

Index

- Abbott, Kenneth W.
 on international regimes and international organizations, 49
- Andresen, Steinar
 on effectiveness of regimes, 94
- Baxter, Richard R.
 on role of lawyers, 7
- Bederman, David J.
 on importance of procedural rules, 237
 theory of norms, 115
- Beyerlin, Ulrich
 typology of norms, 108, 110–13
- Blokker, Niels M.
 international organizations defined, 42, 48
- Bodansky, Daniel
 definition of norms, 107–8, 111–12, 114–16
 theory of force, 123–4
 three dimensions of evolution, 28
 on treaty amendment, 247
- Bos, Maarten
 general concept and normative concept of law distinguished, 105–6
 on international law sources, 105
- Brown Weiss, Edith
 international regime compliance study, 92–3
- Brunnée, Jutta
 on constitutional model of international environmental regimes, 237
 on COPs, 44
 on inclusive processes of law-making, 229
 interactional theory of international law, 130–3, 217–19, 237
 on international law sources, 105
- Cancún conference, 82–9
- Chambers, W. Bradnee
 on effectiveness of regimes, 94–8
- Chayes, Abram
 on international regime compliance, 93–4, 115
- Chayes, Antonia Handler
 on international regime compliance, 93–4, 115
- Churchill, Robin R.
 on COPs, 40–3
- climatic change, science of, 58–9
- compliance
 effectiveness see effectiveness of regimes
 Kyoto Protocol compliance mechanism, 164–8
 international environmental regimes, 161–4
 Kyoto Protocol compliance mechanism and general international law, 168–70
- Compliance Committee of the Kyoto Protocol
 chapter summary, 10, 203
 decisions: Canadian national registry, 211–12; Croatia's assigned amount and commitment period reserve, 212–14; eligibility for participation in market mechanisms, 208–10; interactional theory perspective, 218–19
 interpretation methods used by, 207–15
- Conference of the Parties (COP), 39–44
see also Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC)
- consensus theory as to norm creation, 147–8
- consent to adoption of decisions, question as to role of, 217
- constitutionalization in law-making processes, 230–1, 236–8
- constructivist theory of international regimes, 50–2
- Copenhagen conference and Accords, 75–82

- 'creative legal engineering' see effectiveness of regimes
- custom as source of international law, 141–3
- D'Amato, Anthony
 consensus theory as to norm creation, 147
- De Sadeleer, Nicolas
 typology of norms, 110–11
- decision-making procedures, norms distinguished, 49–50
- decisions of international organizations as source of international law, 145–7
- dispute settlement procedures, use of, 163
- Dworkin, Ronald
 theory of norms, 109–10, 112–13, 120
- effectiveness of regimes
 chapter summary, 10, 90–1
 compliance with treaty requirements and objectives, 98–9 international law and, 92–5
 international relations and, 95–7
 'robustness' see 'robustness' of regimes
 strengthening of effectiveness, 102–3
- empirical approach to determining underlying theory of international law, 171–2
- empirical concept of international law, 125–7
- environmental challenges overviewed, 12
- Epiney, Astrid
 typology of norms, 111
- evolutionary process
 analytical focus on, 1
 analytical framework, 4–9
 international environmental regimes see Framework Convention on Climate Change; international environmental regimes as legal process, 2
 norm creation see norms
 three dimensions of (Bodansky), 30
- Fastenrath, Ulrich
 on customary law, 141
 on grammatical interpretation, 204
 on sources of international law, 134, 138
 theories of international law, 121
 theory of force, 124
- Fitzmaurice, Malgosia
 on non-compliance mechanisms, 168–9
- force, theories of, 123–4
- Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC)
 amendment of, 188–9, 195
- amendment procedures, simplification of, 220–2
- basis for enforcement, 218
- Cancún conference, 82–9
- Conference of the Parties (COP): consent to adoption of decisions, question as to role of, 217; decisions as source of legal norms, 193–4; interactional theory perspective on decisions, 218–19; norm creation, 181–2; parties' prerogative in decision-making, 198–9; first ten sessions, 65–70; and underlying theories of international law, 199; understanding of decisions, 194–8
- Copenhagen conference and Accord: overview of, 75–82; principles in negotiations prior to, 226–8; 'taking note' of Accord, 199–201; understanding of 'taking note', 201–2
- drafting process, 62–5
- effectiveness, 98–9, 102–3
- entry into force, 63
- evolution of international environmental regime, 2–4
- key provisions, 63–5
- Kyoto Protocol see Kyoto Protocol negotiations for further agreement, 70–89, 173
- overview of principles, 224–6
- rules of procedure, 232–6
- procedural norms, role of, 241–4
- ratification, 63
- regulatory approach, 31–2
- reservations to, 248
- robustness, 99–101
 as source of international law, 247
 'taking note', understanding of, 201–2
 underlying theory of international law, 202, 215
 understanding of treaties, 184–6
 understanding of amendments, 188–9
 unity of primary and secondary rules, 160–1
- Franck, Thomas M.
 on effectiveness of regimes, 94
- Fuller, Lon
 interactional theory of international law, 131–2
 theory of norms, 112
- game theory
 application of, 12–14
 'prisoner's dilemma', 14–15
- Gehring, Thomas
 on constitutional model of treaty-systems, 237
 on international regimes and international organizations, 48–9, 55

