Index

Abbott, H. Porter, 202
Abhijñānaśākuntalam (Kalidāsa), xii, 35–6 action trajectories, xiii, 13, 14, 77, 191 activation, 18–19, See also character activation Affective Narratology (Hogan), xii agents, 13
Alexandre le Grand (Racine) antagonist, reconciler, and rival doubling in, 84 canon continuity with, 84–5, 86–7, 89–90, 92, 94–5, 97–8, 99
description of, 84–7, 193
narrative idiolect in, 84
parametric shifts in, 84, 85–7 alignment, 50, 52–3, 54, 59, 72, 189 alteration principles characters affected by, 36
   defined, 33
   for discourse, 33–4
   example impact of, 33
   motifs as part of, 34–5 prototype affected by, 33, 34–5, 76
   summary of, 45, 110
types of, 34, 35
ambiguity
   Brecht’s work displaying, 120–1, 122–3, 124, 196, 197
   Shakespeare’s work evincing, 54–5, 60, 62–7, 69–71, 142, 148–50, 151–2, 153, 154–6, 189, 190, 191 ambivalence, 54
   in character simulation, 41, 87, 193 emotion containing, 40–1, 42 in Racine’s work, 87, 90, 91, 95–6, 97, 98, 102, 107, 193 in Shakespeare’s plays, 56, 58, 59–61, 63–4, 67, 72, 73, 189, 190, 191 Andromaque (Racine), 104
ambivalence in, 98
canon continuity with, 88, 89–90, 91, 92, 94, 95–6, 98, 100, 102, 106, 107 character ambivalence in, 87, 193 character emotion shifts in, 88, 105, 193 contradictory properties and relations in, 91
description of, 87–9, 193
female protagonist growth in, 193 motivation treatment in, 91–2
narrative idiolect in, 87, 89, 91
narrative trajectory in, 98–9
parametric shifts in, 87, 90, 91–2, 194
reconciliation after war in, 87 argument, 181, See also specific topics authorial continuities in, 115
cross-cultural patterns and motifs for, 115 122
   argumentative simulation
      in Brecht’s work, 116–21, 123–4, 125, 126
      for critics, 126
      exploratory simulation in relation to, 123–4 implemental simulation compared to, 111–12, 135–6
      argumentative simulation
         in Brecht’s work, 116–21, 123–4, 125, 126
         for critics, 126
         exploratory simulation in relation to, 123–4 experimental simulation compared to, 111–12, 135–6 of narration, 165
      narrative particularization with, 112
      summary of, 135–6
artifice
   in Calvino’s work, 172–3, 174–5, 177–8 concealed, 166, 175, 176, 181

© in this web service Cambridge University Press  www.cambridge.org artifice (cont.) of emplotment, 166, 175 espionage and, 176 in Faulkner’s work, 168–70, 175 flaunted, 172–3, 174, 175, 179 narrative, 168–70, 172, 175 of story, xx As I Lay Dying (Faulkner), 4, 5–6 associative connection, 17, 20 attachment, 76, 78–89, 83, 85, 86, 88, 89–90, 91, 97, 100, 101–2, 108 audience, 165–6, See also emplotment, of Hamlet Austen, Jane, xv, 17, 21, 23, 24–5, 46, 186, See also Emma author, See also emplotment, of Hamlet; literary creation; literary simulation; narrative particularization; parallel distributed processing; particularization argument and modeling continuities for, 115 character autonomy for, 4, 185 exempla uses by, 39 implied, 164 individuality, 46 internal consistency in, 46 introspection failure and testimonial relevance, xx–xxi literary simulation component involving, i, 27 memory individuality of, xvi memory artifice and, 166 narrative artifice and, 166 narrative cognitive theory ignoring particularity of, xi–xii narrative idiolect of, i, xvi, 75, 76–7, 83 narremes distinctive of work of, 47 patterns organizing principles, motifs, and prototypes of, 51–2, 75 prototypes in mind of, 27 reader addressed by, 172 receptive evaluation for, 41, 43, 188 repetition, 75 rule-based approach for activities of, xv simulation by reader and, 5–6, 20 trajectory of change for, 75 verbal art impact points for, 41 authorial idiolect. See narrative idiolect Bajazet (Racine), 80, 106 ambivalence in, 97, 98 cannon continuity of, 96–8, 99, 100, 101, 103, 105 description of, 96–9, 194 female protagonist growth in, 98–9 gender shift in, 110 as heroic story, 96 moral complexity of, 98 narrative trajectory in, 98–9 parametric shifting in, 97, 98–9 protagonist rivals in, 96 usurpation in, 96 Baker, Mark, 77 Baire, J. Alexander, 199 Bargh, John, xxi Barthes, Roland, xviii, 81–2 Baumeister, R., 111 beauty, 142–3, 200 Bérénice (Racine), 80, 99 cannon continuity of, 94–6 description of, 94–5, 194 parametric shifts in, 94–5 rival protagonists in, 94 biblical model, 18–20, 186 Blanc, André, 192, 193, 194 Bonheim, Helmut, 47, 48–9 Bonini’s paradox, 15 Bordwell, David, 199 Bowers, Fredson, 199 Brecht, Bertolt, xviii–xix, 115, See also specific works ambiguity in plays of, 120–1, 122–3, 124, 196, 197 argumentative and exploratory simulation of, 116–21, 123–4, 126 emotion and empathy for, 118, 119, 120–1, 124–5, 196, 197 exploratory simulation in work of, 123–4, 126 narrative specification of, 126 political function of work of, 115, 116–17, 118, 119–22, 196, 197 theater for, 117, 123, 125–6 Breen, Margaret, 129–30 Britannicus (Racine), 106 antagonist in, 92–3 cannon continuities of, 92, 93, 96–7, 99 description of, 92–4, 194 motif in, 94 narrative trajectory in, 93 parametric shifts in, 93–4 rival protagonists in, 92 usurpation in, 93 Calvino, Italo, xx, 170, 181, See also specific works artifice in work of, 172–3, 174–5, 177–8, 179
Index

