

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-88891-2 - Phenomenology of the Human Person

Robert Sokolowski

Index

More information

Index

- Abell, Catherine, 140, 143
- absence
- and children's words, 65
 - and predication in conversation, 121
 - and rationality, 136
 - as functioning in language, 38
 - as related to syntactic hierarchy, 39
 - in imagination, 140–3, 146
 - in perception, 136–7, 207
 - in picturing, 137–40
 - treated in phenomenology, 45
- accidental mind, 104, 124
- accidental predication, as most common, 118
- accidentals
- and confusion, 104
 - as activation of properties, 119
 - as ontologically feeble, 124
 - as ontologically primary, 130
 - as primary ingredient in art, 130
 - how predicated, 117–19
 - in pictures, 322
 - regarding action, 260
 - shed by universal names, 172
- action potential, 203
- action, practical
- and declaratives, 24
 - and objective correlative, 25
 - as object of contemplation in art, 311
 - as syntactic and rational, 2, 259, 311
- actional field, 195
- active perception, 201
- acts, cognitive
- as not felt, 83
 - signaled by grammar of words, 80–1
- aevum*, 129, 183
- affections in the soul, 277–8
- agent intellect, 170
- and “taking in”, 305
 - and conversation, 299
 - and imagination, 146
 - as power to weave, 299
 - in Aquinas, 286
 - in Aristotle, 276
 - in Aristotle and Aquinas, 298–9
 - related to syntax, 299
 - works in pictures as well as speech, 299
- agent of truth
- analyzed by philosophy, 182, 314
 - and distinction between seeming and being, 316
 - and mental imagery, 234
 - and propositional reflection, 184
 - as pure ego, 314
 - in natural attitude, 315
 - introduced, 1
 - on margin of world, 14
 - recognized in conversation, 218
 - reduced in scientific discourse, 219–20
- akrasia*, and wishing, 249
- ambient energy, as shaping perception, 198–200
- animal sounds, 39–41
- as signals not names, 41
- appearances
- distinguished from being, 316
 - hard to speak about, 161–2
 - various ways of distinguishing from things, 317
- appetite, as becoming rational, 26

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-88891-2 - Phenomenology of the Human Person

Robert Sokolowski

Index

More information

334

Index

- Arendt, Hannah, 257
- Aristotle
- and discovery of things, 55
 - and essences, 146
 - and happiness, 188
 - and identity theory of knowledge, 276–7
 - and noemata, 280
 - and tode ti, 134
 - describes practical reasoning, 251
 - on akrasia, 151, 249, 254
 - on asking the right kind of question, 283
 - on concord, 268
 - on definition, 122
 - on democracy, 150
 - on happiness, 188
 - on honor, 23
 - on indivisibles, 131, 274, 281
 - on internal word, 300
 - on knavery, 189
 - on likenesses, 277–9, 295
 - on mathematics and the good, 188
 - on melancholy, 161
 - on mental imagery, 227
 - on metaphysics, 309
 - on political forms, 188
 - on predication, 48
 - on soul as place of forms, 222
 - on substance, 121, 133
 - on substrate and essence, 68
 - on the involuntary, 265
 - on the tyrant, 96
 - on the voluntary, 264
 - on two kinds of truth, 274–5, 292
 - on wish, 239
 - replaced by Pythagoras, 114
 - three kinds of wish, 239
 - two kinds of potentiality, 151
- articulation, as more basic than correctness, 94
- artist, as choosing his incidents, 130, 321
- Astington, Janet Wilde, 185
- Aubrey, John, 174
- Augustine
- and Aquinas, 286
 - and omniscient narrator, 320
 - and quotation, 77–9
 - doctrine on Trinity, 289, 290
- Averroes, 170, 287
- Avicenna, 291
- Bazán, Bernardo Carlos, 298
- Beckett, Samuel, 29
- Bickerton, Derek
- and computer intelligence, 43
 - and evolution, 41
 - and Husserl, 46–7
 - and Husserl on predication, 57–8
 - and robots, 44
 - and syntactic engine, 42
 - linguistic theory described, 35–41
 - on mental representation, 69, 211, 227
 - on nonexistent things, 50
 - on predication, 48–9
 - on protolanguage as flat, 73
 - typographic style for identifying words and propositions, 49
- blackboard, intellect as, 291
- Bloom, Paul, 63
- body
- as spoken of in conversation, 217
 - how experienced, 194–6
- Boethius, 9
- Bohr, Niels, 309
- brain
- activity as present, 164
 - and declaratives, 43
 - and eye as visual hand, 207
 - and meanings, 162
 - and representationalism, 158
 - and syntax, 42
 - as a governing part of the body, 197
 - as only a part of the body, 193
 - as related to consciousness, 216
 - extreme absence of, 197
 - how spoken about, 193
 - involves one kind of energy, 202–4
 - mapping consciousness onto, 206, 228
 - related to thinking, 2
 - stores images, 164
- brain lens, peculiarities of, 230–2
- Braine, David, 12
- Brief Encounter*, 311
- Brough, John B., 165
- browser, multiple meanings of, 133
- Burgess, Anthony, 101
- Cajetan, Thomas de Vio, 291
- Calvin, William H., 35, 64
- categoriality
- and sphere of ownness, 126
 - and syntax, 45
- Changeux, Jean-Pierre, 37
- character, as expressed in wishes, 251
- childlike pictures, 209

