Index

Aboutness, 11–13
“Access to consciousness,” 98–100
American Psychological Association, 200
The American Psychologist (journal), 214
Armstrong, D. M., 343
“Attention”
“brightness” and, 370–372
“circle of awareness” and, 380–381
cognitive recording and, 351–354
criticism of, 372–374
“darkness” and, 367–370
inner awareness and, 356–358, 363–367
inner directedness of experience and, 352–354 “internal gaze” and, 350–351
occurrent awareness and, 361–363, 365–367
overview, 316–318
“pulses of experience” and, 345–349, 352–354, 359–361
simultaneous experiences and, 379–380
Awareness
“circle of awareness,” 380–381
consciousness versus, 312–314
inner awareness (See Inner awareness)
occurrent awareness (See Occurrent awareness)
reflex awareness, 113–114
sensory-perceptual awareness (See Sensory-perceptual awareness)
stimulus and response and, 207–209

“Becoming conscious,” 95–98
Behavioral and Brain Sciences (journal), 195 Behaviorism. See also Radical behaviorism
overview, 5–7
psychophysiological parallelism and, 280–281
Behaviorism: A Forum for Critical Discussion (journal), 184
Bergmann, Gustav
behaviorism and, 280–281
on causality, 251–253, 273–276, 278–279
on cross-sectional laws of nature, 253–258, 270–272
dualist interactionism versus, 1
on inferential processes, 263–265
inner awareness and, 244–249, 265–270
materialism and, 287
on mental acts, 263–270, 287
on mental occurrences, 256–263
on nonphysical mentality, 244–246
psychophysiological parallelism and (See Psychophysiological parallelism)
“scientific materialism” and, 249–251
Bergson, Henri, 44, 48–49
Brentano, Franz
on aboutness, 11–13
behaviorism and, 5–7
on consciousness, 19–20, 37, 227
dualist interactionism and, 1–3
on experiential intentionality, 11–13
on external perception versus internal perception, 11–15
on identity of mental phenomena, 7–9
on intentionality, 248–249, 291, 293
on psychical apparatus, 160
“pulses of experience” and, 15–17, 41
regress problem with, 27–29
on stream of consciousness, 41
on unconscious mental phenomena, 17–18, 23–25, 29–31
on unconscious stimuli, 21–22
“Brightness,” 370–372
Brodbeck, May
on causality, 262, 277–278
on cross-sectional laws of nature, 253–254, 271–272

© in this web service Cambridge University Press
www.cambridge.org
Conscious psychical processes

discharge and, 110–112

experiences where oneself is "consciously the subject," 107–109

inner awareness and, 109–112

intrinsic versus extrinsic relation of consciousness to, 114–116

meanings, apprehension of, 138–140

neurons and, 177–179

as occurrences for owner, 124–126

within perception-consciousness subsystem, 102–105, 130

psi subsystem and, 126–128

reflex awareness and, 113–114

self-intimational consciousness and, 113

sensory-perceptual awareness and, 128–133

within separate subsystem, 119–121

subjective side, 100–102

unconscious psychical processes compared, 105–107, 117–119

Cross-sectional laws of nature, 253–258, 270–272

Dainton, Barry, 418–421, 424, 429

"Darkness," 367–370

Day, Willard, 159, 165

Determination in psychophysiological parallelism, 256–257

Discharge, 120–121

Discontinuous features of thoughts, 412–414

Disjunction

gaps in consciousness, 389–391, 398–403, 405–408

introspection and, 414–416, 421–424, 426–430

momentary states of unconsciousness and, 386–389

nature of states of, 63–65

objective and, 300–304

as "pulses of experience," 341–343, 382–384

radical behaviourism and, 182–187, 216–218

self-intimational consciousness, 113

sensory-perceptual awareness and, 227–230, 298–300

states of (See States of consciousness)

stream of (See Stream of consciousness)

temporal continuity of, 396–398, 403–405, 407–409

thoughts versus, 116–118, 410–412

unconscious nature of fundamental context of events, 133–135

unitary nature of, 386–389

Consciousness and Emotion (journal), 336

Consciousness and the World (O'Shaughnessy),

See "Attention"

