INDEX

accountability
ad hoc international legal regulation as basis for, 151, 187, 223 aid agreement provision, 209, 212 best practice in relation, 9 contextual sensitivity and, 9, 11, 52, 53, 84–5, 101, 175, 187, 236 electoral fraud, 173, 174, 186 framework for, 50–1
human rights law as basis for, 101, 104, 187 international law in relation to, 4, 79–80, 140, 230, 234 rule of law and, 19
security sector reform, 194
transitional justice and, 18
UN Security Council, 192
ad hoc international legal regulation.
See aid agreements; peace processes; UN Security Council; international law Afghanistan
accountability framework, 50–1
aid agreements, 216–21
assistance model of intervention, 27–8
author’s analytical approach, 151
choice as case study, 7–8
consultation with local communities, 47–8 direct popular input into decision-making communication of public opinion, 178–85 consultation, 175–8

economic reconstruction, 20–1
elections
ban on media reporting, 48–9 elections of 2004 and 2005, 168–72
elections of 2009 and 2010, 172–4
international legal framework, relevance of, 174–5 peace agreement framework, 163–5 structuring of election process, 167–8 traditional mechanisms, 165–6
governance reform, 17–18
government authority, 23–4
historical context for reconstruction, 151–9 identification of interim government, 159–63
international legal framework, relevance of, 185–7
peace process, 22–3, 205–7
popular governance practice summarised, 228–30
private contractors, 28–9
rule of law, 19
security sector reform, 16, 27–8, 47–8
Sierra Leone contrasted, 8–9
stability, 8–9
transitional justice, 17, 18
UN Security Council resolutions, 195–7
African human rights law. See human rights law

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org
aid agreements
role of, 208–10
suitability as source of regulation, 221–3
American and European human rights systems compared, 112–15 assistance model direct international administration compared, 6–7 domestic government autonomy, 29
examples of, 26
focus on, 6
international involvement in, 26–30 popular governance and, 30 trusteeship compared, 6
best practice
accountability as motivation for, 9
contextual sensitivity and, 3, 53, 91 contextualized approach to reconstruction, 41 co-ordination amongst international actors, 41
elections, 84, 89
focus on, 3, 5, 225
identifying general political authority, 31 international law as hindrance, 223 international law as motivation, 116, 149, 223, 228, 238 light touch approach to regulation as motivation, 235 literature on, 40–1, 236 local ownership of reconstruction, 42–3 popular governance in relation generally, 232 recommendations, 10
recommendations for effective reconstruction, 40–3
self-determination and, 79 women’s involvement in decision-making, 42 women’s needs, 41–2
INDEX

economy
priority for reconstruction, 20–1

effectiveness approaches to assessment of, 40–1
author’s analytical approach, 32 best-practice recommendations for, 40–3 contextual awareness in relation to, 41 international law in local context, 47–52 popular governance as aid to, 43–5 popular governance as barrier to, 45–7, 53 popular governance in relation to, 52–3

elections
best practice, 89
credibility of international involvement, 48–9 governments’ scope to limit, 86–9 requirement under international law, 84–5 right to participate in, 85–6 European and Inter-American human rights systems compared, 112–15 flexibility. See contextual sensitivity

funding
international sources of, 28 governance. See also popular governance definition of, 17–18

priority for reconstruction, 17–18
governments
accountability frameworks, 50–1 autonomy in relation to assistance model, 29 best practice for identifying general political authority, 31 compliance mechanisms, removal of governmental status, 102 decision-making on reconstruction, 23–4 human rights compliance. See human rights law identification of interim government. See identification of interim government primary role in decision-making, 25, 30 self-interest. See self-interest human rights law

African regional instruments and international law compared compliance mechanisms, 111–12 derogation and limitation clauses, 109–11 stringency of regulation generally, 108 substantive provisions, 108–9
author’s analytical approach, 82–4
compliance mechanisms
acculturation, 105–6
coercion, 105–6
generally, 101–2, 116
implications for post-conflict setting, 106–7 international judicial responses, 104–5 law of state responsibility, 102–4 persuasion, 105–6
removal of governmental status, 102 social mechanisms, 105–6 creation of political representation infrastructure, 91–2, 115 derogation clause
relevance of, 99–101
statement of, 98–9
European and Inter-American systems compared, 112–15 freedom of assembly, 94 freedom of association, 94 freedom of expression, 92–3 governments’ scope for evasion, 116
governments’ scope to limit, 86–9 ‘light touch’ approach, 115 limitation clause nature of, 96–7
purpose of, 98
relevance of, 97–8
human rights law (cont.)
mandate for direct popular input into governance, 89–91, 115
relevance of, 94–6
identification of interim government appropriateness in local context, 80–1 appropriateness of international law as to, 78–80
author’s analytical approach, 57–8 domestic actors with governmental status, 58, 78 impact on reconstruction, 80–1 inclusive decision-making. See popular governance Inter-American and European human rights systems compared, 112–15
interim governments. See governments international actors, best practice as to co-ordination, 41 international administration case for direct administration, 30
decision-making on reconstruction, 25–30 direct administration compared with assistance model, 6–7
examples of, 26
motivations for, 25–6
self-determination and, 58. See self-determination trusteeship compared with, 6 International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights. See human rights law international judicial bodies contextual sensitivity, 237 human rights compliance mechanisms, 104–5 international law
ad hoc international legal regulation options for, 191–2, 231
suitability as source of regulation, 223–4 appropriateness, question of, 3, 4, 9 credibility in local context, 47–52
focus on, 4–5
framework for popular governance, 51–2, 53, 226–8 hindrance for best practice, 223 human rights. See human rights identification of interim government. See identification of interim government jus post bellum. See jus post bellum motivation for best practice, 116, 149, 223, 228, 238 need for framework, 4–5 relevancy of, factors for, 238–9 international law. See also aid agreements; peace processes; UN Security Council intervention
state sovereignty and, 60–2 judicial bodies. See international judicial bodies jus post bellum
focus on, 4, 225
key issues summarised, 234–6 legitimacy
author’s analytical approach, 32
definition of, 32–3
factors of, 33
popular governance in relation to, 37–40, 52–3 questions of, 33–7
light touch approach to regulation. See also contextual sensitivity appropriateness of, 121, 133, 144, 166, 174, 182, 183, 228, 230, 235 correction, scope for, 83
contextual sensitivity and, 148, 185, 235 discretion as to international legal response, 147, 174, 180, 185
elections, 186
governments’ exploitation of, 107
human rights, 101, 113, 115, 116, 143, 180 international legal framework generally, 10 motivation for best practice, 235
peace processes, 199
responsible exercise of authority, 238
self-determination and, 160, 232 local involvement. See popular governance