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-88891-2 - Phenomenology of the Human Person

Robert Sokolowski

Index

More informationIndex

335

- children
 - feral, 66
 - learning to wish and deliberate, 255
 - learning words, 63
- choice, as an action, 257
- Chomsky, Noam, 52
- Churchland, Paul M., 223, 235
 - on brain images, 211–12, 227
 - on scientific language, 212, 215–16
- coercion, and declaratives, 259
- cognitive existence, as problematic issue, 102, 103, 155
- colors, as involving absence, 208
- Combe, William, 140
- comics, and ideographs, 186
- computer intelligence, and Bickerton, 43
- concepts
 - as intelligibilities taken as present to someone, 177–80
 - as problematic, 82, 155, 173–5
 - as shadows, 280
 - not expressed by words, 167, 176
- concomitants of actions, 263–4, 265
- Conrad, Theodor, 141
- consciousness, as involving duality, 233
- consequences of actions, 264, 265
- consonants, 32
- constitution, 293
- contradiction, as primarily public, 63
- conversation
 - and accidents, properties, and essence, 118
 - and Aristotle's two senses of truth, 275
 - and definition, 302
 - and syntactic form, 69, 124
 - and writing and reading, 78
 - as amplifying logical forms, 72
 - as clarifying Aquinas's theory of knowledge, 294
 - as game of truth, 317
 - as not the whole story, 303
 - as origin of syntax, 299
 - as place for intelligibility, 169–71, 222
 - as place for logical form, 2, 59
 - compared to active perception, 204
 - defines most basic human attitude, 217–18
 - essential to philosophy, 322
 - examined by philosophy, 220
 - needed in science, 219
 - not a mere part of nature, 310
- correspondence theory of truth, 181
- Cowie, Fiona, 52
- creasing the world, 257, 264, 265
- creole languages, 36
- Crick, Francis, 216, 223–4, 235
- Currie, Gregory, 140, 143, 235, 236
- Davidson, Herbert A., 170
- declaratives
 - and choices, 256–8
 - and coerced acts, 259
 - and computers, 43
 - and emotion, 22–3
 - and friendship, 268
 - and here and now, 15, 314
 - and large-scale actions, 266
 - and lensing, 234
 - and political life, 270
 - and praxis, 24–6, 311
 - and propositional reflection, 184
 - and quotation, 75–6
 - and sincerity and accuracy, 67
 - and the brain, 43
 - and unforeseen consequences, 264
 - and wishes, 253–6
 - as appropriating syntactic statements, 32
 - as highlighting speaker in conversation, 73
 - as initial topic of book, 3
 - as sanctioning cognitive acts, 84, 86, 91
 - attached to vague or meaningless phrases, 323
 - distinguished from informatives, 10–12
 - distinguished from predication, 19
 - distinguished from self-awareness, 18
 - existential, 29
 - express dative of disclosure, 310–11
 - express grasp of essence, 135
 - express our own achievement, 309
 - frequency in speech, 17
 - in conversation, 70, 217, 218, 322
 - limited to human beings, 18
 - must express intent and not just conduct, 258–9
 - need to be explicit, 13, 19
 - neglected in scientific speech, 216
 - not present in equations, 115, 310, 322
 - not present in pictures, 322
 - of powerful agents, 95
 - philosophical, 29–31, 266
 - related to states of affairs, 14, 16
 - used by omniscient narrator, 319
 - when we don't understand, 154

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-88891-2 - Phenomenology of the Human Person

