

Index

- abstract actors, 31
- activity diagrams, 15–23
 - abstract actors in, 31
 - diamonds in, 20–21
 - process-flow view in, 26
 - swim lanes in, 18
 - waits, 22
- actors, 29, 35, 46
 - generic, 31
- agencies, 3
- aggregations, 52, 54–55
- animators (tools), 68
- Aonix, 11n, 68n
- Apollo 13 syndrome, 39
- application frameworks, 77
- asset paradox, 4–5
- associations, 52–54
- automation
 - business, 21–22
 - examples of, 36–39
 - tradeoffs in, 36
- Bach, J.S., 9
- batch processing, 29
- Bergman, Ingmar, 9n
- boring life cycles, 64
- Bräne, Tomas, 10
- building components, 81
- business modeling, 13, 27
- business objects, 77
- Business Process Reengineering (BPR), 4
- business semantics-driven strategies, 50

- business service-driven strategies, 50
- business use cases, 23–25
 - e-views in, 26
 - standard use cases distinguished from, 36
- buying components, 80–81
- Campbell, Don, 9n
- cardinality (multiplicity), 53
- certification of components, 83–84
- class diagrams, 48–52
 - data modeling compared with, 89
- class-discovery strategies, 50
- classes
 - mapping relationships among, 91–95
 - objects distinguished from, 52
 - relationships among, 52–53
 - state diagrams of, 61–63
- class hierarchies, 59
- class modeling, 27
- collaboration diagrams, 67, 70
- Common Warehouse Metamodel (CWM), 90n
- communications
 - among components, 76–79
 - in sharing responsibilities, 7
- component diagrams, 71
- component-driven approaches, 10
- components, 76
 - bidding process for, 87–88
 - building, 81
 - buying, 80–81
 - certification of, 83–84
 - communications among, 76–79
 - development strategy for, 73–74
 - impact of, 79–81
 - libraries of, 83–84
 - responsibilities of, 78–79
 - reusing, 81–83
 - sharing, 84–85
 - traps in, 85–87
 - used in music, 9
- compositions, 52, 55–58
- configurable components, 82
- configuration management tools, 86
- copyright law, 86
- customizable components, 82
- database schemas, 91
- data modeling, 25, 89–90
 - diagrams and standards for, 90–91
 - mapping relationships in, 91–95
- demand-side control, 75
- deployment diagrams, 71
- diamonds, in activity diagrams, 20–21
- Dijkstra, Edsger W., 69n
- documentation, 8
- domain analysis, 83
- domain models, 99
- domains, 32n, 48
- Enterprise Java Beans, 85n
- entity relationship (ER) diagrams, 90
- error handling
 - in activity diagrams, 19
 - in state diagrams, 66
- Erwin (tool), 90
- e-views, 26
- factories, 2–3
- Forman, Milos, 9n
- generalizations
 - in advanced modeling, 57–58
 - in class diagrams, 49–50
 - among classes, 52–53, 58–59
- human-computer interaction (HCI), 27–28
- IBM (International Business Machines Corp.), 10n, 85
- IBS (firm), 10, 82, 85
- intelligent configurators, 86

- interaction modeling, 27
- interfaces
 - for components, 82
 - user interfaces, 28
- isomorphism, 48–49

- Jackson, Michael A., 61n, 64n
- Jacobson, Ivar, 23, 27, 29

- Kain, Brad, 97n
- key business entities, 61–62
- knowledge
 - as asset, 4–5
 - sharing, 5–6
- knowledge enterprises, 3–5
- knowledge industries, 1–2
 - know-how in, 3–5
 - types of, 2–3
- knowledge tools, 51
- knowledge views, 26
- Kratochvíl, Jiří, 9n

- legal issues in components, 86–87
- libraries of components, 83–84
- life cycles, 50, 61, 99
 - boring, 64
 - state diagrams of, 61–62
 - unstructured, 64–66

- management-by-exception style, 17, 19
- mapping relationships, in data models, 91–95
- methodologies, 8, 36, 48
- Mozart, W.A., 9
- multiplicity (cardinality), 53
- music, 9

- Object-Animator, 68n
- Object Constraint Language (OCL), 51, 90
- object interaction modeling, 27
- Object Management Group (OMG), 4, 72n, 86
 - on data modeling and database creation, 90
 - Software Process Engineering standard by, 11
- objects distinguished from classes, 52
- offices, 2
- on-the-fly identification, 83

- packages, 76
 - components and, 82
- parameterized use cases, 43–44
- pluggable components, 81–82
- process-flow view, 26
- project management, 28, 33–34
- prototypes, 28, 32

- Rational Unified Process (RUP), 8–10
- responsibilities, of components, 78–79
- reusing components, 81–83

- Select Business Solutions, 11n
- Select Component Factory, 11
- Select Perspective, 11, 36
- sequence diagrams, 62, 67–70, 72
- SF, see WebSphere Business Components
- sharing components, 84–85
- smart response trap, 42
- software
 - bidding process for, 87–88
 - know-how in production of, 4
 - legal issues involving, 86–87
 - see also* components
- Software Process Engineering (SPE) standard, 11
- SQL (structured query language), 53n
- standard use cases, 36
- state diagrams, 61–66, 71–72
- state-machines, 62n
- states, 63
- stereotypes, 44n, 90
- Sundgren, Bo, 61n
- Sveiby, Karl-Erik, 2

106 swim lanes (in activity diagrams), 18 synchronization bars, 16 system boundaries, 46 system documentation, 8 system use cases (standard use cases), 36 traditional waterfall project trap, 45 tying-it-here trap, 39–40

UML (Unified Modeling Language)
 methodologies used with, 8
 Object Constraint Language of, 51 other diagrams in, 70–71
 smorgasbord, 14–15 standardization of, 5, 8 unstructured life cycles, 64–66 use-case analysis, 36–39
use cases, 27–29

Index

business, 23–25
 example of, 29–34
 generalization of, 33
 parameterized, 43–44
 prioritization of, 32–34 standard versus business, 36 template for, 34–35
 traps in, 39–45
use-class trap, 42–44 useless user trap, 44–45
user interfaces, 28

value-is-self-evident trap, 41

WebSphere Business Components (SF; IBM), 10, 85

XML Metadata Interchange (XMI), 86n