

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-01971-3 - The Good Neighbour: Australian Peace Support Operations in the Pacific Islands 1980–2006:

Volume 5. The Official History of Australian Peacekeeping, Humanitarian and Post-Cold War Operations

Bob Breen

Table of Contents

More information

Contents

Maps	xiv
Preface	xv
Acknowledgements	xxii
Disclaimer	xxiv
Chronology, 1949–2006	xxv
Abbreviations	xlvi

PART I PACIFIC WAR TO THE BOUGAINVILLE CRISIS, 1942–90 1

1	Setting the scene: Australian security and aid policies in the Pacific Islands, 1945–90	3
	Towards strategic denial	5
	Decolonisation of the Pacific Islands	7
	Instability in the Pacific Islands	10
	Granting independence to the Territory of Papua and New Guinea	11
	Rushing the military handover	13
	Deterioration of the PNGDF	15
	Adapting Australian defence and foreign policies	16
	The scene is set	18
2	Standing by Vanuatu in 1980 and 1988	20
	Background	20
	Australia decides	22
	Operation Wantok Durua	22
	Australia commits	23
	The Coconut War	24
	Operation Fino	25
	Pacific Islands peacekeeping force	26
	The way ahead	26
	Standing by Vanuatu, May 1988	27
	Operation Sailcloth	28
	Observations	30
3	Testing Australian peacemaking: Fiji coups, 1987	33
	Australian interests in Fiji	34
	The winds of change	36
	The coup	37
	Initial Australian response	38
	Initial responses in Fiji	38
	International and regional responses	40
	Immediate aftermath	41
	Beginnings of an Australian military response	43
	Applying political pressure	45
	Rabuka wins	46
	Australia responds	47

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-01971-3 - The Good Neighbour: Australian Peace Support Operations in the Pacific Islands 1980–2006:

Volume 5. The Official History of Australian Peacekeeping, Humanitarian and Post-Cold War Operations

Bob Breen

Table of Contents

More information

Contents

Planning for an evacuation	48
Preparing an evacuation force	50
Cabinet meets, 21 May	51
Deploying an evacuation force	51
Political end game	52
Taking stock	53
Adventures of an evacuation force	54
South Pacific Forum peace mission	55
An Australian reality check	56
Phase 4: the second coup	58
Lessons	59
4 Intervention? The beginnings of the Bougainville Crisis, 1988–89	62
The Panguna mine	63
Australian responses to tensions in Bougainville, 1975	64
Landowner revolt	65
Convergence of landowner revolt and secessionism	66
Build-up to violence, 1988	67
Australian intervention options	68
The crisis escalates	70
Australian military policy responses	71
Helicopter support	73
From crisis to civil war	74
Seeking a military solution	75
Evacuation plans	77
Peacemaking initiatives	78
Withdrawal and disarmament, March 1990	79
International Observer Group	80
Assessments for the future	80
Mayhem and stalemate, May 1990	81
Observations	82
<hr/>
PART II THE BOUGAINVILLE CRISIS, 1990–97	85
5 Facilitating tok tok, 1990–93	87
New Zealand intervention, 1990	88
A return to hostilities	89
A learning year, 1990	90
The Honiara Declaration, 1991	91
Australia considers intervention	93
Dismissal of Colonel Nuia	94
Attempts to implement the Honiara Declaration	95
One step forward and two steps back, 1992–93	97
Escalation to Solomon Islands	97
More of the same	99
Shaping for regional involvement, 1993	99
Where to now?	101
6 Giving peace a chance: Australian peacemaking and peacekeeping in 1994	103
Getting the ball rolling	103
The Loosley Report	104
Beginnings	105

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-01971-3 - The Good Neighbour: Australian Peace Support Operations in the Pacific Islands 1980–2006:

Volume 5. The Official History of Australian Peacekeeping, Humanitarian and Post-Cold War Operations

