Index

Africa, 424
Africanisms, 428
advanced tongue root (ATR) vowel harmony, 433 affirmative answers to negative questions, 436 anastasis, 434
clefting constructions, 434 conceptualization strategies, 435 diphthongs, 432
European-based pidgins and creoles, 430 genetic origin, 431
ideophones, 433
implosives, 432
Khoisan languages, 431
labio-dental flaps, 432 lack of case inflections, 433 lack of consonant clusters, 432 nominal polysemy, 434
‘foot’ and ‘leg’, 436
‘hand’ and ‘arm’, 436
‘meat’ and ‘animal’, 436 open syllables, 432
reduplication, 433
SVO word order, 433
various proposals, 430
word classes, 433
word-initial prenasalized consonants, 432 areal groupings within Africa, 425 assessments as linguistic area, 437 grammaticalization areas, 438 summary, 440
distribution of typological properties in world regions, 438 Ethiopian language area, 427 geographically defined language groupings, 424
Kalahari Basin, 428
Khoeisan phylum (Greenberg), 425
Macro-Sudan Belt, 428
Niger-Congo, 425
Nilo-Saharan phylum (Greenberg), 425 phonological zones
Central Africa, 426
East Africa, 426
North Africa, 426
Rift Valley, 426
South Africa, 426
Sudanic Belt, 426
Rift Valley convergence area, 425
Sudanic languages, 428
Tanzanian Rift Valley area, 427, 465 verb-initial syntax, 425 West Africa, 425
word order, 425
VSO languages, 425
Anatolia, East, 396
as a transitional zone, 397 geography, 396
language varieties, 399
morphosyntax
clitic additive, 407
comparatives, 403
copular constructions, 404
Arabic dialects, 405
Iranian languages, 404
NENA dialects, 406
marking addressee of verbs of speech, 412
word order, 408
direct objects and goals, 410 Semitic languages, 409
shift from VO to OV, 409 North Eastern Neo-Aramaic (NENA), 396
phonology, 401
Kurdish, 403
Semitic languages, 403
voice onset time, 402
vowel systems, 401
sociolinguistic situation, 398 spread versus residual zone, 397 status as linguistic area, 412
Mesopotamian region, 416
evaluation, 418
finite subjunctive modal complements, 414 indicative/progressive prefix, 414
Mesopotamian region, 416
pan-Anatolian features, 419
Index

