a priori necessity 24–5
delusional perception 180–3
and essential truths 30–1 abstract vs. concrete behaviour, and frame of reference 178–9
Goldstein 139–42
omnipotence experience 185 abstraction, brain-injured patients, temporal structure 186–7
Goldstein 135–9
Aristotle, and origins of expression accuracy, compulsion for 237 ‘phenomenology’ 57–62
affective disorder
assignments/references, Heidegger 74
Bleuler, E. 102, 104
and involvement 79
von Gebsattel, compulsive thoughts attention
in brain-injured patients 137
in signs 75–9 Tellenbach, situational context of
in brain-injured patients 137 Straus, time experiences in effect of focusing on 246 Schneider, emotion and depressive autism and schizophrenia 144–5 as a form of mental life 111
Binswanger’s existential analysis
In a form of mental life 111
155–8
Bachelard, Gaston 128–9
Bleuler, E.
being-in-the-world 117
and dealing with entities 69–72
he also Worldhood of the World, manic mode of 197–203
Heidegger
as transcendence 118–19 ‘being of nature’, horizon of see also Worldhood of the World,
psychology 65
Heidegger
‘being-there’ see Dasein, Heidegger
Binswanger, Ludwig 90
Bergson, Henri 10
eighty on consciousness 10
Dasein
Minkowski influenced by 90, 146
‘being-there’ see Dasein, Heidegger bias (Tandenzen) 66–7
Binswanger, Ludwig 90
‘being-there’ see Dasein, Heidegger
existential analysis
as applied to psychiatry 122–30
human vs. animal existence 119–22
as applied to psychiatry 122–30
nature and goals of 117–19
psychiatric interview of manic-
psychiatric interview of manic-depressive patient 197–203 schizophrenic autism 155–8
biological world-concept, von Uexküll 119–22
binocular vision, schizophrenia birth phantasies 123–4
Blackburg, Wolfgang,
‘Psychopathology of Common
Sence’ 158–273
Bleuler, E. 102, 104–5, 110–11, 144–6, 147
‘Psychopathology of Common
birth phantasies 123–4
Sence’ 158–273

body language, understanding of body odour illusion 234–5
case history
brain injury, effect on ability to abstract 132–42
Brentano, Franz 3
on descriptive psychology 3–4 Heidegger influenced by 48 mental vs. physical phenomena 4–6 capacity to act, disturbance in 235–6 care (Sorge), as category of Dasein, Heidegger 49–50
case histories
anxiety attack and heel phobia apophasic experiencing,
schizophrenia 179–80
compulsive patients 226–7,
compulsive patients 226–7, 228–9, 230
odour illusion 233–4, 236
delusional perception 168–71
morbid rationalisation,
schizophrenia 150–3
pathological jealousy 112–16 preoccupation with time, in depression 214–16
schizophrenic autism 157–8 catatonia 189–90
causation, Jaspers 88, 99, 101–2 ‘Cézanne’s doubt’ (Merleau-Ponty) classification/delimination of psychic 257–67
phenomena, Jaspers 96–8 Clérambault’s syndrome 105–6, 115 correction, conflict in 232–73 cogito, Husserl 17–18, 23–4 colour
Cézanne’s use of 259, 260–1 perception of, Aristotle, 58–9 pure eidos and essential seeing 27,
pure eidos and essential seeing 27, 30, 32–3
common sense, pathology of,
Blankenburg 158–273
communication
deficits, schizophrenia 195 disturbances in mania 198–200
delusional perception 195
of meaning 122–3
comparision to others, and common sense 165–273 compassion 247–8
'compensation hysteria', Scheler 241–67 compensation, phenomenological, Minkowski 109–10 completion of actions, anankastic disturbance 235–6 compulsion syndrome see obsessive-compulsive disorder
'Compulsive thought relating to time in melancholia', von Gebsattel 214–19 concrete objects, understanding of, brain lesion patients 134–5 concrete vs. abstract attitude, concrete objects, understanding of, 'essence of', Husserl 176–93 consciousness
being of 65–6
and cogito 23–4
essence of 22–3
immediate data of, Bergson 10 naturalization of 63–4 pure/transcendental 21–2