Consciousness Lost and Found: A Neuropsychological Exploration (Weiskrantz), 184

The Ecological Approach to Visual Perception (Gibson), 336

Existence and consciousness, 300–302

Experiences

chaos of experiences, 77–79

cognitive experiences, 86–88

as constructs, 164–166

defined, 108–109

inner directedness of, 352–354

perceptual experiences, 61–63

"pulses of experience" (See "Pulses of experience")

pure experiences (See Pure experiences)

in radical behaviorism, 164–166, 169–171, 192–194
Index

simultaneous experiences, 379–380
thoughts versus, 419–421
where oneself is “consciously the subject,” 107–109

“Experiencing of things”

consciousness and, 296–300
intentionality and, 291, 293
occurrent awareness and, 289–291
overview, 289–291
self and, 289–291
sensory-perceptual awareness and, 293–300
sensory receptors and, 291–293
Experiential consciousness, 350–351
Experiential intentionality, 11–13
External perception versus internal perception, 13–15

Feelings

cognitive apprehension and, 305–309
consciousness and, 305–309
intrinsic nature of, 9–11
“pulses of experience” and, 309–312
thoughts and, 8–9, 309–312

Freud, Sigmund

behaviorism and, 6
on consciousness, 19, 91, 227, 367, 388–389
on experiences, 83
Hebb compared, 239–241
inner awareness and, 202, 207
James compared, 94, 111
monism and, 144–146
on perception-consciousness subsystem, 157, 159–160
psychical apparatus and (See Psychical apparatus) psycho-analysis and, 201–202
psychophysiological parallelism and, 270
Skinner versus, 144–146

Gaps in consciousness, 389–391, 398–403, 405–408

Gibson, James J. on awareness, 312–314
on classification of environment, 329–331
on consciousness, 296–300, 312–314
on experiences, 2
“experiencing of things” and (See “Experiencing of things”)
on feelings, 308, 310
on intentionality, 291
on light, 293–294
on perception, 223
radical behaviorism and, 186–188, 215–216
on sensory-perceptual awareness, 293–300, 320–323
on sensory receptors, 291–293, 321–323
on stimulus-information pickup, 314–319
on stream of consciousness, 30
on verbalization, 331–333
on visual-perceptual system, 324–328, 333–335
Griffin, Donald R., 231–232, 235
Grossmann, R., 267
Grünbaum, Adolf, 46–47

Hayes, S. C., 161, 215
Hebb, Donald Olding
on consciousness, 200–202, 216–222, 227–230
Freud compared, 239–241
on general operating mode, 232–234
on inferential processes, 224–227
on introspection, 238
James compared, 240–241
objectivism and, 234–237, 239–241
on “pulses of experience,” 238
on stream of consciousness, 237–239
subjectivism and, 239–241
Herbert, Johann F., 8–10
Hochberg, H., 269
Hocutt, M., 162–163, 168
Holt, E. B., 5–7, 185

Identity of mental phenomena, 7–9
Immanent objectivism, 12
Immediate perceptual judgment, 140–143
Indications of reality, 114
Inferential processes inner awareness compared, 125–127
psychophysiological parallelism and, 263–265
radical behaviorism and, 223–227

Inner awareness

“attention” and, 316–318, 363–367
consciousness and, 414–416, 421–424, 426–430
conscious psychical processes and, 109–112
inference processes compared, 225–227
intentionality and, 408–410
introspection as, 202–204, 428–430
objectivism and, 408–410
overview, 3–5
psychophysiological parallelism and, 244–249, 265–270, 279
“pulses of experience” and, 384–386
pure experiences and, 72–74, 79–81, 88–90
radical behaviorism versus, 214–216
reflexivity and, 70–72
regress problem with, 363–365
as retrospection, 316–318
of sounds, 33–35
stopping series after second member, 31–33
stream of consciousness and, 66–68
Inner awareness (cont.)