areas and universals, 40 areal signals in Eurasia, 47
assessment, 49
frequencies of features, 41 methods of analysis, 45
Predictive Areality Theories, 44
Generalized Linear Models, 45 role of universal forces, 41 triggers of language change, 42 functional, 42
event-based, 43
Australia, 732
languages
history, 732
scholarly standpoints, 738 lack of phonological differentiation, 733 non-identical lexical correspondences, 735
Pama-Nyungan and non-Pama-Nyungan, 734 Pilbara
colonial settlement, 741 Pilbara languages, 738
alignment shift, 748
assessment, 749
classification, 739
common features
shared inheritance, 743 expected shared replacements, 751 genetic relationship and language contact, 751 innovation of accusative alignment, 747 innovations in pronouns and demonstratives, 744 lexical differences, 742 multilingual contact, 741 paradigm reflexives of demonstratives, 746 pronoun paradigms, 742
shared inheritance, 743
reconstructed demonstrative stems, 745 relative salience, 749 role of social factors, 750 sound change, 740
structural isomorphism in Lemerig and Koro, 750 switch-reference, 748
verbal systems, 740
Punctuated Equilibrium model, 736
Balkans
genealogical groups, 66 historical documentation, 66 indefinitive, 76
Britain and Ireland
areality, 270
caveats, 271
Celtic, 289
aspect, 291
category and exponence, 293 habitual, 292
immediate perfective, 292 resultative perfective, 292
Brythonic, 279, 286
Celtic hypothesis, 280
cleft sentences, 290
early contact
assessment, 286
extended ‘now’, 290
later contact
assessment, 294
over-use of definite article, 289 subordinating ‘and’, 290 historical dimension, 280 dental fricatives, 285 development of possessive, 283 internal possessor construction, 281 twofold paradigm of ‘to be’, 282 Northern Subject Rule, 279 rise of periphrastic do, 284 English
diagnostic value of features, 275 historical sociolinguistics, 273 remnants of former distributions, 274 NURSE/TERM distinction, 274 SERVE-lowering, 275
vowel epenthesis, 275
textual record, 272
geography and political divisions, 271 language change constraint hierarchies, 278 degrees of manifestation, 277 internal motivation, 276 issues, 276
lenition, 277
low-contact areas, 287
Caucasus, 356
contact scenarios, 360
defining Caucasus as a linguistic area, 356 divergence and convergence, 357 historic settlement, 360 historical sociolinguistic situation, 366 isolated communities, 363 languages of the wider Caucasus, 358 Northeast Caucasian (NEC), 357
Northwest Caucasian (NWC), 357 South Caucasian (SC), 357 multilingualism, 363
phonology
areal typology, 366
assessment, 387
consonant clusters, 382 inventory sizes, 368, 369
l laterals, 379
nasalization, 378
palatalization, 381
pharyngealization, 380
phonation contrasts, 372 ejectives, 374
phonetic realization, 383 place of articulation, 375 labialization, 377
pharyngeals, 377
uvulars, 376
pockets of areality, 378
sibilants, 380
sound frequencies, 382
structure and occurrence of features, 368
voice onset time, 385
vowel inventories, 370
commonalities and overlapping, 372 physical geography, 365 population genetics and migrations, 362 reasons for structural similarities, 359 vertical archipelago phenomenon, 363
Index

China, 651
Altaic, 653
areal diffusion in East and Southeast Asia, 658 Austroasiatic, 655
Austronesian, 654
features of Southeast Asian languages, 657 Gansu-Qinghai, 651
Guangxi, 651
Hmong-Mien, 654
Hunan, 651
Language Atlas of China, 655
linguistic areas, 660
Central Transitional zone, 660 Far Southern, 660
Northern, 660
Southeastern, 660
Southwestern, 660
linguistic demography, 652 Sinitic languages, 655
analytic structure, 657 geographical spread, 656 grammaticalization pathways, 659 Northern/Southern division, 658 feature tendencies, 658 Hashimoto’s dichotomy, 659 numbers of speakers, 656 preference for monosyllabicity, 657 word order typology, 660 Sino-Tibetan, 652
status of Standard Mandarin (pǔtōnghuà), 656 studies of language contact, 661 gender affixes in languages in Nanning, Guangxi, 665 Herbei, 663
verb-recipient-theme, 665
Hunan, Central China, 666
Hmong languages, 667
Southwestern Mandarin
guest language (kēhuà), 667 Xianghua, 667
archaic features, 669
differential object marking, 670 polarity comparative, 669 northwestern China, 661 case markers, 663
SOV word order, 662
southern China
Tai substratum in Yue, 664 subordinator markers in languages in Nanning, Guangxi, 666
Tai-Kadai, 654
English, varieties of, 304 areal patterns, 307
eWAVE
Africa, 305
America, 305
Australia, 306
British Isles, 305
Canada
Newfoundland, 309
Caribbean, 305
sub-varieties, 307
Pacific, 306
South and Southeast Asia, 306
South Atlantic, 306
varieties contained, 305 high/low-contact varieties, 307
morphosyntax
areality, 312
assessment, 328
diagnostic features, 310, 311 adverbial subordination, 320 adverbs and prepositions, 321 agreement, 319
complementation, 320
counterfactuals, 317
diagnostic areal features, 322 discourse and word order, 321 modal verbs, 315
negation, 318
noun phrase, 314
pronouns, 312
relativization, 319
tense and aspect, 315
verb morphology, 316
distribution by region, 325 smaller-scale areal patterns, 326 strength of the geographical signal, 326 synopsis, 322
domains of grammar, 309 pidgins and creoles, 307 typology, 307
NeighborNet diagram, 309
ERIC loans (‘essentially rooted in conversation’), 68
Ethnologue, 667, 758
EUROTYPO, 72
Germanic languages
areality, 239
Afrikaans, 249
assessment, 258
Circum-Baltic area, 246 contact with Finno-Ugric, 250 contact with Romance languages, 251 contact with Semitic, 249
Yiddish, 250
English and North Germanic, 245
English-Irish contact, 249
French-Frankish contact, 254 Frisian, 247
contacts with Dutch, 247
German contact with Romanian, 254 Germanic contact with Balto-Slavic, 255
Baltendeutsch, 255
Halbdeutsch, 255
Russian German, 256
Germanic contact with Celtic, 254 do periphrasis, 255
Germanic contact with Indo-Aryan, 256
Anglo-Romani, 256
Stadsvries, 256
Germanic contact with other languages, 257 Ingvaeonic features, 242 internal considerations, 243
Low German in Norwegian, 245 Luxembourgeois, 254
mixed languages, 243
non-Germanic contacts, 249
Old Norse, 244
Romance character of English, 252
Scandinavian Low German, 246 Germanic languages (cont.)
status of languages, 242
Viking contact with English, 243
West Germanic contacts, 247

