Poetry written in English is uniquely powerful and suggestive in its capacity to surprise, unsettle, shock, console and move. The Cambridge History of English Poetry offers sparkingly fresh and dynamic readings of an extraordinary range of poets and poems from Beowulf to Alice Oswald. An international team of experts explores how poets in England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland use language and to what effect, examining questions of form, tone and voice; they comment, too, on how formal choices are inflected by the poet’s time and place. The Cambridge History of English Poetry is the most comprehensive and authoritative history of the field from Anglo-Saxon times to the present. It traces patterns of continuity, transformation, transition and development. Covering a remarkable array of poets and poems, and featuring an extensive bibliography, the scope and depth of this major work of reference make it required reading for anyone interested in poetry.

Michael O’Neill is Professor of English at Durham University. He has published widely on poetry and is a published poet himself. His recent publications include The All-Sustaining Air: Romantic Legacies and Renewals in British, American and Irish Poetry (2007) and Wheel (2008), a collection of poems.
THE CAMBRIDGE HISTORY OF ENGLISH POETRY

Edited by

MICHAEL O´NEILL
Contents

Notes on contributors ix
Acknowledgments xvi

Introduction 1
MICHAEL O’NEILL

1 · Old English poetry 7
BERNARD O’DONOGHUE

2 · The Gawain-poet and medieval romance 26
CORINNE SAUNDERS

3 · Late fourteenth-century poetry (Chaucer, Gower, Langland and their legacy) 43
WENDY SCASE

4 · Langland: Piers Plowman 63
A.V.C. SCHMIDT

5 · Chaucer: Troilus and Criseyde and The Canterbury Tales 81
LAURA VARNAM

6 · Late medieval literature in Scotland: Henryson, Dunbar and Douglas 96
FELICITY RIDDY

7 · Sixteenth-century poetry: Skelton, Wyatt and Surrey 115
ELIZABETH HEALE
List of contents

8 · Spenser 136
ANDREW HADFIELD

9 · Sidney, Shakespeare and the Elizabethan sonnet and lyric 154
KATHERINE A. CRAIK

10 · The narrative poetry of Marlowe and Shakespeare 173
PAUL EDMONDSON

11 · Seventeenth-century poetry 1: poetry in the age of Donne and Jonson 192
JONATHAN POST

12 · Seventeenth-century poetry 2: Herbert, Vaughan, Philips,
Cowley, Crashaw, Marvell 211
ALISON SHELL

13 · Milton’s shorter poems 231
BARBARA K. LEWALSKI

14 · Milton: Paradise Lost, Paradise Regained, Samson Agonistes 255
BARBARA K. LEWALSKI

15 · Restoration poetry: Behn, Dryden and their contemporaries 281
HESTER JONES

16 · Dryden: major poems 299
STEVEN N. ZWICKER

17 · Swift 318
CLAUDE RAWSON

18 · Poetry of the first half of the eighteenth century: Pope,
Johnson and the couplet 333
CLAUDE RAWSON

19 · Eighteenth-century women poets 358
CHRISTINE GERRARD
List of contents

20 · Longer eighteenth-century poems (Akenside, Thomson, Young, Cowper and others) 378
   Richard Terry

21 · Lyric poetry: 1740–1790 397
   David Fairer

22 · Romantic poetry: an overview 418
   Seamus Perry

23 · Blake’s poetry and prophecies 440
   John Beer

24 · Wordsworth and Coleridge: Lyrical Ballads and other poems 456
   Timothy Webb

25 · Wordsworth’s The Prelude and The Excursion 470
   Alison Hickey

26 · Second-generation Romantic poetry 1: Hunt, Byron, Moore 487
   Jane Stabler

27 · Byron’s Don Juan 506
   Bernard Beatty

28 · Second-generation Romantic poetry 2: Shelley and Keats 524
   Michael O’Neill

29 · Third-generation Romantic poetry: Beddoes, Clare, Darley, Hemans, Landon 542
   Michael Bradshaw

30 · Women poets of the Romantic period (Barbauld to Landon) 561
   Heidi Thomson
List of contents

31 · Victorian poetry: an overview 576
   Richard Cronin

32 · Tennyson 596
   Robert Douglas-Fairhurst

33 · Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning 617
   Herbert F. Tucker