Robert Sokolowski

Index

More information

336

Index

- Deely, John, 286
- definition
- as entry in conversation, 125
 - follows distinction between essentials and accidentals, 103
 - interrupts conversation, 121–3, 294, 303
- deliberation
- and syntax, 245–6
 - Aristotle's analysis of, 251
 - scope of, 247
- depictors, 218
- Descartes, René, 298
- and retinal image, 226
 - on brain images, 225–7
 - on extension, 113
 - on writing, 186
- dictionary, and conversation, 125
- difference, specific, and definition, 123
- disappearance, forms of, 194–7
- disclosure, as akin to logic, 13
- displacement
- and lensing, 229
 - and personal identity, 236
 - in memory and imagination, 140–2, 164, 225
- distinctions
- and definition, 123, 148
 - as specifying essence, 130–2
- DNA, as a governing part of the body, 197
- Dr. Syntax, 140
- dramatis personae, 8
- dreams
- and sciousness, 234
 - impossible, 241
- eidos*
- and good looks, 188
 - in propositional reflection, 316, 317
 - means the look in philosophy, 317
 - problematic term, 110, 167, 175, 315
- Eisenhower, Dwight
- and Normandy invasion, 247
 - as named, 165–6
 - as pictured, 162–3
 - as present in picture and name, 301
 - as signaled, 166
 - cognitive existence of, 183
 - concept of, 179, 184
 - inauguration of, 163–5
 - intelligibility of, 166–7, 168–70, 285
- Eliot, T. S., and photograph album, 129–30
- emotion, and truth, 22–3
- enactive theory of perception, 206–8
- ends
- and internal explanation of actions, 261
 - and purposes, 187, 259
 - revealed in speech, 2, 4, 186–9
 - sometimes identifiable with purposes, 261
- energy, ambient, 198–200
- environment, transformed into world, 27
- epistemological problem
- as misleading, 158
- equations, 114, 322, 324
- have syntax but no declaratives, 310
- essence
- as behind properties, 120
 - as mysterious, 127–30
 - given through predication, 283, 285
 - manifested within properties, 107–8
- essential predication, as usually not needed, 118
- essentials
- distinguished from accidentals, 101–2
 - how manifested to philosophy, 102, 105
 - not tagged in grammar, 105
 - we cannot avoid distinguishing them, 105
- ethics, and veracity, 66, 94
- evolution, 310
- and ambient energy, 198
 - and my present situation, 201
 - and protolanguage, 41
 - and veracity, 94
- external and internal senses, 198
- external explanation of action, 260
- external word, as expressing internal words
- word in Aquinas, 288, See also spoken words
- extra-mental world, as problematic issue, 158
- faith and reason, 322
- first and second intentions, 127
- Floucat, Yves, 286, 288, 297, 302
- folded structure in perception and picturing, 208–10
- enabled by reflection, 213
- Foreman, Zachary, 62
- Fowler, H. W. and F. G., 12
- freedom, and truth, 27
- Frege, Gottlob, 115, 226
- on coloring of statements, 71
 - on third realm, 169
- friendship
- and truth, 268

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-88891-2 - Phenomenology of the Human Person

Robert Sokolowski

Index

More informationIndex

337

- political, 268
- syntax of, 267–9
- Gadamer, Hans-Georg, 82
- game of truth, as theorized by philosophy, 317
- Garceau, Benoît, O.M.I., 286
- genus
 - and definition in conversation, 122–3
 - and enthymeme, 123
- geometric abstraction, 113–16
- German, Tim P., 185
- Gibson, James J., 206
 - concept of ambience extended, 201
 - on affordances, 195
 - on ambient optic array, 199, 202
 - on senses as system, 198
- grammar
 - and sheepdogs of language, 81
 - as capturing the looks of things, 299
 - as exposing mind of speaker, 84, 87
 - as shaping mind of listener, 89
 - as signal of cognitive acts, 81
 - as special kind of signal, 88
 - in creole languages, 36
 - of gravity, 310
- Harris, Paul L., 140
- Harvey, Paul, 200
- Hassing, Richard, 96
- Hastings, Max, 165, 168–70, 321
 - and concept of Eisenhower, 176, 178–9, 279
- Heidegger, Martin, 277, 278
- Heraclitus, 315
- here and now, as philosophical theme, 314
- hermeneutics, and recapitulation, 78
- hierarchic embedding
 - and nominalization, 153
 - as highly complex, 72
- history, and syntax, 266
- Hobbes, Thomas, 150
 - denies superiority of theoretic life, 256
 - how related to philosophy, 317
 - on fear of future, 256
 - on jotting down words, 174
 - on personation, 8
 - on touch, 201
 - on truth as natural process, 216
 - separates appearances from things, 210–11
- Hoffman, Dustin, 28
- Horne, Alistair, 319
- Hume, David
 - misunderstands philosophy, 159–61
 - on ancient and modern philosophy, 161
 - on values and facts, 189
- Husserl, Edmund
 - and absence, 136
 - and Bickerton, 46–7, 57–8
 - and geometric abstraction, 113
 - and Hume, 160
 - and Leo Strauss, 273
 - and mathematics, 281
 - and philosophical speech, 3
 - and syntax, 45
 - and writing, 186
 - eidetic and transcendental reductions, 313
 - neglected by enactive theorists, 215
 - on apophantic domain, 179–80
 - on body, 194
 - on body as zero point, 194
 - on categorial actions, 84
 - on constitution, 289
 - on displacement, 141
 - on formal ontology, 80
 - on identity in perception, 53
 - on identity of ego, 141
 - on imagination, 165
 - on imaginative variation, 147
 - on living present, 314
 - on mathematization, 113, 115
 - on name as like garment, 170
 - on names and things, 323
 - on natural attitude, 105
 - on noema, 280, 317
 - on noesis and noema, 102, 125
 - on origin of syntax, 53–8
 - on perception, 205
 - on polythetic acts, 152
 - on promised land, 160
 - on propositional reflection, 180
 - on reduction and philosophical speech, 312
 - on representationalism, 158
 - on signaling, 83
 - on sphere of ownness, 125–7
 - on subject and object, 102
 - on thing as rule for perception, 208
 - on transcendental logic, 13
 - on vagueness and distinctness, 152
 - on words as expressing things, 173
 - on zig-zag motion, 181
 - overlooks an aspect of signaling, 87
 - theory of judgment needs improvement, 58
- Hyman, John, 226