- on use of dispute settlement procedures, 163
- general principles of law as source of international law, 143–4
- Hafner, Gerhard
  - on fragmentation of international law, 154–5
- Hart, H. L. A.
  - theory of norms, 115, 129
- Hey, Ellen
  - on effectiveness of regimes, 94
- ideals and principles distinguished, 112–13
- inclusiveness in law-making processes, 229–31
- interactional theory of international law
  - COP/CMP decisions, 218–19
  - overview of, 130–3
- international climate regime
  - analytical framework, 7–9
  - chapter summary, 9
  - developments since Cancún conference, 239–44
  - early developments, 59–62
  - effectiveness of see effectiveness of regimes
  - evolutionary process overviewed, 2–4
  - as example of international environmental regime, 245–6
  - Framework Convention see Framework Convention on Climate Change
  - non-legal sources of norms: ‘taking note’ of Copenhagen Accord, 199–201; understanding of ‘taking note’, 201–2
  - overview of principles, 224–6
  - and principles of general international law, 228–31
  - procedural norms: and basic theory of international law, 236–7; decision-making rules, 233–6; procedural rules, 231–3; role of procedural norms, 241–4, 249
  - prospects for further developments, 237–8, 247–9
  - purpose of, 160
  - purpose of current study, 245
  - regulation with unity of primary and secondary norms, 160–1
  - science of climatic change, 58–9
  - simplified amendment procedures, 220–2, 240–1, 248–9
  - as special regime, 160
  - theoretical framework applied to, 152
  - treaties: amendments as source of legal norms, 187; as source of legal norms, 183–4; and underlying theories of international law, 189–93; understanding of, 184–6; understanding of amendments, 188–9; underlying theory of international law; climate regime as special regime, 170–1; Compliance Committee decisions and proceedings as indicator of, 173–80; determination of, 153, 171; empirical approach to determining, 171–2; implications of change of, 216–17, 219; implications of shift of focus between different kind of norms, 224; and international law sources, 172; interpretation of treaties and decisions, 215; interrelated theories, 247; negotiations for new climate change instrument as indicator of, 173; no change in, 239–40; treaties and treaty amendments, 189–93
- international cooperation
  - analytical approaches to, 12–14
  - theories of, 12–19
- International Court of Justice (ICJ), Statute of, list of recognised sources of international law, 137–8
- international environmental law, role of, 22–4
- international environmental regimes
  - analytical framework, 4–9
  - analytical structure, 9–10
  - centrality of law, 2
  - chapter summary, 9, 11
  - concept of, 11
  - constructivist theory of, 50–2
  - effectiveness see effectiveness of regimes
  - environmental challenges addressed by, 12
  - evolution of see evolutionary process
  - importance of, 245
  - international cooperation, theories of, 12–19
  - international environmental law, role of, 22–4
  - international law in relation, 11
  - international organizations
    - distinguished, 47–9
  - in international relations theory
    - see* international relations theory
  - legal theoretical approach to, 54–7
  - meaning of, 1
  - MEAs see multilateral environmental agreements (MEAs)
  - non-compliance mechanisms, 161–4
  - norms see norms
- international institutions
  - definition of, 32–3