34 · Emily Brontë, Arnold, Clough 635
   Michael O’Neill

35 · Dante Gabriel Rossetti and Swinburne 649
   David G. Riede

36 · Christina Rossetti and Hopkins 669
   Catherine Phillips

37 · Later Victorian voices 1: James Thomson, Symons, Dowson, Lionel Johnson, Housman 686
   Nicholas Shrimpton

38 · Later Victorian voices 2: Davidson, Kipling, ‘Michael Field’ (Bradley and Cooper), Lee-Hamilton, Kendall, Webster 706
   Francis O’Gorman

39 · Modernist and modern poetry: an overview 725
   Jason Harding

40 · Hardy and Mew 746
   Ralph Pite

41 · Yeats 767
   Peter Vassallo

42 · Imagism 787
   Vincent Sherry
List of contents

43 · T. S. Eliot       807
   GARETH REEVES

44 · Owen, Rosenberg, Sassoon and Edward Thomas    824
   MARK RAWLINSON

45 · Auden, Day Lewis, MacNeice, Spender: the thirties poetry  844
   MICHAEL O’NEILL

46 · Dylan Thomas and poetry of the 1940s  858
   JOHN GOODBY

47 · Larkin and the Movement    879
   STEPHEN REGAN

48 · Three twentieth-century women poets: Riding, Smith, Plath  897
   ALICE ENTWISTLE

49 · Hughes and Heaney    918
   EDWARD LARRISY

50 · Hill    936
   ANDREW MICHAEL ROBERTS

51 · Mahon, Longley, Muldoon, McGuckian, Carson, Boland and other Irish poets  966
   STEPHEN REGAN

52 · Contemporary poetries in English, c.1980 to the present 1: the radical tradition  970
   PETER BARRY

53 · Contemporary poetries in English, c.1980 to the present 2  988
   JAMIE MCKENDRICK

Bibliography 1005
   Index    1038

ix
Notes on contributors

Peter Barry is Professor of English at Aberystwyth University. His most recent books are Poetry Wars: British Poetry of the 1970s and the Battle of Earls Court (2006) and Literature in Contexts (2007).

Bernard Beatty is Senior Fellow in the School of English at the University of Liverpool and Associate Fellow in the School of Divinity at the University of St Andrews. He is the author of Byron’s Don Juan (1985) and Byron’s Don Juan and Other Poems (1987), and edited The Byron Journal from 1988 to 2005.

Michael Bradshaw is the author of Resurrection Songs: The Poetry of Thomas Lovell Beddoes (2001), the co-editor with Ute Berns of The Ashgate Research Companion to Thomas Lovell Beddoes (2007) and has edited Beddoes’s Death’s Jest-Book: the 1829 Text (2003) and Selected Poetry (1999). He is currently Professor of English at Edge Hill University.

Katharine A. Craik is Senior Lecturer at Oxford Brookes University. She has published widely on Shakespeare and his contemporaries, and her book Reading Sensations in Early Modern England appeared in 2007.

Richard Cronin is Professor of English Literature at the University of Glasgow. His most recent book is Romantic Victorians: English Literature, 1824–1840 (2002).

Paul Edmondson is Head of Learning and Research at The Shakespeare Birthplace Trust. His publications include The Shakespeare Handbooks: ‘Twelfth Night’ (2005). He has
Notes on contributors

Alice Entwistle is Principal Lecturer at the University of Glamorgan. She co-authored A History of Twentieth-Century British Women's Poetry with Jane Dowson (2005), and is preparing a monograph on contemporary poetry written by women in Wales and co-editing with John Goodby an anthology of innovative Welsh poetries.

Christine Gerrard is the Barbara Scott Fellow in English at Lady Margaret Hall, Oxford. She co-edited with David Fairer Eighteenth-Century Poetry: An Annotated Anthology (second edition, 2003) and edited A Companion to Eighteenth-Century Poetry (2006), as well as volumes i and ii of The Complete Correspondence of Samuel Richardson (2010).

John Goodby lectures in English at the University of Swansea. He is the author of Irish Poetry since 1950: from Stillness into History (2000), editor of the New Casebook on Dylan Thomas (2001) and he has published widely on British and Irish poetry.

Andrew Hadfield is Professor of English at the University of Sussex. His books include Shakespeare and Republicanism (2005), Literature, Travel and Colonialism in the English Renaissance, 1540–1625 (1998), Spenser's Irish Experience: Wilde Frucht and Salvage Soyl (1997) and Literature, Politics and National Identity: Reformation to Renaissance (1994). He is the editor of Renaissance Studies.