- strength of intentional object and, 25–27
- thoughts and, 412–414
- “experiencing of things” and, 289–291
- O’Connor, Donald J., 113

Innermost self, 57–59

Innermost operations, 77

Intentionality

- experiential intentionality, 11–13
- inner awareness and, 408–410
- psychophysiological parallelism and, 248–249
- pure experiences and, 81–84
- sensory-perceptual awareness and, 319–321
- visual-perceptual system and, 333–335

- “internal gaze,” 350–351

- Internal perception versus external perception, 13–15

- Interpretation of pure experiences, 90–92
- Intrinsic nature of feelings, 9–11

Introspection

- consciousness, necessity of, 218–220
- disjunction and, 393–396
- as inner awareness, 202–204, 428–430
- overview, 195–197
- in radical behaviorism, 146–149, 153–155
- stimulus and response and, 197–199

James, William

- on consciousness, 225–226, 382–383, 385–387, 391–393
- on feelings, 10, 305–312
- Freud compared, 34, 111
- on gaps in consciousness, 389–391, 401–403, 405–408
- Hebb compared, 240–241
- on identity of mental phenomena, 7–9
- on introspection, 197–198, 393–396
- O’Shaughnessy versus, 317–320, 351, 357, 364
- “Pulses of experience” and, 15–17
- radical behaviorism versus, 154, 171, 238–239
- on states of consciousness, 408–409
- Strawson compared, 396–398, 425–428
- stream of consciousness and (See Stream of consciousness)
- on temporal continuity of consciousness, 403–405
- on thoughts, 410, 419, 421
- on unconscious mental phenomena, 17
- The Journal of Mind and Behavior (journal), 336
- The Journal of Philosophy, Psychology, and Scientific Methods, 65

Kant, Immanuel, 9

Kneale, W., 109

Index

- Knowing, 66–68
- Köhler, Wolfgang, 245
- Laplanche, J., 100
- Light, 158–166, 203–204
- Locke, John, 113–117
- Logue, A. W., 172, 198
- Lombardo, T. J., 6
- Lucas, John R., 45
- Malcolm, N., 298
- Margolis, J., 276
- Mead, George Herbert, 111
- Memory
  - stream of consciousness and, 45–48
  - unitary memory images of words, 136–138
- Mental occurrences, 225–226
- Meyer, Jürgen Bona, 9–10
- Mill, John Stuart, 306–307
- Mind-brain concomitances, 274–276
- Monism
  - psychical apparatus and, 93–95
  - psychophysiological parallelism and, 283–286
- radical behaviorism versus, 144–146
- stream of consciousness and, 59–61

Natsoulas, Thomas

- on experiences, 83
- on inner awareness, 3–4
- on sensory-perceptual system, 6
- on stream of consciousness, 37, 39, 44, 46–48, 389
- on truth and psychological profession, 211–212
- on visual-perceptual system, 83
- Neurons, 117–119, 131–133
- Neurophysiological processes, 272–274, 286–288

- Notebooks (Skinner), 202

Objectivism

- consciousness and, 300–304
- immanent objectivism, 12
- inner awareness and, 408–410
- physicalism versus, 254–257
- radical behaviorism and, 234–237, 239–244
- sensory-perceptual awareness and, 319–321
- Occurrent awareness
  - “attention” and, 161–163, 165–167
  - “experiencing of things” and, 289–291
- O’Connor, Donald J., 113
Index

O'Shaughnessy, Brian
“attention” and (See “Attention”)
“brightness” and, 370–372
“circle of awareness” and, 380–381
on cognitive recording, 353–354
“darkness” and, 367–370
on experiential consciousness, 350–351
on inner awareness, 356–358, 361–367
on inner directedness of experience, 352–354
“internal gaze” and, 350–351
James versus, 337–340, 353, 357, 364
on occurrence awareness, 361–361
“pulses of experience” and, 345–349, 352–354, 359–361
on simultaneous experiences, 379–380

“Panpsychism,” 271
Perception-consciousness subsystem, 102–105, 130, 137, 159–160
Perceptual experiences, 61–63
Physicalism versus objectivism, 234–237
A Pluralistic Universe (James), 47
Pontalis, J.-B., 100
“Preconscious,” 97–98
“Presence,” 209–211, 214–216
The Principles of Psychology (James), 14
Pi subsystem
conscientious psychical processes and, 116–128
experiences where oneself is “consciously the subject,” 107–109
immediate perceptual judgment and, 140–143
meanings, apprehension of, 138–140
neurons and, 118
repression and, 122–124
sensory-perceptual awareness and, 128–133
thoughts and, 116
unconscious psychical processes and, 102–105, 116–128
Psychical apparatus
“access to consciousness” and, 98–100
“becoming conscious” and, 95–98
conscious psychical processes (See Conscious psychical processes)
intrinsic versus extrinsic relation of consciousness to, 114–116
monism and, 93–95
overview, 201–202
“preconscious” and, 97–98
reflex awareness and, 113–114
self-intentional consciousness and, 113
unconscious psychical processes (See Unconscious psychical processes)

