

Contents

Notes on contributors	page vii
Acknowledgments	xi
Note on editions	xii
Introduction: Paradigms lost, paradigms found: the New Milton Criticism	 I
Peter C. Herman and Elizabeth Sauer
PART I THEODICIES
1. Milton's fetters, or, why Eden is better than Heaven	25
Richard Strier
2. "Whose fault, whose but his own?": Paradise Lost , contributory negligence, and the problem of cause	49
Peter C. Herman
3. The political theology of Milton's Heaven	68
John Rogers
4. Meanwhile: (un)making time in Paradise Lost	85
Judith Scherer Herz
5. The Gnostic Milton: salvation and divine similitude in Paradise Regained	102
Michael Bryson
6. Discontents with the drama of regeneration	120
Elizabeth Sauer

PART II CRITICAL RECEPTIONS

- | | | |
|-----|--|-----|
| 7. | Against fescues and ferulas: personal affront and the path to individual liberty in Milton's early prose
Christopher D'Addario | 139 |
| 8. | Disruptive partners: Milton and seventeenth-century women writers
Shannon Miller | 156 |
| 9. | Eve and the ironic theodicy of the New Milton Criticism
Thomas Festa | 175 |
| 10. | Man and Thinker: Denis Saurat, and the old new Milton criticism
Jeffrey Shoulson | 194 |
| 11. | The poverty of context: Cambridge School History and the New Milton Criticism
William Kolbrenner | 212 |
| 12. | Afterword
Joseph A. Wittreich | 231 |
| | Index | 249 |