Index

1992 currency crisis, 152–3
2005 British Election Study (BES), 20–2
2005 election, 143, 189–91, 192 competing models, 163–8 economic evaluations, 144–5 emotional reactions, 150–2, 168
issue agenda, 55–64, 152–6 leaders, 156–9, 200–1
local campaign/‘ground war’, 204–12 official campaign, 193–203, 229–30 party identification, 146–7, 170 party performance, 147–50 result, 9–10
spatial models, 160–1
tactical voting, 163
turnout and party choice, 186–7 9/11, see September 11, 2001
(terrorist attack)
‘affect’ heuristics, 42–3 age, see also Conservatives, older issues
and public opinion on British participation in Iraq War, 107, 120, 125 political participation and, 234–5, 236–8, 248 air war, 193
Annie, decision not to vote, 6
Ansolabehere, Stephen, 45 asylum/immigration, 55, 61–2, 62–4, see also new security agenda
evaluation of 2005 Labour party, 147 authoritarians, 298–9
benefits and costs model, 110–3, 117–20
BES (2005 British Election Study), 20–2 Bevin, Ernest, 103
bias, inherent in electoral system, 14
Black, Duncan, 30
Blair, Tony
2005 campaign remarks, 192, 194
2005 election success, 101 advocacy for Iraq war, 104–5 ‘Bliar’ attack, 198, 223 claims of crime reduction, 198 damage from Iraq War, 7, 13–14, 53–4, 133–41, 170–4 ineffectual call to Chinese premier, 193–4 leadership ratings, 70, 157–8, 159, 200–1, 203
party leader image, 11–12, 54 ‘people’s princess’ speech, 135, 136 stumbled in tv debate, 201–2 voter view of Blair’s response to September 11, 2001 (terrorist attack), 3 voters’ perception of, 2–3 BNP
2005 campaign broadcasts, 221
running only in selected constituencies, 175 Bosnian War, 2, 9
boycotting, 234, 236, 238, 239, see also marketplace politics Brown, Gordon
as Chancellor economic judgment trusted, 3–4 efficient running of the economy, 2 operating within ‘golden rule’, 10 as Prime Minister, 314–18, 319, 320 choice as replacement for Blair, 15
Index

Brown, Gordon (cont.)
in 2005 election campaign, 194
Budge, Ian, 38–9
Bush, George W., 104–5
Butler Inquiry, 123
Butler, David, 146
buycotting, 259, see also marketplace politics Cable, Vince, 194–5
Cameron, David, 315–16
campaigns influence of, 193, 209–12
  length, 53
  modelling, 212–29
Campbell, Menzies, 194–5
canvasing, 2005 campaign, 208
Charles, Prince of Wales, second wedding of, 193 civic duty, 275–6
civic voluntarism model of turnout, 182 Clegg, Nick, 320

cognitive engagement model, 243, 248 cognitive misers, 17–18 common reference assumption, 33, 40 competence, definitions, 4–5 consequences, as source of valence judgments, 18 Conservatives
  2005 campaign canvassing, 208–9
  2005 campaign impact, 211–12, 312
  2005 campaign spending, 206–7
  and issue agenda 2005, 168
  middle-class vote, 168
  older vote, 168
  perceived policy positions, 289–90
Converse, Philip, 17, 37
Cook, Robin, 115
crime, 55, 61–2, see also new security agenda
evaluation of 2005 Labour party, 147
data sources
  2005 British Election Study, 20–2
  ESS (European Social Survey), 22, 250–1, 252
  GPVP project, 22

Participation and Democracy in Britain project, 22 desert heuristic, 49
direct experience, as source of valence judgments, 18 donating to political parties, 234 Downs, Anthony, 16, 30, 48, see also spatial model economic growth, spatial vs valence aspects, 45 economic management, confidence in Labour vs Conservatives, 70–1 participation and, 245, 246
economic voting, 16
  economy issues, 71–2
  emotional reactions to, 151
evaluation of 2005 Labour party, 148
  modelling, 78
  education levels, and public opinion on British participation in Iraq War, 107 electoral choice models, 30, see also spatial model, unified model, utility-maximization model, valence model electoral system, bias inherent in, 14 electoral turnout, decline in, 7–8
  emotional reactions
  2005 election, 150–2, 168
  as source of valence judgments, 18
  ESS (European Social Survey), 22, 250–1, 252
  European Monetary Union membership, spatial vs valence aspects, 44 European Union, approval of, modelling, 78 evaluations of government performance, as source of valence judgments, 18 experience, see direct experience, as source of valence judgments, personal experience Farlie, Dennis, 38–9
Fiorina, Morris P., 146 fixed structure assumption, 33, 38–9
Frost, Charles, 1–2, 2–3, 3–4, 318–20
Index

