THE ITALIAN RENAISSANCE AND CULTURAL MEMORY

Why did Renaissance art come to matter so much, so widely, and for so long? Patricia Emison’s answer draws on a recalibrated view of the long Renaissance – from 1300 to 1600 – synthesizing the considerable evolution in our understanding of the epoch since the foundational nineteenth-century studies of Jacob Burckhardt and Heinrich Wölfflin. Demonstrating that the imitation of nature and of antiquity must no longer define its limits, she exposes the self-consciously modern aspect of Renaissance style. She sets the art against the literary and political interests of time and analyzes works of both very familiar artists – Leonardo, Michelangelo, and Raphael – and lesser-known figures, such as Cima da Conegliano and Federico Barocci, as well as various printmakers. Succinct yet expansive, this treatment of the period also explores its layered significance for subsequent generations, from the Old Masters to the Post–Modernists.

Patricia Emison is Professor in the Department of Art and Art History at the University of New Hampshire. She is the author of several books, including Creating the “Divine” Artist: From Dante to Michelangelo, The Shaping of Art History: Meditations on a Discipline, The Simple Art: Printed Works on Paper in an Age of Magnificence, Low and High Style in Italian Renaissance Art, and The Art of Teaching: Sixteenth-Century Allegorical Prints and Drawings.
THE ITALIAN RENAISSANCE AND CULTURAL MEMORY

PATRICIA EMISON

University of New Hampshire
© Patricia Emison 2012

This publication is in copyright. Subject to statutory exception and to the provisions of relevant collective licensing agreements, no reproduction of any part may take place without the written permission of Cambridge University Press.

First published 2012

Printed in the United States of America

A catalog record for this publication is available from the British Library.

Library of Congress Cataloging in Publication Data
Emison, Patricia A.
   The Italian Renaissance and cultural memory/Patricia Emison.
   p. cm.
   Includes bibliographical references and index.
   ISBN 978-1-107-00526-6 (hardback)
   1. Art, Renaissance – Italy. 2. Art, Renaissance – Italy – Influence. I. Title.
   N6915.E468 2011
   709.45′0924–dc22 2011000379
   ISBN 978-1-107-00526-6 Hardback

Cambridge University Press has no responsibility for the persistence or accuracy of urls for external or third-party Internet Web sites referred to in this publication and does not guarantee that any content on such Web sites is, or will remain, accurate or appropriate.
To my grandmother, Ruth Miller Emison, who believed education ought to include travel, whose house was a hospitable place of great beauty, and whose many tall bookshelves she and my grandfather, John Clinton Emison, had filled two deep throughout—no paperbacks. And to my hometown, Rome, New York, whose small yet grand railway station hinted at that other Rome’s monumentality.
se non degne di lode, almeno di scusa …

If not worthy of praise, at least of apology …

Giorgio Vasari, of his own life and work
CONTENTS

List of Illustrations  page viii
Acknowledgments  xi
Note to the Reader  xiii

1  INTRODUCTION  1
2  A HISTORIOGRAPHICAL OVERVIEW  9
3  NOT ONLY REBIRTH  27
4  TRUTH AND LIKENESS  62
5  VISUALIZING IDEAS  85
6  WHY DID THE HIGH RENAISSANCE HAPPEN?  133
7  REVOLUTIONARY NORMS OF BEAUTY  158
8  “GENIUS”  186
9  EPILOGUE  212

Bibliography  221
Index  225
LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS

PLATES
Color plates follow page xvi.

I. Raphael, Entombment
II. Giotto, Lamentation
III. Raphael and Shop, Stufetta of Cardinal Bibbiena, Vatican Palace, Rome
IV. Leonardo da Vinci, Mona Lisa
V. Raphael, Baldassare Castiglione
VI. Federico Barocci, Portrait of a Woman
VII. Masaccio, left wall of the Brancacci Chapel, Santa Maria del Carmine, Florence, with Tribute Money above
VIII. Raphael, Parnassus
IX. Andrea Mantegna, ceiling of Camera degli Sposi, Ducal Palace, Mantua
X. Pontormo, Deposition
XI. Cima da Conegliano, St. John the Baptist with Sts. Peter, Mark, Jerome, and Paul
XII. Michelangelo, Libyan Sibyl

FIGURES

1. Amico Aspertini, Meleager Being Carried  page 12
2. Donatello, St. George (detail)  16
3. Ghiberti, St. Matthew  32
4. Nicola Pisano, Nativity  41
5. Giovanni Pisano, Hercules  42
6. Tempio Malatestiano, Rimini  48
7. Michelangelo, Titus  53
8. Donatello, St. Mark  54
9. Donatello, Mary Magdalene  60
10. Donatello, David  60
11. Bertoldo di Giovanni, commemorative medal at the death of Giuliano de’ Medici  65
ILLUSTRATIONS