narration flaunted by, 179–80 narrative idioclit of, 173, 202 canon. See specific topics causal explanation, 40–1 character, See also specific topics alteration principles affecting, 36 ambivalence in simulation of, 41, 87, 193 attention given to, 37, 187 autonomy of, 4, 185
cross-cultural genre types of, 32–3 evaluation dependent upon, 44 exempla for, 39, 40
functions, 35, 36
in-group and out-group, 37–8, 187 literary simulation of, xvi, 10, 35–8 mimic, 38
narrative particularization driven by, 14, 39 narrative specification through, 44 narrator as, 170–1
orthodox, 38
prototypes, 27, 35, 36, 75, 79, 187, 192
Racine and development of, 108 reactionary traditionalist, 38 specification principles for, 36–41 story involving goals of, 29 storytelling parameters and, 78
summary of, 45
syncretist, 38
temporal alteration in, 34 traits, 35–6
typological categorization and divisions in, 37–9 character activation, 21–2, 23, 24, 186 character simulation, xvi
ambivalence in, 41, 87, 193
anomalous plausibility in, 39–40 emotional response in, 44
examples, 22, 24, 39–40
by reader, 39–40
Chatman, Seymour, 199
Coetze, J. M., 43
cognitive approach, xvii, 14–15, 46, 49, 188 cognitive architecture, xv, 3, 77 cognitive model (or metaphor), xix cognitive operation, 16–17 cognitive structure, 46
The Comedy of Errors (Shakespeare), 75 compassion, 8–9, 10, See also empathy construal, 138–9, 141, 152, 155–6 continuities, See narrative idioclit; patterns; specific topics Corneille, Pierre, 193, 195 counterfactual thinking, xiii, 183 criminal investigation prototype, 32, 121–2 critics
argumentative simulation for, 126 cognitive approach and Shakespeare analysis of, 49 cross-cultural patterns and Shakespeare analysis of, 49 on emplotment of Hamlet, 199 on Kafka’s work, 198–9 Racine canon continuity for, 80–2, 192 on Shakespeare’s patterns, 47–9, 188, 190, 191, 201 cross-cultural genre, See also individual topics major and minor, 44–5
in The Measures Taken, 124 motivation systems at play in, 29–30 prototypes, xi, xiii, xix, 29–33, 75, 130, 184 recurring events, character types, and scenes from, 32–3 storytelling and, xvi, 7
summary of, 44–5
cross-cultural patterns and motifs argument and modeling containing, 115, 122 critics’ Shakespeare analysis missing, 49 espionage within, 175–6
in-group/out-group inclusion/exclusion in, 52 Shakespeare’s use of, 50–1
usurpation as, 48
Dans le Labyrinthe (Robbe-Grillet), 177 Decety, Jean, 7
dialectic shift theory, 1–3, 184
descriptive alignment, 50 Desnain, Véronique, 192, 193 development principles, 181, See also alteration principles; descriptive alignment; familialization; specification principles in heroic tragicomedy, 52–3 in literary simulation, 27–9 narrative idioclit through, 108–9 neural networks providing, 78
Shakespeare’s use of, 50–2, 55, 67, 69, 71
specification, 33
diachronic study, 79
Die Maßnahme (Brecht). See The Measures Taken Die Verwandlung (Kafka). See The Metamorphosis direct induction, 12–13 discourse, xix, 33–4, 138, 142, 161, 200, 201
Index

dissociation, 7–8

divine preference, 55–6, 57–8, 62–3, 66, 67–8, 69, 71, 72, 189 drama, xx, 139, 199. See also theater