Jason Harding is Reader in English Studies at the University of Durham and a Visiting Research Fellow at the Institute of English Studies, University of London. He is the author of a study of British interwar literary journalism, The Criterion: Cultural Politics and Periodical Networks in Interwar Britain (2002) and is co-editor of a collection of critical essays, T. S. Eliot and the Concept of Tradition (2007).

Elizabeth Heale taught in the Department of English at the University of Reading until 2008. She is now a Research Fellow in the department. Her publications include Wyatt, Surrey and Early Tudor Poetry (1998) and Autobiography and Authorship in Renaissance Verse: Chronicles of the Self (2003).

Alison Hickey is Associate Professor of English at Wellesley College, Massachusetts. She is the author of a book on Wordsworth (Impure Conceits, 1997).

Hester Jones is Senior Lecturer in the Department of English at the University of Bristol, and was Lecturer in English at the University of Liverpool from 1994 to 2007. She has published a volume (2004) on the Rossettis in the Lives of Victorian Literary Figures series.
Notes on contributors

Edward Larrissy is Professor of Poetry in the School of English at Queen’s University, Belfast, and Research Director of the Seamus Heaney Centre for Poetry. He is the author, among other books, of Reading Twentieth-Century Poetry: The Language of Gender and Objects (1990), Yeats the Poet: The Measures of Difference (1994) and Blake and Modern Literature (2006).

Jamie McKendrick has written five books of poetry, the most recent being Crocodiles & Obelisks (2007). A volume of his selected poems, Sky Nails, was published in 2000, and The Embrace, his translation of the Italian poet Valerio Magrelli, appeared in 2009.

Bernard O’Donoghue was born in Co. Cork in 1945. He has lived in England since 1962, and he is currently a fellow in Medieval English at Wadham College, Oxford. His Selected Poems was published in 2008, and he is the editor of the Cambridge Companion to Seamus Heaney (2009).

Francis O’Gorman is Professor of Victorian Literature at the University of Leeds. Recent publications include essays on Wordsworth, Coleridge and Tennyson.

Michael O’Neill is Professor of English at Durham University. His recent books include The All-Sustaining Air: Romantic Legacies and Renewals in British, American, and Irish Poetry since 1900 (2007) and Wheel (2008), a collection of poems.

Seamus Perry is a Fellow of Balliol College, Oxford, where he is Tutor in English Literature. His publications include Coleridge and the Uses of Division (1999) and Tennyson (2005), and editions of Coleridge’s Notebooks (2002) and Coleridge on Writing and Writers (2007). He co-edited, with Robert Douglas-Fairhurst, Tennyson among the Poets: Bicentenary Essays (2009).

Ralph Pite has recently published Thomas Hardy: The Guarded Life (2006). He teaches at the University of Bristol.

Jonathan Post is Professor of English at University of California, Los Angeles, where he has served as Department Chair. He is the author of three books of criticism: Henry Vaughan: The Unfolding Vision (1982), Sir Thomas Browne (1987) and English Lyric Poetry: The Early Seventeenth-Century (1999; reprinted 2002). He has also edited a number of Mark Rawlinson teaches in the School of English, University of Leicester. He has written widely on the literatures of twentieth-century wars, including British Writing of the Second World War (2000).

Felicity Riddy is Emeritus Professor of English at the University of York and a former Director of its Centre for Medieval Studies. A specialist in late medieval literature, she has published extensively on Scottish poetry, Arthurian romance and historiography, women’s writing and gender issues and the culture of private life. She co-edited Youth in the Middle Ages (2004).

David G. Riede, Professor of English at the Ohio State University, is the author of numerous articles and reviews on nineteenth-century British literature and of books on Romantic poetry and criticism, Swinburne, D. G. Rossetti and Matthew Arnold; and most recently Allegories of One’s Own Mind: Melancholy in Victorian Poetry (2005).

Andrew Michael Roberts is Reader in English in the School of Humanities at the University of Dundee. His books include Conrad and Masculinity (2000), Geoffrey Hill (2004) and (with Jonathan Allison) Poetry and Contemporary Culture: The Question of Value (2002).