12. Leonardo da Vinci, Ginevra de’ Benci 68
13. Lorenzo de’ Credi, Lady with Juniper Tree 68
15. Giovanni Bellini, Doge Leonardo Loredan 70
16. Raphael, La Velata 73
17. Giorgione, Laura 75
18. Angelo Bronzino, Cosimo de’ Medici as Orpheus 80
19. Angelo Bronzino, Laura Battiferri 81
21. Luca della Robbia, Cantoria 89
22. Filippino Lippi, Vision of the Madonna to St. Bernard of Clairvaux, with Donor 90
24. Giotto, Visitation 93
25. Donatello, Ascension of St. John the Evangelist 96
26. After Donatello, Miracle of the Ass of Rimini 97
29. Pollaiuolo, Hercules and the Hydra 100
30. Raphael, Allegory 102
31. Andrea Mantegna, Calumny of Apelles 103
32. Giambologna, Rape of the Sabine Woman 105
33. Andrea Mantegna, Triumph of Julius Caesar, with Elephants 107
34. Andrea Mantegna, Battle of the Sea Gods 107
35. Andrea Mantegna, Court of Ludovico II Gonzaga 108
37. Raphael, Galatea 111
38. View of Urbino 115
39. Pontormo, Annunciation 121
40. Giovanni Antonio da Brescia, Three Nudes in a Spandrel 130
41. Verrocchio, Doubting Thomas (detail) 138
42. Domenico Ghirlandaio, Visitation 139
43. Verrocchio, David 146
44. Leonardo da Vinci, Virgin of the Rocks 149
45. Ghirlandaio, Popes in Illusionistic Niches, and Michelangelo, Ancestors of Christ 152
46. Raphael, Fire in the Borgo 154
47. Michelangelo, Madonna and Child (detail) 155
48. Giorgio Ghisi, Allegory 161
49. Simone Martini, Frontispiece to Petrarch’s volume of Virgil 167
50. Michelangelo, Pietà (detail) 169
51. Cherubino Alberti after Michelangelo, section of Sistine Ceiling 170
ILLUSTRATIONS

52. Michelangelo, Tomb of Lorenzo de’ Medici, with Dawn and Dusk 178
53. Leonardo da Vinci, Deluge 180
54. Parmigianino, The Wise Virgins, fresco (with Adam and Eve in grisaille) 182
55. Bernardo Rossellino, Tomb of Leonardo Bruni 192
56. Michelangelo, David (detail) 201
57. Filippo Brunelleschi, lantern of Florence Cathedral 207
58. Michelangelo, lantern of New Sacristy, San Lorenzo, Florence 207
59. Master of the Codex of St. George, Lamentation 214
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Buckets of gratitude to Chloë and Linnea, both for their patience and for having often reminded me of the fundamental importance of images, not least, theirs. Many thanks also to the anonymous readers who offered a valuable variety of corrections and perspectives, to the many helpful curators and librarians, and to my students. Author and reader alike owe an enormous debt to Ruth Thackeray for her careful, deft, and highly knowledgeable copyediting. For my interest in the period I shall always be deeply obliged to Charles Mitchell, who first taught me about the Italian Renaissance and no less about erudition (and, moreover, erudition leavened with open-mindedness), who lambasted my undergraduate prose, and who would have written a better and more learned book. My parents deserve ample credit for not only supporting, but also for encouraging, my liberal arts education.

I am grateful to John Aber, Provost; Kenneth Fuld, Dean of the College of Liberal Arts; Burt Feintuch, Director of the Center for the Humanities; and Scott Schnepf, Chair of the Department of Art and Art History, all of the University of New Hampshire, for their help with photographic expenses. The British Museum, the British Royal Collection, and the Victoria and Albert Museum have, by their generosity with digital images, contributed greatly. This book could not have been written without the benefit of Interlibrary Loan. Special thanks to the Study Room of the Department of Prints and Drawings of the British Museum, which I have had the great pleasure to visit many times over the years.

Any remaining errors are fully my own.
NOTE TO THE READER

Publications about the Renaissance are generally available either on the level of picture books for adults or in highly specialized studies. Attempting to find a middle ground has produced many bibliographical quandaries. My objective has been to satisfy the needs of basic scholarship, and even to give a taste of the bounty that awaits, without overwhelming the newcomer to the field. Similarly, for the sake of general readability, names and titles of monarchs and nobles have been anglicized, and quotations from original sources almost always relegated to the footnotes. Translations are mine unless indicated otherwise. Measurements are cited in metric, height preceding width, and in some cases rounded from inches. Adam von Bartsch’s catalogue of prints is referred to by the initial B., followed by the volume number and then by both page and entry numbers: Adam von Bartsch, Le peintre graveur, 21 vols. (1803–21) and subsequent editions; also, The Illustrated Bartsch (New York, 1978–). A.E. Hind’s Early Italian Engraving, 7 vols. (London, 1938–48) is referred to by volume number and catalogue number, following the initial “H.”