Edelman, Gerard, 185

Eisenstein, Sergei, 185

Edelman, Gerard, 197

Ellipsis, 34

Emplotment, of

Emma (Austen), 26

character activation in, 21–2, 23, 24
description of, 21–3
mind simulation of others in, 20–5 narrative prototype in, 23 neural network in, 22–3, 24–5 priming in, 24
reader simulation manipulation in, 24–5 theory of mind capacities explored in, xv, 17, 21, 23, 186

emotion, See also empathy; plot, interest;
specific topics
aesthetic, 142–3
ambivalence in personal, 40–1, 42 artifact, 142
heroic structure containing, 30
in modeling, 114
simulation operating through, 4–5, 8, 10
story, 142, 200

emotional goals, 45

emotional impact, 43
in emplotment of Hamlet, 139, 142, 143, 145, 146, 154, 155, 156, 157, 159, 200–1 in literature, 142–3 for receptive evaluation, 41, 42 emotional memories, 12, 43, 185

emotional orientation, 46 emotional profile, 5

emotional response
in character simulation, 44
in evaluation principles, 43–4 literary creation reliance on, 43–4 to Racine’s plays, 104–5, 106 simulation, 6–7, 8, 9, 10, 185
summary of, 45

empathy, 189

Brecht view of emotion and, 118, 119, 120–1, 124–5, 196, 197 simulation relation to, 36–7 employment

artifice of, 166, 175
defined, 138
in drama, xx, 99

information withheld as device of, 149, 166, 200, 202 intensified parallelism in, 140, 199

particularization and plot through, xix–xx selection, organization, and construal within, 138–9

tragically, 124, 157, 158

employment, of Hamlet

audience and author models used in, 140–1 147, 149, 154, 155–7, 158–9 construal in, 141, 152, 155–6

critics on, 199

emotional impact in, 139, 142, 143, 145, 146, 154, 155, 156, 157, 159, 200–1 espionage and play-acting in, 149–50, 151, 152–3, 155, 200

ghost’s appearance in, 143–4, 148, 149, 155, 159 inconsequential characters and scenes in, 143, 149–50, 151 narration and, 142, 146–7, 148–9, 153–4, 155, 158–9, 166, 200 narrational disjunction in, 144–5, 154 narration/story time conflated in, 145–6, 150, 154, 156, 200 narrative sequences in, 151

parallelism used in, 140, 148, 152, 153, 158 political discussion in, 144, 145 selection model guiding, 140–1, 155–6

soliloquy purposes, 147

story and, 143, 149–50

story genres contained in, 141–2, 147, 148, 150–2, 154, 156, 158–9

story sequence in, 143–4 strategic plan in, 147–8

summary of, 159–60

timing in, 145–6, 150, 153, 154, 156

tragically, 157, 158

trajectory interruption as, 139–40, 144

entrenchment, 76

epilogue of suffering, 54, 63, 72, 89 episodic memory, 11–13, 14, 17–18

espionage, 149–50, 151, 152–3, 155, 173–7, 200

Esolin, Martin, 123, 197 ethics. See morality and ethics evaluation, 28, 44. See also receptive evaluation evaluation principles, 104, 109, 181

defined, 41

emotional memories in, 43

emotional response within, 43–4 exempla over general categories in, 43

in literary simulation, 28–9, 41–4, 187
as narrative idiolect component, 76
neural networks providing, 78
summary of, 45
for Waiting for the Barbarians, 43 evolutionary development, 6–7, 185 exempla, 109
author uses for, 39
for characters, 39, 40
defined, 27, 192
evaluation principles employing, 43
in literary simulation, 27, 29
as narrative idiolect component, 76
specification principles relationship to, 76 “Exercise-Book” (Tagore), xi–xvi explanatory simulation, 123–4, 125, 126, 135–6, 165
familial separation prototype, xiii, 31, 100, 187 familialization, 38–9, 50, 55 fantasy, 9, 10, 25
Faude-Koivisto, Tanya, 111
Faulkner, William, xx, 4, 5–6, 17, 20, 46, 166, 181, See also specific works artifice employed by, 175 implied reader in work of, 169–70 interior monologue in work of, xv multiple narrators employed by, 167–70 narrative artifice in work of, 168–70 narrative particularization by, 17–19, 169–70
Felperin, Howard, 191
Ferguson, Margaret, 191, 201
Ferguson, Francis, 48
fiction, 1–3, 178–9, 184
Fiedler, Leslie, 191
Foakes, R. A., 190
Fodor, Jerry, 183–4
Forestier, Georges, 193
Frijda, Nico, 200
Frye, Northrop, 47
Gaut, Berys, 189
general simulation, 12 genre, See cross-cultural genre; universal narrative genres; specific topics goal pursuit or achievement, 11, 14, 186 goal-oriented planning, 111
Gogol, Nikolai, 185
Goldblum, Naomi, 196
Goldmann, Lucien, 81
Gollwitzer, Peter, 111

Gora (Tagore), 38
Greenblatt, Stephen, 189, 190
Greve, Anniken, 198

Hamlet (Shakespeare), xiv, 175, See also emplotment, of Hamlet ambiguity in, 64–7, 142, 148–50, 151–2, 153, 154–6, 157–9, 190, 191
ambivalence in, 65, 190, 191
character simulation in, 39–40
description of, 64–8
divine preference in, 67–8 emplotment in, xx, 139–59
as heroic play, 47–8, 141, 142, 146, 149–55, 157
in-group/out-group blurring in, 68 principles and motifs used in, 51 restoration in, 65–6
as revenge play, 141, 142, 147, 149–55
as romantic play, 141, 142, 148, 151, 153, 154 as seduction play, 141, 142, 150, 151, 156 threat/defense sequence in, 68, 146
usurpation in, 64, 65–7, 154
Hawkes, Terence, 190