as theme of present-day phenomenology 62–3 consolidation phase, schizophrenia 190–1 continuity, disruption of, and anxiety 124–5 da Vinci, Leonardo 265–6 darkness
Aristotle's concept of phenomenon 59 and mistrust, during 'trema' 177
Dasein, Heidegger 49, 83
in 'Worldhood of the World' 67–70, 72–3, 75, 79–81 daylight, Aristotle, 58–9 death compulsive thoughts of 215–16
death and life instinct 243 death-life antinomy, in mania 201 fear of 218–19
schizophrenic's delusions of 186 decay, compulsive thoughts of 224–6
case history 226–7
delusional bodily sensations 188–9 delusional misidentification 183–5 delusional mood 178, 187
delusional perception 181
gestalt analysis, Conrad 181–2
'healthy' vs. 'sick', Blankenburg 165–76 significant experiences, Matussek 174–5 three stages of, Conrad 182–3 dementia, intellectual vs. schizophrenic 146–50 dementia praecox 143–4, 150
Kraepelin's description of patient with 85–6 Laing's response to Kraepelin's 3rd-person stance 86–7
depression
endogenous v. reactive, Schneider 205–7 experience of time, Straus 207–14
see also manic-depression;
 melancholia/melancholy
descriptive psychology
Brentano, Franz 3–4
Dilthey, Wilhelm 7–8
diagnosis 270
of schizophrenia, Rümke 193–6 stage of medical practice, von Gebsattel 255–6 differences and congruence, Husserl 27–8 Dilthey, Wilhelm 6
descriptive and analytical psychology 7–8 psychological foundation for human studies 6–7 disease, von Gebsattel 250–1 science's conception of 251–2 disguist, Straus' analysis of 224–7 doctor-patient relationship 194–5, 254–6 double aspect of mental disorders, Minkowski 107–9 phenomenological compensation 109–10
and tendency for idea-affective expression 110–12
doubt Cézanne's, Merleau-Ponty's essay 257–67 compulsive symptom 230
dream experiences, in schizophrenia 187–8 dynamism 148–9
economic theory, Weber 8–9 Ego, Husserl 18, 22, 24 idiotic reduction, Husserl 15–16
eidos (idea) see pure generalities, Husserl elementary-sympathetic stage of medical practice 254–5 delusions of Schneider 186–8 future of, Braue 191–2
with 160 polemicists
in psychology 7 experience as55
in melancholia, Tellenbach 221–3
in schizophrenia, Conrad 187
epoché (ἐνότητα), Husserl 14, 20–1, 22 equipment, Heidegger 70
'readiness-to-hand' of 50, 70–82 Ereignis (event of appropriation) 55–6 essences, Husserl
consciousness as theme 22–3
eidetic reduction 15–16
'essential-expressive properties', delusional perception 181–2, 187 essential seeing, Husserl 25–8 event of appropriation (Ereignis), lived experience as 55–6 evil 232
exactness, compulsion for 236
excluding, Husserl 18–20
Existential and Existentiell, Heidegger 49
existential approaches
Binswanger
applied to psychiatry 122–30
human vs. animal existence 119–22
nature and goals of 117–19
schizophrenic autism 153–8
Jaspers, core schizophrenic experience 142–3 existential neurosis, von Gebsattel 256–7 empathy
actualization of 94
'declusive' 44
limitations of 92–3
empirical generalities, Husserl 24–5 endocosmogenic psychosis, Tellenbach 219–73 endogenous depression as disturbance in vital feelings, Schneider 205–6 experience of time in, Straus 207–14 endogenous psychoses 219 common sense in 160–1 phenomena found in melancholy 219–22 energy potential, schizophrenia 192 environmental influence, Heidegger 54–5 environmental influences in melancholia, Tellenbach 221–3
in schizophrenia, Conrad 187
experience 9
'experience of appropriation' 55–6
essences, Husserl
consciousness as theme 22–3
eidetic reduction 15–16
'essential-expressive properties', delusional perception 181–2, 187
essential seeing, Husserl 25–8
event of appropriation (Ereignis), lived experience as 55–6
evil 232
exactness, compulsion for 236
excluding, Husserl 18–20
Existential and Existentiell, Heidegger 49
existential approaches
Binswanger
applied to psychiatry 122–30
human vs. animal existence 119–22