Bob Breen

Table of Contents

More information

	Contents
The Hurley visit	107
Exhausting military options	109
The Tambea Accord, 30 August	109
Honiara Commitment, 3 September	110
Rushed planning	111
Coalition building	113
Meeting at Sipuru	116
Involving the United Nations	117
A disastrous strategy	118
Rushed deployment	119
Consequences	120
The peace conference	122
A glimmer of hope	126
The next steps	127
Observations	128
7 Enough is enough: From Cairns to Sandline, 1995–97	132
Talking peace and planning violence	133
Bougainville transitional government	134
The next phase	135
The Waigani Communiqué	136
Going off the rails	137
The Cairns talks	139
Where to now?	140
Muddling on	140
More talks in Cairns	141
Return to civil war	142
Escalation	143
Change of government in Australia	144
Operation High Speed II	144
Kangu Beach massacre	146
Killing Theodore Miriung	148
A false dawn	149
Enter the dogs of war	150
Peacemaking during the Sandline Affair, February–July 1997	151
Brinkmanship	152
St Patrick's Day ultimatum	153
Australian military contingencies	156
The political end game	157
Observations	158
<hr style="border-top: 1px dashed #000;"/>
PART III AUSTRALIAN INTERVENTION IN BOUGAINVILLE	161
<hr style="border-top: 1px dashed #000;"/>
8 New Zealand joins in: Designing and deploying the Truce Monitoring Group, 1997	163
New Zealand engages	163
Burnham I Talks, July 1997	165
Burnham II Talks, October 1997	166
Designing the Truce Monitoring Group	167
The Resource Group	169
Planning begins	171

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-01971-3 - The Good Neighbour: Australian Peace Support Operations in the Pacific Islands 1980–2006:

Volume 5. The Official History of Australian Peacekeeping, Humanitarian and Post-Cold War Operations

Bob Breen

Table of Contents

More information

Contents

	Prepare, load and go	172
	Reconnaissance	173
9	Smiling and waving: Establishing truce monitoring, December 1997 – February 1998	177
	Arrival, November	178
	Setting up and settling in, November–December	179
	Getting on the ground	183
	Founding fathers	184
	The Buin model	185
	The Tonu model	186
	The Buka model	187
	The Arawa model	188
	Initial political engagement	189
	The role of Chief Negotiator	191
	Tactical-level Australian diplomacy	192
	Engaging civil society	193
	The first Christmas	194
	The challenges ahead	196
10	Selling Lincoln: Finding a peace to keep, January–April 1998	198
	Preparations	198
	The Lincoln Talks	201
	The Lincoln Agreement	202
	Selling the Lincoln Agreement	204
	Reconciliation at Arawa, 6 February	204
	New leadership and coordination	205
	Technical talks, 10–14 March	207
	Australia takes the lead	208
	Signing the Ceasefire Implementing Agreement	210
	The ceremony	212
	Observations	213
11	Setting precedents: Establishing peace-monitoring operations, 1998	216
	Origins of civilian monitoring	217
	The first contingent	218
	The second contingent	221
	Poor preparation equals poor performance	223
	Military v. political imperatives	226
	Transition to political imperatives	227
	Facilitating reconciliation	229
	Refocusing on relationships	230
	Observations	231
12	Getting the political focus right: PMG contributions to negotiations, 1999	232
	The situation	232
	Challenges	233
	Australia's role	234
	Categorising Bougainvillean society	237
	Adapting governance arrangements	237
	Clarifying roles for the PMG	239
	The Bougainville People's Congress	241
	The Matakana and Okatainia Understanding	241
	The Hutjena Minute	243

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-01971-3 - The Good Neighbour: Australian Peace Support Operations in the Pacific Islands 1980–2006:

Volume 5. The Official History of Australian Peacekeeping, Humanitarian and Post-Cold War Operations

Bob Breen

Table of Contents

More information

	Contents
The future of the PMG	244
Observations	245
13 Trying to leave: Reducing ADF support to the PMG, October 1999 – May 2001	247
Change of command	249
When to leave?	250
Weapons disposal – the sleeper issue	251
Drawdown paper	252
Convincing the partners	253
The Loloata Understanding	253
Justifying reductions	254
Pessimism and avoiding unfinished business	256
An alternative diplomatic view	258
An alternative strategy	258
More frustration	259
Change of policy	260
Change of command and a new withdrawal plan	260
More frustrations and reductions	262
Turning the corner	263
Back to Townsville	264
Change of command	265
Observations	267
14 From offstage to centre stage: Securing the guns, part 1: 1998–2002	269
Contemplating weapons disposal, 1998	270
Confirming differences, 1999	272
A futile year, 2000	273
The breakthroughs, 2001	273
Breakthrough on weapons disposal	275
Getting started, September 2001	277
Reluctant partnership, October–November 2001	279
A tentative beginning	280
Change of policy	281
Getting on with it	282
Collecting guns, February–June 2002	283
Observations	285
15 Trying to finish the job: Securing the guns, part 2: June 2002 – June 2003	287
Situation	287
Challenges ahead	288
Winning over the MDF	290
Another slowdown	292
Deciding to leave	292
Taking back the guns	294
Onwards to Stage 2 verification	296
The new plan	298
Persuading the Ambassador	298
Vale PMG	301
Seeing it through: Bougainville Transition Team	302
Observations on weapons disposal	305
16 Mission accomplished? Peacemaking and peacekeeping in Bougainville, 1988–2003	307