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-88891-2 - Phenomenology of the Human Person

Robert Sokolowski

Index

More information

338

Index

- identity, personal, and displacement, 225
- ideographs, and pictures, 186
- imagery, and lensing, 3
- imagery, mental, as involving
 - displacement and containing
 - intelligibility, 163–5
- imagination
 - and absence, 140–3
 - and duality in perception, 215
 - as reactivated perception, 140, 235
 - as unsteady because reentrant, 231
 - different from picturing, 140
- indifferent cosmos, as context for wishes, 242
- indivisibles. See also Aristotle, Thomas Aquinas
 - presented to Amelia's mind, 132
 - presented to the intellect, 132–4
- informatives
 - and desires, 254
 - and emotions, 22
 - as turning toward the self, 32
 - introduced, 10
 - regarding our own experience, 20
 - regarding our own opinions, 15–17
- intellect, three acts of, 131
- intelligibility
 - absent in nominalization and reporting, 152–4
 - absent in vagueness, 149–52
 - and perception, 154
 - and reference of words, 148
 - as eidos in philosophy, 317
 - as essence of thing, 177
 - as possessed in names, 2, 100, 166, 169, 284
 - as potential, 169
 - as testified in paintings, 300
 - cannot be copied, 318
 - cannot be multiplied, 175, 184, 284–5, 318
 - different degrees of, 170–1
 - given in images and words, 147
 - identified by philosophy, 182
 - in name and syntax, 166
 - involves telos, 186
 - manifested in imagination, 146
 - manifested within syntax, 100, 308, 323
 - present in pictures, 2, 137–9, 317
 - still present in absence of thing, 168, 176, 178
 - where located, 168–70, 222–3, 235
- intelligible species
 - and imagination, 146
 - in Aquinas, 287–8
 - known only by reflection, 297
 - not expressed by spoken word, 288
- intention
 - as activated wish, 240
 - triggered by situation, 251
- intentional stance, 217
- internal explanation of action, 260
- internal word
 - and memory, 292
 - and taking in, 309
 - covers three acts of intellect, 292–4, 302
 - expressed by spoken word, 288
 - in Aquinas, 287–90
 - needed for poetic thinking, 303
 - needs spoken word, 300–3
 - prominent in Aquinas, 301
 - used in plural, 292
- irony, and veracity, 93
- isolation, in memory, 165
- italics, as representing words, 50, 215, See also typographic conventions
- Jacobsen, Josephine, 303
- James, Henry
 - as author of The Ambassadors, 318–21
 - as more than narrator of novel, 320
 - on art and life, 141
 - on syntactic composition in his own work, 305
 - on taking in, 304–9
 - on unforeseen consequences, 265
- James, William, 233
- John of St. Thomas, 291
- jokes, and essence and accidentals, 123
- Jonas, Hans, 194
- judgments. See also predication
 - analogous to real estate, 57
 - replaced by equations, 114
- justice, as a form of friendship, 267
- Kant, Immanuel
 - and kingdom of ends, 15, 27
 - on categories of understanding, 51–2
 - on predication, 48
 - on value and fact, 189
- Kass, Leon R., 94, 194
- Keller, Evelyn Fox, 197
- Klein, Jacob, 82, 115, 213
 - on looks, 110

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-88891-2 - Phenomenology of the Human Person

