Contents

List of Contributors
Foreword by William M. Sullivan
Introduction

PART ONE. WHAT IS TO BE TAUGHT
1. The Cognitive Base of Professionalism
   Sylvia R. Cruess and Richard L. Cruess

PART TWO. THEORY
2. Educational Theory and Strategies for Teaching and Learning Professionalism
   Yvonne Steinert
3. Professionalism and the Socialization of Medical Students
   Frederic William Hafferty

PART THREE. PRINCIPLES
4. Principles for Designing a Program for the Teaching and Learning of Professionalism at the Undergraduate Level
   Richard L. Cruess and Sylvia R. Cruess
5. Resident Formation – A Journey to Authenticity: Designing a Residency Program That Educes Professionalism
   David C. Leach
6. Supporting Teaching and Learning of Professionalism – Changing the Educational Environment and Students’ “Navigational Skills”
   Thomas S. Inui, Ann H. Cottingham, Richard M. Frankel, Debra K. Litzelman, Anthony L. Suchman, and Penelope R. Williamson
7. Assessment and Remediation in Programs of Teaching Professionalism
   Christine Sullivan and Louise Arnold
8. Developing Professionalism across the Generations
   Sharon Johnston and Mark A. Peacock
   150
9. Faculty Development for Teaching and Learning Professionalism
   Yvonne Steinert
   165
10. The Relationship between Teaching Professionalism and Licensing and Accrediting Bodies
    Sir Donald Irvine
    185
11. Educating the Public about Professionalism: From Rhetoric to Reality
    Jordan J. Cohen and Linda L. Blank
    200

PART FOUR. PRACTICE: CASE STUDIES IN TEACHING
PROFESSIONALISM ACROSS THE CONTINUUM
12. Teaching Professionalism in a Traditional or Organ-Based Curriculum
    Erika Goldstein
    211
13. Learning Professionalism in a Problem-Based Curriculum
    Gillian Maudsley and Rev. David C.M. Taylor
    225
14. Teaching Professionalism and Fostering Professional Values
    during Residency: The McGill Experience
    Linda Snell
    246
15. Continuing Professional Development: A Focus on Professionalism
    Dave Davis
    263

APPENDIX A. Definitions of Professionalism
   279

APPENDIX B. Core Attributes of Professionalism
   285

APPENDIX C. The Teaching of Professionalism: Vignettes for Discussion
   287

APPENDIX D. A Matrix for “Matching” Teaching Methods to Attributes
   291

APPENDIX E. Sample Grid for Use with Discussion of Vignettes
   292

APPENDIX F. Sample Questions to Guide Discussion about the Social Contract: Small-Group Leaders’ Guide with Suggested Responses
    294

APPENDIX G. Professionalism Program for Residents: Suggested Outline for Small Group Facilitators
   295

APPENDIX H. Sample Evaluation Form for Residents’ Half-Day Program on Professionalism 297

Index
   299