nature and goals of 117–19
schizophrenic autism 153–8
Jaspers, core schizophrenic experience 142–3 existential neurosis, von Gebsattel 256–7 emotions
'dulling of', brain-injured patients 138 loss of feelings and experience of time 213 Schneider's stratification of 37, 203–5 evils 138
experience 122–30
human vs. animal existence 119–22
nature and goals of 117–19
schizophrenic autism 153–8
Jaspers, core schizophrenic experience 142–3 existential neurosis, von Gebsattel 256–7 fear of death-life antinomy, in mania 201 decision 187
death and life instinct 243
fear of death 218–19
'sick' 165–76
}

© in this web service Cambridge University Press

www.cambridge.org
Experience and Judgment (Husserl) 24–35 medical practice, von Gebssattel 250–4 meaningful stages of 254–7
melancholia/melancholy
compulsive thought relating to time as endocosmogenetic psychosis 219–73
see also depression
memory
deficits in brain-injured patients 137 and expectation, Scheler 244 of physical objects, Husserl 23–4 mental vs. physical phenomena, Brentano 4–6 Merleau-Ponty, Maurice, ‘Cézanne’s
doubt’ 257–67
metaphors, for describing
schizophrenia 144, 157–8
methods of phenomenological analysis 94–7
mind-body unity 253–4 Minkowski, Eugene 90
analysis of pathological jealousy 112–16
double aspect of mental disorders 107–9
from the symptom to the generating disorder 102–7
generating disorder and organopsychic relations 107
phenomenological compensation 109–10
problem of primary and secondary symptoms 110–12
miserliness 127–8
mistrust phase, schizophrenic prodrome 177–8
mood, delusional, in schizophrenia 178, 187
‘morbid mental subduction’,
Minkowski 106–7, 108
‘morbid rationalisation’, in schizophrenia 150–3
movement
illusion of 179
immobility of schizophrenic 149 and need for reference point 192 and person misidentification 184 schizophrenic’s motor behaviour 195
natural attitude, Husserl 13–14
general posturing characterizing 18 I and my surrounding world 16–17 natural and ideal surrounding worlds 17–18
phenomenological epoché 20–1 radical alteration of natural positing 18–20
natural sciences
biological psychiatry 212
biological world-concept, Uexküll 119–22
vs. human sciences, Dilthey 6–7 Husserl’s critique of 63–7 and phenomenology 271–3 naturalism, Husserl’s critique of 13, 63–7
Nature of Sympathy, The (Scheler)
41–6
nature’s being, horizon of psychology 65
normal behaviour
and the abstract attitude 141 comparing to abnormal 227–8 understanding by using abnormal 132–3
objective time 207–8
objective vs. subjective symptoms 91 and objective vs. subjective
psychology 91–2
objectivity in social science, Weber 8–10
obsessive-compulsive disorder pathology of, Straus 224–73
von Gebssattel 233
case history, body odour illusion 233–4
defensive aspect 235–7
nature of compulsion 237–8 phobic aspect 234–5
world of compulsive 238–40 obviousness, questionableness of 162–4
odour illusion, compulsive patient 234–5
omnipotence 185, 232
ontic vs. ontological questions 49 optimism of manic-depressive 200–2 organopsychic influence, Mignard 107
other minds, knowledge of 37–8, 41–6
‘overinclusive thinking’ 162 parenthesizing, Husserl 18–20 partial remission, schizophrenia 190–1
partnership stage of medical practice 256–7
the past
alteration of, in depression 210–11, 212–13
experiences, effect of 244–5 intervening into the present 114–15
see also the future; the present Index

pathological jealousy, Minkowski 112–16 perceiving the world, Aristotelian analysis 57–60 perception of others’ minds 41–6
of physical things, Husserl 23 of things, Aristotle’s three types 58–9 see also delusional perception persecution, delusions of 126–7 person misidentifications, schizophrenia 183–4 perspective, Cézanne’s use of 260 perverseness, schizophrenia 156, 158 phenomena 3–4
classification 97–8
isolation of 93–4