Frost, Isabella, 2–4, 318–20 fundamentals, 144

Gallagher Least Squares index, 256–7 gender, and public opinion on British participation in Iraq War, 107, 126–30 general demographic model, 162, 164 general heuristics model, 113–17, 120 general incentives model, 182–3, 243–4 Glazer, Amihai, 34
GPVP (Government Performance, Valence Judgements and The Dynamics of Party Support) project, 22
Greens
2005 campaign broadcasts, 221
opposition to Iraq War, 16 Grofman, Bernard, 35, 36, 40 ground war, 193
2005 election, 204–12
modelling, 212–21
Hague, William, 11–12, 143, 159, 200–1 heuristics, 17–18, 42–3, 49–50, see also desert heuristic, leader heuristic, partisanship heuristic as less important for more sophisticated voters, 51 loss of spatial and valence information encouraging use, 52 Hewitt, Patricia, 193–4
Hotelling, Harold, 30
Howard, Michael, 190, 192, 311
2005 campaign remarks, 198, 199
2005 manifesto, 194
‘Bliar’ attack, 198, 223
leadership ratings, 157–8, 159, 200–1, 203
party leader image, 11–12
Howe, Geoffrey, 1
Hutton Inquiry, 123
inflation, 59–60
information costs, 41
information paradox, 41
information processing, within spatial model, 41–3 Iraq War
damage to Blair, 7, 13–14, 53–4, 133–41, 170–4 damage to Labour, 7, 76, 167 evolution as valence issue, 310 modelling impact of, 79–82 negative emotional reactions to, 150–1 overview, 103
rise of security agenda, 64, 73 voters’ views on Blair, 3
issue agenda 2005
changes 2001–5, 55–64
events affecting, 73
New Labour and, 67–77
issue agenda handling, 68–9 issue salience, 47–8 issue sampling, 46–7
John Paul II, Pope, death of, 193
Kelly, David, 109, 123
Kennedy, Charles, 173–4, 190, 216, 218–19
in 2005 election campaign, 194–5
in TV debate, 201–2
leadership ratings, 157–8, 159, 200–1
party leader image, 11–12, 203
Kollman, Kenneth, 34
Kosovo, Blair’s intervention in, 2, 9
Laakso and Taagepera index, 257
Labour, see New Labour
Laver-Benoit index, 256 leader effects, 307
and participation, 245, 246 and political sophistication, 178–81
modelling, 174–8
leader heuristic, 5, 17–18, 23–4, 49, 70 leader images, 12, 78
2005 election, 156–9, 200–1
and public opinion on British participation in Iraq War, 115, 120, 123–5 Blair, Tony, 11–12, 54
legal restrictions, campaign spending, 204 Liberal Democrats
2005 campaign broadcasts, 221
leader images (cont.)
2005 campaign canvassing, 208–9
2005 campaign impact, 210
2005 campaign spending, 207
and issue agenda 2005, 70
benefit from tactical voting, 168 and perceived policy positions, 289–90
New Labour

2005 campaign canvassing, 208–9
2005 campaign impact, 211–12
2005 campaign spending, 206–7
and issue agenda 2005, 67–77
and perceived policy positions, 289–90 new security agenda, 64 and evaluation of 2005 Conservative party, 149–50 modelling rise of, 64–6 newspapers, broadsheet vs tabloid, 95–6 NHS

emotional reactions to, 151
Labour ownership of issue, 153, 156
Northern Ireland peace process, Blair’s involvement, 2

older issues, 56 ‘on-line’ processing model of candidate evaluations, 43 opinion polls, 51

opposition parties, 52 ordered structure assumption, 33, 39–40
Ordeshook, Peter C., 182

Page, Scott, 34
paradox of information, 41 paradox of participation, 41 participation, see political participation Participation and Democracy in Britain (PDB) project, 22 partisanship heuristic, 42–3, 49 partisanship/party identification, 10–1, 145–6, see also macropartisanship as proxy for party activism, 239–42 in 2005 elections, 146–7, 170 Michigan interpretation of, 145, 327
participation and, 249–50
valence vs Michigan models, 327–30 party activism, 235
party identification as proxy for, 239–42 party identification, see partisanship/party identification party membership, 235, 236, 238 party strategy
assumption of vote maximization, 33, 34
overview, 269
trends, 235–42
political regimes, 278–80
political system orientations, 278–81
modelling, 302–4
pooling the polls analyses, 195
Popkin, Samuel L., 42–3 position issues, 16
propensity to accept risk, 293, 294
proportional representation, 270 protesting, 234, 235, 238, 242
during Thatcher years, 236
participation and, 246, 248–9
public opinion
on British participation in Iraq War, 105–9, 141–2
benefits and costs model, 110–3, 117–20
comparison of models, 117–26
emerging consensus, 130–3
general heuristics model, 113–17, 120 morality model, 110, 117
on wars, 103
modelling, 109–10
public services delivery
evaluation of 2005 Labour party, 147–8
spatial vs valence aspects, 45
Question Time (TV programme, BBC,
28 April 2005), 201–2
Rabinowitz, George, 35–6
rational choice model of turnout, 182, see also low-information
rationality, voter rationality receive–accept–sample model, 46
regional/national identity, 293, 294–5
Respect party
opposition to Iraq War, 16
running only in selected
constituencies, 16
Riker, William, 182
risk aversion, see propensity to accept
risk
Scholfield, Norman, 45
Scottish devolution, impact on 2005
election, 14
security issues, 57–8, 72–3 framing political debate, 39, 58–9 implications of valence politics, 24 party support