Henry V (Shakespeare), 62, 67, 74 cross-cultural patterns and motifs in, 50
description of, 56–7
as deviation from author’s norm, 58
divine preference in, 57–8, 189
as heroic play, 47
nationalism and ambivalence in, 56–7, 58
The Tempest compared to, 69 and threat/defense sequence, 56
Herman, David, 202
heroic prototype, See also ambiguity;
ambivalence; heroic tragicomedies;
in-group/out-group; specific topics alignment in, 52–3
e motion at play in, 30 nationalism typical of, 53, 54, 56, 61, 189
nature of, 30, 141
political function of, 52–3, 54
Racine and, 82, 96, 102
Shakespeare and, xvi–xvii, 47–8, 52–5, 56–73, 74, 141, 146
standard version of, 30 story construction in, 52–3
summary of, 74
threat/defense sequence in, 52, 54, 56, 58–9, 62, 64–5, 68, 146
usurpation component of, 48, 52–3 heroic tragicomedies, 47, 52–3, 69, 72–3 Heyndels, Ingrid, 80–1
Index

220 historicism, xvii

Holland, Norman, 198
Honigmann, E. A. J., 49, 199
Horn, Peter, 196
Hubert, Daniel, 192

Il Sentiero dei Nidi di Ragno (Calvino), 202 imagination. See simulation implementation simulation, 111–12, 135–6 implementation, 111–12
individual works, xii, 183 inference, 36–7, 39–40
in-group/out-group, 56
character specification and, 37–8, 187 heroic narrative inclusion/exclusion of, 52–3, 54 Shakespeare’s blurring of, 55, 59–61, 68, 73 intensified parallelism. See parallelism intertranslatability, xiv–xv, 183–4 introspection, xx–xxi Iphigénie (Racine)
ambivalence in, 102
canon continuity of, 102, 103–4, 107
description of, 102–5, 195 emotional response and, 104–5 motifs in, 103–4
narrative idiolect on display in, 103
narrative trajectory in, 104
story genre combination in, 102, 104, 195
Jahn, Manfred, 199
Jeffries, Lesley, 2
Johnson-Laird, P. N., 197
Joyce, James, xviii, 39, 40
Julius Caesar (Shakespeare), 48, 58–61, 189, 190
Kafka, Franz, xix, 115, 129–32, 133–4, 198–9
Kállidása, xii
Kastan, David, 190
Khan, M. H., 189
King John (Shakespeare), 49, 50, 51
King Lear (Shakespeare), 34, 48, 50, 51, 55–6, 69–70
La Jalousie (Robbe-Grillet), 34
La Thébaïd (Racine), 79, 80, 91
Lakoff, George, 127–8, 197 language recursion, 174
Le Città Invisible (Calvino), 171–2
Leadbeater, Lewis, 198
Lenin, V. I., 196
Les Plaisdeurs (Racine), 192

Levin, Richard, 201
Lewis, David, 1–2
Light in August (Faulkner), xx
description of, 166–7
implied reader in, 169–70 multiple narrators in, 167–70 multiple simulations in, 170 narrative artifice in, 168–70 seduction prototype in, 167 linguistic principles and parameters theory, 77 literary simulation. See simulation literary creation emotional profiles created in, 5 emotional response critical to, 43–4 evaluation in, 28
prototypes in, xv
receptive evaluation of author in, xv–xvi rule complexes governing, xv–xvi in sequence, 79
literary narrative, xli, 112–13 literary particularization. See narrative particularization literary simulation author creating through, i, 27 character, xvi, 10, 35–8 components and component interaction in, 27–9 development principles for, 27–9 evaluation principles for, 28–9, 41–4, 187
example of, 28–9
exempla in, 27, 29
guided, 10
modeling for, 135
narrational, xx, 161–74, 181, 201
of narrative voice, xx
nature of, 8
previously existing story structures in, 27 prototypes in, 27, 28–9, 187 real world simulation compared to, 3–5, 8, 9, 25–6, 36, 187
literature
cognitive architecture approach to life and, 3 tempting impact in, 142–3 repetitive compared to nonrepetitive, 75 simulation in life and, 3–5 simulation understood through, xiii–xv Macbeth (Shakespeare), 48, 50, 51, 63
Machiavelli, Niccolo, 191
Mannering, A., 185
Marxism. See socialist activism