Psychological Bulletin (journal), 200
Psychophysiological parallelism
behaviorism and, 280–281
causality in, 251–253, 274–279
cross-sectional laws of nature and, 253–258, 270–272 determination in, 256–257
dualist interactionism compared, 1–3, 277, 283–286
inferential processes and, 263–265
inner awareness and, 244–249, 265–270, 279
intentionality and, 248–249
materialism and, 259–260, 273–274, 279–280, 287
mental occurrences and, 256–263
mind-brain concomitances and, 274–279
monist interactionism and, 283–286
neurophysiological processes and, 272–274, 286–288
nonphysical mentality and, 244–246
other theories compared, 279–281
overview, 242–244
“panpsychism” and, 271
“scientific materialism” and, 249–251
“Pulses of experience”
“attention” and, 345–349, 352–354, 359–361
concurrent multiplicity and unity in, 15–17 consciousness as, 347–349, 382–384
discrete nature of, 41–43
feelings and, 309–312
inner awareness and, 384–386
radical behaviorism and, 355–358
stream of consciousness and, 41–45, 359–361
Pure experiences
behind-the-scenes functioning of, 75–77
as cognitive experiences, 86–88
distinctive features of, 90–92
inner awareness and, 72–74, 79–81, 88–90
intentionality and, 81–84
interpretation of, 90–92
in stream of consciousness, 68–70 “thereness” of, 84–86
thoughts in, 86–88
Purely primary consciousness, 19–21

Rachlin, Howard
on inner darkness, 211–212
on introspection, 195–199
radical behaviorism and, 164, 169–174
Index

Radical behaviorism
commentaries in, 183–187, 189–192
consciousness and, 182–187, 216–218, 230–232
direct apprehension of experience in, 162–164
direct awareness of senses in, 162–164 experiences in, 164–166, 169–171, 192–194
inferential processes and, 223–227
inner awareness versus, 214–216
introspection in, 146–149, 153–155
light in, 158–160
limitations of theory, 173–176
monism versus, 144–146
objectivism and, 234–237, 239–241
pain in, 158–162, 167–169, 180–182, 221–223 perceptual apprehension in, 178–180
"presence" and, 209–211, 214–216
"pulses of experience" and, 195–198
self-criticism of, 214–216
self in, 171–173
sensory-perceptual awareness and, 223–225
stimulus and response in, 149–153, 167–169, 180–182, 204–207
stream of consciousness and, 237–239
subjectivism and, 176–182, 239–241
thoughts in, 187–189
Reflection, 423–426
Reflex awareness, 113–114
Reflexivity, 70–72
Repression of unconscious psychical processes,
121–124
Response. See Stimulus and response
Retrospection, 356–358
Review of General Psychology (journal), 336
Robinson, D. R., 208, 210
Rosenthal, D., 267–268
Russell, B., 244–245
"Scientific materialism," 249–251
"Sciences," 50–51
Searle, J. R., 197
Self
existence of, consciousness and, 300–302
"experiencing of things" and, 289–291
knowledge of, 223–225
in radical behaviorism, 171–173
Self-criticism of radical behaviorism, 214–216
"Self-editing," 234
Self-intentional consciousness, 113
Sellars, Wilfrid, 61
Sensory-perceptual awareness classification of environment and, 328–331
consciousness and, 227–230, 298–300
conscious psychical processes and, 128–133
"experiencing of things" and, 293–300
immediate perceptual judgment as response to, 140–143
intentionality and, 319–321
objectivism and, 319–321
psi subsystem and, 128–133
radical behaviorism and, 223–225
self-knowledge and, 223–225
sensory receptors and, 312–313
stimulus-information pickup and, 314–319
stream of consciousness and, 317–318
verbalization and, 331–333
visual-perceptual system and, 324–328
Sensory receptors
"experiencing of things" and, 291–293
sensory-perceptual awareness and, 321–323
"Sheet of phenomena," 14–16
Simultaneous experiences, 379–380
Skinner, B. F.
on experiences, 164–166, 169–171
Freud versus, 144–146
inner awareness and, 202–204
inner darkness and, 211–214
"inner world" and, 146–149
introspection and, 146–149, 153–155
James versus, 154
on light, 158–160
limitations of theory, 175
on pain, 158–162, 167–169
"presence" and, 210–211
psychophysiological parallelism and, 245, 259
"pulses of experience" and, 155–158
radical behaviorism and (See Radical behaviorism)
on self, 173
"self-editing" and, 234
on stimulus and response, 149–153, 167–169, 180–182, 204–207
subjectivism and, 176, 181–182
Solomon, Robert, 95
Some Problems of Philosophy (James), 46
Sounds, 33–35
Sperry, Roger W., 173, 211, 284–287
Sprigge, Timothy L. S., 338–339
States of consciousness
"attention" and, 338–340, 342–345, 344–345, 354–356, 374–376
stream of consciousness and, 374–376, 408–410
Stimulus and response awareness and, 207–209
introspection and, 197–199
in radical behaviorism, 149–153, 167–169, 180– 182, 204–207
verbal conditioning and, 204–207
Stimulus-information pickup, 314–319
Index