modelling
April 2004–April 2005, 82–8
July 2000–April 2005, 77–82 party systems, 255, 256 past performance, 38
PDB (Participation and Democracy in Britain) project, 22 performance politics, 306–14 performance, definitions, 4–5 personal experience, 55, 102 non-economic effects of, 93–9
modelling, 88–93
of the economy, 54
personal political orientations, 273–7
modelling, 296–301
personal responsibility, 292
petrol crisis (September 2000), 73, 135 Plaid Cymru, 175–6
2005 campaign broadcasts, 221
national identity, 176
pocketbook effect, see personal experience, of the economy policy competence, 68–9
New Labour, 70–1
political authorities, 278 political efficacy, 273–5 political interest, 273–5 political orientations, 272–3, 304–5, see also personal political orientations, political system orientations accounting for variation, 281–91 ideology and values and, 286–91
modelling, 295–304
personal and social orientations and, 291–5
valence judgments and, 282–6 political participation, 313, see also marketplace politics, paradox of participation, turnout age and, 234–5, 236–8, 248 and turnout, 231–3
Britain 2005, 233–5
comparative perspectives, 250–8 indicators for, 233–4 individual-level influences, 242–50
overview, 269
trends, 235–42
political regimes, 278–80
political system orientations, 278–81
modelling, 302–4
pooling the polls analyses, 195
Popkin, Samuel L., 42–3
position issues, 16
propensity to accept risk, 293, 294
proportional representation, 270
protesting, 234, 235, 238, 242
during Thatcher years, 236
participation and, 246, 248–9
public opinion
on British participation in Iraq War, 105–9, 141–2
benefits and costs model, 110–3, 117–20
comparison of models, 117–26
emerging consensus, 130–3
general heuristics model, 113–17, 120 morality model, 110, 117
on wars, 103
modelling, 109–10
public services delivery
evaluation of 2005 Labour party, 147–8
spatial vs valence aspects, 45
Question Time (TV programme, BBC,
28 April 2005), 201–2
Rabinowitz, George, 35–6
rational choice model of turnout, 182, see also low-information
rationality, voter rationality receive–accept–sample model, 46
regional/national identity, 293, 294–5
Respect party
opposition to Iraq War, 16
running only in selected
constituencies, 16
Riker, William, 182
risk aversion, see propensity to accept
risk
Scholfield, Norman, 45
Scottish devolution, impact on 2005
election, 14
security issues, 57–8, 72–3
security issues (cont.)
evaluation of 2005 Labour party, 148
September 11, 2001 (terrorist attack) as transforming issue agenda of British politics, 7, 13, 53–4, 66 step-shift rise of security agenda, 64 voter view of Blair’s response, 3 Sniderman, Paul M., 43
SNP
2005 campaign broadcasts, 221
national identity, 176
Snyder, James M., 45
social class model, 162, 164 social class, and public opinion on British participation in Iraq War, 107 social trust/trust in others, 292–3, 294 spatial model, 31–4, 160
2005 election, 160–1
criticisms, 34–41
definitions, 6
information within, 41–3
overview, 16, 30–1
Stokes, Donald, 17, 23, 30, 34, 37, 38–40, 146, 152
tactical voting, 162–3
2005 election, 163
Liberal Democrats benefit from, 168 tax vs spending, 2001/5 party positions, 67 television debates, Question Time (TV programme, BBC, 28 April 2005), 201–2
Thatcher, Margaret, 1–2, 4
Falkland Islands War, 1 turnout, 312
and party choice, 181–2, 185–7 and political participation, 231–3
modelling, 182–5
post-war decline in, 231, 239
US decline in, 232
UKIP running only in selected
constituencies, 175
valence component to spatial issue, 44 unemployment, 59–60 unidimensionality assumption, 33, 34–5, see also multi-dimensional issue space
unified model, 36
utility-maximization model voting behaviour, 17
valence calculations vs positional calculations, 8–9, 17, 31, 51–2 valence issues, 15, 152, 306–7 valence judgments, 68–9 and democratic process, 19–20 and voter turnout, 18–19 sources, 18, 46–50
valence model, 5
explanatory power, 164
implications, 50–2
theoretical overview, 15–20, 44–6
Vanhaken index of democratization, 256, 257
volunteering, 235, 236, 238
participation and, 246, 249
vote maximization assumption, 33, 34 voter rationality, see also low-information rationality, 5 voter satisfaction/dissatisfaction, 245–6, 248–9
voting behaviour,
utility-maximization model, 17
war, air, 193
wars, 30
Welsh devolution, impact on 2005
election, 14
Wittman, Donald, 34
Zaller, John, 46–7, 123