peace processes
decision-making on reconstruction, 22–3 nature of peace agreements, 199–201 stages of, 22–3
suitability as source of regulation, 207–8 political authority. See governments popular governance
accountability frameworks, 50–1, 53
aiding reconstruction, 43–5, 52–3 assistance model and, 30
author’s analytical approach, 225–6 barriers to, 2–3
best practice. See best practice best practice in relation generally, 232 contextualised approach to, 3, 47–8 definition of ‘governance’, 2
focus on, 1–2, 225
hindering reconstruction, 45–7, 53 human rights and. See human rights law international law and. See international law key issues summarised, 232–3 legitimacy in relation to, 52–3 mandate for governance. See popular mandate mechanisms for, 9
positive impact of, 2
processes of, 2
women’s involvement, 42 popular mandate creation of. See elections
focus on, 9
population
definition of, 2–3
post-conflict reconstruction
author’s analytical approach, 10–11, 15
best practice. See best practice decision-making. See ‘decision-making’
definition of, 2
definition of ‘reconstruction’, 15 effectiveness of. See effectiveness
examples of, 1
international law and. See international law; human rights law legitimacy of. See legitimacy popular involvement in. See popular governance time sensitivity of, 57
priority areas for, 16 reasons for, 1
regulatory framework. See international law post-conflict situations assistance model. See assistance model case studies. See case studies
definition of, 5–6
identification of, 5–6
variety of, 3, 4
private contractors
role of, 28–9
programme-level decision making, 24–5 public opinion. See popular governance reconstruction. See post-conflict reconstruction resolutions. See UN Security Council right to wage war
state sovereignty and, 59–60
rule of law
definition of, 19
priority for reconstruction, 19–20
security
assistance model of intervention, 27–8 effectiveness of reform, 47–8
priority for reconstruction, 16–17
Security Council. See UN Security Council self-determination appropriateness of international law on, 79, 148, 234 best practice and, 79
contextualised approach to, 48–9
definition of, 66–7
focus on, 10
implications for post-conflict setting, 232, 237 international administration and, 26, 58 international involvement and, 58, 77, 80, 127, 227, 229
law of, 67–70
light touch approach to regulation, 160, 232 reasons for compliance with, 70–2 right to, 57, 66–7, 159, 198, 226 see also state sovereignty self-interest accountability for pursuit of, 234 deterrence of, 140
population’s interest prioritised over, 10, 58, 116, 135, 168, 231, 238 prioritisation of, 11, 48, 49, 53, 80, 91, 184, 223, 230 scope for, 191, 228
Sierra Leone
accountability framework, 50–1
Afghanistan contrasted, 8–9
aid agreements, 210–16
assistance model of intervention, 27
author’s analytical approach, 121
choice as case study, 7, 8
consultation with local communities, 47–8 direct popular input into decision making, 140–3 economic reconstruction, 20–1
elections, 48–9, 132–40
funding, 28
governance reform, 17–18
government authority, 23–4
historical context for reconstruction, 121–5
human rights, 143–8
identification of interim government, 126–32
international legal framework, relevance of, 148–50
peace process, 22–3, 201–5
popular governance practice summarised, 228–30
private contractors, 28–9
rule of law, 19
security sector reform, 16, 27, 47–8
stability, 8–9
transitional justice, 17, 18
UN Security Council resolutions, 193–5 social mechanisms for human rights compliance, 105–6
stability
restoration of, 8–9
state responsibility and human rights compliance, 102–4 state sovereignty. See also self-determination
definition of, 59
law of, 59–62
prohibition on intervention, 60–2
reasons for compliance with, 62–6 reconstruction and, 58
right to wage war, 59–60
time sensitivity of reconstruction, 57
transitional justice
definition of, 18
priority for reconstruction, 18 trusteeship assistance model compared, 6
UN Security Council
Afghanistan resolutions, 195–7 powers as to popular governance, 192–3 Sierra Leone resolutions, 193–5 suitability as source of regulation, 197–9
women
attention to needs of, 41–2 involvement in decision-making, 42