Contents

List of figures and table               page x
List of extracts                                    xi
Preface                                              xiii
Acknowledgements                                     xiv

1 Introduction                                             1

2 Developmental pragmatics and conversation analysis   15
  Some background considerations                      15
  Social-action and social life: conversation analysis and ethnomethodology  21
  Membership categorisation analysis (MCA)            23
  Sequence-focused CA&E                               25
  Concluding comments                                 27

3 Child-focused conversation analysis                  28
  Introduction                                         28
  Children and membership                             29
  Child-CA studies: a brief review                     31
  Children, conversation and ‘seeing thoughts’        42
  Concluding comments                                 45

4 A psychoanalytic reading of early social relations  46
  Introduction                                         46
  Psychoanalysis and Freud’s structural theory of the mind  48
  Freud and early social relations                     52
  Melanie Klein                                        53
  Projective identification and object-relations      56
  Donald Winnicott                                     58
  Winnicott and the transitional space                 61
  Concluding comments                                 62

5 Repression and displacement in everyday talk-in-interaction  64
  Introduction                                         64
  Ethnomethodology, conversation analysis, local-order and members’ methods  66
  Conversation analysis and methodic social practice  67
  Adjacency pairs in conversation: the talk unfolds two-by-two  68

vii
Table of Contents

vi Contents

- The problem with the ‘problem of order’ 71
- Concluding comments 82

6 Research practices and methodological objects 84

- Introduction 84
- Intrinsic vs. extrinsic research processes 85
- Events, records, data and interpretation 90
- CA&E, participant orientation and unique adequacy 93
- The case-study as methodology in early social relations 94
- The context of the recordings 95
- Participants 96
- Format of recordings and data transformation 97
- Analysis and data accessibility 97
- CA transcription conventions 98
- A sample extract and analysis 99
- Some possible constraints on the unique adequacy requirement 102
- Concluding comments 104

7 Learning how to repair 106

- Introduction 106
- An overview of the incidence and form of repair 108
- Tracing the emergence of self-repair skills 109
- Concluding comments 125

8 Learning what not to say: repression and interactive vertigo 129

- Introduction 129
- Avoidance, displacement and repression: some examples 131
- Concluding comments 151

9 A question of answering 154

- Introduction 154
- Analysis examples 156
- Concluding comments 173

10 Interaction and the transitional space 175

- Introduction 175
- The transitional space 176
- Analysis examples 179
- Emerging disagreement 194
- Concluding comments 199

11 Self-positioning, membership and participation 201

- Introduction 201
- Membership and mastery of language 202
- Half-membership status 204
- Reflexively accountable communication 207
- Early self-reference and membership categorisation 211
- Membership categories, role status and rights 214
- Competencies and membership categorisation 217
Contents

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Chapter</th>
<th>Pages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Reflexivity, accountability and subject positioning through membership categorisation</td>
<td>221</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Concluding comments</td>
<td>225</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Discourses of the self and early social relations</td>
<td>227</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Introduction</td>
<td>227</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Analysis examples</td>
<td>229</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Monitoring the discourses of the self: orienting to third-person reference</td>
<td>240</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Discourse of the self, identification and captivation (by/of) the image</td>
<td>244</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Concluding comments</td>
<td>255</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Social practice and psychological affect</td>
<td>257</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Appendix</td>
<td>268</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>References</td>
<td>270</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Index</td>
<td>282</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>