Contents

Preface

Acknowledgments

Introduction: Speculative standpoint and feminist intervention .......................... 1

Learning the way of the world, and beyond: Utopian imperatives and the female bildungsroman 23

“With no guarantees, of course”: The art of the possible ........................................ 58

Archives of the heart: Inventing history at the edge(s) of time ................................. 90

Always coming home, in America: Enacting the romance of community .................... 123

Looking East for news from nowhere: Feminist mobility in Muslim women’s speculative writing 154

Conclusion: Being at home somewhere .................................................................. 185

Notes .................................................................................................................. 197

Index .................................................................................................................. 225