mental vs. physical 4–6 methods of analysing 94–7
search for irreducible 94 phenomenological approach in psychiatry 85–273 phenomenological epoché, Husserl 14, 20–1, 22
phenomenology 1
Aristotelian analysis of perceiving the world 57–60 boundaries of 98–9
future tasks for 92–9
origins of expression 57 relationship with natural sciences 271–3 teaching of 268
variations in 269–70
phenomenon (φαινόμενον), Aristotelian analysis of 57–60 philosophical anthropology, Scheler 38–9 phobias
anankastic phobia, odour illusion 234–5 anxiety attack 123–4 physical sciences see natural sciences physical vs. mental phenomena, Brentano 4–6 physician-patient relationship 194–5, 254–6 pity, Scheler 247–8
poet’s transforming experience, Blankenburg’s analysis 171–6 practical vs. theoretical behaviour 71 praecoxfeeling, diagnosis of schizophrenia, Rümke 193–6 precision, compulsion for 236
the present
attaching to the past 114–15 living entirely in 199 present-at-hand 50
and readiness-to-hand 72, 73, 74–5 presentations, mental phenomena 4 pretence of sickness 241–2 primitive interpretation of the world 231 prospect of gain in sickness compensation, effect of 243–5 pseudo-hallucinations 96 compared to normal imagery 97 psychiatric examination/interview, Binswanger 197–203 psychiatry, alternative approaches to 268 psychic events
isolation of 93–4
search for irreducible 94
psychic subject, Heidegger 51–2 psychoanalysis 252
explanation of phobias 123–4 interpretation of Leonardo da Vinci’s life 266 psychogenic depression 213–14 psychological reduction (the epoché) 14 psychosis, meaning of 219 psychosomatic illness 252–3 psychotherapy 252–4
pure generalities, Husserl and a-priori necessity 30–1 tangibility of empirical generalities and a-priori necessity 24–5 definition in terms of essence 15 difficulties of obtaining the highest genera 34–5 extension of 31–2
hierarchical structure and variation of ideas 32–4 meaning of ‘seeing generalities’ 28–9 method of essential seeing 25–8 necessity of explicit exclusion of all positings of being 29–30 questioning comportment, Heidegger 52–3 questioner’s role 53–4 questioning of the obvious, compulsive 162–4 questioning, passion for 56–7 ‘approachment-instinct’, Rümke on schizophrenia 194–6 reactive depression 205–7 ready-to-hand/readiness-to-hand 50, 70–82 reality, loss of contact with, in schizophrenia 109–10, 145–6, 151 reduction, Husserl 14
eidetic 15–16
psychological (the epoché) 14 transcendental phenomenological 14–15 reference frames, inability to change 179 references/assignments, Heidegger 74
and involvement 79
and signs 75–9
region ‘thing’, obtaining, Husserl 34–5 remission, partial, schizophrenia 190–1 repetition compulsion 238 representation, lack of, in compensation hysteria 242–3 residual state, schizophrenia 191–2 revelation
delusional perception of a picture 169–71 Jaspers on initial stage of schizophrenia 142–3 in Rilke’s poem about Apollo 171–3 see also apophatic phase, schizophrenia rhythm, alteration of in melancholy 220, 221 Rilke, Apollo poem 171–3, 174 rituals, obsessive-compulsive disorder 229–32 role-playing, in schizophrenia 158 Rorschach responses 128–9
phobic patient 125–6
Rümke, Henricus, schizophrenia diagnosis 193–6 sadness 206
Scheler, Max 36, 88–9
compensation hysteria 241–67 conception of phenomenology 36–7 emotional life, stratification of 37, 203–5 on feelings and value 40–1 on the human being 46–7 on knowledge of other minds 37–8, 41–6 on phenomenology 39–40 philosophical anthropology 38–9
schizophrenia
Binswanger, autistic qualities 155–8 Blankenburg delusional perception 165–76 loss of common sense 161 Conrad, prodromal delusions 176–93
Jaspers, core experiences 142–3
Kraepelin’s 3rd-person perspective 85–6
Minkowski 143
intellectual vs. schizophrenic ‘dementia’ 146–50 loss of vital contact with reality 143–6 spatial thought 150–5