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org
Index

Masicampo, E., 111
material conditions, 14
Mauron, Charles, 81, 82
McAlindon, Tom, 47, 48
McIntyre, Dan, 2
The Measures Taken (Brecht) argument and particularization in, xix argumentative and exploratory simulation in, 116–21, 123–4, 125, 126 argumentative structure of, 115 complications in, 119–20, 124–5 contrary tendencies displayed in, 126 cross-cultural genre in, 124
description of, 116–17, 118, 120
empathy and emotion treatment in, 118, 119, 120–1, 124–5, 196 judgment in, 121–3, 125, 196, 197 narrative structure of, 115, 125 political function in, 115, 116–17, 118, 119–22, 196, 197 story genre types used in, xix, 121–2, 124, 125, 126, 197
summary of, 116
teaching purposes of, 115–16 theater in, 115–16, 117, 125–6 memory, xii, xvi, 11–13, 14, 17–18, 43, 185–6
See also episodic memory; semantic memory
The Metamorphosis (Kafka)
cognitive model in, xix
description of, 130, 131–2, 134
explicit insect model in, 129–30, 131–2, 198 implicit illness model in, 130–1, 198 infancy model in, 133
metaphor in, 115, 131–2 psychoanalytic model for, 197–8 real life/dream model in, 134 repugnancy and shame in, 130, 134, 198 sacrificial plots of, 130, 132–3, 134, 198 metaphor, 114, 115, 127–8, 131–2, 196, 197.
See also cognitive model (or metaphor); modeling metaprinciples, 78, 90, 91, 98
Miles, Geoff, 190
mimetic/diegetic distinction, 199
The Mind and Its Stories (Hogan), xii mind simulation, of others, 20–5, 26, 36, 165–6 See also theory of mind
mirroring, 25, 187
Mithridate (Racine), 80, 107
canon continuity of, 99, 100, 101, 103, 105
description of, 99–102, 194
female protagonist growth in, 101
gender shifts in, 101, 195 narrative idiosyncrasy evinced by, 99, 100, 101–2 narrative trajectory illustrated in, 101–2 parametric shifts in, 99, 100
usurpation in, 100–1
modeling, xix, 181, See also selection model
authorial continuities in, 115
complexity of, 127–9
contradiction in, 129
cross-cultural patterns and motifs for, 115 direct induction compared to, 12–13 emotional and thematic purposes to, 114–15 employment of Hamlet through, 140–1, 147, 149, 154, 155–7 examples of, xviii, 129–32, 133–4 literature categorization compared to, 127, 129 literary simulation through, 135 metaphor and, 114, 196, 197
in narration, 165, 202
reader addressed through, 172 simulation through, xviii, 113, 127, 128–9, 196, 197
summary of, 136
types, xviii
uses for, 113, 114, 127–8, 133–4, 135, 196 verbal art relying on, 113 morality and ethics, 54–5, 60, 62–7, 69–71, 98.
See also ambiguity, ambivalence motif. See also cross-cultural patterns and motifs alteration principles involving, 34–5 false report, 86, 192
prototypes and, 29, 33, 187
in Racine's work, 94, 97, 103–4, 106
Shakespeare's use of, 50–2, 64, 74
motivation system, 10, 29–30, 40
Motoyama, Kate, 197
The Mousetrap (Hamlet), 66, 190
My Reminiscences (Tagore), xii, xii narrate, 165, 171–2
narration
argumentative and exploratory simulation of, 165 Calvino flaunting, 179–80 cognitive architecture relationship to, 77 discourse containing, xix, 118, 142, 161, 200, 201 employment of Hamlet and, 142, 146–7, 148–9, 153–4, 155, 158–9, 166, 200 example of, xix

© in this web service Cambridge University Press
www.cambridge.org
narration (cont.)
flaunted, 179–80
models in, 165, 202
second person, 171
simulation, 164–5, 201
story compared to simulation of, xx, 162, 164, 201
time, 145–6
narrational disjunction, 144–5, 154
narrative
affect in, 142
argument compared to, 113, 171, 201
artifice, 168–70, 172, 175
author and artifice of, 166 cognitive theory of, xi–xii, xiv disruptions and reversals, 178 imagination, i literary analysts, xiii trajectory, 79–80, 81, 92, 93, 98–9, 101–2, 104, 105, 107–8, 109–10 voice, xix–xx
narrative idiolect, 49
author, i, xvi, 75, 76–7, 83 of Calvino, 173, 202
canon for treating, 79
components of, 75–6, 193 composition and operation of, 79 consistency of, 46
development principles for, 108–9 diachronic study of, 79
entrenchment in, 76
neural network influence on, 79, 109, 196 parameters evolving in, xvii, 77, 109–10, 192, 195–6 parameters clustered as model of, 109–10 of Racine, 78, 79, 81, 83–4, 87, 89, 91, 99, 100, 101–2, 106–8, 194–5 Shakespeare’s, xvi–xvii, 50–6, 68–9, 75, 154, 159–60, 199 storytelling principles and parameters for developing, 75–7
summary of, 73–4, 108–9
Tagore’s, 78
variation and fixed, 77, 79 narrative particularization, 26 characters driving, 14, 39 in Faulkner’s work, 17–19, 169–70 implemental and argumentative simulation in, 112
of Racine, xviii
rule-based approach to, 16–17 story simulation relation to, 181 narrative specification, 39, 44, 114, 126 narrator