Robert Sokolowski

Index

More informationIndex

339

- knowledge, as immanent activity in Aquinas, 289
- Kretzmann, Norman, 277
- Lachterman, David Rapport, 114, 115
- language, as involving declaratives, 33
- Leder, Drew, 194–7, 197–8
- legomena, 124, 220
- lensing
- and mental images, 3
 - as clarification of imagery, 228–32
 - as different from picturing, 228–30
 - as term in philosophical speech, 234
 - involves whole body image, 231–2
 - permits continuity between world and nervous system, 226
- Leslie, Alan M., 185
- likenesses. See also similitudes
- as unique kind of identity in Aristotle, 285
 - in Aristotle, 277–80, 295
 - of intelligibility, 284
- listener, as changing focus to establish concept, 177
- Locke, John, 114, 150, 160, 298
- logical form, as based on conversational action, 61
- loneliness, similitude of, 296
- Loneragan, Bernard, S.J., 286
- look
- as concept, 178
 - as form of thing, 276
- Luhrmann, T. M., 66
- Machiavelli, Niccolò, 115
- and philosophical declaratives, 266
 - seeks effective and not theoretic truth, 317, 320
- MacIntyre, Alasdair, 40
- Maclean, Charles, 66
- Macmillan, Harold, 319
- Macnamara, John, 81
- man, as species, 8
- Manent, Pierre, 270
- Mann, Wolfgang Rainer, 55
- Mansfield, Harvey C., 113, 266
- Marbach, Eduard, 141
- margin
- and propositional reflection, 185
 - of margin, 30
 - of world, 30
 - philosophical, 160
- Maroof, Joshua, 120
- Martin, Wayne M., 59
- mathematics
- does not involve ends of things, 188
 - examples in, 313
- matter, and needing, wanting, and wishing, 239
- McCarthy, Cormac, 28, 29
- McCarthy, John C., 231
- McGinn, Colin, 140
- McQueen, Steve, 28
- meaning, contrasted with thing, 155
- means, shaken out by deliberation, 245,
- See also* syntax, practical
- medicine, end of, 261
- Meier, Heinrich, 273
- melancholy, 161
- memory
- and personal identity, 29, 142, 146, 164, 236
 - as more public than imagination, 165
 - as possibly unreliable, 143
 - involves displacement, 141, 236
- mental embryo, as concept, 178
- mental images, as perennial problem, 225–7
- Merleau-Ponty, Maurice, 194, 215
- metaphysics, as involving phenomenon of knowing, 309–10
- Milbank, John, 207, 286
- Mill, John Stuart, 250
- Milton, John, 106
- Modrak, Deborah K. W., 274, 277, 278, 280
- names. See also words
- and things, 155
 - as carrying intelligibility, 156, 174, 179, 235, 302, 322
 - as not signals of things named, 177
 - as quintessential, 323
 - as targeting essence, 111
 - as universal or particular, 134–5
 - do not multiply presences, 175
 - dual use of, 172
 - may abstract from particulars, 135
 - permit vagueness, 149–50
 - proper and common, 171–3
 - used with pictures, 139–40
- nativism
- biological, 52
 - Kantian, 52
- natural attitude
- and Hume, 159
 - as where we live, 314, 315

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-88891-2 - Phenomenology of the Human Person

Robert Sokolowski

Index

More information

340

Index

- needs, described, 238–9
- nervous system, as transparent like a lens, 203, 235. See also brain
- neurological basis for thinking, 42–4
- neurology
 - as basis for affect, 255
 - as present, 143
- neuroscientist, language of, 216
- Newman, John Henry, 39
- Nichols, Shaun, 142
- Nicomachean Ethics*, how to read the book, 255
- Nietzsche, Friedrich, 115, 161
- Noë, Alva, 209, 222
 - on appearances as worldly, 212–13
 - on presence and absence, 207
- noëma*. See also Husserl, Edmund
 - and representationalism, 280–2
 - in Aristotle, 280–2
 - various uses in Aristotle, 281
 - very controversial in Husserl, 280
- nominalization, 46
 - and absence of intelligibility, 152–3
- noncontradiction, as treated in Metaphysics, 310
- nonexistent things, and speech, 50
- null elements of language, 37
- O'Brien, Cornelius, 129
- O'Callaghan, John P., 277, 286
- Oakeshott, Michael
 - and verdicts, 67, 309
 - on abridgment, 79
 - on Hamlet's bedtime, 319
 - on human conversation, 70–1
 - on understanding, 283
 - on variety of voices, 220
- obstruents, 32
- omniscient narrator, in The Ambassadors, 319–21
- onomatopoeia, as a kind of imaging, 323
- orthodoxy of traditional theory of
 - perception, 206
- Orwell, George, 96
- Owens, Joseph, C.Ss.R., 103, 286
- painting, as testimony of object, 300
- Paissac, Hyacinthe, 286, 289
- Papillon*, 28
- Parker, Andrew, 54, 208
- Peifer, John Frederick, 286
- perception
 - and absence, 136–7
 - and distinction between thing and appearance, 209
 - and syntax, 206
 - as interactive, 206
 - as involving manifolds, 205
 - dual structure of, 208–10
 - involves action, 204
- performatives, 24
- Perler, Dominik, 286
- person
 - and temporality, 129
 - as capable of being quoted, 76
 - classical definition of, 8
 - manifested by grammatical signals, 83
 - related to truth, 1
- personal identity. See also memory
 - and displacement, 141
 - and veracity, 93
 - based on lensing and syntax, 232–4
- phantasm
 - and dual use of names, 300
 - as private testimony, 300
- phenomenology
 - allows us to transcend ancients and moderns, 273
 - and advertising, 305
 - as clarifying philosophical language, 312
 - as treating absence, 46
 - can begin with picturing, 162
- philosophical speech and language
 - about mental imaging, 234–7
 - and science, 220–1
 - as distinct level of speech, 32
 - as focused on truth, 33
 - as topic of book, 3
 - based on pre-philosophical language, 304
 - involves special perspective, 221–4, 312
 - often misunderstood, 221, 312
 - seems trivial, 312
- philosophical voice, 318–22
- philosophy
 - and distinction between thing and appearance, 209
 - as essentially conversational, 322
 - as theoretic life, 320
 - as theorizing the whole, 220, 320–1