Wendy Scase is Geoffrey Shepherd Professor of Medieval English Literature at the University of Birmingham. She has published extensively on Middle English literature. She is founding co-editor of New Medieval Literatures, and chairs the editorial board of the book series Medieval Texts and Cultures of Northern Europe.
Notes on contributors

A. V. C. Schmidt is Andrew Bradley-James Maxwell Fellow and Senior English Tutor, Balliol College, Oxford. He is the author of numerous books and articles on Chaucer, the Gawain-poet and especially Langland, including a two-volume Parallel-Text Edition of Piers Plowman, a World’s Classics translation of the B-text and a critical study, The Clergyk Maker: Langland’s Poetic Art.

Alison Shell is Professor in the English Department at Durham University. She is the author of Catholicism, Controversy and the English Literary Imagination, 1558–1660 (1999) and Oral Culture and Catholicism in Early Modern England (2007).

Nicholas Shrimpton teaches English at Lady Margaret Hall, Oxford, where he is Thelma Herring Fellow and Vice-Principal. His recent publications include articles on pessimism in the late nineteenth century, money in Victorian literature and George Steiner.

Jane Stabler is Reader in Romantic Literature at the School of English, University of St Andrews. Her publications include Burke to Byron, Barbauld to Baillie, 1790–1830 (2001) and Byron, Poetics and History (2002).

Richard Terry is Professor of Eighteenth-Century English Literature at Northumbria University. He is the author of Poetry and the Making of the English Literary Past 1660–1781 (2001).

Heidi Thomson is Associate Professor in the School of English, Film, Theatre and Media Studies at Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand. Her research focuses on the Age of Sensibility and British Romanticism.

Herbert F. Tucker holds the John C. Coleman Chair in English at the University of Virginia, where he is also associate editor of New Literary History and series co-editor in Victorian Literature and Culture for the University Press. His most recent book is Epic: Britain’s Heroic Muse 1790–1910 (2008).

Laura Varnam is Lecturer in Old and Middle English Literature at University College, Oxford. She is currently working on a monograph on sacred space in Middle English literature.

Peter Vassallo is Professor of English and Comparative Literature at the University of Malta, where he was Head of the Department of English from 1988 to 2006 and Chair of the Notes on contributors

Institute of Anglo-Italian Studies. He has published widely on Anglo-Italian literary relations and is the editor of the Journal of Anglo-Italian Studies.

Timothy Webb is Senior Research Fellow and Professor Emeritus at the University of Bristol, where, for some years, he was Winterstoke Professor of English. His books include The Violet in the Crucible: Shelley and Translation (1976), Shelley: A Voice Not Understood (1977), English Romantic Hellenism, 1700–1824 (1982), editions of Shelley and Yeats and an annotated edition of Leigh Hunt’s Autobiography (just completed).

Steven N. Zwickert is Stanley Elkin Professor of Humanities at Washington University, St Louis. He is author of Dryden’s Political Poetry (1992), Politics and Language in Dryden’s Poetry: The Arts of Disguise (1984) and Lines of Authority: Political and English Literary Culture 1649–1689 (1993), and has written the essay on Dryden for the Cambridge History of English Literature, 1660–1780, and more recently on ‘Dryden and Biography’ in Writing Lives in Early Modern England (2008).
Acknowledgments

I would like to thank Ray Ryan at Cambridge University Press for inviting me to edit this volume, all the anonymous readers of my proposal for their helpful comments and the contributors for their patience and co-operativeness, as well as for their fine chapters. I am indebted to the Department of English Studies at Durham University for some financial support.

My chief obligation in preparing the initial typescript is to my research assistant, Ann-Marie Einhaus, who is writing a PhD on First World War short fiction at Durham University. Ann-Marie has taken responsibility for many tasks, including the formatting of chapters, and she has brought rare qualities of proactive intelligence and cheerful efficiency to the project. It is, in large part, due to her invaluable editorial assistance that the volume has taken material form. I am extremely grateful.

I am also indebted for helpful research assistance during the copy-editing process to Paige Tovey and Madeleine Collaghan. Audrey Cotterell has been a magnificent copy-editor: meticulously attentive to the detail in and through which poetry lives and has its being. I and the other contributors owe her a great deal. The index has been prepared by Peter Andrews.

Note

Line numbers for poetry are normally supplied when they are available. Occasionally page numbers are supplied instead. Where line numbers are not available, as is the case with much twentieth-century poetry, the reader is referred to the relevant edition or volume.