Contents

Acknowledgments viii

1 Introduction: Normative principles of jus post bellum 1
   1.1 How should we understand jus post bellum? 2
   1.2 Transitional justice and meionexia 6
   1.3 Peace as the object of war 10
   1.4 Aggressors and defenders 14
   1.5 Principles of jus post bellum 19
   1.6 Summary of the arguments of the remaining chapters 23

PART I RETRIBUTION 27

2 Grotius, sovereignty, and the indictment of Al Bashir 29
   2.1 Morality and jus post bellum principles 30
   2.2 Bashir and the international legal system 32
   2.3 Indictment and arrest institutions in jus post bellum 34
   2.4 Amnesties and pardons 37
   2.5 Objections 40

3 Transitional justice and the Just War tradition 44
   3.1 The sixteenth-century ideas of jus post bellum 45
   3.2 Grotius on promoting peace and protecting rights 48
   3.3 Vattel’s solution to when the principles conflict 51
   3.4 Objections 56

4 War crimes trials during and after war 62
   4.1 The Just War tradition 63
   4.2 A defense of war crimes trials 67
   4.3 The My Lai prosecution and more recent trials 70
   4.4 War crimes trials and jus post bellum principles 75
   4.5 Objections 80
Table of Contents

Part II Reconciliation

5 Reconciliation of warring parties
   - 5.1 A conception of reconciliation
   - 5.2 Attitudes toward soldiers who participate in unjust wars
   - 5.3 Assimilation of soldiers after war ends
   - 5.4 Formulating normative reconciliation principles
   - 5.5 Truth and reconciliation commissions and lustration
   - 5.6 Objections

6 Reconciliation and the rule of law
   - 6.1 Reconciliation and the rule of law
   - 6.2 Reforming criminal trials in light of jus post bellum
   - 6.3 Nontraditional trials
   - 6.4 Instilling respect for persons and law
   - 6.5 Objections

7 Conflicting responsibilities to protect human rights
   - 7.1 Responsibility to protect and human rights
   - 7.2 State responsibility and the use of force
   - 7.3 Human rights risks of the use of force
   - 7.4 Adjudicating conflicts involving human rights
   - 7.5 Objections

Part III Rebuilding

8 Responsibility to rebuild and collective responsibility
   - 8.1 Historical roots of the responsibility to protect
   - 8.2 Distributive and nondistributive responsibilities of States
   - 8.3 Responsibility to build or rebuild capacity
   - 8.4 Conflicting norms of sovereignty and protection of rights
   - 8.5 Four Problems

9 Responsibility to rebuild as a limitation on initiating war
   - 9.1 Limitations on initiating war
   - 9.2 Rebuilding as a jus post bellum principle
   - 9.3 Initiating war and rebuilding
   - 9.4 Objections

Part IV Restitution and Reparation

10 Restitution and restoration in jus post bellum
    - 10.1 Restoration, rectification, and status quo ante
    - 10.2 The concept of restitution
    - 10.3 Special problems in the aftermath of war
Table of contents

10.4 Who is responsible? 192
10.5 Objections 197

11 A Grotian account of reparations 200
11.1 An account of reparations 201
11.2 Reparations at the end of war 204
11.3 Grotius’s argument 206
11.4 A Grotian response to Grotius’s expansive reparations doctrine 209
11.5 Leniency in reparations 211
11.6 Objections 214

PART V PROPORTIONALITY AND THE END OF WAR 217

12 Proportionality and the fog of war 219
12.1 The problem of indeterminacy 219
12.2 Retribution and reconciliation 221
12.3 Rethinking proportionality 225
12.4 The fog of war and the firebombing of Tokyo 228
12.5 Contingent pacifism and jus post bellum 232
12.6 The end of war 234
12.7 Concluding thoughts 236

Bibliography 239
Index 245