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-88891-2 - Phenomenology of the Human Person

Robert Sokolowski

Index

More informationIndex

341

- begins after declaratives are used, 34
- begins after propositional reflection, 316–18
- describes identities, 176
- examines human conversation, 220
- how related to natural attitude, 221
- involves special reflection, 181
- misunderstood by Hume, 159–61
- omniscience of, 320, 321
- on margin of margin, 30
- pursues a kind of justice, 221
- reflecting on quotations, 79
- special dimension of, 50, 156, 160
- treats readers as equals, 321
- phonemes
 - as effect of syntax, 32
 - in water as field, 201
- photographs
 - and history books, 178
 - and testimony, 300
 - as traces of object, 299
 - can reveal essentials, 163
 - darkroom development of, 303
- Pickstock, Catherine, 207, 286
- pictures
 - and absence, 137–40
 - and agent intellect, 299
 - and distinction between thing and appearance, 209, 214
 - and dual use of names, 300
 - and duality in perception, 215
 - and quotation, 75
 - and syntax, 139
 - and veracity, 92
 - and words, 139–40
 - as different from mental images, 227
 - as graphic, 174
 - as misleading, 139
 - as obviously extra-mental, 167
 - as starting point for philosophy, 162–3
 - as theme for philosophy, 313–14
 - by children, 209
 - compared to words, 167, 174–6, 323
 - contain intelligibility, 2, 137–9, 317
 - contain many accidents, 322
 - different from lensing, 228–30
 - do not involve displacement, 141, 164
 - do not use declaratives, 322
 - express things that words cannot, 215
 - in conversational attitude, 218
 - involve dual structure, 209–10
 - more material than words, 186
 - not just similar to things, 162
 - reveal essences, 162, 322
- picturing act, 92
- pidgins, 36, 65
- Pinker, Stephen, 54
- Pippin, Robert B., 305
- Plato
 - and Eleatic Stranger, 159
 - and separate ideas, 183
 - and solitary speech, 143
 - and vagueness, 151
 - on manifesting essences, 102
 - on moral weakness, 254
 - on soul in Timaeus, 281
 - on the tyrant, 95
 - on things, 55
- poetry
 - and imagination, 147
 - as written in solitude, 303
- pointing, by animals, 64
- Pol Pot, 249, 250
- political forms, and happiness, 188
- Possidius, 77–8
- poverty-of-stimulus argument, 52
- praedicare*, etymology of, 61
- predicables, 117
- predication
 - and conversation, 59–60, 86, 121, 270
 - and distinction between thing and appearance, 209
 - as center of thinking, 1
 - three forms of, 117
- prepositions, as used in philosophical speech, 182
- prepredicative experience, and
 - protolanguage, 54
- principles of being, 318
- Pritzl, Kurt, O.P., 172, 274
- properties
 - as given with essence, 120
 - as potential for accidents, 111, 119–20
 - distinguished from essence, 106–7
 - flowing from essence, 106, 119, 120, 128, 133
- propositional domain, 180

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-88891-2 - Phenomenology of the Human Person

Robert Sokolowski

Index

More information

342

Index

- propositional reflection
 - analogue in pictures, 218
 - and distinction between thing and appearance, 209
 - described, 179
 - effect on perception, 214–15
 - in conversation, 217
 - in Husserl, 179
 - introduced, 181
 - makes it possible to manipulate appearances, 317
 - stays with things, 184
 - still not philosophy, 316
 - within natural attitude, 316
- proto-distinction, 208
- protolanguage
 - and children, 65
 - and prepredicative experience, 54
 - as bereft of agent intellect, 299
 - as lacking grammar, 82
 - as lacking hierarchy, 73
 - described, 35–9
 - does not involve quotation, 74
- Prufer, Thomas
 - on Possidius, 78
 - on recapitulation, 78, 138
 - on reflux, 138
 - on sign design, 12
 - on transcendentalism, 182, 312
 - on troping words, 222
- psychologism, 81
 - and Averroes, 170
- purposes. See also ends
 - and external explanation of actions, 261
 - may be many for one action, 261–2, 264
- Pythagoras, 114
- quotation
 - and declaratives, 76
 - and modality, 74
 - and propositional reflection, 214, 316
 - as special form of embedding, 73
 - in conversation, 218
 - in pictures, 75
 - not done by animals, 74
 - not in protolanguage, 74
- Rabeau, Gaston, 286
- radio waves, as analogy for perceptual medium, 200–1
- rational but not reasonable, 189
- Ravenscroft, Ian, 140, 236
- reactive attitudes, 23
- readers
 - as a kind of fiction, 320
 - of philosophy and of novels, 321
- reason
 - as disclosure, 7–8
 - development of, 93
 - not servant of passions, 20
 - practical forms of, 259, 311
 - related to person, 10
- recapitulation. See also Prufer, Thomas
 - and hermeneutics, 78
 - recovery of antiquity, 273
- reflux. See also Prufer, Thomas
 - and imagination, 146
 - effect on future action, 311
- religion, and existential declaratives, 28
- reporting, as intending an absent intelligibility, 153
- representationalism
 - and noemata, 280–2
 - criticized by enactive theory, 206
 - danger of, in Aquinas, 295–8
 - danger of, in Aristotle, 277–80
 - threat in philosophy, 183
- representations
 - and concepts, 178
 - as philosophical problem, 2, 68, 82, 88, 157–9, 173
 - not a good explanation of insight, 155
 - seem contrived, 157
- res ipsa loquitur*, 188
- responsiveness, as truthfulness, 94
- retina, analogous to exposure of mind, 89
- retinal images, in Descartes, 226
- robots, and Bickerton, 44
- salute in our hearts, 70
- Sartre, Jean-Paul, 194
- Schmidt, Robert W., S.J., 286, 293
 - on first and second intentions, 127
- Schmoopy*, as not a name, 170
- Schore, Allan N., 255
- science, as attempt to view the whole, 223
- scientific speech, 215–17, 218–20
 - requires agent of truth, 219
- scientists, and veracity, 95
- sciousness, 233
- searchlight, as analogy for propositional reflection, 185

