

Greek Word Index

This index includes a selection of the more interesting or important terms in Book 5 (Diehl's edition, III 162–356), along with the dominant translation(s) used here. Page ranges are used only where intervals are not significantly more than a page. Only in exceptional cases have I listed words under separate meanings. For proper names, other than those that double with ordinary nouns, see General Index, which will refer to the pages of this volume.

General Index

The word index and glossary, like the analytic table of contents, are alternative vehicles for finding material within the translation; this index is intended to assist one to find significant proper names anywhere and topics and passages discussed in the introduction and notes. No attempt has been made to index several topics occurring throughout the book, e.g. Plato and Proclus (other than references to their other works) or ubiquitous Proclan concepts.