Jharkhand, 551
areal features
accusative alignment, 555 numeral classifiers, 555 eastern-central South Asia areality ‘from’ and ‘to’, 558
’start’ versus ‘keep on’, 557 alienable versus inalienable possession, 556 anticipatory categories, 559
assessment, 569
convergence patterns, 569 genitive, 561
lexicon, 556
new dual category, 561
eastern-central South Asia as a convergence area, 556 eastern-central South Asia in the larger context, 354 Indo-Aryan–Munda convergence, 553 languages of area, 551
Indo-Aryan, 552
Munda, 553
Sadri existential/locative copula, 568
Sadri identificational copula, 568
Santali existential/locative copula, 566, 567
South Asian convergence area, 579

Kalahari Basin, 500
‘Khosian’ families, 500 typological profile, 502, 504 discussion of areality, 515 feature summary, 515
features shared by other local languages, 518
lexicon, 505
borrowing patterns, 506
isoglosses, 509
polysemic, 507
morphosyntax, 509
associative plurals, 514
clause-second elements, 512 multipurpose oblique, 513 multi-verb construction(s), 510 simple attributive numerals, etc., 513 verb serialization, 509
phonology
isoglosses, 504
previous research, 502
linguistic areas, 19
borrowing versus shift, 241
British Isles, 240
cause-based questions, 69 Chaco region, 19
active–static verb alignment, 30
assessment, 32
directional verbal affixes, 31 further traits, 31
genre, 29
genitive classifiers, 30 lack of verbal tense, 30 set of demonstratives, 30
SVO word order, 29
Charlemagne sprachbund, 71, 74, 253
Circum-Baltic, 240
contact superposition zone, 240 convergence areas, 67 defining concept, 23
defining criteria, 24 number of language families, 25 shared traits, 24
trait bundling, 26
trait weight, 25
trait-sprawl area (TSA), 28
definition, 19, 27, 161, 240 delineational and assessment issues, 75 different types, 22
feature-based issues, 65 Gran Chaco region, 29 have-perfects, 73
interrogating the ‘sprachbund’, 58 language family, 74
language-based issues, 60 levels of language, 243 linguistic area sensu stricto (LASS) definition, 27 linguistic enclaves, 240 origin of term, 57
proposed areas, 19
Balkans, 22
Baltic, 22
Mesoamerica, 22
Northwest Coast of North America, 22 South Asia, 22
reassessment, 55, 80
role of contact, 63
Standard Average European, 240 standards and literary traditions, 79 superstrate, substrate, adstrate, 241 Mainland Southeast Asia, 677
core area, 679
geographical delimitation, 677 greater area, 678
human movement in history, 678
languages, 681
assessment, 691
descriptive studies, 685
distribution, 682
diversity, 682
historical-comparative linguistics, 686 methodologies, 686
morphosyntax–semantics system features, 683
nominal classification, 689 overview of scholarship, 684 perceptions, 688
sesquisyllables, 689
sociolinguistics, 687 sound system features, 682
status as linguistic area, 690 tone phonetics and phonology, 690 types and prototypes, 688 linguistic history, 680 tone, 703
assessment, 721
Austroasiatic, 713
Austronesian, 713
Burmese, 708
characteristics of language families, 712 contact-induced tonogenesis, 718 contrasting tones and phonation types, 711 definition of tone language, 704 domain of contrast, 711
Hmong-Mien, 715
laryngeal features, 709 phonation types, 706