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-88891-2 - Phenomenology of the Human Person

Robert Sokolowski

Index

More informationIndex

343

- self
 - and imagination, 144
 - and self-awareness, 18
 - and world, 27
 - as distinctive in persons, 311
 - strangeness of, 9
- semantics, as distinguished from syntax, 81
- sense organs, as transducers, 203–4
- senses
 - common, 198
 - external and internal, 198
- Shakespeare, William, 90, 95, 130, 256
 - on universal and particular, 135
- shall and will, 12
- shape
 - as always activated, 111
 - as generated by thing itself, 109
 - as indicating essence, 108
 - as place for properties, 109, 111
 - as replacing essence, 113–14
- signal, as not a name, 166
- signature, as possible declarative, 322
- similitudes. See also likenesses
 - and insight, 155
 - as problematic, 175, 176
 - in Aquinas, 280, 294–6
 - multiplied, 295
 - not what we directly know, 297
 - of essence, 295
 - used often in Aquinas, 280
- Simon, Yves R., 73
- simulation theory, 140, 229
 - and lensing, 235
- single quotation marks, as representing
 - propositions and concepts, 50, See also typographic conventions
- Slade, Francis
 - on ends and purposes, 115, 187
 - on sovereignty, 266
- Smolko, John F., 318
- Socrates, as knowing he does not know, 321
- Sokolowski, Vassili Danilovitch, 171
- Sokolowski, Robert
 - on artificial intelligence, 44
 - on conduct as material, 264
 - on constitution, 289
 - on ends and purposes, 115
 - on future perfect, 25
 - on making distinctions, 123
 - on measurement, 113, 310
 - on metaphors, 112
 - on naming, 139
 - on One and Dyad, 82
 - on painting, 140, 141, 300
 - on perception, 205
 - on propositional reflection, 180, 184
 - on reference, 134
 - on seeing ends in means, 246
 - on shape of living things, 109
 - on signals, 83
 - on thoughtless speech, 85
 - on words as actions, 258
- solipsism, as avoided by conversation, 69
- solitary speech
 - depends on public speech, 275
 - various kinds of, 143–6
- solitary thinking
 - based on public speech, 62
 - needed for poetry, 303
- sonorants, 32
- sound waves, as different from light, 201
- sovereignty, as problematic concept, 150
- Spaemann, Robert, 8
 - on awakening of reason, 95
- speaker, as controlling verbal authority, 89
- species* and forma, as distinguished in
 - translations, 287
- speech. See also words
 - and political life, 269
 - as elevating listener, 90
 - as masking action, 263
 - as moving crowds of people, 185
 - as offending listener, 90
 - as paradigmatic use of syntax, 101
 - as sometimes thoughtless, 84
- Spiering, Jamie, 29
- spoken words, as needed for thinking,
 - 300–3
- Spruit, Leen, 286, 287
- Stalin, Joseph, 21, 247
- state of affairs, taken as proposed, 180
- Stich, Stephen, 142
- Stoicism, and lekton, 301
- Straus, Erwin, 194
- Strauss, Leo, 273
- Strawson, Peter F., 23
- sublinguistic sounds, 31
- subscripts, 15, 19
 - and disclosure, 13–14
- philosophical, 29–30
- substance
 - as behind shape, 110, 112
 - lost in a world of shapes, 114
- synapse, 203

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-88891-2 - Phenomenology of the Human Person