447

Strawson, Galen
on consciousness, 383, 391–393, 416
disjunction and (See Disjunction)
on gaps in consciousness, 389–391, 398–400, 402, 407–408
inner awareness and, 384–386, 421–424, 426–430, 428–430
on introspection, 393–396, 417–419, 428–430
James compared, 396–398, 423–428
on momentary states of unconsciousness, 386–389
on reflection, 423–426
on states of consciousness, 408–409
on temporal continuity of consciousness, 403–404
on thoughts, 410–414, 419–421
Stream of consciousness
“attention” and, 340–342, 354–356, 367–373, 374–379
“brightness” and, 370–372
chaos of experiences and, 77–79
consciousness defined, 36–38
“darkness” and, 367–370
dualist interactionism and, 59–61
durational components of, 50–52
inner awareness and, 66–68
innermost self and, 57–59
knowing and, 66–68
memory and, 43–48
monism and, 59–61
perceptual experiences and, 61–63
posited versus apprehended experiences in, 52–54
“pulses of experience” and, 43–45, 359–361
pure experiences in, 68–70
radical behaviorism and, 237–239
reflexity and, 70–72
revisions of, 36–38
“sciousness,” 50–51
sensory-perceptual awareness and, 317–318
“sheet of phenomena” in, 54–56
states of consciousness and, 374–376, 408–410
temporal continuity of, 43–45, 48–50
time-gaps and, 38–40

Subjectivism and radical behaviorism, 176–182, 239–241
Systematic illusion, 61
Temporal continuity of consciousness, 396–398, 403–405, 417–419
“T hereness” of pure experiences, 84–86
Thoughts
consciousness versus, 116–138, 410–412
discontinuous features of, 412–414
experiences versus, 419–421
feelings and, 8–9, 309–312
inner awareness and, 412–414
psi subsystem and, 136
in pure experiences, 86–88
in radical behaviorism, 187–189
unitary memory images of words and, 136–138
Time-gaps, 38–40
de Tracy, Destutt, 306
Tye, Michael, 391, 409–414, 418–420, 424, 429
Unconscious mental phenomena, 17–19, 23–25, 29–31
Unconscious psychical processes
conscious psychical processes compared, 105–107, 117–119
neurons and, 117–119
psi subsystem and, 102–105, 126–128
repression of, 121–124
Unconscious stimuli, 21–23
Unitary memory images of words, 136–138

The Varieties of Religious Experience (James), 401
Verbal conditioning, 204–207
Verbalization, 331–333
Visual-perceptual system
intentionality and, 333–335
sensory-perceptual awareness and, 324–328
Watson, John B., 259, 264
Weiskrantz, Leonard, 6, 145, 184–194
Word-presentations, 138
Wordsworth, William, 16
Zurif  , G. E., 207