pitch realization, 705
register systems, 707
phonetic correlates, 707
Sino-Tibetan, 714
Tai-Kadai, 715
tone as an areal feature, 719
tonomogenesis, 716
uncommon paths, 717
typology, 704
variation in systems, 705 word shape in tonogenesis, 720 trickle-effect colonization, 680
Melanesia
Eastern, 821
‘aberrant’ Oceanic languages, 824
assessment, 844
Australian, 844
contact-induced change, 836
cultural/linguistic areas of the Pacific, 825 eastern Solomon Islands, 829 indeterminate, 844
influence of non-Oceanic languages, 827 Melanesian languages, 826
New Caledonia, 834
Australian substrate, 836
ergative, 835
possible source, 836 standard account of prehistory, 835
Papua New Guinea and the western Solomon Islands, 828 Papuan, 844
‘pidginization’ hypothesis, 826 Polynesian outliers in Melanesia, 842 post-linguistic areas, 843 ‘pot-and-handle’ loanwords, 839 Proto-Oceanic, 828
quinary numeral systems, 837 rapid internal change, 827 Reef’s Santa Cruz group, 829 serial verb constructions, 836 toponyms, 839
Vanuatu, 830
key features, 830
lack of /p/ in phoneme, 832 lexical replacement, 834 ‘linguistic Melanesianization’ theory, 833 pre-Lapita (Oceanic-speaking) population, 830 Western, 852
areality
lexical and structural elements, 857 areal-linguistic areal features, 870 arguments for a sprachbund, 858, 859 effects of borrowing, 860 historical reasons, 861
assessment, 864
common phonological developments, 861
C-initial and C-final, 862 lack of contrastive voicing, 862 rhotacism and assimilation, 861 common structural features, 858 contact languages, 855
contact-induced change, 855
loans in Micronesian languages Chamorro, 866
Chukese, 867
Palauan, 866
Puluwatase, 867
Woleaian, 867
Yapese, 867
marked shared features, 859 Micronesian area, 853
partial relexification, 869
Proto-Malayo-Polynesian, 857
Proto-Malayo-Polynesian items, 875 rise of sprachbund, 863 structural parallels, 872 transfer in interlingual contact, 874 undiffused features, 874
metatypy, 68, 208, 447, 581, 769, 783, 797, 874
New Guinea, 758
languages
areal studies, 770
areality, 776
investigation and results, 782 morphosyntactic ordering, 777 semantic encoding, 777
Austronesian languages, 758 arrivals in the region, 739 background, 764
Bismarck Archipelago, 775 contact studies, 768
contact-induced change, 784
early settlement, 762 effects of contact, 769 exclusive/inclusive distinction in pronouns, 773 geographical extent, 758 geolinguistic subregions, 763 Papuan and Austronesian populations, 764 key variables
alignment of argument indices, 800 alignment of verbal argument indices, 799 basic tense/mood distinctions in verbal morphology, 801 clause sequences, 795
clause-chaining, 796
clause-chaining, 796
clause-final negators, 793 clusivity and number in free pronouns and gender in pronouns, 804 inalienable and alienable possession constructions, 805 negator position in declarative reals clause, 792 noun/adjective order and noun/demonstrative order, 797 possessor index on nouns, 791 subject and object indices on verbs, 789
switch-reference, 796
tense- and mood-proneminence, 801 verb/object and adposition/NP orders, 787 label ‘Papuan’, 758 lineage symbols, 784 linguistic area status, 774
New Guinea (cont.)

