

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-06898-8 - Emotional and Sectional Conflict in the Antebellum United States

Michael E. Woods

Table of Contents

More information

Contents

Figures	page vii
Acknowledgments	ix
Abbreviations	xiii
Introduction: Finding the Heart of the Sectional Conflict	I
Prologue: Slavery, Sectionalism, and the Affective Theory of the Union	21
Crafting the Affective Theory of the Union	21
Deploying the Affective Theory of the Union	25
PART I EMOTION AND THE GROWTH OF SECTIONAL POLITICAL IDENTITIES
1 Free Labor, Slave Labor, and the Political Economy of Happiness	35
Debating the Political Economy of Contentment	40
Debating the Political Economy of Hope	50
The Political Economy of Happiness and the Irrepressible Conflict	68
2 Managed Hearts and Unmanageable Slaves	72
Emotion, Domesticity, and Order in Proslavery Theory	75
Masterly Emotionology: The Prescriptive Nature of Proslavery Texts	82
Planters' Passions and the Secessionist Impulse	89
3 Jealousy and the Sectionalization of Emotional Styles	96
Jealousy, Manhood, and Citizenship in the Old South	98
Jealousy and the Antislavery Critique of the Old South	105

Cambridge University Press

978-1-107-06898-8 - Emotional and Sectional Conflict in the Antebellum United States

Michael E. Woods

Table of Contents

More information

vi

Contents

PART II EMOTION AND THE MOBILIZATION OF SECTIONAL COALITIONS

4	Indignation and the Fitful Growth of Mass Antislavery Sentiment, 1820–1856	119
	Indignation in Nineteenth-Century American Culture	121
	Indignation Meetings in Antebellum Political Culture	128
	Mass Outrage and Abolitionist Ambivalence, 1820–1850	132
	The Intensification of Moderate Antislavery Indignation, 1850–1854	139
5	Indignation and the Northern Mobilization for War, 1856–1861	149
	Summer, Kansas, and the Springtime of Northern Indignation	152
	Mass Indignation and the Victorious Defeat of 1856	162
	Moral Outrage and the Broadening Antislavery Coalition, 1856–1860	170
	The Loyal Heart of the Indignant North, 1861	178
6	Political Jealousy and Southern Radicalism from Nullification to Secession	181
	Southern Radicals and the Problem of Fear	185
	Jealousy and the Politics of Slavery in the Old South	195
7	Mourning and the Mobilization of Reluctant Secessionists, 1860–1861	206
	Grief and Mourning in the Antebellum Public Sphere	209
	Mourning the Death of a Nation	217
	Managing Grief, Making Confederates	223
	Epilogue: Reconstructing the Affective Theory of the Union	232
	Restoring the Affective Theory of the Union	232
	Conclusion	237
	Index	241