Rümke, diagnosis and praecoxfeeling 193–6 Schneider, Kurt 174–5 depressive states 205–7 stratification of emotional life 203–5 science
health and disease 251–2 and the passion for questioning 56–7 see also natural science ‘seeing’, Aristotle’s analysis of 57–60 ‘self-evident’ assumptions, Scheler 43–5 sensible feelings, Scheler 204–5 as feeling states 40–1 shamelessness 161
significance/signifying, Dasein 81 signs, Heidegger 75–9
social policy, objectivity in, Weber 8–10 social psychology, Scheler 246–67 soul (psychic) feelings, Scheler 205 spatial images, time-related 148–9 spatial orientation 147–8 spatial thought in schizophrenia 150–5 speech of schizophrenic patients 85–6, 195–6 spiritual feelings, Scheler 205, 207 ‘static’ understanding, Jaspers 91–2
Stein, Edith, causation 88
Straus, Erwin
pathology of compulsion 224–73 time experience in endogenous depression 207–14 structural approach, Minkowski case history, jealousy 112–16
double aspect of mental disorders 107–9 generating disorders 103–7
phenomenological compensation 109–10 primary and secondary symptoms 110–12 symptoms and syndromes 102–3 subjective psychology 91–2 subjective vs. objective symptoms 91 subjective vs. universal time 207–10 suffering contagion, Scheler 248–9 surrounding world, Husserl 16–18
symptoms
schizophrenia diagnosis, Rümke 193–6 subjective vs. objective, Jaspers 91–2 see also structural approach, Minkowski
system and order, obsessive patients 229–30 tactlessness 161
task completion, disturbance in 235–8 Tellenbach, Hans, ‘Melancholy as Endocosmogenic Psychosis’ 219–73 temporality see time experience/perception Thing(s) 70
equipmental 70–1, 73
physical 17, 23
real, alteration of 28
region, obtaining of 34–5 thingly being/unity 65
thought disturbance
in manic-depression 200–1
in melancholia 214–73
in schizophrenia 188
thoughts, vicariously acquired 43–4 ‘throwness’, Heidegger 50
Time and Free Will (Bergson) 10 time experience/perception 148 anankastic patient 239–40 endogenous depression 207–14 general paralysis 148–9 melancholia 214–19
schizophrenia 186–7
tools see equipment
tradition 244
transcendence
being-in-the-world as 118–19
consciousness 21–2
phenomenological reduction 14–15
transient time, Straus 208–9 ‘trema’, schizophrenic prodrome 177–8, 187 Typus melancholicus 220–1 hereditary predisposition 223 pathogenic situations 221–2
Uebertieg see transcendence Umwelt (‘world around’, von Uexküll) 119–20 un-ready-to-hand, Heidegger 50, 73 understanding see Verstehen undo/undoing, compulsive patient’s wish to 228–9 universal vs. subjective time 207–10 utopia, Weber’s Ideal Types 8–9 values, feeling of, Scheler 37, 41 variation of ideas, Husserl 32–4 Verblüffung (paradementia) 149
Verstehen (understanding) 6
Dasein, Heidegger 49, 80–1
Genetic, Jaspers 101–2
vicarious phenomenology, Kraepelin 85–6 Vico, G., common sense 161 vital contact with reality, schizophrenia 109–10, 143–6 vital feelings, Scheler 204–5 and depression 206–7 vital inhibition, depression 210 vital meaningfulness, melancholia 221 voluntary shifting, brain-injured patients 137–8 von Gebsattel, Viktor meaning of medical practice 254–7 obsessive-compulsive disorder 232–40
von Uexküll, Jakob, Umwelt (‘world around’) 119–20 Vorhanden see present-at-hand
Weber, Max
Ideal Types 8
‘Objectivity in Social Science and Social Policy’ 8–10 work to be produced, and equipment, Heidegger 71–2 ‘world around’, von Uexküll 119–20 world-concept, Goldstein 121 ‘world-design’, Husserl’s concept 119 examples from psychopathology 123–4 search for unity/wholeness of 124–5 world, use of word 68 Worldhood of the World, Heidegger being of the entities 69–72 and entities within-the-world 72–5 idea of world in general 67–9 involvement and significance 79–82 reference and signs 75–9