- international institutions (cont.)
 in international law, 33–6
 international regimes distinguished, 47–9
 and MEAs, 36–9
- international law
 change in perception of, 248
 constitutionalization, 230–1, 235–8 definitional issues, 118–20
 effectiveness of regimes, 92–5
 fragmentation into specialized regimes, 153–6
 function of, 19–22
 inclusive processes of law-making, 229–31
 international environmental regimes in relation, 11
 norms see norms
 self-contained regimes, 156–7
 special regimes, 158–9
- international law sources
 accepted sources, 247
 chapter summary, 10, 202
 concept of, 134–6
 custom as source, 141–3
 decisions of international organizations
 as source, 145–7
 determination of underlying theory of
 international law, 172
 general principles of law as source, 143–4
 implications of new sources, 222–3
 list of recognised sources (ICJ Statute), 137–8
 non-legal sources: ‘taking note’, 199–201;
 understanding of ‘taking note’, 201–2 ‘producer’s approach’, 105 role of, 133–4
 theoretical approaches, 105
 treaties as sources, 138–40
 types of sources, 138
 UN General Assembly decisions as source, 145–7
 unilateral declarations as source, 144–5, 223
- international law theory
 applied to international climate regime
see international climate regime
 basic theory, 105
 chapter summary, 10
 empirical concept, 125–7
 general concept and normative concept
 distinguished, 105–6
 interactional theory, 130–3
 international cooperation, 12–14
 logical positivism, 127–8
 natural law concepts, 122–3
- New Haven approach, 129–30
 multiplicity of theories, 106
 positivist theories, 124–9
 theories of force, 123–4
 theories of recognition, 128–9
 theories overviewed, 120–2
 underlying theory applied to climate regime see international climate regime
- international relations theory
 effectiveness of regimes, 95–7
 international regimes and international organizations distinguished, 47–9
 and MEAs generally, 44–5
 regime theory in relation, 45–7
- Jacobson, Harold K.
 international regime compliance study,
 92–3
- Johnston, Douglas M.
 on international environmental regimes,
 55
- Kelsen, Hans
 ‘legal dispute’ defined, 175
 Grundnorm, 128
- Keohane, Robert O.
 constructivist theory of international
 regimes, 51
- Kjellén, Bo
 on inclusive processes of law-making, 229
- Klabbers, Jan
 on definition of international organizations, 33
 typology of norms, 110–11
- Koskenniemi, Martti
 on fragmentation of international law, 155
- Krasner, Stephen D.
 on international regimes and
 international organizations, 48
 norms, principles rules and decision-making procedures distinguished,
 49–50
- Kyoto Protocol
 amendment of, 76, 84–9, 187–9, 195, 239, 242–3, 248
 amendment procedures, simplification
 of, 220–2, 240–1
 assigned amount decision, 212–14 bindingness of decisions of the Compliance Committee, 178–9
 commitment period reserve decision, 212–14
 Compliance Committee see Compliance
 Committee of the Kyoto Protocol decision-making rules, 233–5

- effectiveness, 98–9, 102–3
 non-compliance mechanism, 164–8
 entry into force, 70
 further commitments under, 182–3
 implementation decisions, 68–70
 importance for study, 8–9
 key provisions, 67–8
 legal form of, 117
 Marrakech Accords ('Kyoto rule book'),
 9, 69–70
 Meeting of the parties (CMP): decisions as source of legal norms, 193–4; parties'
 prerogative in decision-making, 198–9;
 and underlying theories of international law, 199; understanding of decisions, 194–8
 negotiations on, 40, 181
 overview of principles, 224–6
 party eligibility, suspension of, 168–70
 rules of procedure, 233–6
 ratification, 68–70
 regulatory approach, 31–2
 replacement of, 183–4
 reservations to, 248
 robustness, 99–101
 as source of international law, 247
 underlying theory of international law, 202, 215
 understanding of treaties, 184–6
 understanding of amendments, 188–9
 unity of primary and secondary rules, 160–1
- Lang, Winfried
 on international regimes and
 international organizations, 48–50, 56
 on treaty-making process, 9
- Lasswell, Harold D.
 theory of norms, 129–30
- lawyers, role of, 7
- Lefeber, René
 on non-compliance mechanisms, 164
 'legal dispute', Kelsen's definition of, 175
- Leino, Päivi
 on fragmentation of international law, 155
- Levy, Marc A.
 on effectiveness of regimes, 96
- logical positivism and international law, 127–8
- Marrakech accords ('Kyoto rule book'), 9, 69–70
- McDougal, Myres S.
 theory of norms, 129–30
- Meeting of the parties to the Protocol (CMP)
see Kyoto Protocol
- Müller, Benito
 on unilateral declarations, 223
- multilateral environmental agreements
 (MEAs)
 compliance see effectiveness of regimes
 Conference of the Parties (COP),
 39–44
 evolutionary nature of, 27–8
 international organizations, 36–9
 international regime, 1
 in international relations theory
see international relations theory
 issue-specific approach to regulation, 25–7
 purpose of, 229
 regulatory approaches, 28–32
 as treaties, 24–5
see also Framework Convention on Climate Change; Kyoto Protocol
- natural law concepts of international law, 122–3
- negotiations for new climate change
 instrument
 as indicator of underlying theory of
 international law, 173
 overview of, 70–89
- New Haven approach to international law, 129–30, 136, 207
- non-compliance mechanisms
see compliance
- norms
 bindingness of, 104
 chapter summary, 10, 104–7
 consensus theory as to creation, 147–8 consenting to adoption of, 192
 creation as evolutionary process, 2, 6–7, 246
 decision-making procedures
 distinguished, 49
 definition of, 107–8
 effectiveness of see effectiveness of
 regimes
 legal nature of, 113–18
 normative system overviewed, 148–51
 principles distinguished, 49–50
 procedural norms see international climate regime
 in regime theory, 49–50
 regime theory and norm creation, 52–3
 rules distinguished, 49–50
 sources of see international law sources system of, 104
 theory of see international law theory