Robert Sokolowski

Index

More information

344

Index

- syntactic form, as detachable, 56 syntax. See also predication absent from onomatopoeia, 323 absent in wanting, 244
 and agent intellect, 299
 and appropriation of wants, 255 and categoriality, 1
 and conversation, 69
 and essences, 285
 and imagination, 143
 and intelligibility, 100
 and perception, 206
 and taking in a whole, 307 and taking in intelligibility, 308 and wish, 239
 and writing, 86
 as complex and hierarchic, 36, 85 as context for insight, 155 as expression of reason, 41 as founded on displacement, 233
 as intersubjective, 68
 as magic key, 36 as tangible presence of reason, 39 awaited in perception, 154 distinguished from semantics, 81 does not express essentials, 105 effect on perception, 214–15
 enables large-scale actions, 266 enables propositional domain, 180–1 enables truth of correctness, 275 focused on predication, 48 in bodily action, 262 in deliberation, 245–6 in history, 266 in logic, language, pictures, and action, 2
 in pictures, 139
 in wishing, 241
 in words as compared to pictures, 175 in words, propositions, and things, 32, 49–51, 80
 in work of Henry James, 305 in writing, 186 of brief encounters, 311 of friendship, 267–9 practical, 2, 101, 257, 259 provides context for essentials, 105, 108 without vision, 189 syntax, linguistic, as paradigmatic, 101 taste, and ambient energy, 202

 Taylor, Charles, 9

 temporality, special form in rational beings, 129 theory of mind, 185
 thinkable look, 287, 288, 300, 302, 317 thinking as signaled by grammar, 80–3 not a succession of ideas, 281
 Thomas Aquinas. See also intelligibile species; internal word; similitude ambiguity regarding first act of thinking, 293 and Aristotle, 292 and indivisibles, 131, 292, 294 as not a representationalist, 302 danger of representationalism, 295–8 identity theory of knowledge, 296–8 notion of verbum in many contexts, 290
 on constitution, 293
 on dialectics, 127 on formal sign, 302 on immanent action, 289 on intellectual memory, 291 on object of acts, 261 on possible intellect, 291 on prologues, 224 on separate intellect, 287 on Trinity and Word, 289–90 Thompson, D'Arcy Wentworth, 109
 Thompson, Evan, 206
tode ti, 134, 308
 Tomasello, Michael, 64 tools, and focal disappearance, 196
 Torrell, Jean Pierre, 288 touch, and ambient energy, 202 transcendentalese, 182–3, 216, 222, 273, 282, 312, 317, 318
 and lensing, 228
 and mental imagery, 234 and noema, 281
 Travis, Charles, 280 tropes, philosophical, 222–3, 235–6 truthfulness, and friendship, 268
 Tugendhat, Ernst, 48 typographic conventions for designating names, concepts, and things, 50, 173, 284, 285, 296

 universals, problem of, 134, 171–3, 172

 vagueness and accidentality, 104
 and intelligibility, 152
 and lack of reason, 249

Cambridge University Press

978-0-521-88891-2 - Phenomenology of the Human Person

Robert Sokolowski

Index

More informationIndex

345

- as public, 150
- as repetition of clichés, 171
- contrasted with nominalization, 152
- in speech, 85
- Varela, Francisco, 206
- ventriloquist, and quotation, 74
- veracity
 - and conversation, 66–7, 71
 - and desire to know, 309
 - and freedom, 27
 - and friendship, 269
 - and personal identity, 93
 - as root of sincerity and accuracy, 91–3
 - defined, 20–1
 - introduced, 3
 - not automatic, 93
 - overlooked in scientific speech, 216
 - takes on many forms, 324
- vervet monkey, 40, 99
- visions without syntax, 101, 174, 189
- voice, bodily, does not declare, 13
- vote of the heart, 301
- vowels, 32
- wanting
 - described, 238–9
 - immediacy of, 244
- water, as medium for sound, 201
- Webb, Richard, 104
- Wheeler, John Archibald
 - and grammar of gravity, 310
 - on observation and measurement, 309
- Whitaker, C. W. A., 277, 278
- White, Kevin, 108, 224
- Williams, Bernard, and veracity, 66–7, 91–3
- willing, and reason, 26
- wish
 - and syntax, 245–6
 - as dispositional, 250–1, 261
 - as intersubjective, 243–4
 - covers a distance, 240
 - described, 139–40
 - distinguished from wanting, 26
 - for impossibilities, 240, 241–3, 249–50
 - reflects character, 251
 - three kinds of, 239–40
 - verbal meaning of, 248
- Wittgenstein, Ludwig, 7, 19
- words. See also names
 - as manifesting action, 257–9
 - as masking lack of thought, 249
 - as pivot for propositional reflection, 183–6
 - as signals of thinking, 169, 183
 - compared to pictures, 174–6, 323
 - contain intelligibility, 167, 169
 - express things not concepts or meanings, 155, 173–4, 284–5
 - not mere images, 87
 - where located, 235
- World War I, as syntactic action, 265–7
- worries and fears, as contrary to wish, 256
- writing
 - and absence of intelligibility, 153
 - and delayed signals, 86
 - in Aristotle, 277
 - more material than speech, 186