Contents

PART IV AUSTRALIA'S INTERVENTIONS IN SOLOMON ISLANDS		317
17	From peacemaking to peacekeeping: Australia and the troubled Solomon Islands, 1997–2000	319
	Strategic raison d'être	320
	Trouble in 1998	322
	Towards anarchy in 1999	324
	A Special Envoy	325
	The Commonwealth Multinational Police Peace Monitoring Group	326
	The search for peace	328
	Fiji coup, May 2000	329
	Solomon Islands coup, June–July 2000	330
	Australian peacemaking	333
	July negotiations	334
	Considering options	336
	Towards the Townsville Peace Agreement	337
	Progress so far	339
18	A futile exercise: The International Peace Monitoring Team in Solomon Islands, 2000–02	342
	Setting up	342
	Recruitment and preparation of civilian monitors	344
	Arrival of the IPMT	345
	Situation deteriorates, 2001	347
	Enter the Guadalcanal Liberation Front	348
	Attack on the IPMT	349
	Meagre returns	350
	Signs of complacency	351
	Towards a new Solomon Islands Government	352
	Australia to the rescue	354
	Withdrawal of the IPMT	355
	Observations	358
19	The path to intervention: Regional Assistance Mission to Solomon Islands, 2003	360
	No United Nations option	361
	A stimulus for policy review	361
	Other priorities	363
	The Kemakeza letter	363
	The departmental position	364
	Political will prevails	365
	A telling analysis	367
	Preliminary planning	369
	The decision to intervene	370
	Regional and international support	371
	Opposition in Solomon Islands	372
	Strategic guidance	373
	The final touches	374
	Synchronisation	376
	Setting up for success	377
20	The circuit breaker: RAMSI intervention, July–December 2003	380
	Planning	381
	Preparations	383

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-01971-3 - The Good Neighbour: Australian Peace Support Operations in the Pacific Islands 1980–2006:

Volume 5. The Official History of Australian Peacekeeping, Humanitarian and Post-Cold War Operations

Bob Breen

Table of Contents

More information

	Contents
Deployment	384
Initial operations: establishing a deterrent presence	386
The gun amnesty	387
The arrest of Harold Keke	387
Pacifying Malaita	389
Reducing ADF support	391
Challenges ahead	392
21 Security for capacity-building: RAMSI, 2004–05	396
Assessing security requirements	397
Security review, April 2004	399
Securing Rove Prison	401
First emergency response test, December 2004	404
Modifying policy	405
A challenging year, 2005	406
Observations	407
22 Back into the streets: The Honiara riots, April 2006	409
Developing deployable tactical policing capabilities	410
The Honiara riots, April 2006	411
Triggering a riot	412
Australia responds	416
Calling in reinforcements	417
Conduct of security operations	418
Securing the new government	421
New security arrangements	422
The journey so far	424
23 Back to the waters off Fiji: Operation Quickstep, 2006	427
Building bridges	428
The 2000 coup	429
Lead-up to the 2006 coup	430
Preparing for intervention	430
Black Hawk accident, 29 November 2006	432
Trying to prevent a coup	433
The 2006 coup	435
The journey so far	437
24 Monarchy under pressure: Responding to civil unrest in Tonga, November 2006	439
Background to political instability	439
The 16 November unrest	441
Australia responds	442
Conduct of operations	444
Observations	448
Conclusion	450
Appendix A
‘No ken stoppim peace’ – Australian peacekeepers’ interactions with Bougainvilleans and Solomon Islanders	471
Appendix B
Speech by RAMSI Special Coordinator Nick Warner at Henderson Field on 24 July 2003	489
Bibliography	491
Index	521