- norms (cont.)
 tripartite categorisation (Dworkin), 109–14
 types of, 108
- Oberthür, Sebastian
 constructivist theory of international
 regimes, 51–2
 on international regimes and
 international organizations, 48
 on non-compliance mechanisms, 164
- Onuf, Nicholas Greenwood
 consensus theory as to norm creation, 147
 theory of international law, 129
- Ott, Hermann E.
 on international environmental regimes,
 55–6
 on unilateral declarations, 223
- Palmer, Geoffrey
 on function of international law, 19–20
 on regulatory approaches of MEAs, 29
- party eligibility, suspension under Kyoto
 Protocol, 168–70
- party prerogative in decision-making, 198–9
- policies
 as norms, 109–13
- positivist theories of international law,
 124–9
- Preuß, Ulrich K.
 on inclusive processes of law-making, 230
- principles
 ideals distinguished, 112–13
 as norms, 109–12
 norms distinguished, 49–50
 policies distinguished, 113
- ‘prisoner’s dilemma’ scenario, application
 of, 14–15
- public goods, theory of supply of, 15–17
- Raustiala, Kal
 on international regime compliance, 95–6
- regime theory
 international relations theory in relation, 45–7
 norm creation, 52–3
 norms’ role in, 49–50
- Röben, Volker
 on COPs, 41
 on purpose of international environmental agreements, 229
- ‘robustness’
 as aspect of effectiveness, 97–8 enhancement in international climate regime, 216
 of international climate regime, 99–102
- rules
 as norms, 109–12
 norms distinguished, 49
 policies distinguished, 113
- Sand, Peter H.
 on international environmental regimes,
 55
- Sands, Philippe
 on role of international environmental law, 22
- Schermers, Henry G.
 international organizations defined, 42, 48
- Scheyli, Martin
 typology of norms, 111
- science of climatic change, 58–9
- Simma, Bruno
 consensus theory as to norm creation, 148
 on fragmentation of international law, 155–6
- Skolnikoff, Eugene B.
 on international regime compliance,
 95–6
- special regimes
 international climate regime as
see international climate regime
 within international law, 160–70
- supply of public goods, application of theory of, 15–17
- ‘taking note’
 as source of norms, 199–201
 understanding of, 201–2
- theories of force as to international law, 123–4
- theories of international law
see international law theory
- theories of recognition as to international
 law, 128–9
- Thomasius, Christian
 theory of force, 123
- Tomuschat, Christian
 on consenting to treaty amendments, 192
- ‘tragedy of the commons’, application of, 17–19
- treaties as source of international law, 138–40
- treaty interpretation
 and basic theories of international law, 206–7
 by Compliance Committee, 207–8
 grammatical interpretation, 203–4 historical interpretation, 205
 systematic interpretation, 204–5
 teleological interpretation, 206
 underlying theory of international law, 215
- treaty-making process, 9

- Ulfstein, Geir
 on COPs, 40–4
 underlying theory of international law
   see international climate regime
 unilateral declarations as source of
   international law, 144–5
 United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change see Framework
   Convention on Climate Change
 United Nations General Assembly decisions
   as source of international law, 145–7
- Van Hoof, G. J. H.
 theory of norms, 134
- Verdross, Alfred
 consensus theory as to norm creation, 148
- Verschuuren, Jonathan
 typology of norms, 110–13
- Victor, David G.
 on international regime compliance, 95–6
- Weil, Prosper
 on function of international law, 19–20
 on international law as normative order, 104
 typology of norms, 108
- Wendt, Alexander
 constructivist theory of international
   regimes, 51
- Young, Oran R.
 definition of regimes, 47
 on effectiveness of regimes, 96