- microgroups within the Trans New Guinea family, 772
- ‘mixed’ (Oceanic/Papuan) languages, 768
- New Guinea Region, 760
- constituent languages, 775
- sVo as salient feature, 789
- Papuan classification, 764
- Papuan lineages
  - East Nusantara and mainland New Guinea, 766
  - northwest island Melanesia, 767
- possible Papuan lineages, 763
- question of lineage, 759
- relatedness discussion, 805
-Sepik-Ramu phylum, 768
- shared inheritance or contact-induced change, 807

- ‘southeast interior’ and ‘northwest coastal’, 771
- Trans New Guinea phylum, 765
- scholarship, 768
- typological clustering, 774
- WALS variables as delimiters of Austronesian and West Papuan, 771
- linguistic diversity, 758
- Sunda and Sahul, 761
- Niger-Congo, 471
  - areal patterns in family, 476
- areal studies of phylum, 490
- Atlantic group, 474
- contact among groups and families, 482
- Bantu-Khoisan contact, 483
- Bantu-Ma’a contact, 484
- Bantu-Nilotic contact, 484
- Benue-Congo–Chadic contact, 483
- impact of Mande languages, 484
- SOV word order, 484
- core area, 473
- distribution of Bantu languages, 473
- distribution of Niger-Congo languages, 472
- genealogical overview, 472
- geographic overview, 475
- Gur, 473
- key features
  - noun class systems, 477
  - SVO word order, 476
  - tone, 476
- Kwa subgroup, 478
- language ideologies
  - general cultural patterns, 488
  - Lower Fungom study, 488
  - local dynamics and areal patterns, 489
- Macro-Sudan Belt, 477
- ATR harmony, 478
- labial-velar stops, 477
- VO-Neg word order, 479
- new urban varieties, 485
- continuity with rural varieties, 487
- Sheng, 486
- Wolof, 485
- peripheral languages, 480
- Atlantic group, 482
  - similarities with Bantu, 482
  - Bantu, 480
  - canonical type, 481
  - conservative morphology, 480

- dynamics of expansion, 480
- interlaustrine languages, 481
- time depth, 481
- Proto-Niger-Congo, 477
- reduced morphology in core area, 482
- role of ecology in areality, 475
- sociocultural dynamics and language ideologies, 485
- spread zones versus accretion zones, 479
- status of Mande group, 474

- Nilo-Saharan, 446
- Central Sudanic, 447
- Central Sudanic–Ubangi contact zone, 450
- discourse markers, 451
- dyad order, 450
- evaluation of areal features, 465
- languages allowing for post-verbal subjects, 461
- marked nominative systems, 466
- Nilotic and Surmic languages, 460
- expansion zones, 462
- Northeastern typological break with Eastern Sudanic, 458
- post-Northeastern contact zone, 453
- converbs, 456
- converbs in Beria, 456
- coverb plus light verb, 457
- number-marking systems, 455
- population movements and areal influence, 458
- pre-Leiterband populations, 458
- river topography, 457
- typological dichotomy, 454
- post-positional particles, 453
- southeastern Eastern Sudanic languages, 462
- (split) ergativity, 447
- subclassification, 447
- subclassification of Eastern Sudanic, 459
- Surmic languages
typological convergence with Omotic, 463
- SVO word order, 450
- the Nilotic borderland, 463
- Datooga cluster, 465
- Kalenjin contact with Bantu
  - structural borrowing, 464
- Luo contact with Bantu, 463
- structural borrowing, 464
- typological convergence, 465
- verb position, 465
- Ubangi languages, 450

