191
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>vi</th>
<th>Contents</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>10 New narratives of imperial politics in the nineteenth century</td>
<td>Antoinette Burton 212</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11 Bringing the Empire home: women activists in imperial Britain, 1790s–1930s</td>
<td>Clare Midgley 230</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12 Taking class notes on empire</td>
<td>James Epstein 251</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13 Citizenship and empire, 1867–1928</td>
<td>Keith McClelland and Sonya Rose 275</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Select bibliography 298

Index 330