as character, 170–1
in drama, 139, 199
in Light in August, 167–70
multiple, 165–6, 167–70
nonpersonified, 199
reliability, 165, 169, 170–1
simulation of, 164–5
narreme, 47, 48–9
nationalism. See heroic prototype; political function; specific topics network, 16–17, 20–1
neural network, 26, 46
advantages of, 15
Bonini’s paradox arising from, 15
complexity of, 15, 16
development and evaluation principles from, 78
in Emma, 22–3, 24–5
narrative idiolect influenced by, 79, 109, 196
nature of, 15
PDP and simulations of, 17
primed versus inhibited, 22 prototypes from, 78
of reader, 24–5
rule-based approach distinguished from,
xv, 15–16
in storytelling parameter setting, 78 theories, xiv
normalcy, 178–9

Oatley, Keith, xiii, 2, 184
Obama, Barack, 1
The Odyssey (Homer), xviii
On Racine (Barthes), xviii organization, 138
Ortony, Andrew, 197, 200–1 out-group. See in-group/out-group parallel distributed processing (PDP), 17–18, 20, 21, 26, 186, 196
parallelism, 140, 148, 152, 153, 158, 199 parameters. See also storytelling, principles and parameters of
defined, 191
narrative idiolect shift of, xvii, 77, 109–10, 192, 195–6
Racine’s shifting, 79–80, 84, 85–7, 90, 91–2, 93–4, 97, 98–9, 100, 106, 194 setting of, 78, 79–80, 109
Tagore’s work and shifting, xvii
Index

variation of, 80
particularization, See also narrative particularization; specific topics argument or reasoning and, xvii, 116, 117, 118, 127
emplotment for, xix–xx
of experience, 185
narrative cognitive theory ignoring author, xi–xii
of narrative prototype, xvi narrative voice for, xix–xx patterns, nature of, xx–xxi of plot, 103, 138, 140, 159–60 simulation as central to, xiii, 43 patterns, 47–50, 51–2, 73, 81–2, 191.
See also cross-cultural patterns and motifs; narrative idiolect Pavel, Thomas, 80
PDP. See parallel distributed processing people. See real people Phèdre (Racine), 79
ambivalence in, 107
canon continuity of, 105, 107, 192 character development in, 108
description of, 195
emotional response in, 106
female protagonist growth in, 105, 106
narrative idiolect in, 106–7 narrative trajectory on display in, 105, 107–8
parametric shifts in, 106
rival protagonists in, 105 story genres on display in, 107
usurpation in, 105–6
plot, See also emplotment; emplotment, of Hamlet; heroic prototype; sacrificial prototype
construction, 52–3, 143
discourse containing, xix, 138, 142, 161, 200, 201
discourse of narrative form, xix–xx interest, 142, 143
nature of, xix
particularization, 103
prototypes, 30–2
revenge, 32, 107, 141, 147, 149
romantic plot, 31, 83, 86, 96, 100, 102, 107, 141–2, 148, 150–1
seduction, 31–2, 142, 148, 150–1, 156
plural formation, xiv political function, See also socialist activism
in Brecht’s work, 115, 116–17, 118, 119–22, 196, 197
Racine, Jean, See also specific plays ambivalence treatment by, 87, 90, 91, 95–6, 97, 98, 102, 107, 193 antagonizer in work of, 83, 84, 92–3 attachment and attachment figures for, 85, 86, 88, 89–90, 91, 97, 100, 101–2, 108 canon continuity of, xviii, 79, 80–2, 84–5, 86–7, 88, 89–90, 91, 92, 93, 94–8, 99, 100, 101, 102, 103–4, 105, 106, 107, 192 character development for, 108 critics on canon continuity of, 80–2, 192 economic response to work of, 104–5, 106 entrenchment and plasticity of, 79 false report in plays of, 86, 99–100, 106, 195 female protagonist growth for, 90–1, 98–9, 101, 105, 106, 192, 193 gender shifts in plays of, 101, 103, 110, 195 gender principle of, 78, 90, 91, 98 motifs in plays of, 94, 97, 101–4, 106 narrative particularization of, xviii narrative trajectory illustrated by, 79–80, 81, 92, 93, 98–9, 101–2, 104, 105, 107–8, 110 parametric axes in work of, 80 parametric shifting in work of, 79–80, 84, 85–7, 90, 91–2, 93–4, 97, 98–9, 100, 106, 194 patterns in plays of, 81–2 protagonist rivals and doubling for, 78, 83, 84, 88, 92, 95, 96, 105 reconciler figures for, 83, 84 secural tragedies of, xvii–xviii story genres employed by, 82–3, 86, 96, 100, 102, 107, 193, 194–5 tension sources in work of, 95 usurpation in plays of, 82, 84, 93, 96, 100–1, 104, 105–6 worldview in works of, 81 reader, See also parallel distributed processing author addressing, 172
author receptive to response of, 41 character simulation by, 39–40
Emma and simulation manipulation of, 24–5 generalized, 172–3, 176 hidden intention for, 179 implied, 165, 169–70
modeling for addressing, 172 neural network of, 24–5 priming and spontaneous simulation by, 23–4 real, 171, 172, 202
simulation by author and, 5–6, 20
real people, 44
real world
literary compared to simulation in, 9, 25–6, 36, 187 real people defining conception of, 44 receptive intent in, 41
simulation, 7–8, 76–7, 179
simulation compared to, 7, 25, 178, 201 reasoning, xviii
receptivity evaluation, xv–xvi, 41–2, 43, 188 receptive intent, 41
recession, 174
reliability, 5, 165, 169, 170–1 revenge plot prototype, 32, 107, 141, 147, 149 reward activation, 8–9, 10
Richard II (Shakespeare)
ambiguity in, 62–4
ambivalence in, 61, 63–4, 190
description of, 62–3, 190
divine preference in, 62–3
threat/defense sequence in, 62
usurpation in, 62
Richard III (Shakespeare), 50, 64
Richardson, Brian, 199, 200, 202
Robbe-Grillet, Alain, 34, 177, 202 romantic prototype
example of, 83, 86, 96, 100, 102, 107, 148, 150–1
nature of, 31, 141–2
Romeo and Juliet (Shakespeare), xii, 35–6, 84
Rosen, Bill, 189
rule-based approach, xv, 15–17, 26
Russell, Bertrand, 197
Ryan, Kiernan, 190, 191
sacrificial plot prototype character function in, 35 character types contained in, 33
example of, 83, 88, 102, 104, 107, 130
nature of, 30–1
tragedy within, 124
salience, 23, 186
schemers, 140, 157, 199
Se una Notte d’Inverno un Viaggiatore (Calvino), xx, 170
artifice employed in, 172–3, 174–5, 177–8, 179 book within book of, 173, 174, 177 espionage genre within, 175–6 generalized reader addressed in, 172–3
Index