- North America
  - linguistic areas, 882
  - Northern California, 886
  - Northwest, 883
  - Plateau, 885
  - Southeast, 887
  - culture area, 889
  - Southwest, 889
- native languages, 878
  - areal boundaries, 880
  - contact areas, 878
  - culture areas, 879
  - inheritance versus contact, 881
  - linguistic profiles, 880
  - nature of contact, 879
  - shared features
  - assessment, 924
  - borrowability, 892
Index

duration of contact, 925 feature strength, 890
grammar
agent/patient systems, 899 alignment, 912, 914
auxiliaries, 919
from posture to aspect, 916 further verbal features, 901 inclusive/exclusive distinction, 898 lexical suffixes, 906 ‘lie’ positionals, 920
locative/directional, 911 means/world and location/direction, 910
negation, 905
postural to aspectual meaning, 923 preaspiration
Northern Europe, 107 radical areal sound patterns, 111 retroflex consonants
South India, 103
shared inheritance, 91
Stone Soup metaphor, 97
tone as an areal feature, 109
Southeast Asia, 110
worldwide distribution, 113 convergence and divergence, 122 word prominence, 161
assessment, 195
Australia
Arnhem Land, 184
deriving patterns, 185
distribution, 191
initial and penultimate stress, 184 innovation or remnant, 191 signs of instability, 189 convergence, 168
North American areas, 175
accent patterns, 182
Clear Lake linguistic area, 175
Northwestern California, 178
Yuman-Takic, 181 dimensions, 162
divergence
Basque, 171
hybridity, 170
loan phonology, 164
tone as an areal feature, 109
theory of change, 166
worldwide distribution, 163
semantics
areal patterns, 204
area-specific lexicalizations, 213 calques, 205
lexico-constructional calquing, 206 lexico-semantic parallels as areality indicators, 208 polysemy calques, 205 causation and mechanisms, 224 conventionalized direction ‘where’-greetings, 227
evaluation, 229
Greater Hindu Kush
calendrical expressions, 220 case study, 215
c0-lexicalized intensifiers (Palula), 222 numerals, 221
pro-forms, 221
shared formulaic expressions, 211
Database of Cross-Linguistic Calquings, 230 Database of Semantic Shifts in the Languages of the World, 229 lexical typology, 230
Siberia indigenous languages, 628 contact, 629
Slavic languages, 331
eastern Baltic region, 336, 338, 341 impersonal passives, 342
language contact
Finnic, 336

phonology
areal sound patterns, 88
Areal Sound Pattern Hypothesis, 98
assessment, 115
contrastive retroflexion, 92
definition, 88
ejective consonants, 101
Caucasus, 101
Pacific Northwest, 101
evolution, 96
final obstruent devoicing, 94 front rounded vowels Europe, 105
glottalized consonants, 92 perceptual magnet effect, 98

