The nature of money and its impact on society has long interested scholars of economics, history, philosophy, law, and theology alike, and the recent financial crisis has moved these issues to the forefront of current public debate. In this study, authors from a range of backgrounds provide a unified examination of the nature and the purpose of money. Chapters cover the economic and social foundations of money; the historical origins of money in ancient Greece, China, the ancient Middle East, and medieval Europe; problems of justice connected to the use of money in legal systems and legal settlements, with examples both from ancient history and today; and theological aspects of monetary and market exchange. This stimulating interdisciplinary book, with its non-technical and lively discussion, will appeal to a global readership working in the interfaces of economics, law, and religion.

JÜRGEN VON HAGEN is Professor of Economics and Director of the Institute for International Economic Policy at the University of Bonn, Germany. His research focuses on monetary and macro-economics. As a Protestant preacher, he also has a keen interest in theology and its intersection with economics.

MICHAEL WELKER is Senior Professor of Systematic Theology at the University of Heidelberg. He is a member of the Heidelberg Academy of Science and Humanities and a corresponding member of the Finnish Academy of Arts and Sciences. He has held guest professorships at numerous universities, including Princeton Theological Seminary, Harvard Divinity School, and Cambridge Divinity School. He is the author or editor of around 50 books.

Acknowledgments

This book documents the results of a multi-year international and interdisciplinary dialogue. The project was made possible by the Evangelische Kirche im Rheinland, Düsseldorf, Germany. We are most grateful to Präses Dr. Nikolaus Schneider, Vizepräsies Petra Bosse-Huber, Vizepräsies Christian Drägert, Professor Dr. Bernd Wander, and the staff of the Film Funk Fernseh Zentrum (FFFZ) for their kind support. We are also indebted to Dr. Ellen Peerenboom, Gudrun Strehlow, and the team of the Internationales Wissenschaftsforum (IWH), University of Heidelberg. We acknowledge our gratitude to Dr. Heike Springhart, who was a perfect organizer of the project over many years. Special thanks go to Henning Mützlitz, Heidelberg, who created a print-ready copy, and to Cambridge University Press for their cooperation.