narration flaunted in, 179–80 narrator as character in, 171 normalcy presented in, 178–9 themetic concerns of, 172–3, 177–9, 202 seduction prototype, 31–2, 142, 148, 150–1, 156 selection, 138
selection model, 140–1 semantic memory, 11, 12–13, 14
sequence, 79
Shakespeare, William, 46, 172,
See also emplotment, of Hamlet alignment used by, 54, 59, 72, 189 ambiguity in work of, 54–5, 60, 62–7, 69–72, 142, 148–50, 151–2, 153, 154–6, 157–9, 189, 190, 191 ambivalence in plays of, 56–7, 58, 59–61, 61–4, 67, 72, 73, 189, 190, 191
character simulation by, 39–40 critics on patterns of, 47–9, 188, 190, 191, 201 cross-cultural patterns used by, 50–1 development principles and motifs used by, 50–2, 55, 64, 67, 69, 71, 74 divine preference in work of, 55–6, 57–8, 62–3, 66, 67–8, 69, 71, 72, 189 group inconsistency in work of, 55 heroic prototype use of, xvi–xvii, 47–8, 52–5, 56–73, 141, 146 historicism and, xvi
in-group/out-group blurring in work of, 55, 59–61, 68, 73 narrative idiolect of, xvi–xvii, 50–6, 61, 68–9, 75, 154, 159–60, 199 narratives in work of, 47 nationalism in plays of, 61, 189 patterns in canon of, 47–50, 191 political function in work of, 53–4, 61, 69, 189 prototypes drawn upon by, 50, 51, 64 restoration theme in work of, 65–6, 70–1 threat/defense sequence in plays of, 54, 56, 58–9, 62, 64–5, 68 tragedies of, 48
universal narrative genres and, 47–8 usurpation in work of, 54, 56, 58, 62, 64, 65–7, 69–73, 154 violence in plays of, 190, 191 war in work of, 54, 56–9
Shawber, A., 185
Siemon, James, 190
simulated object, xvi