© in this web service Cambridge University Press
www.cambridge.org
Slavic languages (cont.)
nominative patient with infinitive, 338 Eurasian linguistic area, 348 palatal/non-palatal contrast, 348 northern frontier, 333
language contact
  German during the Hanse period, 333
  German in the Baltic region, 334 Slavic linguistic areas
  evaluation, 350
southeastern frontier, 331 borrowed lexis, 332
southwestern Slavdom, 343, 347 contact in the Balkans, 343 pleonastic structures, 344 lingua franca, 348
western frontier, 332
language contact, 332
  German into Czech, 332
South Africa, 527
Afrikaans and contact, 531
  associative plurals, 533, 536
diminutives, 535, 537
double negation, 536
the tag ne, 535, 537
Afrikaans borrowings in English, 530
language contact, 532
  German into Czech, 532
South African Indigenous Language Structures database, 952
South American Phonological Inventory database, 952 linguistic areality, 955 long-range language contact and macro-areality, 950 Neighborhood representation of grammatical structures, 945 pre-Columbian trade networks, 950 status of lexical borrowing, 954 typological bisecting the east/west axis of continent, 951 Upper Xingu region, 946
Vasques region, 938
Arawak languages, 942
code-switching, 939
contact-driven grammaticalization, 942 language as emblem of identity, 939
multilingualism, 939
Nadahup languages, 941
restructuring, 940
Western Amazonian area, 951
polygenesis and complex verbal morphology, 951 Andean/Amazonian divide, 952, 953, 965, 969
areal patterns
  noun phrase, 972
  areal distribution of features, 974 modifiers within NP, 973 non-defining features, 975
  NP related issues, 973
  NP structure, 973
areal typology, 967
areal-linguistic studies, 965 Area Intermedia, 966
classification features of Amazonian languages, 968 classification features of the Colombian–Central America area, 969
contact scenarios, 965
Southern South American linguistic area, 953 genealogical diversity, 964
geography
  convergence of noun phrase profiles, 985 ecological zones, 977 incentive factors, 971
  major drainage basins, 976 mobility factors, 972 physical space, 976
  regions, locations and sample languages, 978
relativization, 980, 981
river systems, 979
riverine areas, 984
riverine features, 986, 987 discussion, 990
language sample, 991 role of rivers in language development, 978 smaller regions, 979
historical records, 964 phono-areality, 953
regional diffusion zones in lowland South America, 948 rivers, 964
South American Indigenous Language Structures database, 952
South American Phonological Inventory database, 952

© in this web service Cambridge University Press
www.cambridge.org
Index

1005 typological feature distributions, 965

Western South American linguistic area, 953
Sri Lanka and South India, 575 classification of Sri Lanka, 577 case systems, 579
common grammatical features, 578 Kaffir population, 578
South-South Asia (SSA), 577
Sri Lanka Malay, 577
Sri Lanka Portuguese, 577 status of Sinhala, 577
Vedda languages, 578 influence of Dravidian, 576
grammar, 576
phonology, 576
multilingualism and language contact, 580 typological considerations, 582 typology and ecology, 583
Standard Average European, 246, 253

Transeurasia, 586
assessment, 618
delimiting areality, 612 deviations from the prototype, 613 diffused versus inherited features, 615 isolated position of Japanese, 616 isomorphism, 618
maximal coherence in Mongolic and Tungusic, 616 prototypical Transeurasian, 616 recurrent grammaticalization, 617 reduction of features in Korean and Japanese, 617 family tree, 617
feature values, 611
grammaticalization, 603 direct insubordination, 603 first person pronoun augmented with a collective-plural marker, 609 negative verb to verbal negator, 606 lexicon and semantics, 592 inclusive/exclusive first person plural pronouns, 594 non-verbal strategy with (extra-family) verbal borrowing, 592 partial emphatic reduplication of nominal property words, 596 property words can show switched encoding, 596 property words may be verbally or nominally encoded, 595 two-way proximal/distal distinction in demonstrative pronouns, 593 morphology, 596

absence of obligatory numeral classifiers, 597 agglutination, 596
mi-Ti opposition in first versus second person singular pronouns, 598 secondary oblique stem of personal pronouns, 599 suffixal inflectional morphology, 597 overview, 610
phonology, 588
absence of complex tonal distinctions, 589 absence of initial consonant clusters, 591 absence of initial r-, 591 absence of initial velar nasal, 591 polysyllabic root structure, 588 presence of vowel harmony, 589 tongue root vowel harmony, 590 voice distinction for stops, 592 syntax, 600
ablative case form to encode predicative comparison, 602 extensive use of converbs, 601 genitive-noun / adjective-noun phrase order, 600 locative existential construction to encode predicative possession, 602
SOV word order, 600

World Atlas of Linguistic Structures (WALS), 44, 48, 73, 89, 92, 100, 105, 688, 771, 776