simulation, See also artifice; character simulation; emotional response; general simulation; literary simulation accuracy of, 7
action trajectories as topic of, xiii, 13, 77, 191
as adaptive, 6–7, 9–10
agents as topic of, 13
of argument or reasoning, xviii–xix, 111–12, 196 associative and rule-based accounts of,
xiv–xv
author and reader, 5–6, 20 causal explanation discrepancy with, 40–1 cognitive approach through, 14–15 cognitive models guiding, xix
complexity of, 127
counterfactual, xiii, 183 defined, xiii, 25
dissociation as form of, 7–8 emotional operation in, 4–5, 8, 10 emotional profile created from, 5 empathy relation to, 36–7 episodic memory for, 11–13
evaluation in, 28
evolutionary advantage created by, 6–7, 185 example of, 4, 5–6, 10, 161–4
external, 135–6
fantasy compared to, 9, 10, 25 fiction as form of, 2, 184 general and particular levels of, 12
guided, 9, 10, 11–12
as imagination, 185
implemental, 111–12, 135–6 inference relation to, 36, 39–40 internal, 135
in literature and, 3–5 literary simulation compared to real world, 9, 25–6, 36, 187 literature for understanding, xiii–xv material conditions as topic of, 13 modeling, xviii, 113, 127, 128–9, 196, 197 motivation system for, 10
multiple, 170
of narration, 164–5, 201
nature of, 6, 9–10, 111, 161, 184–5 painful experience, 8–9 particularization reliance on, xiii, 43 people for understanding events in, 36
real world, 7–8, 76–7, 179
real world experience compared to, 7, 25, 178, 201
simulation of, 164
simulation (cont.)
spontaneous, 23–4, 25
summary of, 25–6
thematic concerns driven by, 113 theory of mind and, 13, 186 in verbal art, 5, 8
Smith, Murray, 59
socialist activism, 117, 119–20, 122–3, 196
See also Brecht, Bertolt
The Sound and the Fury (Faulkner), 26 associative connection in, 17, 20 biblical model in, 18–20, 186
description of, 17, 19
interior monologue in, xv narrative disjunction in, 145 narrative particularization of, 17–19 PDP account of, 17–18, 186 priming and activation in, 18–19 specification principles for characters, 36–41
defined, 33, 187
event types, character functions, and scene division within, 35–6 exempla relationship to, 76 inference and simulation within, 36–7 in-group/out-group character, 37
narrative, 39, 44, 114, 126
as narrative idiolect component, 76
summary of, 45
speech, xxi
Spencer, Theodore, 47
Sternberg, Robert, 200
Stevens, Jennifer, 7
story
artifice of, xx
character goals in, 29
defined, xix
discourse distinguished from, xix, 138, 200 emotion, 142, 200
emplotment of Hamlet and, 143, 149–50 narrational compared to simulation of, xx, 162, 164, 201 narrative particularization related to simulation of, 181 story within, 162
time, 145–6
story world, 1
storytelling, xvi, 7, 34 storytelling, principles and parameters of linguistics principles and parameters theory for, 77

Index
metapriniciples governing, 78 narrative idiolect developed through, 75–7 parameter setting in, 78 principles functioning within, 78–9 Stowe, Harriet Beecher, xxi, 112, 114 systematic alteration, xiii, xvi Tagore, Rabindranath
attachment separation in work of, 76
“Exercise-Book” and personal history of, xi, xiii, xiii “Exercise-Book” as typical of, xii, xvi narrative idiolect of, 76 parameter shift in work of, xvii self-expression practice for, xi, xii systematic alteration in work of, xiii, xvi typological categorization in work of, 38
Tan, Ed, 142, 185
Taylor, M., 185
The Tempest (Shakespeare), 68
ambiguity in, 69–72
ambivalence in, 72, 73, 191
description of, 69–72
divine preference in, 69, 72
Henry V compared to, 69
as heroic tragicomedy, 47, 69, 72–3
in-group/out-group blurring in, 73
political function in, 69
restoration theme in, 70–1, 73
usurpation in, 69–73
temporal alteration, 14
text world theory, 2 theater, 115–16, 117, 123, 125–7
canon continuity with, 84–5, 86–7, 88, 89–90, 103–4, 105, 192
description of, 82–4, 192–3 genres included in, 82
narrative idiolect in, 83–4
narrative trajectory starting with, 105 shame and pride in, 84
story genres in, 82–3
usurpation in, 82
thematic concern in literary narratives, 112–13
modeling for, 114–15
nature of, 42, 112
receptive evaluation employing, 41–2 of Se una Notte d’Inverno un Viaggiatore, 172–3, 177–9 simulation driving, 113

© in this web service Cambridge University Press
Index

theory of mind
  defined, xiv, 13
  Emma exploring capacities of, xv, 17, 21, 23, 186 for narrative imagination, i opposing views of, 13
  other people understood through, 13, 36
  PDP and, 21
  simulation, 13, 21–2
  simulation and, 13, 186 task conflict and, 13, 186 time, conflated, 145–6, 150, 154, 156, 200 timing, 138, 145–6, 150, 153, 154, 156
  Titus Andronicus (Shakespeare), 69–70
  Tobin, Ronald, 80, 193, 194 tragicomedy, 47, 52–3, 69, 72–3, 124, 157, 158 trajectory interruption, 139–40, 144 typological categorization, 37–9

Ulysses (Joyce), xviii, 1–2, 39, 40
Uncle Tom’s Cabin (Stowe), xxi, 114 united front tactics, 119–20, 196 universal narrative genres, 29–33, 47–8 usurpation

  as heroic story component, 48, 52–3 in Racine’s plays, 82, 84, 93, 96, 100–1, 104, 105–6 in Shakespeare’s heroic plays, 54, 56, 58, 62, 64, 65–7, 69–73, 154

verbal art, 5, 8, 41, 113

Waiting for the Barbarians (Coetzee), 43 war, 54, 56–9
Watson, Robert, 190
Watts, Cedric, 190
Witt, Mary Ann, 198
Woolf, Virginia, xi
Wuerz, Daniela, 111

Zunshine, Lisa, xv, 186
Zwaan, Rolf A., 7